WHAT CHRISTIAN SCIENCE IS DOING

Bliss Knapp Says it is the Revelation of Divine Power at Lecture at Proctor's.

THE "SPIRIT OF TRUTH"

Speaker Says This is a Law Which Communicates God's Healing Power to Humanity, and That Law Requires a Science.

A lecture on "Christian Science" was given at Proctor's Theatre yesterday afternoon by Bliss Knapp, C. S. B., member of the Board of Lectureship of the The Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, the subject being "Christian Science: The Revelation of Divine Power."

John Frederick Zerega, of this city, in introducing the speaker, said:

The advancement which Christian Science has made in the first fifty years of its inception is so remarkable that it is attracting to it the attention of people of all religious denominations, as well as many others who have ceased to have any particular church affiliation. Christian Science claims that the truth which Jesus taught—the truth which nineteen centuries ago cast out devils (evils), and healed the sick—is available today to all who are earnestly seeking for the fulfillment of the promises contained in the Scriptures.

"To any one who approaches this subject with an open mind, the testimony of healing which appear in the Christian Science periodicals and the oral testimonies which are given at the Wednesday evening meetings in Christian Science churches and societies all over the world, are sufficient confirmation of the power of this healing truth.

"We have with us this afternoon a man who is eminently qualified to address you on the subject of Christian Science, and it gives me great pleasure to introduce to you Bliss Knapp, C. S. B., of Brookline, Massachusetts, members of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts."

Mr. Knapp spoke as follows:

The Comforter.

Before Jesus went away he promised us another Comforter. That no misconception might arise, he took the precaution to explain the nature of this promised Comforter. It should not be a man, nor a person, but rather the impersonal "Spirit of truth." He explained further that the "Spirit of truth" would lead mankind into all the truth, even to the very source of truth which is God, and it would testify of him: Now the sprit of Truth is its law—the law which communicates God's healing power to humanity. The law, moreover, requires a science which can interpret it and be reasonably understood. Since the law is divine, its Science must be a divine or Christian Science. That is what Christian Science is—the spiritual understanding or divine law as applied to the needs of humanity. It is not an invention. It is the discovery of what has always been true, and what always must be the real Comforter to suffering humanity.

Sometimes it occurs that one is so completely overwhelmed by sorrow and grief that all the comfort and consolation of human affection seems helpless to brighten the thought. Then we need to remember that there is a sorrow that purifies, and another sorrow that works evil. It will sweeten or sour the disposition according to the direction it takes. But in the apparent helplessness of insurmountable grief, there is the consolation that the power of one's right desire can steer its course unerringly into repentance and purification. In the momentum of that directed experience no harm can overtake us. Only good can come out of it. Such an assurance removes the fear and heals the grief. This is the real Comforter at work in the human consciousness, purifying one's thoughts and motives. There is therefore a grief that is salutary; for it sweetens the disposition, chastens the affections and enables one to be charitable toward the faults of others.

Mrs. Eddy's Discovery.

The preparation for Mrs. Eddy's great discovery seemed to include much of the sorrow and suffering that purifies one's thought and purpose. Mrs. Eddy was a gentle woman of deep religious experience, trained from her youth to seek in divine guidance actual relief from sickness and distress. Added to that was an unusual intellectual ability which perceived careful training and development, so that she had great personal charm by reason of her refined manner and well balanced mind. Then, in the flower of her youth, she was overwhelmed with grief at the loss of all that seemed near and dear to her. There followed a long period of invalidism and the search for a remedy, which culminated in the conviction that disease responds most readily to a mental remedy. Still abiding in that conviction, she met with an accident which was so serious that it was expected to result fatally. Knowing that only spiritual things could save her, she turned to her Bible for help, and as she read those

PAY LAST TRIBUTE TO W. F. ARNOLD

His Life Will Inspire Better Citizenship, Says Dr. Eaton in Funeral Oration.

Relatives, friends and men with whom he had had an intimate association through long years of public life filled the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church to its capacity yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock to attend the funeral service over the body of William F. Arnold, the prominent banker and City Treasurer, whose death occurred suddenly from apoplexy at his home, 817 Third place, Thursday night at 10 o'clock. The service was in charge of the Rev. Dr. John Sheridan Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, and the Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church of New York city.

Both of the pastors spoke of the Christian and public life of the deceased and extended words of sympathy to the bereaved family. Dr. Eaton spoke of Mr. Arnold as representing in his personality the best type of American citizenship—a real man. In part he said: "What he had, he earned and his character was marked by simplicity, loyalty and a delicate sense of honor. During a great part of his life he had acted in a trust relationship to the community and towards many individuals. His life was a life of unstained honor and implicit fidelity. His beautiful home life in which he found such joy makes every other home in the community sacred. His example will inspire great ideals of citizenship in the young manhood of our country and his simple religious faith upon which he rested his life gives demonstration of the reality and power of the Christian gospel."

During the service Dr. E. M. Davis, the church organist, played "Rest In the Lord," and several vocal duets were sung by the Misses Lillian B. Watts, soprano, and Grace J. Carroll, contralto. The numbers were "The Land Beyond the Setting Sun," "Peace, Perfect Peace," and "Crossing the Bar."

Probably nothing conveyed the great esteem in which Mr. Arnold had been held by his hundreds of co-workers and friends more than the scores of beautiful floral sprays, and set pieces. Roses, orchids, lilies and numerous other cut flowers were made into huge wreaths, pillows and crosses. Among the profusion of flowers were set pieces from the City Council, Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E.; the City Street Department, City National Bank officials, Savings Bank officials and the Walter Scott family.

Eight directors from the City National Bank acted as honorary pallbearers. These were S. K. Hyde, F. T. Woodhull, A. F. Randolph, William P. Smith, P. J. Mumford, A. M. Griffen, Dr. B. van D. Hedges and J. F. MacDonald. The interment took place in Hillside cemetery.

POLACK HELD FOR CRIMINAL ASSAULT

John Uoboz, aged 52, a Polack living at 507 West Third street, was held under $2,000 bond to await the action of the Grand Jury when he was arraigned before Judge De Meza in city court this morning for criminal assault. He was faced in court by Julia Good, a pretty little girl, 9 years old, of West Front street, whom he attacked on Exchange alley last night.

Nogoz was caught by Patrolman George Muir at 8:15 last night and brought to police headquarters. He is married and has a family of four children.

LIBRARY SUB-STATIONS TO BE OPEN THIS WEEK

Sub-stations of the Public Library, which have been closed during the summer, on account of infantile paralysis, will be opened again this week. The station in the Washington School will be open, as usual, Monday evening; the station at the Jefferson School on Friday evening, and the East End station at the Netherwood Reformed church on Saturday afternoon.

HUMMER-LEACOCK.

Miss Jessie F. Hummer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hummer of North Plainfield and Thomas H. Leacock, of this city, were married Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in the parsonage of the Netherwood Reformed church, by the pastor, Rev. E. S. Ralston. The couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Russell C. Huston, of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Leacock will reside at 90 Grandview avenue, the borough.

MISSING FROM SCHOOL.

Dr. Groszmann, proprietor of the Groszmann School for Exceptional Children, reported to the police Saturday night that Joseph Bowers, an inmate of the school, had made his escape. He is 17 years old, of slight build and wore a cap and brown suit.

BOROUGH BOARD OF HEALTH.

SPICER CONCERN TO RE-ORGANIZE

New York and Philadelphia Banking Syndicate Heads $7,000,000 Concern.

SAME MANAGEMENT

C. W. Spicer and Other Officials to Continue in Charge—Output to Be Doubled and Facilities Enlarged as Fast as Possible.

The business of the Spicer Manufacturing Corporation, with factories at South Plainfield, has been purchased by a syndicate of bankers headed by Merrill, Lynch & Co., of New York, and Cassatt & Co., of Philadelphia. The purchasing syndicate is now offering $1,500,000 first preferred 8 per cent. stock at $100 per share. There will also be $500,000 second preferred and $5,000,000 common stock. The first preferred 8 per cent. stock has the privilege of conversion into common stock at any time. The Spicer plant is one of the largest in the East and probably the largest manufacturer of universal joints in the world.

C. W. Spicer and the other officials who have been responsible for the remarkable success of the company will continue to occupy their present positions, in fact, the management will not be changed in any way.

Owing to the fact that Spicer universals are used by a number of the big quantity producers of automobiles, the demand in the past two years has increased enormously and the factory at South Plainfield has been greatly enlarged in order to fill all orders. At present a large extension is being built and it is said that the output for the coming year will exceed 700,000 joints. Of these a large proportion are sent out in pairs welded to drive shafts as complete units. Practically all the needs of the automobile industry are taken care of by nine different sizes of universals, this covering both passenger car and truck, making the field from a manufacturing standpoint a large one.

The rapid growth of the Spicer plant has been due in part to the high grade of material and workmanship employed. At the present time there are something over one thousand men employed at the South Plainfield plant and if transportation facilities were better fifteen hundred could easily be kept busy. With the reorganization of the corporation no opportunity will be let slip to increase the size of the plant and it is probable that men will be constantly added to the payroll.

MARTIN SENDS HIS THANKS TO VOTERS

Plainfield Friends Gave Him Loyal Support in Primary Fight.

Elizabeth, Oct. 2.—Before leaving last week for a short trip to Connecticut, Colonel William B. Martin, Republican nominee for County Clerk, sent his thanks to Plainfield voters for their support in the primaries. He said:

"I want to thank my friends in Plainfield. They did more than they promised to do. They made good. I do not know of anything in connection with the primary campaign, as I look back upon it now, which has given me more pleasure than the enthusiasm with which my campaign was received by the Plainfield people. There, as elsewhere in the county, the friends who worked for me were not experienced in political work. They simply got out and worked for me because they were impressed with the fight I was making.'

Col. Martin admitted that he had already given some thought to his campaign, but would not start anything, he said, until he had gone over the ground thoroughly and sized up the whole situation. "That is the way we get at it in military life," he added, with a smile, "and I find it works very well in politics. You know me well enough to appreciate the fact that I shall not take anything for granted in the campaign upon which we have now entered.

"One of the first things they teach us in the military game," he said, "is never to underestimate your opponent. I am going away for a week or so and when I come back I am going to carry on the same kind of a campaign against the Democratic candidate as I carried on for the nomination. I am not overconfident at all. I believe I am going to win, but if I can beat Leonard by 10,000 I am going to do it. If I can beat him by only 5,000 I am going to do it, and if I can beat him by only 1,000 I am going to beat him by 1,000."

Democratic City Committee will meet tonight to organize as the law requires, at 102 North avenue, at 8 p. m. County committeemen are also members of city committee.—Adv. ***

MRS. GRAVES DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Wife of Councilman and Woman Loved for Christian Spirit.

Mrs. Mary I. Graves, wife of Councilman Charles C. Graves, of 819 South Second street, died yesterday in the Flower Hospital, in New York city, following a long illness. Heart trouble was the final cause of death. Mrs. Graves was forty-four years of age and was born in New York city, on June 30, 1872. She had made Plainfield her home for more than twenty years.

Mrs. Graves was a devoted and faithful member of Hope chapel and as long as her health permitted took an active interest in the various undertakings of the Ladies' Aid Society and other church organizations. Throughout her long illness she bore her suffering with great patience and hopefulness, and her death comes as a distinct shock and loss to her many friends.

Beside her husband she leaves three children: Grace E., Alfred C. and Alice J. Graves, all living at home. Her father, Milton H. Grannatt of New York city, also survives her and three sisters and two brothers. The latter are Miss Grace E. Grannatt, of New York; Mrs. Herbert Munsie, of Hempstead, L. I.; Mrs. W. B. Thurston, of Freeport; Percy A. Grannatt, of New York, and Milton H. Grannatt, Jr., of St. Louis.

The funeral will be held in Hope chapel, Wednesday afternoon at 2:30, the Rev. D. W. Skellenger, the pastor, officiating. Interment will be in Evergreen cemetery.

MRS. SYKES FOUND DEAD IN HER BED

Widow of Episcopal Rector and Prominent in Club Work.

Mrs. Elizabeth McCready Sykes, widow of the Rev. Charles L. Sykes, one time rector of All Saints' Episcopal church at Scotch Plains, was found dead in her room, at 312 East Seventh street, yesterday morning, having suffered a stroke of apoplexy during the night. She was seventy-one years of age and had been ailing more or less for some time. Mrs. Sykes made Scotch Plains her home for over forty years, but several years ago came to Plainfield and had lived here ever since. She became affiliated with Grace Episcopal church and was a devoted and faithful member of that congregation, taking a keen interest in the various activities of the parish.

She was an ardent anti-suffragist and at one time was vice-president and secretary of the Plainfield branch of the Anti-Suffrage League. Much of her time was taken up in War Relief work and she was greatly interested in the Prince of Wales Relief and the Monday Afternoon Club.

A son and daughter of the deceased died within the last year, T. F. Sykes' death occurring last January, and Miss Elizabeth McCready Sykes dying a year ago last July. Mrs. Sykes is survived by one son, McCready Sykes, of Boise City, Idaho, and a daughter, Miss Abi Sykes, of Philadelphia. The former is to make his home in Plainfield this winter. One sister, Mrs. C. L. Harris, of Lowell, Mass., also survives her. The funeral will be held in Grace Episcopal church tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 and the service will be in charge of Rev. E. Vicar Stevenson, assisted by Rev. O. S. Michael, rector of All Saints' church, of Scotch Plains. The interment will be private.

KREWSON-STEPHENSON.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Stephenson and Frank Malcolm Krewson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Krewson, took place Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the residence of H. C. Brokaw, 182 Watchung avenue, the borough. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church. George Townley and Miss Mabel Stephenson acted as best man and bridesmaid, respectively.

Following the wedding a small reception was held. The couple will later make their home in New York city.

HOUSE WARMING.

A house warming will be tendered the Rev. and Mrs. C. M. Anderson at the parsonage of the First M. E. church tomorrow evening, from 8 to 11 o'clock. The affair will be in charge of the Ladies' Aid Society, with Mrs. William Burnett as chairman. The committee consists of Mrs. Harry Gee, Mrs. Arthur Osmun and Miss Lena Mae Jackson. An invitation is extended to the members of the church and congregation.

GARWOOD PASTOR TO SPEAK.

Owing to the absence of the Rev. F. Y. Lanninger, the Rev. Arthur Wellholter, pastor of the Presbyterian church, of Garwood, will speak at the Christian and Missionary Alliance in the Brick church, at the corner of Duer street and Craig place, one block from the postoffice, tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. All Bible students are invited to attend.

FEW ARE ABSENT AS SCHOOLS OPEN

Attendance in Higher Grades is Almost Normal Everywhere.

10 PER CENT. MISSING

Only Younger Pupils Affected by Paralysis Scare—800 on Rolls at City High School—Borough Starts Well.

The opening of the schools of the city and borough today, after a two weeks' postponement, resulted in an attendance of about ninety per cent. of normal as far as could be ascertained from early reports. The attendance in the upper grades and High School was nearly normal, but in the primary grades the fear of infantile paralysis caused a few pupils to stay at home.

The enrollment in the city schools will be larger this year than ever before. Besides an increased number of pupils from the city, the sending of the Watchung children to the local schools for the first time and an increase wrom Fanwood and other suburbs is responsible for the increase. As soon as the Emerson Avenue School is completed a rearrangement of the lower classes will be necessary.

The City High School, when all reports are turned in, will be found to have close to eight hundred pupils. The work of formulating classes and getting into the regular routine was nearly completed today. At assembly this morning Principal Lindsey Best and Superintendent of Schools Henry Maxson made addresses and there was singing by the entire student body. The several new teachers all reported with the old ones.

In North Plainfield the enrollment did not reach the mark of last year. The loss of some thirty odd pupils from Watchung, who now go to Plainfield, and the fear of paralysis helped keep the attendance down somewhat. The High School and grammar grades are nearly normal, but the primary classes were affected to a slight degree by careful mothers keeping their youngsters home.

Mr. Aungst, supervising principal of schools, said this morning that he had started a new class to be known as the "opportunity class" with Miss Florence Gretton, a teacher especially trained for the work to be undertaken, in charge. Dr. Roger Cooley and the nurses have reported and the routine work for the year has become fairly started.

The North Plainfield High School resumed sessions this morning with appropriate exercises. Mr. Aungst, Mr. Earley and Dr. Cooley each made a speech and were received with cheers. Mr. Aungst in the course of his address introduced the new High School instructors. Harry M. Terrill will be the new science teacher. Mr. Terrill is a graduate of Rutgers College and is at present taking a post-graduate course in Columbia University. Mrs. Curtiss is to be the teacher of modern languages. She is a graduate of Dickinson Preparatory School and College.

Mr. Earley made a welcome speech to all and closed with instruction and advice for the year. Dr. Cooley made a few remarks in connection with the new campaign to be launched this year for order.

The Wardlaw School opened on Park avenue for the first time as successor to John Leal's school for boys with an enrollment of about seventy. More are expected by the middle of the month, when it is believed the maximum enrollment of eighty-five will be reached. With an excellent staff of teachers and finely equipped school, Mr. Wardlaw is well prepared to train the boys under his care with every advantage.

The Hartridge School for girls on West Seventh street will open tomorrow with a number of improvements and an enlarged teaching corps.

MRS. MARIE GARDNER DIES AFTER OPERATION

Mrs. Marie Gardner, widow of Robert Gardner, who conducted a tailoring establishment on Watchung avenue, died yesterday afternoon in the Roosevelt Hospital, New York, following an operation she underwent about a week ago. Her death was unexpected inasmuch as she seemed to be on the road to recovery when a sudden change for the worse came. The body was brought to Plainfield last night and the funeral will be held from the residence of her sister, Mrs. George E. McCusker, 128 Berckman street, Wednesday morning at 8:30 and from St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. The interment will be made in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mrs. Gardner was a native of Plainfield, being born here fifty-seven years ago. After the death of her husband she took over the management of the Gardner tailoring shop and conducted the business up to the time of her illness. Beside the sister with whom she resided she is survived by one brother, Peter Flynn, also of Berckman street. She was a member of St. Mary's church.

AERO COMPANY IS FACING BANKRUPTCY

Petition Against Sloane Concern May Affect Local Corporation.

Whether or not the Standard Aero Corporation is to be seriously affected by bankruptcy proceedings instituted against the Sloane Aeroplane Company in Newark Saturday could not be learned as President Mingle and Treasurer Meehan could not be located and no one at the local plant would discuss the matter.

The Sloane Company, of which J. E. Sloane, of this city, was president, transferred its holdings in April. The deal was handled through Mitsui & Company, Japanese tea importers and financiers of New York, and a reorganization of the company took place at once. It has been stated repeatedly by officials of the company that not one cent of Japanese money is now behind the corporation, which is engaged in making war aeroplanes for the United States Government. New York papers of yesterday said that the company was making aeroplanes for Japan. This is emphatically denied. The output of the company for some time to come is contracted for by the United States War Department and it is expected that more orders will be received from this source when a new machine designed in the plant has been officially tested by the army and navy fliers.

Bankruptcy proceedings are against the old Sloane company, but the involuntary petition filed charges that its stock and holdings were wrongfully transferred to the new company and if this is established the Standard Aero Corporation will be drawn into the proceedings.

William Hauser, a Bloomfield attorney, presented the bankruptcy petition on behalf of James F. Herbert, Patrick Farrell, and Birchfield & Co., incorporated, of New York. Herbert is a creditor of the concern to the extent of $2,000, it is alleged, and Farrell has a claim for $500. The claims were assigned to them by T. O'Connor Sloane. It is asserted that the company committed an act of bankruptcy when it recently transferred its plant and assets to the Standard Aero Corporation without consideration.

TO MUCH APPLEJACK COST NESBITS $20 AND AN EAR

Because he tried to drink applejack and ride a motorcycle as well, Jerry Nesbit, of this city, was arraigned before Recorder Springstead at Westfield yesterday morning and fined $20 for reckless driving, besides being held for the commissioner of motor vehicles. Nesbit ran head on into a horse and wagon driven by Charles French, of Fanwood, on South avenue in Westfield late Saturday.

Nesbit was flung from his machine and sent sprawling along the hard roadbed with the result that he had his ear torn off and many bruises and cuts. French and his horse were cut and bruised, while both the motorcycle and wagon were nearly demolished.

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE WILL ORGANIZE TONIGHT

The Democratic City Committee will organize at a meeting called for tonight. Members will assemble in the club rooms in the Depew building at 8 p. m. There has been some misapprehension as to the date on which the organization must be effected, but it is pointed out that the State law provides that this meeting shall be held on the first Monday night following the primary. At a meeting of the Union County Democratic Committee held in Elizabeth Saturday night Martin P. O'Connor was named county chairman.

OPENING SOCIAL AT Y. M. C. A. AT 8 O'CLOCK TONIGHT

Y. M. C. A. activities for the fall and winter season will begin tonight with an opening social at the building on Front street and Watchung avenue. The event will be for senior members of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A., and will begin at 8 p. m. An elaborate program of athletic events and entertainment has been provided.

BOY HIT BY AUTO.

William Faber, of 314 Clinton avenue, while driving his automobile along West Fourth street Saturday afternoon, ran over Arthur Wallar, a boy living at 958 West Third street, who ran out from the sidewalk. The youth was taken to the office of Dr. Cregar and after numerous cuts and bruises were attended to was taken to his home. Faber was not held responsible.

FOURTH ZEPPELIN BROUGHT DOWN

Ten Air Dreadnaughts Frustrated in Attempt to Raid London.

NO DAMAGE REPORTED

Wandered Aimlessly Over East Coast, Dropping No Bombs — French Within 4 Miles of Peronne in Fierce Struggle for Stronghold.

London, Oct. 2.—Three separate attempts were made by Zeppelin raiders to attack London last night and early today, but all were repulsed and one super-dreadnought of the air was brought down in flames. The War Office, in giving out the details of the raid in an official statement today, said that the destroyed Zeppelin fell near Potter's Bar, where the crew of the Zeppelin shot down on Sept. 2 are buried. The Zeppelin fleet was made up of 10 ships. They crossed to the coast about 9 o'clock, the official report states, and after being frustrated in their attempts to attack London wandered aimlessly up and down the east coast dropping no bombs.

All of the village of Flaucourt L Abbeye, about which there has been savage fighting on the Somme front for several days, is now in the hands of the British. There was hand to hand fighting in the streets and in the battle-blasted houses before the remnants of the German garrison were driven out. The official report of the War Office today announced the complete capture of Faucourt L. Ebbeye. It admitted that the Germans compelled the British to relinquish part of a trench on another section of the Somme front where hard fighting has been in progress for 24 hours.

Within 4 Miles of Peronne.

Paris, Oct. 2.—French troops are attacking the German positions only four miles from Peronne, one of the chief objectives of the Allies on the Somme front. A statement issued by the War Office today stated that the French have advanced in the region of Bouchavesnes, where many prisoners have been taken in the fighting.

HEAR BISHOP WELCH AT MONROE CHURCH

Preaches First Sermon of Anniversary Program for This Week.

Bishop Herbert Welch preached the opening sermon of the twenty-fifth anniversary celebration at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church yesterday morning before a large congregation. His text was Galatians 6:10: "As ye have therefore opportunity, let us do good to all men, especially unto them who are of the household of faith."

In the course of his sermon the Bishop told how the most prominent man in the early history of the institution, the late James McGee, had sought such an opportunity as the text implied, and mentioned the blessing of the Monroe Avenue Baptist church had been to those within it and its vicinity. Rev. O. B. F. Randolph, the pastor, offered prayer. The church was well decorated with flowers that were donated by E. T. Barrows and others.

The old Bible the Bishop read his text from was used in the Union Sunday school rooms in the old Beckwith store, corner Front street and Clinton avenue prior to the time the First M. E. became interested in mission, and was taken over by it.

The Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, the church's first pastor (1897) preached the evening sermon, his text Luke 2. 49: "And He said unto them, how is it that ye sought me, wist ye not that I should be about my father's business?"

The choir rendered special music and have arranged for music for the rest of the anniversary services.

On next Wednesday evening the Rev. H. R. Munson, a former pastor and now pastor of the Nostrand avenue M. E. church, Brooklyn, will preach.

Friday evening will be historical and social night.

OPENING MEETING OF MONDAY AFTERNOON CLUB

Owing to a misunderstanding the notice of the opening meeting of the Monday Afternoon Club was omitted in the issues of Friday and Saturday of the Daily Press.

At a meeting last May it was decided by a majority vote to have the first meeting of the Monday Afternoon Club on October 9, instead of October 2, the month having five Mondays. The opening meeting will be held on Monday, October 9, in the parish house of the Congregational church, at 3 o'clock.

A FOURTH FRELINGHUYSEN FOR THE SENATE

From the New York Sun.

Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, would sound right, and the State would be worthily represented at Washington by the Republican who led the Senate primary on Tuesday. The first American Frelinghuysen of whom we have any knowledge Theodorus Jacobus, was born in West Friesland in 1901 and settled in New Jersey as a missionary of the Reformed Dutch Church in 1729. Prominent as a preacher of the revival known as the Great Awakening, he was a delegate to the first convention of his church, which was held in New York. His sermons, delivered in Dutch, must have had a powerful appeal, for a volume of them was published at Utrecht and as late as 1856 an English translation appeared.

A grandson, Frederick Frelinghuysen, was graduated from Princeton in 1770, took his seat in the Provincial Congress of 1775 and was made a member of the Committee of Public Safety. As a captain of the Eastern Artillery Company he fought at Trenton and there mortally wounded Colonel Rahl, the Hessian commander. At Monmouth Frederick Frelinghuysen was a colonel of New York militia. He served two terms in the Continental Congress, and from 1793 to 1796 he represented New Jersey in the United States Senate. Frederick Theodore, a grandson of Frederick, was one of the founders of the Republican party in New Jersey, and served two terms in the United States Senate, and in his second term drew the bill creating the Electoral Commission in 1877 and was a member of it. He succeeded James G. Blaine as Secretary of State in President Arthur's Cabinet. Still another Frelinghuysen represented New Jersey in the United States Senate. Theodore, a son of the revolutionary soldier. Theodore, after his term in the Senate, was a Whig candidate for Vice-President on the ticket with Henry Clay in 1844, and later was Chancellor of the University of the City of New York.

Joseph Sherman Frelinghuysen, who has become the Republican candidate in New Jersey for the United States Senate, is a member of the famous family. Blood usually tells, but what the voters would like to know is the quality of the candidate's Americanism and how he stands on the question of the day. On February 8, in announcing his candidacy, he issued a declaration of principles. "I am a protectionist," he said, "to the extent that it is necessary to safeguard our industries and our labor from undue foreign competition." Foreseeing that when the European war ended there would be a fierce rivalry to exploit the American market, Mr. Frelinghuysen advocated a scientific revision of the traiff. He declared for "a merchant marine by private enterprise, with governmental assistance, if necessary." Mr. Frelinghuysen took advance ground on national preparedness: a navy strong enough to protect not only our coasts but our possessions, "aircraft second to none," expansion of the army and a supply of munitions sufficient "to equip a large force and to maintain it for at least six months." Finally he regarded the protection of American citizens in foreign lands as a principle and as a duty older than the Monroe Doctrine.

But in Mr. Frelinghuysen's Americanism there is nothing of the partisan. Speaking in Elizabeth in April during a crisis in our negotiations with Germany, he called upon his hearers to stand by the President of the United States. "Of small moment is it," he said, "whether we agree with his policy or not it is our duty to support the demand he has made upon Germany, even if it calls for the sacrifice of our lives and our treasures." Mr. Frelinghuysen added: "Today our beloved country is facing difficulties in Mexico as well as awaiting a reply from Germany. The hour calls for the greatest forbearance." New Jersey has the prospect of having a fourth Frelinghuysen to speak for her in the United States Senate.

The Rev. J. Madison Hare, pastor of the Baptist church, conducted impressive funeral services for Mrs. Anne Appleton Griffin, mother of Mrs. Hare, from the Baptist parsonage yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Griffin died last Thursday in her ninetieth year, after a long illness. She was a graduate of Rutgers Seminary in New York, and all her life an ardent missionary and church worker. Interment was made today in Philadelphia, where Mrs. Griffin was born.

Because Westfield has not yet taken off its quarantine regulations, the school authorities of that place do not wish to allow local children to attend the high school at that place at present. Some of the parents have taken the initiative and today sent their children to the Plainfield High School, but unless the local Board of Education takes some action it is likely the remainder of the children will stay at home until Westfield allows them to attend.

Although bothered with the confusion attendant with the building operations going on, the teachers in School No. 1 got fairly started today on the fall work. The other two schools in the district started today also, and all three showed a big increase in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Vardle returned to their home in Brooklyn today, after spending the summer at the Homestead.

BENEFITS FOR AMERICAN RED STAR ANNUAL RELIEF

Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske, the great American actress, has just informed The American Humane Association, with headquarters in Albany, N. Y., that she is planning to give three benefits performances this winter for the American Red Star Animal Relief work. They will be given in Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago, where she is booked for long engagements. The money thus raised will be used to forward the work of the American Red Star Animal Relief, which was organized on the request of the War Department to provide veterinary service and hospitals for the United States Army animals.

At the present time Dr. Charles Delano, a well-known Boston veterinarian, is at the Mexican border in the interest of the American Red Star Animal Relief, visiting the various camps where horses are employed. On the basis of his report and the recommendation of the War Department will depend whether or not the Red Star proceeds to erect a base hospital for sick and injured army animals at some convenient location along the border. Such volunteer assistance will mean a great deal to the government from both humane and economical standpoints.

Any information regarding the Red Star Society can be procured from Mrs. Stephen H. Van Hoesen, local agent of the S. P. C. A.

COMMUTERS SOCIAL CLUB ENJOYS LAST WEEK-END

The last week-end outing of the Commuters' Social Club left the Battery Pier, New York, at 2 p. m., Saturday, for Keansburg, arriving there at 4 p. m., via the Keansburg Steamship Line. Although the coolness of the weather prevented swimming, a very pleasant evening was spent in singing and dancing at their bugalow. Sunday was the closing day, and the bungalow will be closed until next May, when they expect to reopen with many new members.

Thursday evening last a business meeting was held at the home of Miss Pearl Barnett, 501 Central avenue, Westfield. At that time it was decided the club would have a masquerade party on Saturday evening, October 28. The party will be held at the home of George Eldridge., and a prize will be awarded to the best disguised lady and gentleman. The entertainment committee, headed by Miss Florence Barry, is on the job already preparing games and amusements for the affair. At 11 o'clock all will unmask and refreshments will be served. The remainder of the evening will be spent in dancing.

It was also decided the club would rent the bowling alleys under Flagg's Moving Picture Theatre at Westfield for the winter. Monday evening, October 9, is to be the opening night, and J. Clifford Schindler and J. Vincent Johnson will be in charge.

The next business meeting will be held on Thursday, October 5, at the home of George Kling, 28 Sandford avenue, this city.

AGOGA CLASS TO DINE ITS NEW INSTRUCTOR

Members of the Agoga Bible class of the Park Avenue Baptist church will tender a dinner to A. C. Estes, the new teacher, Saturday evening of this week. The dinner will be held in the Y. M. C. A. rooms, and an attendance of more than thirty has been assured. Mr. Estes, who is secretary of the Y. M. C. A., took charge of the Agoga class yesterday. Its members are planning a campaign for new members as a feature of the fall work.

VAN DEVENTER BOYS LOSE TENNIS TOURNEY

Before a large gallery of tennis enthusiasts, Phil and Ludlow Van Deventer, of this city, lost to S. H. Vogheli and F. C. Baggs in the finals of the night tennis tournament started at the Plainfield Country Club some time ago.

The play lasted from 3 o'clock until 5, one of the tests extending to twenty-six games. In all, five sets were played, the scores being as follows: 6—4, 1—6, 8—10, 14—12 and 6—4. The loss by the local brothers was due, in a measure, to loose playing in the fourth set.

DUNELLEN COLORED LADS DEFEAT ALL STAR TEAM

The Dunellen Colored Giants had little trouble in defeating the Dunellen All Stars yesterday, the score being 10 to 6. The winners batted the ball consistently, registering a total of ten bingles, while the losers were unable to solve the offerings of Barnes. Errors were more numerous than spectators. The Giants made ten miscues, while the Stars allowed seven plays to get away from them.

Sidney Butler, of this city, played shortfield for the winners, while Waldron, the Dunellen star, who hurled against the St. Joseph team some time ago, performed on the mound for the Stars.

SCRANTON'S GOLDEN JUBILEE.

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 2.—Closing the the first half-century of its corporate existence, there began in Scranton today a celebration in honor of the great forward strides that the half-century has witnessed. There began a week of fetes, pageants, historical exercises and a wide variety of festivities, all in celebration of the 50th birthday of Pennsylvania's third largest city. The entire city is aglow with flags and bunting. Many strangers are already here and the indications point to the largest crowd of visitors during the week ever entertained in Scranton.

GRAND JURY STARTS TOMORROW.

The October term of the Union County Grand Jury will commence tomorrow at Elizabeth. It will probably be one of the longest sessions yet held, and included in the list of cases to come up are a number from Plainfield. Two colored youths, accused of breaking into a bootblack store on Park avenue; Walpole and Groletto, two boys connected with the Netherwood "fake" robbery; Stanley Stankovitz and Joesphfa Rokawki, who took money from a local servant girl, and John Nogoz, accused of rape, will be among those whose cases will be decided at the coming term.

Among other business transacted was the electing of an executive committee to the county committee that will act as an advisory body. It is composed of Edward Cooper, chairman; Robert Kay, James Mets, Frank Watson and Howard Woolston.

NEW YORK FACES MILK FAMINE BY WEDNESDAY

New York, Oct. 2.—At least one-third, and perhaps more, of the normal milk supply of New York city was shut off today by the refusal of the farmers composing the Dairymen's League to sell milk to three chief distributing agencies under contracts made through the officers of the league.

With this actual condition, and organized efforts on the part of the league to prevent shipments to the city, the prediction was made that by Wednesday the situation would reach a famine stage. Officials of the big distributing companies stood firmly by their plans to fight the league and to refuse the making of collective contracts.

Under the guidance of John J. Dillon, State Commissioner of Foods and Markets, the league's agents began selling so much of their product as they were able to pasteurize directly through retail grocers and butchers. Mr. Dillon said if Health Commissioner Emerson would permit the sale of raw milk the supply could be largely augmented and the milk could be sold to the consumer at two cents a quart less than the big companies demand.

MEAT CARDS FOR ALL GERMANY.

Berlin (via Amsterdam), Oct. 2.—This is the day fixed by the Government for putting into effect its recent decree providing for the introduction of meat cards for the whole empire. The step is taken, according to the official explanation, to insure an equable distribution of the meat supply to the people of all classes. Families butchering for their own consumption are subject to the card system. They will be required to obtain permission from the local authorities before butchering animals for household consumption. The maximum amount of meat under the new system will be slightly more than half a pound weekly.

HE WANTS ... H ... 180,000 OTHERS

The gravest threat ever encountered by land speculators in America faces the land holding interests of California this year. For thousands upon thousands of voters, the presidential election will be dwarfed in interest by a measure championed by Luke North, a Los Angeles writer and publisher and placed upon the ballot by the means of an initiative petition.

North's boldness placed him in opposition to a host of avowed singletaxers. Where they were interested primarily in taxation, he called tax reform a mere expedient and put emphasis on his purpose to open every vacant acre of land to any man upon equal terms. Where others advocated a gradual program, he contended for the proposals of Henry George in their entirety.

He dubbed his campaign "The Great Adventure" and proclaimed with the zeal of an old time prophet that "Now" is the time to establish what he calls "a free earth."

The initiative petition for complete state-wide singletax was signed by 180,000 voters, some 50,000 more than necesary. But the fight has only begun for California's land monopolists are immensely wealthy both in money and acreage. It is estimated that three quarters of the privately owned land in the state belongs to a few corporations and individuals. A state commission on housing and immigration appointed by Governor Johnson found that 22,061 acres of Central Pacific land pays only 6 cents an acre tax in Yuba county and 69,008 acres owned by the same concern in Tahama county pay 7½ cents, which is a cent less than the tax paid by the Agoure interests on 16,000 acres of Ventura county land. The Southern Pacific pays only 4½ cents an acre on 13,722 acres in Tulare county. The total California holdings of one firm, Miller and Lux, was found to exceed 700,000 acres.

This Is the Sort of a Fit You Get at Rothberg's

The trousers fit you smoothly around the waist and hang true from the hip to heel.

The vest, unruffled and serene, lies flat like an outer layer of your original self.

And then comes the coat—the most important because the most difficult problem of the entire suit. You slip into it in orthodox fashion, first one arm then the other, and then the coat slips to you.

It clasps you firmly but easily in the armholes, fits snugly across the back, and nestles close in the collar.

The sleeves are graduated to the cuffs, the lapels flare leisurely to the first button, the lines roll easily with the action of the figure, and the very naturalness of the fit suggests a sort of sentimental attachment for the person.

Suits $12 to $25

FALLS 3,000 FEET AND LANDS ON LONDON ROOF

"Dropped In For Tea," He Tells Owner, Who Asks, "What Are You Doing Here?"

A young Liverpool member of the royal flying corps, who is now in training somewhere in England, came unscathed, except for a bruise or two, from a thrilling experience when his machine fell from a height of 3,000 feet on a house in a populous part of London. He tells of his feelings during the descent at the rate of 1,000 feet a minute as follows:

"I was leading a reconnoissance flight and had to go up to 3,000 feet, when I signaled to the others following by firing a pistol. The pistol exploded and hit me on the head and broke my propeller, and the back of the engine caught fire. Both controls were cut away, so I only had the elevator control left and could not guide her.

"The broken propeller tore a large hole in the plane. It was very windy and damp, and the wind carried me up toward London, dropping me about a 1,000 feet every minute. I shut my eyes and dropped and landed half on a house and half in a little alley. I was covered with petrol and got an awful knock on the head and was dazed when I hit the ground. My right wing went through a window, and the whole machine was smashed.

"When I crawled out with my head in my hands, the first thing the lady of the house said was, 'What on earth are you doing here?' So I said, 'I've come for tea.' She said, 'You've killed one of my chickens.' The machine was a wreck.

"It was a nasty feeling, as I had no control, and it was just luck that I did not land on a church steeple."

Public Land Opened For Settlement.

President Wilson has just signed a proclamation excluding about 97,960 acres from the Angelus national forest, California. Of this area about 56,000 acres will be open to settlement in advance of entry. These lands will be subject to settlement only under the homestead laws from 9 a. m., Oct. 25, until and including Nov. 21, 1916, and thereafter to disposition under the public land law applicable thereto.

DRINK WATER TO AVOID SICKNESS SAYS AUTHORITY

Glass of hot water before breakfast daily keeps the doctor away.

Sanitary science has of late made rapid strides, with results that are of untold blessings to humanity. The latest application of its untiring research is the recommendation that it is as necessary to attend to internal sanitation of the drainage system of the human body as it is to the drains of the house.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the phosphated hot water is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatic stiffness; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to make anyone a crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

Sale of Lands for Unpaid Taxes

COLLECTOR'S OFFICE, CITY OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber, the Collector of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, pursuant to the authority of the statute in such case made and provided, will on at two o'clock in the afternoon of that day, at the said Collector's office, No. 151 North Avenue, in said city, expose for sale and sell the several tracts or parcels of land hereinafter specified, or any part or parts thereof severally sufficient for the purpose, on which taxes for the year nineteen hundred and fifteen remain in arrears, to such person or persons as will purchase the same for the shortest term and pay the tax lien thereon, including interest and costs of sale, or in fee where no one will bid for a shorter term.

This sale is made under the provisions of the act of the Legislature of this State, entitled: "An Act for the assessment and collection of taxes," approved April 8, 1903, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto.

Further particulars of the land to be sold, as shown on the City records, may be obtained at the office of the subscriber any week day prior to the day of sale, between the hours of 9 a. m. and 4 p. m., except holidays and Saturdays, and on Saturdays between 9 a. m. and 12 noon.

The following is a list of the several tracts or parcels of land to be sold which shows the names of the delinquents, the supposed owners thereof as the names of the delinquent owners appear on the books of the taxing district, together with a statement of the wards of the city wherein said lands are respectively situated, and the street in which each lot is situated, the block and lot number of each lot as they appear on the Official Assessment Maps of the City of Plainfield, on file in the office of the City Collector, and the amount due from each of the said lots respectively. To the amount due on each lot and parcel as hereinafter designated, there will be added interest from the twentieth day of December, 1915, to the day of sale, and the fees provided by said act of the Legislature, viz.: for preparing and publishing notices of sale, twenty-five cents for each parcel of land advertised; and for selling, twenty-five cents for each parcel sold; and for each certificate of sale, fifty cents, besides necessary disbursements for printing, postage, affidavits and acknowledgments, which are hereby estimated at three dollars for each item of arrearage, and the City Clerk's fee for recording report, ten cents for each parcel of land sold, and all said fees and expenses shall form part of the tax lien and be paid by the purchaser at the tax sale.

December 20, 1915, is the date from which interest will be added to date of sale.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, OCTOBER 2, 1916.

A LOSS TO THE COMMUNITY.

As witnesses to the regard that Plainfield bore for the late William F. Arnold hundreds of citizens, representing all social classes, yesterday paid their final tribute to his life of kindness, service and love. It was a demonstration that only esteem and love could provoke, and it befitted the memory of the man. In the death of Mr. Arnold the municipality has lost a faithful and painstaking servant, one of our strongest financial institutions has lost an efficient and honest executive and the entire community has lost a friend. He lived among us fifty-six years and was known in all the stages of boy and manhood. In youth he was truthful and manly and eager in his search for the knowledge upon which his life was to be builded, yet prudent in choosing only that which might make him a better man in the years to come. He faithfully discharged the responsibilities of husband and father. Through a natural adaptability for finances and intelligent study of his chosen profession, he helped to build up the First National Bank, yet in all of his dealings with his fellowman he carried with him that confidence and interest in humanity that was a part of his youthful innocence and he never lost it to the end. He gave to the city government not only experience, integrity, and honest effort, but courtesy and fairness, and perhaps he gave more.

William Arnold was loved by all who knew him, and he was worthy of their love. We will miss him.

WILSON'S MESSAGE TO THE HYPHENATES.

President Wilson gave conclusive evidence last week that he does not want to be re-elected to the highest office in the gift of the American people on the votes of those who have not the best interests of the country at heart. He wants only American votes, and he said in a telegram to a noted pro-German agitator, "I would feel deeply mortified to have you or anybody like you vote for me. Since you have access to many disloyal Americans and I have not, I will ask you to convey this message to them." It is the most truly American act he has to his credit since the campaign started. And yet they say he is too proud to fight. Mr. Roosevelt might sign such a message, but when we try to imagine these words from the mouth of the Republican candidate we fail. Somehow or other such a statement does not sound as if it found birth behind a clump of whiskers.

• • • • • • •

Discussion of the number of votes a Democratic or Independent candidate for councilman would get in the First ward or in the Second ward is not fair to the Republican voters. Such talk is an indictment of the men who participated in the primary, and amounts to nothing more than the statement that many of them will ignore the primary obligation and fight the nominee of their party. While there is no written or spoken condition imposed in a primary, participation is predicated upon a moral obligation to support the nominee. The whole event is arranged that Republicans or Democrats may decide their differences among themselves and by a majority vote agree upon the party candidate so that they will present a solid front when they go into an election. Those who feel that they cannot support either candidate in the case of success usually remain away from the polls on primary day, because they feel that the losers are honor bound to work for the success of the party choice.

German threats of a renewal of the horrible submarine warfare are born of desperation. While naught but successes for the Kaiser are noted on the war map—Germany gained much more territory in the last few months than the Allies, despite the Somme drive—the terrible pressure of the ring of iron and steel is being felt in Berlin. The phrase "military necessity" has already become synonymous for any bestial acts that cannot be condoned by civilization, but it may be called upon to explain even more brutal and inhuman outrages in the future. Germany victorious was overbearing and frightfully cruel. Germany with her back to the wall may be even worse.

- Proctor's Theatre -

A double feature photoplay program, provided by the Greater Vitagraph Company, occupies the center of attention at Proctor's Theatre today. This program consists of James Morrison in "The Alibi," and Lillian Walker in "Hesper of the Mountains." If there were such a thing as "official scorer" for films, good and bad, Paul Scardon, who plays the villain in "The Alibi," would have a pretty high rating, and with good reason. A story illustrating how circumstantial evidence can incriminate a perfectly innocent person have him adjudged guilty of murder, sentenced, and only by escaping and using his own resources to get justice, such is "The Alibi." The interest of the beholder is held until the final denouement and with perfect acting of the principals, strict attention paid to detail in the interior settings, and good photography, this picture is bound to please local film fans. Paul Scardon, as the villain, with his own inimitable adaptability at facial make-up, easily carries off the honors, while James Morrison, in the character of the wronged bookkeeper, and Betty Howe, as the president's daughter, also do very good work. "Hesper of the Mountains" is a story of adventure that gives Lillian Walker plenty of opportunities to display her versatility as a character star, and this production is one of the best she has yet appeared in. An added attraction the last two days of this week is the latest Chaplin comedy entitled "The Pawnshop," with Charley portraying the part of an assistant in a pawnshop, a role that gives him a large scope to exploit his fun-making abilities.

On the Spur of the Moment

by Roy K. Moulton

The Quiet Life.

I do not want to be a king
Or potentate or anything
Like that. I do not want to fight;
I want to get my sleep at night.
I can go home and sit at ease
And hold my kid upon my knees
And look out on my garden plot
And be contented with my lot.
I can take in a picture show,
And not be nervous when I go
For fear some titled enemy
Will drop a lyddite bomb on me.
I get no diplomatic note
Which stirs me up and gets my goat.
No murder is upon my soul,
For world dominion's not my goal.
I'm happy as a common lob
Who's got a home, also a job.
I would not trade my state of mind
With any one of royal kind.
No blood of infants stains my hands;
I have invaded no one's lands.
I would not trade my old felt hat
For all the caps and helmets that
Are worn in any crazy realm
That seek to slay and overwhelm.
Gold braid and clanking sabres punk
To me are merely useless junk.
I would not trade my little cot
For any castle they have got,
Who go forth girdled for the fray
To burn and loot, outrage and slay.

The Temperamental Lantern.

When Huntley Russell goes out on his tours through the small towns of Michigan, lecturing upon the State institutions, he carries with him a magic lantern which shows views of famous Michigan buildings and personages.

At one point in the lecture Huntley shows a picture of Louis Holtzey, the famous criminal at Marquette prison. He was lecturing in a small town on the Muskegon interurban line the other night and said: "The next picture thrown upon the screen will be that of the most celebrated criminal in Michigan." The amateur lantern operator then threw upon the screen a picture of ex-President Angell of the University of Michigan.

"That is wrong," yelled the lecturer to the man who was operating the machine. "Put on that other portrait."

The operator found the portrait of Haltzey, but in his excitement got the slide upside down. Huntley gazed at the screen a moment in deep disgust and then said: "This is the picture of Holtzey. He is not only the most noted criminal in Michigan, but he is also an acrobat. When this picture was taken he was standing on his head."

Noisy Footnotes.

"Thump-rattlety-bang!" went the piano. "What are you trying to play, Jane?" called her father from the next room.

"It's an exercise from my new instruction book, 'First Steps in Music,'" she answered.

"Well, I knew you were playing with your feet," he said brimly, "but don't step so heavily on the keys—it disturbs my thoughts."

Clean Up

Clean the back yard and the court.
Give the health board your support.
Don't mind Demon Dirt's fierce wrath;
Your fair city needs a bath.
Swat the deadly, germy fly.
Soak him on the back or eye.
Make the premises look fine;
Get the habit—fall in line.
Get a little civic pride.
Then you'll be quite satisfied.

Plainfield Theatre.

Henry Ford was an electrician by trade. He conceived the idea when automobiles were first invented that he could put a car on the market which would be within reach of the poor man. He worked on his scheme for a very long time; he would try his little car out on the streets of Detroit, and worked so long on it, speeding from street to street that he soon got the name of "Crazy Ford." Well, as one would say, "I wish I were as crazy as he is now, making the millions every year as he does." What is the answer, hard work was rewarded at last. This is just what happened with the owners of the "Maids of America" Company, which will play for one day only at the Plainfield Theatre today, matinee and night. Six months was spent in designing and building the scenery for this show, the owners worked twenty hours a day on ideas to give burlesque patrons something they had never seen before. When the show opened at the Columbia Theatre, New York, in the heart of the theatrical district, the newspaper critics were unanimous in saying it was the ideal of modern burlesque, in scenery, costumes, music, comedy and production. Al K. Hall heads a cast of forty people, the pick of the profession.

The Plainfield Theatre today is given over to the musical comedy, "Maids of America." The regular vaudeville program will be resumed at the theatre tomorrow afternoon and for the occasion Manager Shannon has secured an unusually meritorious number of acts. The headline feature will be the appearance of Bob Fitzsimmons, the grand old man of the prize ring, and known to hundreds of fight fans throughout the country. "Bob" will appear in a novel attraction, assisted by his son, "Bob, Jr.," the coming champion of the world.

Four other acts, billed as follows, will complete the vaudeville bill: "June and La Van," two dainty maids in a musical attraction; "Ned Norton," comedian; "Casey, the Fireman," a comedy satire, and "Keene and Foxworth," comedians, singers, acrobats and dancers.

Pathe pictures will also be shown at all shows, including the Pathe weekly, the animated picture of current happenings in our own land and abroad.

ONE HUNDRED NEW JERSEY SOLDIERS HAVE A BATTLE WITH FIERCE MEXICAN WOMAN

By JAMES J. McNAMEE.

Douglas, Ariz., Sept. 26.—Jersey militiamen stationed here last night engaged in their first skirmish with Mexicans. The battle of Pirtleville, a small hamlet within a stone's throw of the military camp, was fought without bloodshed on the American side shortly before midnight last night but while it lasted it created more excitement than this part of Arizona has known since the Villistas threatened an invasion last November.

Jersey soldiers have made it a practice to visit this little Mexican village almost every night in the week. It is located on the Arizona side of the border and is the most convenient place to make various purchases which the men require. According to a story related by eyewitnesses, one of the Fifth infantrymen, hailing from Paterson, became involved in an arugment with a Mexican woman which culminated in a wrestling match. The soldier is said to have brought a chair into play and cracked the woman on the head with it.

The Mexican populace soon broke out in a riot and the scores of other soldiers in the village were unable to quiet them. A hurry call was sent for volunteers and about one hundred Jerseymen were detailed to handle the Pirtleville mob. Led by Sergeant Percy Ransome, of Plainfield, the soldiers at once went to the assistance of the military police, who were trying to quell the riot and in short order disbursed the throng. The one woman was painfully injured and several others sustained minor hurts, but the Americans involved in the feud got away without a scratch.

Pirtleville is located outside the jurisdiction of the Douglas police and at night the only patrol is furnished by the military police. As a result of last night's affair the guard will be doubled tonight and there is some talk in camp today about placing a ban on soldiers visiting the town.

The town of Pirtleville is made up almost exclusively of the Mexican element, not more than three white families being located there. Since the Jerseymen took up quarters here they have made a practice of patronizing the small stores at times when they did not feel like going a mile to the city section of Douglas, and as a result the few business enterprises of Pirtleville have been thriving.

Americans have frequently been insulted and threatened by the Greasers who are ever ready for a fight, but who run when their challenge is accepted, ad it was a foregone conclusion that the feeling would reach the boiling point at some near date. However, it is believed that the demonstration last night will impress upon the Mexicans that the Americans are capable of handling a situation of this nature and that they will not again attempt to mob the visitors even though the militiamen may elect to continue patronizing the "Spics."

For a time after the departure of the detail last night the camp was in a state of excitement. All of the men were anxious to participate in any fight if there were to be one, and it was with difficulty that the officers selected a patrol from the big number of volunteers that responded to the call. All is quiet today and it is expected that this quietness will remain even after darkness overspreads the village of the dobie huts and dark-skinned natives.

Those units having overcoats in camp today began the distribution of them. Although it is not believed that the stay here will be long the officers believe in being on the safe side and want to keep their men comfortably warm. The nights are cold and the days exceedingly hot, the range in temperature being from 30 to 110 degrees.

Some more excitement was created in Battery A this morning when the men declared themselves regarding the shortage in blankets. Despite threats from commanding officers, they kept up the cry, "We want more bed clothes," for fifteen minutes, just before breakfast time and it was with difficulty that they were quieted. There are no more blankets to be had and it is likely that the batterymen will have to continue to freeze until ordered home.

The inspection of the remaining units by a regular corps of examiners was completed yesterday and the innoculation against ara-typhoid was also finished. The district adjutant's office continues to collect data regarding the number of cars each outfit will require for removal from here and every indication points to a getaway within the next fortnight. However, indications thus afr have been ever, indications thus far have been resigned themselves to the hard task of watchful waiting, declaring that they will not notify home folks of their coming until they are well on their way.

Athletics are taking up considerable time these days and several good basketball teams are in the process of formation. The Fifth infantry will probably promote a basketball league composed of company teams if they stay here sufficiently long.

If the units remain much longer it is certain that a picket line of a more permanent nature will have to be established. The prevalence of sickness among the horses is charged largely to the fact that the animals have been forced to remain in the broiling hot sun throughout the entire day. There is no covering over the picket lines and when not in use the animals are exposed to heat such as the soldiers have found unbearable. The horses are a sad looking lot and little is being done to better their condition.

Germans check advance of the French in Champagne and of the British in the Loos and Lens sector. Berlin reports that the combined French and British offensives are dying down.

REST

By Rev. Birney S. Hudson

Written on the occasion of the death of Mrs. Anne Appleton Griffin, of Scotch Plains.

Sweet soul, thou hast earned thy rest,
Long years have been thy course,
True friends have been thy joy;
Loved ones watched thee all the way,
But thou hast given more than they.
Thou wert rich in heavenly store—
Patience, faith and mind thy hoard;
But not thy hoard, for, as was meet,
Alabaster hast thou broken,
Lavished on the Master's feet.
Beautiful life! Fragrance fills the place.
Beauteous in death! Proof of infinite Grace.
Blest thou art, as thou hast given,
Treasure ours—laid up in Heaven.
Immortality! Inspiration Divine!
Thou'rt still ours and we are thine.
Trust we then, with glorious hope,
Tenderly we say farewell.
Maturity, they reality
And completeness binds thy soul—
Hast thou gone beyond our scope?
Not so! passed to thine abode—
Via dolarosa, via gloria.
O, sacred way, we take thy course,
We'll follow on; we know the road,
Till then, dear one, sleep an awake,
Sweet soul, take thy well earned rest.

Dreaded Premature Burial.

Meyerbeer, like many other notable people, went in dread of premature burial and left the most elaborate directions with a view to preventing such a contingency. "My body is to remain untouched for a period of four days after my death is certified, with the face uncovered and in exactly the same position as at the time I am supposed to have passed away. On the fifth day incisions are to be made in the throat and in the feet." He also directed that two men should be appointed to watch over him day and night in case he should give any signs of life and that bells should be attached to his hands and feet.

Not at All Private.

In the trial of a case some time ago in one of the English courts a witness was asked to repeat a conversation that she had with her husband. Objection was made that the question should not be answered because the conversation was private in its nature.

The judge then asked the witness whether anybody except herself and husband was present. She replied that her mother and the husband's mother were present, whereupon the judge remarked: "It appears that both mothers-in-law were present. I shall therefore rule that the conversation was public."—London Mail.

Disagreement.

"I heard Billings forced his daughter into a marriage with a rich creditor—practically sold her."

"That's queer. The newspaper accounts of the wedding say he gave her away."—Baltimore American.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How a River Nymph Became a Beautiful Fountain.

She Put Her Tired Feet Into the Water.

JACK and Evelyn could hardly wait for daddy to get comfortable in his chair before they begged for a story. So he began:

"Today a beautiful English ship called the Arethusa struck a mine and lost ten of her crew. Do you know any children who would like to know how this brave boat got such a pretty name?" The children clapped.

"Well, this English boat was named for a lovely river nymph who especially enjoyed life in the charming groves of Greece. She used to run about the woods, wild as the wind, and chase animals. Sometimes she shot them, just as Diana did, with her bow and arrow. She lived a very healthy, free life outdoors, but she was not vain of her beauty, although people used to compliment her often. One day when she was coming home from the chase, all hot and tired from running, she came to a little brook called Morea. Its stream was so clear she could see little white pebbles on the bottom of it, and shady willows overhung its pretty bank. Delighted, Arethusa ran up and put her tired feet in the cooling water. It felt so good that she stepped in knee deep. This gave her such pleasure that she hung her pretty Greek robe on a willow branch and slipped right into the river for a delicious bath.

"But, alas, for a lovely nymph's peace! The brook Morea was owned by a river god whose name was Alpheus. When he knew that a beautiful nymph was bathing in his waters he murmured to her, 'Arethusa, I am Alpheus, god of this stream.' Arethusa heard a faint murmur and dashed up the mossy bank, afraid. Alpheus, now madly in love with her, sprang after her to catch her. Much distressed, Arethusa called on Diana to help her, and this goddess did. Suddenly, just as Alpheus was putting his hand on the nymph, a cold sweat came over her, her beautiful hair flowed down in streamlets, her feet stood in a pool, and in less time than it takes your daddy to tell it she turned into a fountain. But even so Alpheus loved her and tried to mingle his waters with the fountain. But Diana was still protecting her pet, and just as the river god was rushing into the fountain Diana struck the ground and made a cavern. Arethusa plunged into it and, in her terrible fear and wish to escape Alpheus, flowed along underground until she disappeared in the spray of a beautiful fountain far off in Sicily."

"And what became of poor Alpheus, who loved her?" asked Evelyn.

"To this very day," daddy told her, "the river Morea still flows, untainted by the sea, underground to the fountain in Sicily, and the river god, Alpheus, still searches and searches for a glimpse of his love. But he never finds her, and the cool, still waters ever flow on."

Training a Husband

BY MAE EVA LEONARD

Marian Shows Further Evidence of Her Growing Independence and Gets a Kiss.

"You had better cut off the one button on this shirt and so have uniformity preserved," was the sarcastic exclamation of Morris Southy as he flung the offending garment on the bed and began pawing in the drawer for another.

"I don't know how that shirt got put away without being looked over." Marian's tone was very apologetic.

"I suppose it got put away as it always does. You speak as if it was a rare thing for a shirt to go unmended in this house." Morris certainly was feeling ill-tempered.

"Do be fair, Morris. If you take half as much pains to do all your work as I do to keep your clothes mended you——"

"Where are my socks?" interrupted the irate husband.

"Let me find them." Marian repressed a sigh. She laid the stockings on a chair and went for her mending basket. "I will have these buttons on before you are ready for the shirt," she said, sitting down to the task.

"Never mind, I have another one out to wear now. You may as well put them on, though; then they will be ready for next time." Morris was splashing at the washstand.

"Did you get my trousers pressed?" he asked while he used the towel vigorously.

"No."

"Why not?" The face emerged from the towel to look at the offending woman.

"I have closed my pantorium. No more orders received," laughed Marian.

"Those trousers are not fit to wear," grumbled Morris.

"Very well, you must press them," was the placid answer. "It's not a long job."

"I should think you could have pressed them then. You know just how rushed I am," grumbled the husband.

"I know that I am too busy to do all that is necessary for me to do, and I am going to try extra hard to do the necessary things by lopping off the unnecessary ones."

"Surely pressing trousers is necessary work," insisted Morris.

"Yes, it is necessary to be done, but it is not necessary for me to do it. I must find time to mend the children's clothes, to say nothing of my own." Marian rose and placed the folded shirt in the drawer. "That shirt is ready to wear now."

"Thanks. What did you use for a pressing cloth?" asked Morris, seizing the trousers and hurrying to the kitchen.

"Here it is." The ironing board is in the cellar way. I have been ironing, so the flatirons are hot." Morris was rattling board and chairs around in the kitchen, but Marian stayed in the front part of the house. Morris had ceased to call her from one part of the house to the other to wait on him, because he had learned that it did no good, but if she were near him he had a hundred things he wanted done.

"I had no idea it took so long to press a pair of thousers." Morris was red with heat and hurry as he came into the bedroom. "No wonder you struck. I should not have asked you to do it so long had I known how much time it took."

"That is just why I stopped doing it. I was sure you would not want me to spend my time that way when I had so much else to do." Marian smiled her gratitude for the concession.

"Women undertake more work than they can do, and so they are always snowed under. I begin to believe that by carefully lopping off all that is not necessary, all that someone else could do, they could reduce the amount to what one could get done. Mother used to say, 'It is not the work I do, but the work I don't get done that tires me,' and I believe she was right," continued Marian.

"You keep right on, my girl. You will get me educated so I will be fit to live with in time." Morris Southy stooped and kissed his wife's cheek. Marian blushed like a girl. It was not a common occurrence.

A WING TRIMMED TURBAN.

The Height of This Chapeau is Accentuated By the Jet Butterfly.

By Mary Glynn.

The tall and small hat continues in favor, consequently it is shown in many attractive ways. This charming French woman wears a tall taffeta turban, which is not unlike a stove pipe. There is just a suggestion of a brim and this takes away the severeness that is evident when a hat is brimless. Distinctive and appropriate is the jet butterfly ornament which is placed saucily on the upper edge of the crown in front. A dainty georgette crepe collar finishes the top of a navy mohair frock, lending a soft and becoming line at the throat.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

spiritual truths, she was wonderfully healed. That was in 1906. There was her proof of mental healing, and that the divine Mind is the healer to comfort in sorrow and in sickness. The next step was to learn the Science of that healing and, as she states in Science and Health, page 100, "I won my way to absolute conclusions through divine revelation, reason, and demonstration." Again she writes, "Reason and revelation were reconciled, and afterwards the truth of Christian Science was demonstrated," page 110. She stated that Science in the Christian Science text book so simply and logically that the simple reading of that book has brought the healing Comforter to multitudes of those in sickness and distress, and made them every whit whole.

Mrs. Eddy has thus become the discoverer of Christian Science, and the founding of its institutional work was to follow. In her joy to share such a great blessing she appealed to the spritual thought of learned men, only to suffer the rebuff of dignified silence. Her first ray of hope came when that silence was turned into ridicule and abuse for it meant that she had gained at least a hearing. Deserted by friends and relatives, and opposed by subtle and powerful influences whichever way she turned, this woman patiently kept her course in the founding of the various institutions of Christian Science, until the movement has spread itself all over this world, and all within her own lifetime. By her clear statement of scientific Christianity, Mrs. Eddy has enormously increased the number of followers of Christ's teachings. The sick are healed of bodily ailments by reading its literature; the sinner may know how to liberate himself from his sin and greatest of all, the pure minded is given the power to save himself from the general belief in sin, so that the good he desires to do, that he can do. Mrs. Eddy has therefore proved, in accordance with the vision in the apocalypse, that a pure minded woman, armed with Science, can unlock the secrets of "the law of the spirit of life in Christ Jesus," and reveal the promised Comforter.

Try as hard as one may, it is impossible to separate Moses from the commandments, or Jesus from the beatitudes. When Jesus had that exalted vision of law and prophesy on the Mount of Transfiguration, the human representative of law and prohpesy became apparent to those near enough to get the lesson. It is equally certain that the human representative of scientific Christianity can never be separated from the spiritual treasures which she has opened to our use.

Disease Mental.

Jesus healed physical disease on the basis that the Truth makes free. Four thousand years of medicine has endeavored to force the conclusion that disease is purely physical, and that it requires a physical remedy. The result is that diseases have actually multiplied. Jesus proved that sickness, disease and fear are the errors and not the truths of being, and they can be healed by a mental process. Their basis being wholly material, and matter being mortal error, the truth of God dispels those errors just as light dispels darkness—just as the understanding that two and two are four dispels any denial of that fact. And when one understands that truth, he does not have to sit up nights to be certain of it in the morning. Jesus so understood the nature of God as Truth, that he could make it just as consciously apparent to the man with the withered hand, and that diseased condition was wiped out by that process just as effectually as one could take a sponge and wipe out the wrong figures on the blackboard.

It is generally recognized that certain nervous disorders are mental; for though the person may be sick almost to distraction, examination may disclose no diseased organ, tissue or nerve. He may have apparent physical ailments, such as that trinity of disorders, known as dyspepsia, heart palpitation and insomnia but an examination discloses no organic disease. The patient's troubles are actually unreal, in the sense that they have no physical cause. But to the patient they are decidedly real, in the sense that he feels them constantly, and can not free himself from them.

Though a patient may be perfectly sane while suffering from one nervous ailment, his belief must be changed before he can experience his healing. That is never brought about by imagining himself well. Such primitive emotions as fear and anger, which are common to men and beasts, are said to produce depressing and poisonous conditions. The thought of guilt is said to be even more deleterious. Anger may cause a person to become flushed or pallid in the face, indicating the mental control of the circulation. Indeed, it may stop one's digestion altogether, showing how one's thought has equal control over the digestive system. A severe examination may affect students with retarded digestion due to their fear. With the proof that functional disorders are mentioned in their cause, due to erroneous thinking, investigation has continued until medical experiments have proved that diabetes is entirely the result of fear or emotion. In fact it is more generally conceded that today consumption may be just a consuming fear. That may be the reason why no drug or medicne ever healed them. The Christian Science text book says: "The procuring cause and foundation of all sickness is fear, ignorance, or sin." It teaches, in other words, that all sickness is unreal in the sense that it has no physical cause.

So long as one believes his malady is physical, he naturally feels helpless. But when he knows it is the result of erroneous thought, then he is encouraged in the conscious ability to change that thinking by the presence and power of God's truth. Some fears seem more real than others. They seem more real when tissue disorganization is apparent. But when examination discloses no diseased organ or nerve, those fears are regarded as intangible and superstitious. The fear from supersitition is called a delusion, and is said to be unreal. The patient is said to be deceived by an unreality. In either case we must know how to prove to the patient the unreality of his fear, just as Jesus did when he said, "Peace be still," and the storm abated.

Physicians have observed that the depressing and poisonous effects of fear, anger, hatred, jealousy and so forth are relieved bythe wholesome effects of faith, hope, cheerfulness and loving kindness which promote health. How then shall they be administered to the patient? The method taught by the schools is by suggestion, human will, and human reason, which are as material as the disease. They may be employed just as well by a wicked man, by an infidel or a pagan—one who knows nothing about the truth of God. The Christian Scientist, on the other hand, employs only the spiritual Mind which transcends brain or matter. That Mind is never transmitted through suggestion; because it is everywhere present, and the government prevails wherever it is most needed by the patient. We simply have to understand the ever-presence and activity of that truth for the patient, and the truth makes free. The scriptures say that "Fear hath torment," but "perfect love casteth out fear." There is no remedy known to the human consciousness for fear of any sort, save alone divine love. It is that understanding of the divine Mind, whose nature is Love, that gives to the Christian Scientist the spiritual power to wipe out the fear of consumption and to remove its physical effect. It is on that basis that Christian Science heals all manner of disease.

Human Will.

A well known naturalist once described an interesting experience that illustrates the operation of human will. He described two men in the Western plains, intent on observing on the distant horizon two rapidly moving objects. In their rapid movements these objects drew nearer and nearer, until it could be observed that they were two elk—the larger one in hot pursuit of the smaller. The smaller one was fleeing for his life and relying on his strength of animal will for safety. But even the animal had the instinct to know that his animal will was getting wearied and exhausted, indeed that it had and end and with its end woul home his own destruction. Whereupon even that animal began to look beyond, outside himself, for some higher, greater power on which to rely. Recognizing as by instinct a greater power in humanity, he rushed to the feet of those two men and stopped in their protection. The larger one, observing the situation, checked his pace, circled about twice, and then loped away.

Tus it is with suffering humanity. Relying on the strength of human will for healing, it finally discovers that the human will gets wearied, run down and exhausted that it has an end, and with its end, hope is swallowed up in despair. It that extreme situation, when the physican makes that solmen pronouncement, "There is no more hope, because there is no more strength of will to sustain life or existence." The poor, suffering humanity begins to look beyond, ouside itself for some higher, greater power on which to rely. Then "Man's extremity is God's opportunity." Turning to the one source of intelligence for guidance, humanity feels the touch of Truth, or reality, and is made well again. He find himself sustained by the gentle presence and peace of divine Love. In that sweet sense of heaven here and now, he feels a strength and power that is never wearied, never exhausted but is eternal heaven—the heaven that the Jesus said is within you, right within one's own consciousness.

50TH ANNIVERSARY TO BE CELEBRATED

In Connection With 40th Annual Meeting of American Humane Association.

The fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the anti-cruelty work in America will be celebrated in connection with the fourth annual meeting of the American Humane Association, which meets this year in Cincinnati, October 16 to 19. An unusually large number of humanitarians from all sections of the country are preparing to attend the four days' sessions.

The first two days of the convention will be devoted to work for children and the last two days to the work of animal protection. Many special features will mark this big humane gathering. One afternoon has been set aside for the American Red Star Animal Relief work, a department of the American Humane Association, which will do for 'injured army animals what the Red Cross does for the sick and injured soldier. Two representatives of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals have been sent from London, to be present at this meeting and tell what the society is doing in the way of animal relief work for the British army. Dr. Charles W. Delano, of Boston, the special representative of the American Red Star Animal Relief, will also be present and report on the conditions along the Mexican border.

There will be a "School of Methods" for animal workers, and also a "School of Methods" for the workers of children's societies which will attempt to solve some of the problems that come to humanitarians. The open forum meetings which are scheduled for two evenings of the week will be of special value to those engaged in any form of anti-cruelty work.

A big mass meeting of the school children of Cincinnati has been arranged for Tuesday, October 17, at which several specially prepared picture films and stereopticon slides are to be shown.

HOUSEKEEPING CENTER WILL RE-OPEN TODAY

The housekeeping center adjoining the Young Women's Christian Association will commence its winter schedule this afternoon at 2:30. Miss Beatrice Gardner, who has been the instructress in charge for the last three years, will inaugurate the fourth year of the housekeeping center. A new feature will be conducted this winter for the business girls of the city, known as the Supper Club, which will meet every Tuesday evening at 6:45.

The complete schedule of classes for girls under fourteen years of age is as follows: Monday, 2:30 p. m., 4:30 p. m.; Tuesday, 3:30 p. m., 6:45 p. m.; Wednesday, 3:30 p. m.; Thursday, 3:30 p. m.; Friday, 2 p. m., 3:30 p. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Do You Want a "Guest-Tenant?"

When you rent a room of your home to someone, you secure a "guest-tenant." Your "roomer" is a guest of your house, on a business basis—but still a guest, somewhat in touch with your home, and this makes it highly important that the person should be of the right sort.

In advertising a furnished room it is a simple matter to indicate that the tenant-to-be must have reasonably convincing credentials as to character. You will thus have applications from a desirable class of people while a door sign or window card would merely bring to you the chance passer-by.

TOTAL ABSTAINERS CLOSE SEASON WITH TEN INNING VICTORY OVER JOE ALBERTS

Cliff Randolph and Jaynes Hurl Well for Tabs—Theary on the Mound for Scotch Plains—Several Accidents During Day—Ten Inning Affair Witnessed by Record Crowd.

Despite the cold weather, a large crowd of rabid, rooting baseball fans turned out to see the Total Abstainers trim the Scotch Plains diamond artists on Avon Oval yesterday afternoon, the score of the game being 6 to 5. Ten innings were consumed before a decision was reached.

Cliff Randolph started the game for the Tabs and was effective throughout his stay on the mound. However, injuries compelled him to retire before the completion of the contest. The pitching burden was then taken up by Jaynes, said to be a Giant "rookie" secured by George Trust. Jaynes quickly demonstrated his ability and fanned six men in four innings. In the eighth frame he caused all three batters to retire via the ozone route. Theary, a South Elizabeth pitcher, was the Alberts choice for hurling honors. And, Theary was very capable, fanning seven Tabs and allowing only seven hits.

Joe Alberts' band began to start things in the very first frame. Tony Denitzio and Harold Arthurs grounded out, but Johnny Gray singled. Henny Alberts hit to Benny Rosenson, who fumbled the ball. Charley "Kid" Beck, noted as a hitter, then cracked a double, Gray scoring. Henny Alberts was out at the plate. The second frame found the visitors just as ambitious to score. Joe Alberts was hit by one of Cliff's fast ones and migrated to first base. Frankie Lee also received a life on Jaynes' error. George Miller found the going too fast and fanned, with Theary following the same process. Tony Denitzio then stepped up to the plate and responded to the plaudits "of the millions" by doubling, two runs resulting. Cliff Randolph then settled down, fanning two in the third inning and retiring the whole side, via the strikeout route, in the fourth frame. Owing to an injury, Cliff retired in the fifth session.

The Tabs "big" inning was the fourth, when four runs were rushed over the pan in the following manner: Cliff Randolph walked and George Trust, the "Carolina Peach," tripled, scoring the pitcher. "Hoppy" Walls received the first of three free tickets and stole second base. Rosenson was an easy out, flying to Gray. The fireworks began to blaze up at this time, however. Tommy Mullin grounded to Theary, who threw to first, retiring Thomas but giving Walls a chance to get to third. "Mickey" McCarty's single scored "Hoppy," while Trust dashed in ahead of him. Jack Denny's bingle made it possible for "Mickey" to dent the pan.

With none down in the tenth frame, Benny Rosenson singled and scored the fateful tally on Tommy Mullin's sacrifice clout. The final verdict was six to five in favor of the "Teetotalers."

Accidents marred the day's enjoyment. Henry Alberts and Tommy Mullin each split a finger. Cliff Randolph injured his wrist and a youthful fan was hit on the head with a batted ball. A "rooter" named Connolly was hit on the nose by a foul tip. It is feared that his nose is broken. The score:

JACK MARTIN WILL MANAGE NO MORE

Milwaukee Team Finishes Last in American Association Race.

Jack Martin has reason to be thankful. His days as manager of the Milwaukee, American Association, baseball team are over, and he has the "pleasure" of knowing that his team landed in the second division. The cellar position was the berth secured by the Brewers.

Louisville captured the flag, with Indianapolis in second position. Minneapolis secured third place, with St. Paul in fourth position. Milwaukee, a poor last, almost tied the Athletic record for games lost. The Brewers won fifty-four games and lost one hundred and ten contests. Included in these losses, were two games dropped to Kansas City yesterday. Surely, Al Bridwell has a bright future before him.

MONROE GOOD STARS IN COLGATE VICTORY

Former Red and Blue Athlete Scores Two Goals in Football Match.

Monroe Good, formerly a Plainfield High School athlete of note, played left guard for the Colgate College football team on Saturday, when the New Yorkers swamped the Susquehanna gridiron warriors by the score of 3 to 0.

In addition to putting up a clever game, Good scored two goals. The Susquehanna eleven put up a poor exhibition, and, as a whole, the game was slow and uninteresting. Colgate showed up well after the second period. In the fourth period an entirely new team was used.

NATIONAL LEAGUE RACE STILL PERPLEXING ONE

The great three game series between the Dodgers and Phillies at Ebbets Field, which was to decide the National League pennant, did nothing but leave the situation more tangled up than it was before the series started. Philadelphia, by winning two out of three, chopped a whole game off the Dodger lead, and that was something worth while.

All Brooklyn needs to do now to win the pennant is to beat the Giants, and it is hardly cheerful dope to the Superbas to know that they can beat the Giants four straight and still lose the pennant.

Philadelphia has six games with the Braves next week and the Dodgers have four with the Giants. No one will deny that the Superbas have the toughest program of the two, as the Giants, having lost only one game in their last twenty-eight games, are a rather tough meal for a team which has designs on the pennant.

DAVE BANCROFT WILL BE OUT OF PHILLY LINEUP

The Philadelphia National League team will open its six game series with Boston today, minus the services of David Bancroft, star shortstop, who was injured in Saturday's game with Brooklyn. The specialist who examined his leg yesterday said he would be able to play on Tuesday or Wednesday. An examination revealed that Bancroft's hip had been dislocated, but it was quickly snapped back in place.

Stock, the regular third baseman, will take Bancroft's place at short, and Byrne, a substitute infielder, will play third in the double header today. Two games are also scheduled for Tuesday.

Although Brooklyn and Boston have announced their arrangements for the sale of seats should they have the honor of staging the world's series, no announcement will be made in Philadelphia until the title is clinched.

MANAGER OF MERIT FIVE WANTS TO PLAY HERE

Joseph S. Sweeney, the manager of the Merit Five basketball team, has written a letter to the Sporting Editor, stating that his team is a fast one and that he is willing to give local managers a chance to prove that the contrary is the case.

The Merit Five is a Brooklyn team and is a travelling outfit. Local managers desiring games should address Joseph F. Sweeney, 123 Pioneer street, Brooklyn or telephone Hamilton 74, any evening between 7 and 7:30 o'clock. Mr. Sweeney says that his team is composed of college players.

FIRST ROUND PLAY AT COUNTRY CLUB

Competition for Club Championship Begins on Local Courts.

The first round in the competition for the championship of the Plainfield Country Club was contested Saturday, with the following scores:

D. H. Barrow defeated A. E. Erickson, 6 up and four to play; W. T. Kaufman defeated S. B. Lounsbery, 3 and 2; Will H. Glenney defeated H. H. Craig, 5 and 4; J. Whtney Baker defeated M. J. Dumont, 3 and 2; F. O. Rinehart defeated W. T. Glenney, 4 and 2; A. J. Watson defeated H. H. Patterson, 1 and 6; H. H. Brown defeated H. R. Stockton, 1 up; C. E. Lipscomb defeated J. R. Shoemaker, 6 and 5; H. G. Phillips led the second sixteen in this competition, while D. S. Ivins was at the top of the third sixteen. In the cup competition the following scores resulted: C. E. Lipscomb, 89—14—75, and H. H. Craig, 90—12—78.

Those who won in the second sixteen were: H. G. Phillips, A. H. Hitchborn, P. B. Wells, W. M. Alling, G. S. Schoonmaker, G. M. Holstein, A. L. Wills and L. B. Alling; third sixteen: D. S. Ivins, S. W. Waller, C. W. King, D. H. Lawrence, J. C. Martin, L. A. Chase and A. W. Kleinecke.

LOCAL FANCIER GIVES PRIZE FOR BEAGLES

Mayor William L. Smalley, of North Plainfield, Donates $50 Cup.

Plans for the third annual field trials of beagle hounds of the New Jersey Beagle Club are nearly completed. The meet will be held on the club's coursing grounds at Roseland. The trial will begin on Monday, October 3, and will continue until all scheduled events are run. Beagle hounds owned by William L. Smalley, Mayor of North Plainfield, will be entered in the event.

A $50 cup for the winner of the New Jersey States championship has been given by Mayor Smalley, and will be carried off by the winner of the thirteen-inch derby. George Hooley, now of Bloomfield, but formerly of North Plainfield, has donated a five dollar gold piece for the puppy class. The measuring of hounds for their respective classes will take place October 29, and entries will close at the beginning of the first race.

BOSTON RED SOX WIN A. L. PENNANT AT LAST

Probably the most exciting pennant chase waged in the American League since 1908 ended yesterday when Cleveland blanked the White Sox, 2 to 0, in the first game of a double header. The defeat of Comiskey's high salaried star aggregation makes it impossible for the Red Sox to lose the 1916 laurels. Further, it turns over to Boston its second American League pennant in two years and its third in five years.

When Joseph J. Lannin, owner of the Red Sox, disposed of the services of Tris Speaker last spring many opined that a death blow had been dealt Boston pennant chances. Bill Carrigan, manager, was dubious, but he insisted that he had a team of workers, all of whom would do their best to make up for the loss of such an outstanding asset as Speaker.

"THE BARON" CAPTURES FIRST PLACE AT NEWARK

Reuben Hal, driven by Ad Blair, was the real contender all the way after the quarter pole was reached in the Weequahic races, Saturday. He caused the Hay entry to extend himself in doing 2:13½, which was an unusual fast mile because of the stiff wind.

"The Baron," owned by Dr. H. E. Winter, captured first honors in the 2:18 trot.

A Tribute to Woman.

When everything around a man staggers and wavers, when all seems dark and dim in the far distance of the unknown future, when the world seems but a picture or a fairy tale and the universe a chimera, when the whole structure of ideas vanishes in smoke and all certainties become enigmatical, what is the only permanent thing which may still be his? The faithful heart of a woman. There he may rest his head; there he will renew his strength for the battle of life, increase his faith in Providence and, if need be, find strength to die in peace with a benediction on his lips.—Henri Frederic Amiel.

JOHN COTTRELL BREAKS ARM IN FOOTBALL

Local Lad Injured in Contest Between Alfred and Rochester Universities.

John Cottrell, of 315 West Sixth street, this city, and formerly an athlete at Plainfield High School and now a sophomore at Alfred university, broke his left arm, between the elbow and the wrist, in a football match between Alfred and Rochester Universities. Alfred won the contest, 37 to 0, the local lad's ability being instrumental in the verdict.

The injury to the local lad came in the second half and occurred shortly after he made a brilliant forward pass. Fortunately, the break is clean and will not seriously interfere with the local young man's scholastic work.

PLENTY OF PRAISE FOR LOCAL AFFAIR

New York Sun Compliments Plainfielders for Successful Dog Show.

"Too much success is a rare thing, and yet that was the chief problem that confronted the officials of the recent show of the Plainfield Kennel Club," says the New York Sun. Continuing the newspaper says: "For three years the organization had omitted its show, and when it decided to re-enter the field no one realized just how popular the revived show would be. When the show was held there were so many dogs on hand that it was manifestly impossible to judge them all before dark, and although the judges worked their hardest, it was long after 6 o'clock when they finished their task.

"It was a big class of foxhounds that delayed the proceedings longest, for Vinton P. Breese, who judged 'em, took plenty of time to do it and did it well. When he was through he found that his colleagues, Dr. De Mund and Dr. Jarrett, had been through for some time and were waiting for him to take up the unclassified specials.

"Apart from the delay, which every one realized was unavoidable because of the unusually large entry—there were almost enough dogs to make the show a three pointer—everything was excellently managed and smoothly run. Every want of both exhibitors and spectators was taken care of, and special cars were provided to take them back to the railroad station.

"No prettier setting for a dog show could have been obtained than the Plainfield horse show grounds, which are in a wood and are protected by the shade from the full heat of the sun. The sylvan surroundings added much to the attractiveness of the show.

Edmund L. Mackenzie, president of the Plainfield Kennel Club, was on hand all during the show, and was assisted by Wilbur H. Purcell, the superintendent. Most of the members of the bench show committee, consisting of William B. Nash, C. F. Neilson, John J. O'Donohue, Thomas K. Bray, Francis G. Lloyd, Morris Kinney, John G. Bates, John A. Conway and Richard J. Harrigan, were present to do their share in making the show a success."

Princeton.

Playing their first game of the season on foreign territory for the first time in recent years, the Princeton football squad made a most suitable showing against Holy Cross at Worcester Saturday, winning with comparative ease by the score of 21 to 0. All the scores were registered in the first two periods, when the men who are now considered regulars were in the line-up.

Eddie Driggs especially showed up well in the contest. His line plunging and punting was a powerful factor. Moore and Brown, his backfield mates, exhibited bursts of speed which time after time caught the local collegians off guard and brought about appreciable gains for the Tigers. The early training done at Princeton this season was proved a big benefit, as the players went through the game without showing any ill effects and played at high speed throughout.

Harvard.

Harvard's football showing against Bates Saturday afternoon was very satisfactory to the Crimson coaches. The linemen made great improvement and the backs, several sets of them, worked much better in combination than in the previous game. Much work has been done on intereference, and the Bates tacklers had a lot of trouble to reach the Harvard man carrying the ball. The Harvard men never had their goal line threatened, and by scoring four touchdowns and two goals, won the game 26 to 0.

Yale.

Yale had little difficulty defeating Carnegie Institute Saturday afternoon in the opening game of the season, the score being 25 to 0. Carnegie came to New Haven with a good reputation and a good team, but the speed and weight of the Elis proved too much for them. Something fancy on the attack was expected from Carnegie, but there was little out of the ordinary, the Pittsburgh men trying only one forward pass. It worked for a gain of thirteen yards. Yale tried the forward pass once, but it failed.

NATIONAL HORSE SHOW AT MADISON SQUARE

Plans Completed and List of Judges for Event Made Ready.

The list of judges for the coming Horse Show in Madison Square Garden has been completed by the acceptance of invitations on the part of H. V. Colt, Henry I. Bell and Richard Wallach to officiate in the hunter classes. The bulk of the entries in this division of the Garden show always come from the Genessee Valley, Long Island and Virginia, and the judges have been chosen as to represent all these sections. Mr. Colt comes from Genessee, N. Y., and rides to hounds with the Genessee Valley Hunt Club. Mr. Bell is a resident of Bayside, L. I., and is widely known on Long Island as a cross-country rider, both to hounds and in steeplechase races at Piping Rock, Belmont Park Terminal and Cedarhurst. Mr. Wallach lives at Warrenton, in the heart of the Virginia hunting country, where he is known as an expert in the selection of both horses and hounds.

Several new special prizes for hunters have been offered for the coming Horse Show, which this year will begin on November 11. The latest of these is a handsome piece of plate given by J. Campbell Thompson, of Mamoroneck, for imported Irish hunters exclusively. This is an innovation, but it is believed there are enough Irish horses in this country to fill the class. Another notable new cup is offered by I. J. R. Murling, treasurer of the United Hunts Racing Association, for thoroughbred hunters ridden by ladies over fences four feet high in the Garden. Then there is the Smithtown (L. I.) Hunt Club's Cup for hunters ridden by members of a recognized hunt club, and the Commodore Cup, given by John McE. Bowman, for hunters shown over triple bars. Both are new trophies and the one offered by Mr. Bowman is for a competition entirely new at the National Horse Show. All told there will be thirty classes for hunters and jumpers, with prizes amounting to something like $7,000.

CHICAGO CITY SERIES.

Elimination of the Chicago Americans as pennant contenders gave President Weghman a chance to challenge them on behalf of the Chicago Nationals to a series for the city championship.

Comiskey accepted the challenge and it was announced that the games would begin next Wednesday. Final arrangements will be made tonight. The series will be under the direction of the National Commission.

HOLY CROSS PRACTICE.

The Holy Cross football team held its first practice on Cricket Field Saturday. A large number of candidates reported for the initial workout, although several other players who signified their intention of reporting were prevented from doing so on account of baseball attractions in which they participated. Another practice will be held in the field adjoining Marshall's laundry this evening.

Snowdrop Superstitions.

Those who have tried it declare that the petals of snowdrops dried and crushed to powder make a fragrant and exhilarating snuff. However, some of our country folk who fill their pipes with all kinds of weeds as substitutes for tobacco might not care to hand round a box filled with snowdrop snuff.

In many rural parts of England the snowdrop is a flower of ill repute. It is unlucky to carry the first spray of the season into the house, and it is a barbarous act to offer snowdrops to any one of the opposite sex. Such a gift is supposed to imply a wish for the death of the recipient.—London Chronicle.

A Straightforward Answer.

CORPORATION NOTICE

PROPOSALS FOR SEWERS.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, at an adjourned regular meeting held Monday, September 18th, 1916, notice is hereby given that the Common Council will meet on Monday, October 9th, 1916, at 8 o'clock, P. M., at the Council Chamber, No. 149 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at which time and place said Common Council will receive sealed proposals for doing the work and furnishing the materials for the construction of such portion of the separate sewers or drains contemplated in the ordinance entitled "An Ordinance to provide separate Sewers or Drains, to carry off the surface water in Grove street and in portions of East Fifth street, West Fifth street, West Sixth street, East Seventh street, West Seventh street, West Eighth street, Watchung avenue, Park avenue, New street, Plainfield avenue, Grant avenue and West Front street," approved September 6, 1916, as provided for in the plans and specifications adopted by the Common Council September 18th, 1916, and filed in the office of the City Clerk, No. 151 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals, the Common Council will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided said parties or agents choose to be then and there present, and also make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Council.

The Engineer's approximate estimate of the quantities of material required, and the work to be done, is as follows: 720 feet, 3 feet 6 inches by 4 feet 6 inches rectangular reinforced concrete sewer 7 to 11 feet deep; 560 feet, 45-inch concrete or segment block sewer 11 feet deep; 400 feet, 42-inch concrete or segment block sewer 11 feet deep; 450 feet, 39-inch concrete or segment block sewer 9 feet deep; 980 feet, 36-inch concrete or segment block or vitrified pipe sewer 9 to 17 feet deep; 700 feet, 33-inch concrete, segment block or vitrified pipe sewer 7 to 9 feet deep; 230 feet, 27-inch concrete or vitrified pipe sewer 11 feet deep; 2,910 feet, 24-inch vitrified pipe sewer 5 to 7 feet deep; 780 feet, 22-inch vitrified pipe sewer 5 feet deep; 1,760 feet, 20-inch vitrified pipe sewer 5 to 9 feet deep; 1,190 feet, 18-inch vitrified pipe sewer 5 to 9 feet deep; 360 feet, 15-inch vitrified pipe sewer 5 feet deep; 1 special manhole on rectangular sewer; 1 manholes on rectangular sewer 7 to 11 feet deep; 37 standard manholes 5 to 17 feet deep; 129 storm water inlets; 240 feet, 15-inch vitrified inlet pipe; 3,660 feet, 12-inch vitrified inlet pipe; 4,770 sq. yds. reconstructing pavement; 2 brook connections, 100 cu. yds. concrete for foundations; 100 cu. yds. foundations of gravel, slag or stone; 100 cu. yds. rock excavation; 10,000 feet B. M. lumber left in place; 4,000 feet B. M. lumber for platforms and foundations.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for $2,000. The amount of bond required will be $25,000.

The work to be completed June 1, 1917. The Common Council reserves the right to reject any or all bids, to waive defects in bids, or to accept any bid as they shall deem for the best interest of the City.

Duplicate plans may be examined, and forms of proposal, specifications, contract and bond, may be obtained at the office of Andrew J. Gavett, Street Commissioner, 151 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

Proposals should be endorsed "Proposals for Sewers."

CONTEST OVER SHEAFE ESTATE

Ignored Grandnieces Will Endeavor to Upset Will and Codicil.

BEQUEST IS REVOKED

$5,000 Left to Dr. Edward S. Krans, of This City, Is Cut Out of Codicil —Trial Is Set for Early Date in November.

New York, Oct. 3.—That the contest brought in the Surrogate's Court by Flora March Turner, of Pana, Ill., and Louise March Allen, of Oconee, Ill., two ignored grandnieces to upset the will and codicil left by Mrs. Lucy D. Sheafe, a deceased aunt of Dr. Edward S. Krans, of Plainfield—which gave the latter $5,000 in her will but which were revoked in her codicil, and which fill come up for trial some time during the month of November, is not brought in good faith but merely to have the beneficiaries make some settlement out of court with them, is the opinion expressed by the doctor's brotner, Horatio S. Krans, of Mountain Lakes, N. J., executor, petitioner and $10,000 beneficiary, according to a statement given out by the latter today.

According to Mr. Krans, his aunt revoked the $5,000 legacy to his brother because the latter failed to name one of his children after her deceased husband and which causes the doctor "to laugh over the way she 'fixed him' everytime he thinks of it." Mr. Krans added that his brother does not intend to contest the instruments.

In speaking about the two contestants Mr. Krans asserted that the reason why his aunt failed to remember them was due to the fact that in a period of about fifty years they never saw or corresponded with her and are in such a financial condition, due to the creation of trust funds by other of her relatives, that she saw no reason why she should give them any money from her estate.

Mr. Krans further asserted that he thought that it was nothing more than reasonable for his aunt to remember her relatives and friends who looked after her and came in contact with her, said that as far as he knew the contestants had not a single witness to back them up in their accusations or "a leg to stand upon in their court proceeding," and expressed an opinion as to doubt whether they would even appear at the trial.

Mr. Krans declared that the charges made against Marion Chitty, accused by the contestants of fraud and undue influence, were unfounded and not worth to be taken seriously by any one.

Mr. Krans declined to reveal the whereabouts of Miss Chitty, whom he said was about 50 years old, was a music teacher, and had known and had taken charge of his aunt for about twenty-five or more years.

Mrs. Sheafe, who was about 80 years old, lived with Miss Chitty for a number of years at an annual rental of $1,800 at No. 1748 Broadway, and died at her late residence on May 25 last. Her estate, according to the papers on file in the Surrogate's Court, consist of about $40,000 in personal property.

Under the direction of Mr. Krans his aunt's household and other effects had been placed in a local storage house.

and art have absolutely nothing to do with one another; but those who know the charming, frank, spontaneous and delightful personality of Rudolph Ganz will find it hard not to believe that the same frankness, spontaneity and charm so characteristic of his art, are derived from his personality rather than the contrary being the case.

He has the power to produce emotion in others and at the same time to govern it himself. He is an artist of wonderful versatility, who never forgets his art. He is a classicist and a modernist as well. His programs range from Bach to the ultra modernists. The recital at the Hartridge will commence promptly at 8:30 p. m.

COMMUNITY CENTRE PLANS FOR AN ACTIVE SEASON

The West End Community Centre held an enthusiastic business meeting last evening in the Washington School. In the absence of the chairman William J. Boyd occupied the chair. Chairmen of the various committees reported progress. Miss Snyder's dancing class will be reopened Thursday evening, October 16. A gymnasium class for girls is to be formed.

In order to increase the membership and variety of activities of the Community Centre it was decided to engage a special worker to assist in organizing the neighborhood.

Plans were completed for a "500" party that will be held Monday evening, October 16, in the Washington School, for which special invitations are to be issued.

CRONE NAMED TO SUCCEED ARNOLD

Bank Official Will Serve Temporarily as City Treasurer.

THE COUNCIL CONCURS

Resolutions Expressing Appreciation of Mr. Arnold's Services and Regret at His Loss to the Community Are Spread Upon the Minutes.

Arthur E. Crone, assistant cashier of the City National Bank, was last night appointed by Mayor Calkins to serve as city treasurer until a successor to the late William F. Arnold can be elected by the voters at the election of November 7. The appointment of Mr. Crone was ratified by the Common Council.

Upon motion of Chairman Babcock of the finance committee the following resolution was spread upon the minutes of the Board:

"Whereas, The Common Council of the City of Plainfield desires to place upon the records of proceedings a minute certifying to the great loss sustained throught the death of William F. Arnold, for many years city treasurer, and holding also positions of trust and responsibility in the community; now therefore be it

"Resolved, That the Common Council hereby records its high appreciation of the services which Mr. Arnold had rendered to the city, and testifies to the esteem and affection in which he was held by all with whom he was associated in the conduct of public affairs. In his death the community has lost a faithful official. He was courteous and generous of heart, with love for his work, striving at all times to make it count its utmost for the welfare of Plainfield. In his private and business life he looked always to the main chance to help those who came to him for aid and wise counsel; a loyal and steadfast friend, a kind and honest man; and be it further

"Resolved, That as evidence of our sincere sorrow and sympathy a copy of these resolution be spread upon the minutes and an engrossed copy be forwarded to the bereaved family."

SEN. MARTINE SPENT $550 IN CAMPAIGN

Judge Wescott, His Opponent, Expended $1,841 Trying to Get Nomination.

United States Senator James E. Martine spent $550 in his successful quest for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator, according to his statement filed yesterday with Secretary of State Martin, while his opponent, Attorney General John W. Wescott spent the largest amount of any of the Democratic candidates—$1,841. Senator Martine's total was made up of these items: Postage, $135; printing, $100; sundries, $100; advertising, $65; clerk hire, $75; travel and hotel expenses, $75.

Reports of other candidates filed with the Secretary show expenses as follows: Congressman John H. Capstick, Republican, who was nominated in the Fifth district, spent $66[illegible]26 while Congressman Fowler, Capstick's unsuccessful rival, expended $226.04.

H. Otto Wittpenn spent $7,175.75 in his campaign for the Democratic nomination for Governor. His campaign funds amount to $7,200, of which he contributed $2,500, the balance being given by Hudson county, Democratic office holders or politicians. It cost $20,000—or to be exact $19,965 to run the campaign that George L. Record made for the Republican nomination for Governor on a home rule, local option platform.

WOMAN'S LEAGUE ENTERTAINS WITH PROGRAM AT ST. JOSEPH

A pleasing entertainment was given at St. Joseph's Hall last night under the auspices of the Woman's League, in which many took part. The program follows: Solo, Elizabeth Harper; chorus, "America," children; solo, Dorothy Sutton; dance, Frances Barry and Evelyn Conroy; solo, Edward Moraller; violin solo, James Daly, accompanied by Lillian Pettingill; solo, May Maagg; entertainment, Summer Girls Minstrels; song, "My Country 'Tis of Thee," six girls.

During the evening Mrs. James E. Bailey, president of the League, was presented with a handsome set of rosary beads, Mrs. J. A. Carney making the presentation. At the business session of the League it was decided to hold a spelling match at the next meeting, and plans for the fourth annual masquerade were discussed. This will be held late in October.

DEATH COMES TO MULFORD COLE

Father of George W. Cole Passes Away in Ninety-second Year.

NATIVE OF BOROUGH

For Many Years He Was a Successful Farmer in East End of the City—Leaves Two Sisters and Two Sons.

After an illness extending over a period of nearly two years, Mulford Cole passed away in his ninety-second year at his home on East Front street at 3:30 this morning from complications due to the infirmities of old age. He had been a resident of this city all his life and was one of Plainfield's well known citizens.

He was born in 1824 on Mountainside avenue; the son of Elias and Mary Cole. His grandfather was Captain Cornelius Mulford, who served through the Revolution with distinction. Mr. Cole devoted his life until he retired about twenty-five years ago to farming on a large scale. At one time he was proprietor and farmed the whole eastern end of the city from Leland avenue to Terrill road and from Green Brook to North avenue, a tract covering over one hundred acres. Different sections were gradually purchased for building purposes and today is covered by hundreds of dwellings, schools and churches.

He received his education in the one-room school house at Scotch Plains, and was a seat mate of Judge Cleaver, until his death two years ago Judge of the Essex County Circuit Court. Although he went to a country school he was well versed in local and national affairs and was greatly interested in civic affairs. For over fifty years he was a communicant in the First Baptist church and was a regular attendant until health forbid him.

When a young man he was married to Miss Emiline Shotwell, a Plainfield girl, who died in 1886. Four children, two sons and two daughters, survive him. Miss Phoebe Cole and Daniel S. Cole, living at home, Mrs. Mary Brower residing on East Fifth street, this city, and George W. Cole, living on East Front street. Seven grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren also survive him.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 2:30 from his late home at 1145 East Front street, the Rev. J. Madison Hare, pastor of the Baptist church, officiating. Interment will be made in the family plot at Hillside.

SERVING LAST MONTH AS LOCAL FIRE CHIEF

Chief T. O. Doane, of the Plainfield Fire Department, is serving his last month as the head of the local department. Some time ago he addressed a communication to the Council, in which he asked that he be retired November 1, on certain conditions and as they have been met he last night made a final request for retirement. Within a short time his successor will be named. Chief Doane is to retire on a pension of $100 a month, and will receive $1,100 a year as building inspector.

HENRY CLARK.

Henry Clark, aged seventy-five years, died yesterday. His home for many years was in Scotch Plains. The only survivors are a brother living in this city and a sister residing in Panama. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 from the undertaking parlors of George W. Cole and son, West Second street. The service will be in charge of the Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church. The interment will be made in the Methodist cemetery.

SUIT TO BREAK STEVENS' WILL

Deceased Was Cousin of Otis Corbett, of North Plainfield.

FRAUD IS CHARGED

Court Grants a Trial by Jury—Testatrix Directed Executor to Get Needed Legal Advice at Expense of Estate.

New York, Oct. 3.—Preparations of the fight begun several months ago in the Surrogate's Court, by Emma Day Goodell, of Worcester, Mass., through her special guardian, Wilbur Larremore, of New York, and Jeannette Day Knight, of Winthrop Center, Mass., and New York, through her attorneys, Rounds, Hatch, Dillingham & Debevoise, of New York, two ignored cousins, to break the will of Miss Ellen Corbett Stevens, a deceased cousin of Otis Corbett, of North Plainfield, and a deceased second cousin of William Phelps Corbett, and Amelia Phelps Conklin, of the same address, and Julia Phelps Warr, of Sixth and New streets, upon the grounds of fraud, undue influence and unsound mind and memory, all of the issues which are asked to be reviewed by a jury under the Surrogates' new jury law, which request by Surrogate John P. Cohalan has been granted, are today being made and the case is expected to be placed upon the trial calendar within the next few weeks.

So as to enable the contestants to properly prepare for trial Surrogate Cohalan has signed two orders. One frames the questions to be asked and passed upon by the jury; the other directs William J. Watson, the proponent and executor of the will, who reside in Chicago, who appears by Taylor, Knowles & Hack, of New York, to appear before John Reilly, referee, of New York,. on Monday, October 9, or at any other time as may be necessary, and submit to an examination by the attorneys representing Jeannette Day Knight, so as to enable the law firm to get all the information that they desire to enable them to try the case in court.

TROOP LEAVES FOR HOME ON SATURDAY

Orders Received But Delay in Getting Transportation Facilities.

By JAMES J. McNAMEE.

Douglas, Ariz., Oct. 3.—Troop D, with the other New Jersey cavalry organizations, has received official orders to leave for home. They came in yesterday and call for the return of the troops to their home stations. As interpreted by commanding officers the Plainfielders are to proceed at once to Plainfield, where they will be mustered out.

Transportation for the cavalrymen has been delayed and they will not get away until Saturday of this week. This is the time fixed for departure now, and it may be postponed a few days, so that men cannot be expected until the latter part of next week, but their home-coming is official now and they will be there soon.

Maj. Corbusier's field hospital corps is included in the orders and will leave for home as soon as transportation facilities arrive. Troop D is ahead of it and will receive the first cars.

Trooper Conway left Monday night for Plainfield. He was discharged under the disability clause, having recently undergone a serious operation for stomach trouble.

Orders for the homecoming and the pay for August arrived at the same time, so the men were happier Monday than any day since they reached the Arizona desert. Everything has been given over to preparations for the departure.

ANNOUNCE FIRST SONG RECITAL AT HIGH SCHOOL

MAKE AFFIDAVITS AS TO ROAD WORK

Meeker, Krause and Bauer Say It Was Well Done.

Affidavits from Robert A. Meeker, State highway commissioner; Joseph L. Baurer, county engineer, and Henry Krouse, a member of the Board of Freeholders, all to the effect that road work in this county has been done according to specifications so as to give full value for the money spent, were in the possession of Attorney Charles A. Reed when he went to Elizabeth this morning to attend meetings of the Probe committee investigating the expenditure of money on road work in this count.

This investigation was brought about through affidavits filed by Elias F. Applegate, a freeholder, Francis P. Smith and other taxpayers, who charge that the road work done in Union county recently had not been of the best. They specify work done on Westfield avenue, between Eliabeth and Roselle, South avenue in the borough of Fanwood and St George avenue from Eliabeth to Rahway.

Mr. Meeker, Mr. Bauer and Mr. Krouse were all connected with this work and they give their reasons why it did not prove satisfactory, insisting that it was done according to Union county road standards.

JUSTICE T. H. SNAPE DIES IN 65TH YEAR

Gained Considerable Notoriety When He Sent Boy to Jail For Killing a Rabbit.

Thomas Henry Snape, justice of the peace for three terms in North Plainfield and a resident of that borough for twenty-five years, died yesterday at the home of his brother-in-law, Joseph Slack, in Linden. He had been making his home at the latter place since last spring.

Justice Snape was born in New York city about sixty-five years ago and in early life was a bookkeeper by trade. He gained considerable notoriety about two years ago by sentencing a seventeen-year-old boy to ninety days in the county jail for shooting a rabbit. At that time he received scores of letters from various parts of the country, some upholding him for his action and others condemning him. The boy was released later, however, by the contributions of friends, who raised sufficient funds to pay his fine.

Beside his wife, he leaves one sister residing in the west. No arrangements have been made for the funeral.

IRISH-AMERICANS SUPPORTED MARTINE

Because of His Efforts to Save Sir Roger Casement From Death.

United States Senator James E. Martine received the united support of the Irish-Americans of New Jersey for his renomination, according to information which has just become public. This action, it is said, was in appreciation of what he did toward saving Sir Roger Casement from being hung, although his efforts were unavailing at the time.

Following the recent State convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, it is said the word was sent out over the State that all of its members should support Senator Martine, and this was further augmented by the action at a conference held behind closed doors in Eliabeth abaut the time of the State convention. It is the belief that Mr. Martine will also receive the same support at the November election.

DISTURBANCES NOTED OFF FLORIDA, MOVING NORTH

New York, Oct. 3.—Disturbances were recorded this morning some distance off the Florida coast. Intensity unknown. Probably moving north. Later advices this afternoon.

KILLED BY A TRAIN.

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 3.—A driver and a team of horses were instantly killed at 7:30 o'clock this morning when they were struck by a New York bound train on the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad at the Hall street crossing in North Bridgeport. The engine was derailed by the accident but none of the passengers on the train were injured.

Mrs. James Hurley, of Belvidere avenue, is sojourning at Wilkes-Barre.

Mrs. Alfred Seidel, of Jackson avenue, the borough, is spending some time at Allentown, Pa.

BULGARS RETIRE BEFORE SERBIANS

War Office Adimts Great Gains for Allies in Greek Macedonia.

FRENCH STOP ATTACKS

Germans Make Fierce Attempt to Prevent Advance on Baupame—Thrown Back With Heavy Loss—Thousands Killed.

Sofia, Oct. 3.—Gains for the Allies in Greek Macedonia were admitted by the Bulgarian War Office today. In the sector of Kaiamakaclan Heights, the Bulgarians withdrew to avoid unnecessary losses under the heavy artillery fire of the Serbians, retiring to their main positions in the Moglenica mountains. On the eastern end of the front in the Strume Valley, the Bulgarians retired from the village of Maradjakeui, Emirkeui and Mevolen, but the last two were subsequently reoccupied in counter attacks.

Germans Charge Fiercely.

Paris, Oct. 3.—Strong counter attacks have been undertaken by the Germans in an effort to prevent the French from advancing against Baupame from the south. The War Office announces that the German assault was at St. Pierre Vaast Woods, north of Rancourt, but it was thrown back with heavy losses. An artillery duel was in progress north of Rancourt all night.

PLAINFIELD NEED NOT FEAR MILK FAMINE

Although Large Dealers May Feel Strike, Local Supply Will Be Sufficient.

Although Plainfield need have no fear of a milk famine as a result of the present strike, it is highly possible that local dealers will have to depend on the supply of farmers in this vicinity unless a settlement is reached within a few days.

Several of the larger dealers of the city who receive their supply from New York State or other sections affected by the strike are not sure that they will receive another shipment and expect any day to find a supply from another quarter. None of the concerns this morning were able to say definitely what plans they would resort to in case their supply was stopped.

There are a number of dealers that have their own dairies near this city and they would not be harmed in any way by a strike, and if the supply actually did become scarce the individual farmers who have two or three cows would be able to help fill the demand.

31ST ANNIVERSARY OF ENDEAVOR SOCIETY

Trinity Church Young People Present Fine Program at Celebration.

Nearly two hundred Endeavorers from this city and Watchung attended the thirty-first anniversary of the Trinity Y. P. S. C. E. held in the Sunday school lecture rooms last evening. The meeting was opened by the Sunday school orchestra rendering a fine selection. This was followed by a short prayer by William Kriney. An address of welcome was given by Miss May Randolph, the re-elected president of the society.

The report of the treasurer, Harold C. Gayle, showed that a balance of $76.71 remained, $20.90 ahead of last year. The report of the secretary, Miss Elizabeth Brokaw, was unusually interesting and showed a [illegible] work.

The principle address of the evening was delivered by the Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, his topic being "Come, Abide, Follow, Wait and Go."

During the business session, the nominating committee of which William Kriney acted as chairman, made the following report: President, Miss May Randolph; first vice-president, Miss Myra Dunavan; second vice-president, Oscar Dilts; recording secretary, Miss Elizabeth Brokaw; corresponding secretary, Miss Marie C. Hahn; treasurer, Harold C. Gayle; two new members were voted into the society and a decision was made to send Harold C. Gayle as delegate of the local Endeavorers to the State Convention to be held in Red Bank on October 4, 5 and 6.

At the conclusion of the business session, a social hour with refreshments was enjoyed.

AVAILABLE FUNDS FOR SEWER WORK

Total on Hand of $16,528.86; Remaining Work Will Cost $9,050, Leaving Balance.

At last evening's meeting of the Mayor and Council the borough's collecting sewerage engineers, in their monthly report submitted a financial statement, giving the available funds to complete the sewers and an estimate of the work remaining to be done on October 1. This gave the available funds as $16,528.86, and the estimated cost of the remaining work as $9,050, leaving a surplus of $7,478.86.

Reporting on the progress of the sewer work the engineer said in part:

"The break in the Bound Brook line has been repaired and the sewer between the break has been partly cleaned. The Washington avenue section has been completed. The work of cleaning manholes and sewers is proceeding as is true of the additional work necessary to make water tight certain leaky manholes.

"Nearly all of the sewer has been carefully inspected by looking through from manhole to manhole, and with minor exceptions have been found in good condition. This inspection will be completed as promptly as possible.

"Leakage measurements indicate that the Dunellen sewers are in excellent shape as regards to watertightness.

"Progress indicates that no great amount of additional expense is expected by reason of further settlement due to inadequate foundations. It will be seen from the financial statement that there is an ample balance of funds remaining after making conservative estimate of the cost of the remaining work.

"In accordance with thees conditions we believe it is advisable to have the contractor proceed with the Sanford avenue section at once, in order that the entire system may be fully completed as early as possible.

"Under the head of 'proceeding with the Sanford avenue sewer,' which is extra work, the Mayor, upon instigation of Councilman Williams asked Contractor Corbin if it were true that he had been obliged to raise the wages of his laborers from $2.50 to $2.75 a day. Mr. Corbin said it was. At the close of work on Saturday he said he had 30 men, but 12 of whom reported for work yesterday morning, the others striking for a higher wage, which he had been compelled to grant.

In view of the ever increasing demand of the ditch diggers, the Mayor thought that the Sanford avenue line should only be completed as far as the manhole at Front street, leaving the work go to the north until it could be performed cheaper and the Council concurred in this.

The residents on Washington avenue (South) who are desirous of having the thoroughfare put in passable shape were again represented. Contractor Corbin was asked by the Mayor why he hadn't scraped and rolled the street as ordered. Mr. Corbin said that the thoroughfare was all sand, very fine sand and that rolling or scraping would not help it. He said that he had put a steam roller on the street but that the roller had stuck after proceeding only 20 feet. He said he had been trying to date to work out some scheme for the improvement of the street, but had not hit upon any as yet. He claimed that while the street looked worse than it did before the sewers were laid that such was not in reality the case, as the traffic instead of proceeding along the center of the thoroughfare as formerly was following tracks to either side.

J. Alfred Wilson, one of the Washington avenue delegation, said that he had not come to the meeting to find fault with the contractor, as he was looking to the borough officials for what was wanted. He was glad, he said, that Contractor Corbin, as an outsider, recognized Washington avenue (South) was the worst street in the borough. He took vigorous exception to the contractor's statement that the street was in as good condition as before the sewer work. He said that traffic didn't follow the center of the street as formerly because it was afraid of sinking down into the backfill of the trench. In giving a physical description of the street he said that it was nothing but valleys and humps. He wanted to know why when something was being done with the street under the direction of the Street Commissioner the dirt hadn't been scraped from the center where it was high instead of the sides. When he asked Street Commissioner Reusch why this had been done, he said that Mr. Reusch had replied, "States Titsworth only did it to rattle you." Mr. Wilson became very indignant at this point and wanted to know if the Council expected citizens to stand for this kind of work. He said that he knew one thing and that was that the Council was going to put the street back into passable condition. Referring to a stretch of the thoroughfare where stone had been laid, he said that the work had been done in such fashion that he money was absolutely wasted, and that the attitude of the Council towards the residents along his street had been that of inefficiency and rank discrimination.

Mayor Latham took exception to Mr. Wilson's statement that discrimination had been shown. He said that in dealing with the matter the borough had had to contend with a street of sand on the one hand and the lack of funds on the other. He asked Mr. Wilson why he hadn't agitated the matter before the budget was made up and not when the fiscal year is drawing to a close. Mr. Wilson referred to his plan mentioned formerly, viz., the issuing of bonds for the improving of the remaining unimproved streets of the borough.

"Well, get signers to a petition for this and it will be voted upon at this election," the Mayor said. His Honor, however, said that he favored the assessment plan of improving the remaining unimproved streets of the borough; that is, the citizens benefitted by any improvement to bear the major cost of the improvement, and he said that he had planned to put an ordinance through to this effect at an early date. Pending further developments, Contractor Corbin was ordered to make another attempt a scraping and rolling the street this week.

LOCAL SCHOOLS OPEN WITH ENROLLMENT OF 414

The local schools opened yesterday morning with an actual enrollment of 414 out of a possible enrollment of 480, showing a percentage of absence of 14 per cent.

Sixteen pupils were excluded from school by regulation of the Board of Health. MEXICANS CHEER MIMIC BATTLES

Great Crowds Watch Border Troops During Sham Fights.

CHILDREN ENTHUSIASTIC TOO

Roof of Schoolhouse "Grand Stand" From Which They Watch Operations of Regiments—Brownsville Enjoys Parade of Illinois Infantry—New Yorkers Astray in the Desert.

With the hypothetical concentration of red and blue armies in and around the Mexican town of Reynosa mimic war on the border is in full swing. Troops from every state in the Union have had or will be given their turn at sham battles.

In the hundred years of their history the little border towns never saw such days as these, not even when Zachary Taylor marched through in 1847 with the expedition which took Monterey. General Taylor had fewer than 5,000, while General Lester, who commanded the blues during the sham battle operations, not only had more, but also engines of war of which Taylor's men never dreamed.

Mexicans See Battle.

The Mexicans across the river, who had been warned of what was about to take place, were interested enormously, and boatload after boatload came across the Rio Grande to witness the battle. The roof of the schoolhouse at Hidalgo was black with Mexican children.

When the action became hottest with sky splitting volleys, with infantry running and cavalry galloping up and down the streets, the Mexicans were in ecstasy. They are indeed the original "fight fans." There is no sound of enjoyment more delirious than the soprano shouts of a Mexican crowd. Men and women jumped up and down with excitement, while the children on the roof of the schoolhouse in their calisthenic enthusiasm seemed to hang there by an eyelash.

Keystone Troops Going Home.

Three regiments of Pennsylvania infantry will be sent home from the border when the North Carolina guard, three regiments strong, reaches its station at El Paso.

The regiments released probably will be the First, Second and Third of the First Pennsylvania brigade.

Announcement was made at Mount Gretna, the Pennsylvania state concentration camp, that the machine gun troop attached to the First Pennsylvania cavalry, Company F of the Fourth infantry and 135 recruits, who have left the camp to fill out the ranks of units now on the border, will arrive at El Paso within a day or two.

Fresh from a ten day stay at Point Isabel, the First Illinois cavalry, stationed at Brownsville, was called upon to perform retreat parade at Fort Brown for the approval of the Brownsville public.

They Were Led Astray.

Brigadier General James Parker, commanding the Brownsville district, except for the New York division, was guest of honor at a dinner given by Major General O'Ryan of New York and staff at division headquarters at McAllen.

A whole brigade of artillery, the only brigade now in the American service, over 6,000 infantrymen, a regiment and a squadron of cavalry and all minor divisional units participated in a full divisional review held the following day.

A dress rehearsal of the big review was staged in the morning with the Seventh, Sixty-ninth and Twelfth infantry regiments leading the way past the reviewing officers on horseback.

A humorous incident on the way to the reviewing ground gave the soldiers one of the few laughs they have found in the grind of discipline in this desert country.

General O'Ryan led a column of infantry, ostensibly toward the reviewing grounds, in a cleared cactus patch. He failed to notice a road leading off to the right from the main road to Hidalgo, and led the column on for more than a mile.

Nobody had the nerve to tell the commanding general that he had blundered, and the foot soldiers, even trudged on under their heavy packs, grinning up their sleeves, but none daring to complain at the useless march.

General O'Ryan finally turned the column around and marched it back to the trail that led to the reviewing station.

In Pharr, the Third Tennessee regiment, now an integral part of General O'Ryan's command, is fighting a measles outbreak successfully.

GIANT CORN IN IOWA HIDES MOTORCAR FOR SIX WEEKS.

Northern Iowa corn is so tall that it is possible to hide an automobile in a cornfield and leave it there six weeks before discovery.

A brakeman on a passing train discovered the automobile of Roy Martin of Mason City in a cornfield near that place six weeks after it had disappeared.

It was in the middle of a large field and had been invisible until the frost withered the cornstalks.

The Moral.

"I had too much time on my hands when I was arrested, lady."

"That proves, my poor man, how laziness is at the root of all crime. But do you find nothing useful to do? How came you to have so much time on your hands?"

"I was taking watches out of a jeweler's case when the cop nabbed me."—Baltimore American.

BRINGING THE SEA TO THE SAHARA

Plans Being Considered to Flood Vast Desert.

IS BED OF MIGHTY OCEAN.

Endless Sands, Little More Than a Thousand Years Ago, Were Covered by Great Expanse of Water—Cut Off From Atlantic, Heat Dried It Up. Covers Area of 70,000 Square Miles.

If the allies win the war France and England together will own nearly the whole of Africa. They are already making plans to co-operate in the rapid development of that enormous territory, and one of the projects contemplated is the flooding of a great part of the Sahara desert.

This, from an engineering viewpoint, will not be a very difficult affair. In the western Sahara there is a vast depression or "sink" 200 feet below the level of the ocean and covering an area of about 70,000 square miles. All that is necessary is to cut a canal six miles long in order to let the sea into it.

The depression is called by the Arabs El Juf, or the Great Hollow. It is a level plain extending from the vicinity of Cape Juby (on the northwest coast, directly opposite the Canary Islands) southeast to within 100 miles of Timbuktu. Its greatest breadth, 120 miles, is toward the south. To the northwest it gradually narrows, terminating in the dry channel which represents its former connection with the Atlantic.

Once an Inland Sea.

Not much more than 1,000 years ago El Juf was an inland sea—in fact, an arm of the Atlantic ocean. But the entrance channel (thirty miles north of Cape Juby) was at about that time blocked by sand, the waters of the gulf that occupied the great hollow were dried up by evaporation, and the area was transformed into a desert. The proposition now is to make a cutting through the sand bar, run out jetties to prevent further accumulations of sand and so restore the old condition of affairs. Nothing could be more simple.

When this shall have been accomplished there will be direct navigation from Europe by steam or sail across the present desert nearly to the upper reaches of the Niger. Fleets of merchantmen will voyage over the conquered Sahara. From the port of Marseilles a water trip of 1,500 miles will bring the traveler within a short distance of Timbuktu, the "mysterious city" that was never even seen by a white man until less than a century ago.

El Juf is today a hopeless region, destitute of vegetable and animal life. With the exception of one small village on its eastern border, not a single human habitation exists throughout the basin. This village, Taudeny, is on an ancient caravan route, and salt mines are worked there to supply the Sudan markets, the stuff being quarried out in big slabs.

Vast Deposits of Salt.

All over the "sink" are vast deposits of salt, left behind by the vanished sea. Molluscan shells and other marine remains bear witness that its surface at no remote period was covered by the waves of ocean. One great salt bearing formation in the western part is thirty miles long by twelve in width, and 20,000 camel loads are extracted from it annually. So frightful a desert is El Juf that no caravan ever ventures to cross it, the route pursued skirting around its borders.

The old sea channel north of Cape Juby, known today as the Great Mouth, is an opening two and one half miles wide between two lofty heights, with cliffs rising perpendicularly 200 feet above the sea. It is blocked by the sand bar aforementioned. In stormy weather waves break furiously on the bar. A strong current setting continually toward the shore has caused the accumulation of sand which long ago separated El Juf from the Atlantic.

A few miles inland there is a range of high mountains, running north and south and parallel with the coast, but there is a wide gap in the range through which the channel passes. Thus, as viewed from the ocean outside, the entrance to the ancient "gulf" of El Juf is picturesquely obvious and striking. From the coast the channel (its bed thickly incrusted with marine salts) broadens out and can be followed for a great distance into the desert basin. It forms a valley recognizable as the northwest arm of the gulf that used to be. In some places the banks of the channel rise to a height of 500 feet, with vertical walls and overhanging cliffs.

Now, Africa possesses rivers of great magnitude, the most important of them being the Nile (which is the longest river in the world), the Niger and the Kongo. But none of the mighty streams of the dark continent can be used as a highway to the interior on account of cataracts and other obstructions to navigation. The Nile has six cataracts and the Kongo sixty-two cataracts and rapids.

The flooding of the Sahara by the means here described will provide a navigable highway for the commerce of the world. It will open up the heart of Africa, develop its enormous potential resources, which as yet have hardly been touched, and incidentally do away with what remains of the slave trade.

FINED FOR BREAKING WINDOW.

Arraigned in the borough court this morning on the complaint of Samuel Taub, a storekeeper, of Somerset street, Harry Hand and William Jones, two youths, were each fined $2.50 to pay for a window they broke last week by Mayor Smalley.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Drink Lots of Water.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.—Adv.

Look and Feel Clean, Sweet and Fresh Every Day

Drink a glass of real hot water before breakfast to wash out poisons.

Life is not merely to live, but to live well eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatism; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store, which will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.—Adv.

TROOPERS JOIN IN REUNION AT DOUGLAS

Former Plainfielders Turn up in Camp and Enjoy Reminiscent Talk.

By JAMES J. McNAMEE.

Douglas, Ariz., Sept. 27.—That the world is a small place after all and that the people in it are apt to be closer together than we often realize are conclusions that have been reached by Plainfield troopers during the past week. When the troop came West few of the men ever expected to run across a person in this out-of-the-way and forsaken city who once hung his hat in Plainfield or even had heard of the thriving little Jersey town, a peep at which would gladden the heart of many a soldier just now.

When Albert D. Beers visited camp about a week ago when here attending the engineers' convention, he was fairly swamped with questions concerning Plainfield and Plainfield people. While on the 8-day hike the Plainfielders ran across Vincent Minor, who attended the Plainfield High School in 1904 and later came West to seek his fortune. They found him preparing for a return to Plainfield, many thousands of dollars richer than when he came here. When seen by the Plainfielders he was secretary and treasurer of the Bisbee Bank, but is probably now on his way east. His fortune was accumulated like many others in this region—by purchasing copper stock. Shares of Verde Copper were bought by him several years ago for twenty-five cents each and they are now selling at $42 a share.

At Fort Huachuca the Plainfielders ran across Charles Thornton, son of the South Plainfield hotel keeper. He has been in the west several years and when the recent trouble broke out enlisted in an Arizona regiment of infantry. The Plainfielders found him camping alongside and one of the first to sight the Plaifielder was Joe Gallagher, first class private of Troop D, who was formerly a classmate of Thornton in school.

Frank W. Heath, immigration inspector at the Douglas Custom House, formerly lived on West Fourth street, Plainfield, and has hundreds of acquaintances now living there. Mr. Heath has been visited by many of the troopers and he has some interesting stories to tell of personal experience since entering the government service. He has been at this point five and one-half years, and although he admits that is is not particularly stuck on the class of people he has to deal with, which are mostly Chinese, he is in love with the weather conditions and would think a long time before sacrificing his job here for one in the east.

His most thrilling experience was during the battle of Agua Prietta last November. The Custom House was in direct line with the attack and four machine guns were trained on it for hours during the battle. Mr. Heath says it was literally filled with bullets and the only way he and his associates saved their lives was to seek refuge in a pit in the back yard. After the fight was over they came out and hastened to the city section of Douglas. Upon arriving at his home, a mile and a half from the border line, Mr. Heath found that a stray bullet had killed one of his chickens. Many other bullets broke windows in the city section and even to this day bullet marks are visible in many places. For nights following the initial attack Mr. Heath huddled his family together in one room of their brick house as a safeguard against he riotous Mexicans.

Many other persons have been found hereabouts who have an interest in New Jersey or who at one time lived there.

Wonderful Meteorites That Drop to Us Out of the Sky.

ONCE REGARDED AS SACRED.

In the Early Days They Were Objects of Reverence and Worship, as Is the Famous Stone at Mecca Today—Their Fiery Flight to Earth.

In considering the wonders of the universe have you ever realized how conspicuous among them are the meteorites, those wonderful messages dropped from the sky for us to wonder at and study? They are the only material objects which come to the earth from the vast outer world.

Among the collections shown in the National museum at Washington is a remarkably fine exhibit of meteorites. It includes complete meteorites ranging in size from the merest pebbles to great bowlder-like masses and casts reproducing giant forms like that of Bacubirito, which has been estimated to weigh twenty-five tons and still rests where it fell in Mexico.

The National museum has issued a handbook and descriptive catalogue of the meteorite collections in the museum, written by Dr. George P. Merrill, head curator of geology, from which the following is an abstract:

Although meteorites presumably have fallen since time immemorial, skepticism was felt at first by both the popular and scientific minds regarding the possibilities of stones falling from space. In the few early recorded cases where meteorites seen to fall were recovered they were regarded as objects of reverence and worship. A stone which fell in ancient Phrygia, in Asia Minor, about 200 years before Christ was worshiped as Cybele, the mother of the gods. Another, which dates back to the seventh century, is still preserved at Mecca, where it is built into the northeast corner of the Ka'aba and revered as one of the holiest of relics. The great Casas Grandes iron, weighing about 3,000 pounds, now in the national collection at Washington, was found in an ancient Mexican ruin swathed in mummy clothes in a manner to indicate that it was held in more than ordinary veneration by the prehistoric inhabitants.

The earliest known undoubted meteorites still preserved are those of Elbogen, Bohemia and Ensisheim, Upper Alsace. The first mentioned is iron, the second a stone. The iron was found somewhere about the year 1400 of our era. The Ensisheim stone, seen to fall on Nov. 16, 1492, about the time Columbus made his discoveries, was accompanied with a loud crash like thunder. Portions of this stone are to be seen in the National museum exhibit.

The fall of a meteorite is usually accompanied by noises variously described as resembling the fire of musketry, cannonading or even thunder. If the fall takes place during the periods of darkness it is also accompanied by a flash of light and followed by a luminous rocket-like trail. These phenomena are due to the rapid passage of the objects through the air and a consequent rise in temperature, sufficient to produce fusion of the outer surface and even ignition, thus giving rise to the thin, dark, glasslike crust which is found to cover all stony meteorites.

The time of passage through the atmosphere is, however, too short to permit the heat to penetrate to great depths, and nearly all meteorites are quite cool, or scarcely warm, on reaching the surface of the ground. It is to the sudden rise in temperature and pressure of the atmosphere that the breaking up of a meteorite and its reaching the ground as a shower of fragments rather than a single individual are due.

We have little to guide us in estimating the speed at which a meteorite reaches the earth and its consequent power of penetration. The velocities as given by various observers vary between two and forty-five miles a second. The greatest recorded depth of penetration of a meteoric stone is that of Knyahinya, Hungary, where a 660 pound stone penetrated to a depth of eleven feet. On the other hand, still heavier masses have been found under such conditions as to lead one to infer that they scarcely buried themselves.

All statements relative to the temperature of meteorites immediately after reaching the ground must be accepted guardedly, owing to their extremely contradictory character. Some stones which fell in Styria in 1859 are stated to have remained in a state of incandescence for over five seconds and for a quarter of an hour were too hot to be handled. On the other hand, the Dhurmsala stone is said to have been intensely cold when picked up immediately after falling.

The largest known meteoric mass is that brought by Commander Peary from Cape York, Greenland. It weighed 73,000 pounds. The next largest lies in the plain near Bacubirito, in Mexico, and has been estimated to weigh some 50,000 pounds, while the third is that of Willamette, Ore., weighing 31,107 pounds. These are all iron meteorites. The largest known individual aerolite of meteoric stone is that of Knyahinya, Hungary, weighing some 550 pounds, now in the Vienna National museum.

Dr. Merrill says that all known meteorites were produced by the action of heat and have yielded no traces of animal or vegetable life, although parts of their peculiar structures were at one time mistaken for organic remains.

The Great Annual Sale Imported GLOVES A Very Remarkable Event

An importer offered to buy every pair at retail prices stated below, for spot cash, but we prefer to throw open the purchase to the public

"I will gladly buy every pair of gloves in this sale at the retail prices, net, for spot cash, and make money selling them at wholesale," said a well-known importer who was asked his opinion of these gloves which our glove chief searched all Europe to find.

"This pair of gloves," picking up a sixteen-button length pair of white kidskin, "I am selling today at $30 wholesale a dozen. Your price is only $1.95 ($23.50 dozen.) Knowing the market as I do, it seems impossible.

"For these," picking up a pair of real kid gloves at $1 pair, "I get $16 a dozen pair.

"All the gloves you have shown me I can use in my stock, but these $1 and $1.25 qualities are practically the same as the imported grades I carry, and I haven't a pair of them, and do not know when I shall get any more."

"Glove cutters are almost impossible to get in the French manufacturing centers. All the chemists who used to dye the gloves are at the front. The kid and lamb skins assembled for the yearly sale held in Valance, France, were this season seized by the government to use as linings for soldiers' winter uniforms."

16,501 pairs of new gloves at the remarkably low prices of $1, $1.25, $1.50, $1.95, $2.25 for women's gloves; 95c for men's gloves; 75c for young girls' gloves—all freshly off the steamer

HERE'S EGG LORE

How to Test Eggs Before You Break Them.

CLEVER WAY TO BEAT ONE.

Every Household Uses Them, but How Many Housewives Know the Simplest Things About These Commonest Ingredients of All Cookery?

Are the eggs for which you pay 40 cents better than those which cost 30? Test them to see.

Much handling makes eggs shiny. Those direct from the farm are dull.

If an egg is stale some of the water of its composition has evaporated through the porous shell, air has entered, and the egg is light.

To test, put in a deep pan of water.

First.—If bad it will float.

Second.—If stale it will be light enough to slant away from the bottom of the pan or stand on end.

Third.—If fresh its weight causes it to sink.

This test will make you wish eggs could always be bought by the pound, as in some places, instead of by the dozen.

Because the eggshell is porous and readily absorbs impurities from a dirty shell or the air eggs should always be washed before being put away.

Second test: Hold egg before a candle or gas jet behind which is a dark background.

Around the yolk of an egg is a thin tissue, which holds the yolk together. When decomposition occurs the yolk breaks this membrane and becomes mixed with the white. By holding the egg before a strong light the yolk can easily be seen as a large dark spot.

If bad, the yolk has broken its membrane and this dark spot cannot be noticed.

There is also a tissue around the white of an egg which, in beating the whites stiff, must be broken into infinitesimal pieces before the egg will become light and fluffy.

A few grains of salt dropped into the white before beating will at each turn of the beater help to cut this membrane.

The whites then "beat up" much sooner than if the salt had not been added.

Table for cooking eggs without keeping time or temperature:

One egg, one-half pint of boiling water. Two or three eggs, a pint of boiling water. Three to five eggs, one and one-half pints of boiling water. Five to eight eggs, a quart.

Put the eggs into the water while it is boiling hard and immediately set the dish away from the fire. Fifteen or twenty minutes will be required to cook the eggs. After that time the water will have reached 140 degrees and will do no more cooking, but will keep the eggs warm a long time.

NEW PICTURESQUENESS.

The Fall Models Resemble Dress Waists In Their Lines.

Wood brown chiffon much tucked gives this interesting blouse. The foundation is net, and shoulder caps and cuffs of brown taffeta strike a new note. The vestee, wristlets and collar are creamy satin bound with the taffeta.

Piccalilli.

Two gallons of chopped cabbage, two gallons of chopped green tomatoes, a gill of salt, three chopped peppers to make piccalilli. Put all in a press overnight. In the morning squeeze out the brine and mix in a pound of sugar, an ounce of celery seed and a teaspoonful of grated horseradish. Boil one and a half quarts of vinegar, pour on the mixture and cook until tender. Squeeze overnight through a thin cloth. In the morning chop the cabbage and peppers and add the tomatoes.

Scones.

Make a soft dough with two tablespoonfuls of butter rubbed into three pints of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, scant teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of sugar, sufficient cold milk to mix. Roll out an inch thick, cut into triangles or squares and cook slowly on moderately hot griddle.

BUY IT IN PLAINFIELD

If YOU spend your money AT HOME with HOME MERCHANTS you get a second chance at that same old dollar; when that dollar goes out of town, it's—"Good-bye Mary."

A dollar is no "carrier pigeon." Send it away and it will never come back. Keep Plainfield made money in Plainfield.

Consider the power of a dollar when it is spent at home. It is like magic. It circulates—it pays off a hundred obligations—it creates business and puts people to work in this community. But the dollar sent away to an out-of-town house does nothing for Plainfield—it is dead to us—out of commission forever as far as we are concerned.

There are only two kinds of dollars—the "Dollar With Wings" and the "Development Dollar."

The "Dollar with Wings" flies away with a value that rightfully belongs to the home community. If spent with a Plainfield Merchant its value would stay with you and help to build up your interests.

The "Development Dollar" goes to build up Plainfield. It stays right here in our own community—it puts people to work here—builds roads and schools and churches and homes.

No matter what your position in life may be, some of its benefits "filter" down to you. "Letting George do it" is poor logic. We want YOU to cultivate the "Try Plainfield First" habit.

PLAINFIELD IS NOT REPRESENTED ON JURY

Three Local Men Drawn But Afterward Are Excused When Panel is Complete.

The October term of the Union County Courts opened at Elizabeth today, with a large attendance of lawyers and other interested people from al parts of the county present. Justice James J. Bergen presided, with Judge James C. Connolly, of the County Courts, sitting with him on the bench.

Justice Bergen delivered the charge to the grand jury. He did not call that body's attention to any special work, his charge being quite general in character. The list of causes for trial is said to be quite heavy.

For the first time in a long while Plainfield will have no representation on the grand jury. The names of Samuel Rothberg, Augustus Jenkins and Joseph Harrigan were in the box, but the list of thirty-five jurors was complete without them and they were excused.

DATES FOR THE WORLD'S SERIES ARE ANNOUNCED

New York, Oct. 3.—The first two games of the world series between the Boston Red Sox and the winner of the National League pennant will be played in Boston on Saturday, October 7, and Monday, October 9. The National Baseball Commission which met today made this decisionu. The third and fourth games will be played in either Brooklyn or Philadelphia, according to which team wins, on Tuesday, October 10, and Wednesday, October 11. The fifth game will be played the following day at Boston. The sixth at either Brooklyn or Philadelphia and the seventh, if necessary, will be played after the owners flip a coin for the honor. Umpires will not be chosen until after the conclusion of the regular season.

J. HENRY CRANE IS CHOSEN CHAIRMAN

Becomes Head of G. O. P. Committee—DeWitt Hubbell is Choice for Treasurer.

J. Henry Crane, of the law firm of DeMeza & Crane, was elected chairman of the City Republican Committee at its organization meeting last night, succeeding City Clerk John J. Carroll. The other officers chosen were as follows:

Vice-chairman, C. L. Bangs; secretary, V. W. Nash, Jr.; treasurer, William R. Townsend.

The committee endorsed DeWitt Hubbell, of the Plainfield Trust Company, for the office of city treasurer to succeed William F. Arnold, who has held that position for thirteen years. This was the only business transacted at the meeting.

JANET KING SUDDEN VICTIM OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS

One of the most severe cases of infantile paralysis in the city was recorded yesterday when Janet King, three and one-half year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. King, of 508 Woodland avenue, was stricken yesterday noon and died within a few hours.

Yesterday morning the child was playing in the yard with several others and was attacked by the disease shortly before noon.

PLAINFIELD PRESS COMPANY,

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody Can Tell When You Darken Gray, Faded Hair With Sage Tea.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful. This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of diseases.—Adv.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, OCTOBER 3, 1916.

AN UNBELIEVABLE SITUATION.

If New York stands by while its babies and its sick suffer as a result of the war now on between dairymen and the milk distributors it will be because of the absolute inefficiency and helplessness of those in charge of that great city. Because of a difference of a few cents a gallon the men who have cows and the men who have wagons are fighting, and it is the weak, the newborn and the ill that pay, and the price will be death for many of them. Such a situation is unthinkable. The big metropolitan newspapers that howled loudest for arbitration and "fair-dealing" when overworked and underpaid motormen and conductors threatened to take a few nickels from the pocketbooks of the money-laden owners of street car corporations have hardly raised their voice in the cause of those who will suffer from a milk famine. They print the bald statement that a famine threatens and then turn their attention to baseball babble from Brooklyn fanatics or something worse from Hughes and Wilson campaign orators. Perhaps there is no law which sets out in so many words that the city shall step in between distributors and dairymen should they begin to starve sick babies and adults, but a way can be found if Mayor Mitchell has the courage to take up the fight. Sooner or later the milkmen must settle their troubles, and either the distributors or dairymen must lose. Why permit them to sacrifice hundreds of human lives merely to prolong the fight?

FOLWELL WITH EDGE, BUT—.

(From the Elizabeth Times.)

Charles H. Folwell is the editor and owner of the Mount Holly Mirror. The Mirror is a Republican newspaper with a large circulation in Burlington county and it has always backed the candidates of the Republican party when the editor thought they were fit for office. Mr. Folwell will support Mr. Edge for the Governorship, but his announcement to this effect will cause more joy in the camp of the Democrats than in that of the Republicans. He says:

"The Mirror simulates no pleasure in announcing the apparent nomination of Walter E. Edge, of Atlantic county, for Governor. It frankly regrets the choice of New Jersey Republicans, narrow as the margin of preference appears to have been, for it is convinced that the party has played into the hands of the enemy.

"Believing in majority rule and that party differences should not be carried beyond the primary, The Mirror will support the Republican ticket as it has always done, but it enters the final stage of the campaign of 1916 with less confidence that would have been the case had the candidate whom the Democrats most feared, been nominated."

The latest air raid on London seems to furnish conclusive proof that the Zeppelin is not a potent factor in modern warfare. Four brought down in less than a month means much to the German aerial fleet, for these super-dreadnoughts of the air cost a half-million or more each. Just how much damage they have really done will not be known until after the war, for the English censors do not permit true stories to be sent to this country, but the destruction they do is of little military value, as bombs fall on combatants and non-combatants alike, and the latter are much in the majority on English soil. More than two years of war have failed to prove the Zeppelin a success, and it must be accepted as a failure.

- Proctor's Theatre -

Today will witness a superb photoplay, when Dorothy Gish, one of the stars of the "Birth of a Nation" will be the feature in "Gretchen the Greenhorn," a Triangle feaure with a record of triumphs a mile long.

Wednesday will bring another Fox feature, "The Unwelcome Mother," a dramatic film of sensational and startling disclosures that bring close to home the real value of the "Family Facts" as they are and as they should be. The Danish actress is the star of this latest Fox success, Valkyrien, assisted by Walter Law. Thursday Triangle features and Keystone Komedies will be screened, and Friday and Saturday the biggest treat accorded the kiddies in months, none other than Charlie Chaplin's newest and funniest comedy, "The Pawn Shop." Paramount (first run) will be seen Friday and Saturday, with a complete change each day. One of the most important reasons for the wonderful success of Proctor's is the elaborate photoplay programs: comprising all of the best photoplays produced and also the fact that they are shown at "Proctor's First." The "Ring-Around" is the latest picture fad for the film fans, and will cause a small sized riot when the camera man gets started taking the local groups of Plainfield's prominent citizens, and popular stores and public buildings, and showing all the scenes and photos on the screen every Monday and Tuesday of each week. Gold prizes will be awarded those who are in the picture and have a "Ring-Around."

REV. EDWARD J. HOLDEN ACCEPTS WESTFIELD CHARGE

Surprise was caused Sunday at the service of the Prospect Street Baptist church, East Orange, when Rev. Edward James Holden, the pastor, presented his resignation, having accepted a call to the pastorate of the First Baptist church of Westfield. The resignation was read at the close of the sermon.

After the service members of the church expressed regret because of Mr. Holden's decision to give up his work in East Orange. Mr. Holden assured them that he could not reconsider the resignation, which will take effect December 1.

Beautiful girls, exquisite scenic environment, clever comedians startling electrical surprises, sweet singing, graceful dancing, picturesque groupings, witty dialogue, brilliant lyrics, catchy songs and tuneful music are said to be the chief ingredients which have been responsible for the universal praise with which Max Spiegel' latest effort, "The Spiegel Revue," has been accorded in every large city in which it has been presented.

Marie Allen in "The Spiegel Revue," at Plainfield Theatre, Next Monday Matinee and Night.

"The Spiegel Revue" will be the offering at the Plainfield Theatre on Monday, matinee and night, October 9.

The book is in two acts and ten massive scenes, and it is the largest production ever seen on the burlesque stage. There are fifty people employed in the cast, which is made up of such favorites as Billy Mossey, Harry Crawford, Midgie Miller, Callahan Brothers, Leo Mandel, Josephine Young and the Twentieth Century Four. The famous Spiegel beauty chorus is one of the many features.

Manager Shannon is to be complimented on the crackerjack vaudeville bill he has secured for today and tomorrow at the Plainfield Theatre, the first performance of which was produced this afternoon. The audience was an especially appreciative one and gave evidences of its approval of the various numbers by prolonged applause. The headline act on the program is the appearance of Bob Fitzsimmons, the grand old man of the prize ring, together with his son, Bob Fitzsimmons, Jr., the coming champion of the world. Both appear on the stage in a novel presentation. Those wishing to see the "Fighting Bob" of former days should not miss seeing this show.

Beside the Fitzsimmons act, four other numbers round out the bill. These are June and LaVan, two dainty maids in a clever singing and dancing novelty; Ned Norton, a blackface comedian; Keene and Foxworth, comedians, singers, acrobats and dancers, and the amusing comedy satire entitled "Casey the Fireman."

A feature of the picture portion of this evening and tomorrow include Charlie Chaplin in one of his funniest pictures entitled "The Champion Laughmaker." Pathe comedies and dramas, featuring popular actors and actresses, also form a part of the entertainment and the Pathe Weekly is shown at every performance.

One of the numbers of the vaudeville program booked for the last three days of the week includes the appearance of President McKinley's favorite niece, Miss Mabel McKinley. Miss McKinley will favor with a number of song offerings.

ALL CONTRACTS FOR CITY HALL ARE IN

To Be Signed by Mayor and Clerk Soon—Other Council Business.

Contracts for the construction of the new city hall were filed with the Common Council at the meeting of last night. They have been signed by contractors and will be referred to the city hall committee for examination, after which they will be duly executed in the name of the municipality by the Mayor and Clerk. All were accompanied by the bonds required.

The contracts of Hickey and Haughton and Charles Lynch for street paving were also received.

By formal vote of the Council, Mr. Graves was excused and a vote of sympathy was extended to him in his bereavement. Councilman Hamilton and Clerk Carroll were also absent.

A communication from the East End Civic Association asking that the Council petition the borough of Fanwood for the erection of three lights on Terrill road, was referred to the lights committee, but Chairman Bird reported that the matter had already been attended to and that the Fanwood Board would authorize the erection of the lights at its meeting on Wednesday night. This association also asked that cinders be spread on certain portions of East Second street, so that passengers on the Unoin cars would not be forced to alight in the mud. The petition was referred to the streets committee.

A communication from the Central Railroad of New Jersey protesting against the assessment of $1 against it for the paving of East Fourth street was received. It was set out that the street parelleled the right of way of the company and the improvement therefore was of no benefit. The communication was referred to the streets committee.

Pamphlets showing work done in other cities were sent to the Council by the Public Comfort Station Bureau of New York city, and were turned over to the committe on public affairs.

Agents for George P. Wetmore, of Elizabeth, who owns property on North avenue, protested against the proposed laying of sidewalks on that street on the ground that there was no sewer and any improvement made would therefore be but temporary. The communication was referred to the streets committee.

Mayor Calkins appointed Frank Ingraham a regular member of the fire department and the fire committee approved.

Chairman Cose of the fire committee reported that William J. Kelly, Raymond C. Schmidt, William C. Righter and Carl Uhlmer had been appointed probationers in the fire department on August 1, and the Council approved.

The report of the Clerk of the District Court howed receipts for August, $217.93, with a balance of $154.60 at the end of the month, and receipts for September as $193.54 with a balance of $142.90 at the end of the month.

The Building Inspector reported 28 permits issued during the month of September.

The New York Telephone Company was given permission to tear up parts of East Sixth street for the purpose of makin- repairs on a conduit.

An ordinance providing for separate sewers on East Fourth, Washington street and Watchung avenue was passed on its third and final reading.

A hearing was held on the ordinance accepting the extension of Stelle avenue to Arlington place and when no one appeared the ordinance was passed on its third and final reading. The Council adjourned to meet again October 9.

MISS CAMERON TO BE THE SOLOIST

Talented Artist Will Be Heard at "Pan's Anniversary" Entertainment.

The Plainfield Recreation Committee considers it has been fortunate in securing Miss Dorothy Cameron as soloist for the Greek masque, "Pan's Anniversary," which is to be given in the Plainfield High School on Thursday evening, October 12. Miss Cameron is to appear as the priestess who presides over the ceremonies in the worship of the god Pan by the priests and nymphs of the forest. The music for the hymns which Miss Cameron will sing was written especially for the production of this masque at Columbia College last spring by Kraft, the well known composer.

Great interest has been aroused on account of the unusual form of entertainment which the Recreation Committee is promising for the first time in Plainfield. The cast of seventy-five people has been rehearsing for several weeks perfecting the beautiful scenes, tableaux and dances which make up the masque. In the revels of the nymphs, several of the esthetic dances of Pavlowa and Chalif have been introduced. Aside from these, there will be dance interpretations of classical musical selections such as Paderewski's "Theme and Variations," Chaminade's "Pastoral Dance," and Tschaikowsky's "Nut Cracker's Schuit." These descriptive dances were composed especially for the production of Pan's Anniversary.

The lines, the poetry and the blank verse, which Ben Johnson embodied in this masque, artistically carry out the mystery of the revels and the almost supernatural atmosphere in which water nymphs, wood nymphs and priests of Pan join with the masquers in worship at the altar of the god Pan.

Miss Elsie Vail, Miss Dorothy Nash, and Miss Jocelyn Noelting, the three principal nymphs, interpret some of the poems in an altogether original and artistic fashion.

WHY HOWARD A. COLBY WILL SUPPORT WILSON

Asbury Park, Oct. 3.—Among the callers at the White House offices yesterday was Howard Colby, of Plainfield, brother of Everett Colby, Progressive leader. Mr. Colby said that among his reasons for supporting Mr. Wilson is a personal one. He was a student in a Princeton class in public law under former Professor Wilson and had difficulty in passing the course. His instructor told him to tutor. When commencement loomed close he reported to Professor Wilson that he had followed the advice and was passed without an examination.

When Mr. Wilson was elected President Mr. Colby wired congratulations, adding: "I never expected a man who would pass me in public law without an examination would become President of the United States."

The President wrote in reply:

"Neither did I."

MURPHY ASKS HIS FRIENDS TO SUPPORT FRELINGHUYSEN

Support for Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, the Republican nominee for United States Senator, is urged in a letter issued by former Governor Franklin Murphy, who was Mr. Frelinghuysen's rival at the primary election. Mr. Murphy asks all his friends to give the same kind of solid support to Mr. Frelinghuysen they would have given to him.

In the letter Mr. Murphy says:

"I sought the nomination for Senator because of its opportunities for important service to the people of New Jersey—a service which I felt my business and political experience and my acquaintance with the leading members of the Senate qualified me to render. This is denied me. But if my field of usefulness is not to reach out from Washington, I know that Newark and New Jersey furnish ample opportunity for those who find happiness in being helpful to their neighbors and their friends.

"I was aided in my campaign by many friends whose support was so cordial that success seemed sure. I thank them all. The result may be something of a surprise to them, as it was to me, but as to me it is not without its compensations.

"Mr. Frelinghuysen is a strong man who will grow in knowledge of his work and in the confidence of his associates, and he will give New Jersey efficient and dignified service.

"I ask all my friends to give him the same loyal support they would have given me, for we have not had in a generation a time when the prosperity of the country depended upon the success of the Republican party as completely as it does in this campaign."

CALL IS SENT OUT TO STATE WOMEN'S CLUBS

Women's clubs affiliated with the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs received notification yesterday of the nineteenth semi-annual meeting of the organization, to be held in the Play House, Ridgewood, Saturday, October 28, when the Ridgewood Women's Club, the Cecilia Society and the League for Creative Work will act as hostesses. The home of the State president, Mrs. Charles W. Stockton, is in Ridgewood, and it is a compliment to her that the convention is being held in that place.

Clubs numbering fifty or less are entitled to send two delegates to the meetings; clubs numbering from fifty to one hundred are entitled to send three delegates and one additional delegate for every additional one hundred members.

SUIT TO BREAK WILL

granting this order was based upon an affidavit laid before him by Eugene Cougleton, one of the members of the firm, who stated that he had been informed that Mr. Watson had charge of the decedent's affairs for ten years prior to her death; that he had told him that he was the administrator of her brother's estate, under whose will Miss Steven had received a large part of the estate; that he had made an investigation which leads him to believe that Mr. Watson was instrumental in procuring the prepartion of her will which is now the subject of a contest; that by reason of Mr. Watson's fiduciary relationship and personal presence was in a position to practice fraud and to employ undue influence upon the mind of the decedent in the procuring of the execution of the will and to procure for himself $50,000 to the exclusion of the contestants and her other blood relatives."

That the fight brought in the court to upset the provisions of the will is made in good faith, and "that the testimony of Mr. Watson is necessary and material to enable the contestants to show the confidential relationship of Mr. Watson to the decedent at the time of its execution and the statements made, acts done and influence exerted by Mr. Watson in procuring the execution of the paper. The testimony of Mr. Watson which will be used at the trial."

Miss Stevens, who was a sister of the late George E. Stevens, and was buried beside his body at Reading, Pa., died on April 9, last, leaving an estate, all in personal property, which runs well up into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. In her will, executed on June 5, 1915, now the subject of a contest, it cuts off seven of her cousins, who are Josephine A. and Mary Sabin Corbett, both of New York; Eliza Day and Charles Sidney Day, of Worcester, Mass.; Edward E. Stevens, of Boston; and the two contestants, and directs her net estate distributed as follows:

Henrietta W. Roberts, wife of James E. Roberts, formerly the wife of her deceased brother, George E. Stevens, of Indiaanpolis, Ind., $100,000, all pictures, mantel ornaments and lamp.

William J. Watson, the friend, "who has been for more than twenty years my trusted adviser and guide in all my business affairs, $50,000.

Susan R. Watson, wife of this friend, diamond rings and pendant.

Otis Corbett, of Plainfield, cousin, $25,000.

To the five children of this Plainfield cousin, who are William Phelps Corbett, Julia Phelps Warr, Amelia Phelps Conklin, all of Plainfield, Elsie Merrio Overton, also of Plainfield, and Marjorie Force, of Montclair, each $5,000. To Julia Phelps Warr was also bequeathed all wearing apparel, which is said to be very valuable.

The rest of the estate is bequeathed to the New York Association for the Blind for the creation of a trust fund to be known as the "Ellen C. Stevens Memorial Fund."

Miss Stevens directed that all taxes be paid out of the residuary estate and in nominating Mr. Watson directed that if he needed at any time legal advice such advice was to be at the expene of the estate.

Miss Stevens further directed that if Mr. Watson, for any reason and at any time, was to cease to be the executor, his place was to be substituted by Charles H. Stoll, of New York, with the same powers, both of whom were to serve without bonds.

Mr. Stoll, in an affidavit submitted to the court, declines to qualify as executor now or at any other time.

So far four law firms figure in the contest, the New York Association for the Blind are represented by Evarts, Choate & Sherman, of 60 Wall street.

Took a Chance.

The late Eugene F. Ware had filed a demurrer and was arguing the case before Judge Samuel F. Miller. The latter stopped counsel with the remark: "Mr. Ware, there is no use taking up any more time of this court. Why, that question has been decided against you by every court in Christendom."

"Oh, yes," replied Mr. Ware in his genial and pleasant way; "I am aware of that, your honor, but I know your honor occasionally makes decisions contrary to every court in Christendom, and I thought perhaps this would be one of the times."

"Go on, Mr. Ware. Go on, sir. I will hear you. Go on, sir."—Case and Comment.

Daddy's Bedtime Story— A Little Girl And a Pair Of Red Shoes.

She Let Karen Buy Them.

(Adapted from Hans Christian Andersen.)

"ONCE upon a time there was a little girl who was very poor," daddy told Jack and Evelyn. "All summer long she went barefooted because she had no shoes. Winters she wore a pair of wooden shoes, but they were rough and hurt her feet, and her ankles got badly chafed.

"In the middle of the village there lived an old shoemaker, who made the little girl a pair of shoes out of some red cloth. They were very clumsy, but the old shoemaker meant well. The little girl's name was Karen. The first time she wore her new red shoes was to her mother's funeral. Just then a big carriage drove by, and in it sat an old lady, who saw the little red shoes walking in the street. She felt very sorry for Karen and said to the priest, 'Give the little girl to me and I will take good care of her.' Karen thought it was because of the red shoes, but the old lady knew they were homely and burned them. Then she bought Karen some nice ones and pretty clothes, and Karen had to learn how to read and sew. People said she was pretty, but when she looked in her mirror it said, 'You are lovely.'

"Now, it happened that the queen was journeying through the town. She had a little daughter, the princess, with her. Everybody, and among them Karen, crowded around the palace where they stayed to get a glimpse of them. The little princess stood in the window, so everybody might see her. She wore no crown, but a pretty white dress and beautiful red shoes. They did not look much like the red shoes the old shoemaker had made for Karen.

"When it came time for Karen to be confirmed the old lady took her to the best shoe shop in town to be fitted to shoes, and the first pair Karen saw was of a lovely red leather, just like the ones the little princess had worn. The shoemaker said they had been made for a real princess, but had not fitted. 'They are so smooth they must be patent leather,' said the old lady. But she could not see that they were red, so she let Karen buy them.

"When Karen walked up the aisle of the church everybody stared at her feet. Even the old men in the pictures on the walls seemed to twist their necks and stare at her red shoes. When the priest spoke holy words to her and the children in the choir sang sweetly it seemed to Karen that they spoke only of her shoes. Soon everybody told the old lady that Karen's shoes were red, and she said Karen had been very naughty to wear red shoes to her confirmation and that hereafter she must always wear black ones to church, even if they were old," daddy finished, looking at the clock.

Training a Husband

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

Marian Entertains Morris With a Few More Remarks Concerning How to Be Useful.

"Come to dinner, Morris." It was Saturday and Morris Southy calmly read on, but as he never by any chance answered when called, Marian presumed that he had heard. There was the usual hurrying to and fro, the sounds that told Morris that the dinner was being put on the table, then a lull. Marian was standing looking over the board as she tied Florence's bi around her neck to see what had been forgotten. Morris sat listening for the second summons. He even looked to see what the page number was and glanced up to see Marian scurry from the room for something forgotten. She came back with a pitcher of fresh water. Now was the expected time for the third or fourth call and Morris prepared himself for the final wrench from his book. It was almost like a surgical operation to separate Morris from his book. But no call came. He looked up and to his surprise saw Marian sitting in his place serving the dinner.

"Oh, is dinner ready?" he asked, as if he was surprised to find it mealtime.

"Yes, did you not hear me call you? I have no means of knowing when you hear as you never respond." The tone brought Morris to his feet.

"I heard you, but as you begin to call me for dinner about half an hour before it is ready I never think of starting till I see you are about to sit down." He came and stood behind his chair waiting for Marian to get up.

"I have decided to call you but once after this. You can do as you like about coming." Marian rose and handed Frank's plate to him in transit.

"In that case I hope you will wait till there is some prospect of eating before you sound the one and only call." Morris smiled as if the childishness of his wife amused him. "I used to start when you called me, and I usually had to stand and wait till I was tired and then sit down alone, while you flew around for all the forgotten things. I used to think you would learn to set the table in time, but now I have given up hope."

"It never occurred to you, of course, that you could lend a hand in that cucial time, the getting the meal on the table." Marian looked at her husband with a flushed face.

"Some women can get a meal and bring everything to the table hot and served as it should be. I am no such genius; it takes genius to do it. I use to call you to the table, hoping that it would occur to you to do some of the little necessary things that would lift tons just at that time." Marian stopped and laughed at her own earnestness.

"Why, you never said anything about it. Why didn't you ask me to do something?" Morris looked up in surprise.

"It was my mistake; my foolish pride. I see it now and I am trying to corect my mistakes of management. That's why I mentioned it." Marian looked at her husband out of the tail of her eye. He was staring at her in an uncomprehending way.

"If you could put the bibs on——"

"Only Florence wears a bib. The baby does not come to the table," corrected Morris, who was nothing if not exact.

"Well, some disposition has to be made of the baby if he is not asleep. Then if you could see that the pitcher was filled with fresh water and the glasses and——"

"Hum——" Morris gathered up the carving knife and fork and fell to work.

"No wonder you called me early if you wanted all that done," he said after a pause that was eloquent with astonishment.

"You see, I get confused with everything to see to, and then I have the feeling that you are the best living example of inertia, 'hard to start when once at rest,' and, some way that make it all the harder." Marian smiled as she wiped her heated face.

"I used to think I was observing," remarked the husband absently.

"We observe what we are trained to. You could tell at a glance how many leaves there were on a branch, but you would fall over a dozen things in the house that you could do to be helpful and never see them." Marian's smile took all the sting from her words.

"In which case I need a postgraduate course in observation, perhaps," was the response.

"I volunteer as teacher." Marian's tone was cheerful.

WHITE VELVET TAM AND FEATHER.

The Tam is Now Launched in White Velvet and Proves Very Nobby.

(By Mary Glynn.)

The popularity of the Tam is traditious. Each year it appears in some extreme or modified style and has its fling for a certain length of time. This season it is seen in black velvet void of any trimming save a huge pearl pin. It is also featured with very narrow brim, a narrow band of gros-grain ribbon covering the joining to the crown. An extremely attractive model is shown in white velvet with band of deep sheering. The Tam crown mounts a tall height on one side while it flops gracefully on the other. This hat was extremely smart, worn as it was with a dark rose velour suit trimmed with taupe fox fur. Buttons were a particular feature on this suit, and especially interesing were button boots in a combination of brown and black glazed kid.

Temperance

NEWS AND VIEWS
Conducted by
THE W. C. T. U.

Two formidable campaigns against drink are going on in this country; one vociferous and political, the other quiet and industrial. One aims to legislate both the man that makes the drink and the man that sells it out of business. The other concerns itself with the man that does the drinking. It aims to bring him to temperance by any method that will work. The slogan of the first is "down with the saloon;" of the second, "sober first."

This second campaign is in the hands of those men who are attempting to reorganize that portion of the working world which they control so that every man in it will have the chance to develop all there is in him. This effort, which is the very essence of the new scientific spirit in industrial life, is hindered at every point by habits. One of the deepest rooted on labor's side is drink. It is as inimical to a complete realization of the new aspirations as the fixed idea of the stiff-necked employer that what he has never done nor seen done can't be done. It is as inimical and even more difficult to conquer, for the employer eventually must yield his will or his place. The economic advantage of his competitor who accepts the new idea will take care of that. But the economic advantages of sobriety have never been doubtful. Nobody knows them so well as the workingman and his family. If he is to break with drink other appeals must be made.

It is for the employer to find these appeals. He must do it. Drink interferes with every item in the program on which he has set his heart. A drinking man makes stability out of the question. He is a barrier to efficiency. He is an enemy to safety. Drink must go.

It is the Safety First movement which has done most to fix the attention of the industrial world on the relations of drink to its new aspirations.

A year ago I attended the annual congress of the National Safety First Council. There were some 300 safety experts and managers present, representing our leading mining, manufacturing and transportation concerns. There was scarcely a session held in the three days the council sat that the relation of liquor to safety did not come up. Again and again there was vigorous warning from experience experts that safety was out of the question as long as men used liquor. It was not because they had as a rule, I judged, any objection to liquor per se—many of them frankfully said they liked their beer or wine—but when it came to liquor drinking by wrokingmen they attacked it as violently as they did uncovered wheels and gears and belts.

"Alcoholism as an abstract proposition does not interest me," the secretary of the New York Workmen's Compensation Bureau told the congress, "but it has been my painful duty to investigate many accidents where I have had positive proof that the mishaps would never have occurred had it not been for the liquor curse. I don't believe we shall get worth while results (in safety) unless we place our mark of disapproval on the liquor question immediately."

Sayings of Dr. Vaughan. Prohibition Candidate for Governor.

The saloon has outlived its day as a community centre. It offers nothing to help our children on in this day of competition.

New Jersey has 10,000 insane persons, 36 brewers, 56 distillers and 10,550 retail liquor dealers.

The 3,215,685 barrels of beer and ales made in New Jersey last year is not something to be proud of, but rather a food for reflection.

Prohibition is not some new breakfast food or a system of mental or moral healing; but it is a torch to illuminate the dark spots in our civilization and help to produce a race of mankind without spot and blemish, free from degeneration.

In my seven years of service at the New York Post Graduate Hospital I have never seen alcoholic liquors prescribed.

THE WOMAN'S COLUMN

Mrs. Chauncey M. Depew, wife of the famous after-dinner speaker and former United States Senator, has established in the Chateau d'Annel, near Compiegne, owned by her, a highly successful war hospital which has won her the thanks and commendation of the French government. The chateau is surrounded by a beautiful park, which makes the place particularly delightful and healthful for wounded soldiers recuperating. Mrs. Depew was in France at the outbreak of the war, occupying the chateau, which she immediately offered to the French military authorities. In the German advance upon Paris, it was occupied for a few days by the invader's troops, and again evacuated upon their retreat after the Battle of the Marne.

An important tool of a great and growing department of the United States Government, the library of the Department of Commerce, is wielded by a woman, Miss Anne Gunnel Cross, who has been in charge of the library since it was orgnaized under the chief clerk's office in 1914, when the libraries belonging to the various bureaus of this department with three exceptions, were incorporated as one library for the benefit of the whole. The libraries then cobined were those of the bureaus of the census, foreign and domestic commerce, navigation, lighthouses, and steamboat inspection service, making a total of 103,000 volumes and over 1,000 periodicals. At the head of this important "combine" was placed Miss Cross, who is an enthusiast in her work and ranks high among the Federal librarian experts at Washington. She had served in the Bureau of Census from 1902, when it became incorporated in 1914 into the larger work of which she took charge.

Yesterday, October 2, was the date set for the departure from New York of the memorable woman's campaign train, the first in the history of an American Presidential campaign and entirely managed and financed by women who will tour twenty-nine States and more than one hundred cities in the interest of the election of Charles E. Hughes. The women's committee of the Hughes Alliance is at the head of the project, and it is distinctly understood that this is not a "suffrage train," but a union of suffragists and antis, with the object of electing Hughes. Fifteen women speakers of national reputation accompanied the special, who have been selected in various fields representing work in education, immigration, probation for offenders, and protection for women. Among them are Miss Frances Kellor, Miss Maude Miner, Mrs. Raymond Robins, Miss Mary Dreier, and Miss Helen Todd. Other notable women in charge of the affair are Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, Mrs. Phoebe Hearst, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and Mrs. Gifford Pinchot. The States the special will visit are Connecticut, Massachusetts, New York, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana, Washington, Oregon, California, Nevada, Arizona, Utah, Idaho, Wyoming, Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, Indiana, Kentucky, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware and New Jersey. Automobile processions and receptions will be organized to meet the train in several cities. The political meetings will be presided over by men prominent in the life of the States visited, and the issues presented will be national. The journey will end the afternoon before election day, with a large rally in New York city.

Mrs. Freda Ehmann, a woman of 60, began pickling olives in California and made a fortune at it. She was left a widow with little money and after experimenting with olives she decided to market her results. She went East with samples, and returned to California from that first trip with contracts for nearly 15,000 gallons of ripe olives. Back to her home in Oroville, her own restricted olive plantation could not fill these large contracts, so she herself contracted for the entire crops of neighboring plants. Another season brought her more orders than she could possibly supply. Today, at 75, she is the head of a magnificent plant, built in 1911, and the mistress of a fortune fast mounting to the seven-figure mark. Competitors have sprung up in the region, who are only grateful to this "grand old woman of Oroville," for giving the olive industry a tremendous boost and creating an unheard-of demand for the fruit.

Get It Exact.

"Why is it that the butcher always sends me more meat than I order, never by any chance less?" complained a young housekeeper to her husband.

"Let me give him an order," said he, and, stepping to the telephone, he called up the market.

"Send me two pounds of porterhouse," he ordered, "and, say, if you can't cut two pounds make it a pound and a half."

He got the two pounds by the next delivery.—New York Sun.

Raking 'Em Over

THOSE WHO DESERTED.

Two or three local baseball players performed out of town on Sunday, despite the fact that they were scheduled to play in this city on the same date. The players in question have been pastiming with a local club all season and have been drawing pay commensurate with their ability. The fact that a seashore magnate visited this city and offered a "fat" sum to each of the players seems to have been the "bait" that caught the worm. The local lads leaped at the opportunity and left their fellows in a peculiar position. It is true that one or two of the six local men who performed in the shore contest have been playing there all year. And it is also true that the two or three local players who have been playing here all year gave notice of their decision to seek other climes. But wherein they displayed sportsmanship by deserting the ship during a storm is difficult to ascertain.

HOLY CROSS PRACTICE.

We heard a football fan remark that "Doc" Doyle would have the "best team in years" this season. And, in our opinion, the fan is about right. If each of the many recruits who has signified his intention of reporting really does come out for the team, the Cross men will have one of the best squads in the State and will fear no opposition. Practice was held for the first time on Saturday. Last evening another workout was held. Attendance at each of these affairs is necessary for the welfare of the individual player and for the good of the team as a whole.

ON FOREIGN SOIL.

Plainfield boys are already beginning to distinguish themselves on the football elevens of the various colleges. Monroe Good, formerly of Plainfield High School, where he was the mainstay in almost every branch of athletic endeavor, was the hero of the Colgate-Susquehanna contest, while Johnnie Cottrell was the star of the football battle between Alfred and Rochester Universities. Cottrell was injured in action, however, and may be forced to discontinue his gridiron activities for this year. Bill Nash, who is attending Washington and Jefferson, has an excellent chance of securing a berth on that eleven.

"HUB" STINE AS A COACH.

Herbert Stine, of North Plainfield, is the athletic instructor at Westfield High School. Therefore it behooves Herbert to turn out a football team which will be a credit to the institution. And Herbert is endeavoring to do that very thing. His many friends in this city wish him success. Regarding his chances of having a championship team "Hub" says very little. But Herbert has high hopes, however.

OUIMET'S FAIR CARD.

Every so often, when Francis Ouimet turns in an exceptionally low card or cracks a course record, it leaks out that the barred former champion is playing pretty fair golf this season, even though he isn't appearing competitively. In a four-ball foursome—the kind of a game that is not nearly so likely to bring out one's best game as a two-ball match—Ouimet turned in a 66 for the Bretton Woods (N. H.) links, a round that sliced two strokes off the best previous card, made by one professional, James MacKell, of the home club, and Rosewell N. Mundy, the Ardsley amateur.

Declared ineligible by the United States Golf Association to play in the amateur championships, Ouimet wisely has refrained from exercising his privilege of entering the open tourneys, thus strengthening his contention that he is not in the sporting goods business for the mercenary advantages his prominence in tournaments would bring him. Ouimet has insisted ever since he upset Vardon and Ray at Brookline in 1913 that he did not want to become a professional golfer, and no one now can honestly doubt his determination.

TOM THORPE VERSATILE.

"Tom Thorpe, who played on Columbia in the old days and is now coach of the St. John's Prep School team, was one of the liveliest tackles that ever stepped on a gridiron and one of the best. Every year Tom played he sprung something new and seldom missed making a score by some unusual method. It is Tom who is credited with making a play, for the first time, that is now barred from the rules—kicking the ball forward along the ground after the scrimmage, the ball free and all on side. In the Columbia-Cornell game a punt was missed and the ball rolled along the ground toward the Ithacans' goal. Thorpe and a Cornell man raced after the pigskin. The Cornellian dived for the ball and Thorpe, seeing he was too late, kicked it instead of diving. The Cornellian was left sprawling on the ground; Thorpe went after the ball. Another Cornellian dived, Thorpe kicked the ball again, this time over the goal line. Alone, Thorpe kept on his way and fell on the ball behind the goal. It brought a touchdown and turned the tide in Columbia's favor."—Newark News.

CARRIGAN SAYS THAT PHILS WILL REPEAT

Manager of Red Sox Believes His Team Will Be the Champions.

Prepartions for another 42,000 crowd are under way at Braves Field, where part of the games at least of the world's series are to be played. The Red Sox office, where the tickets are being handled, was swamped today with reservations. The loyal rooters whose Tessie has made famous three world's series, are to be taken care of in the left field bleachers. Many out of town requests have been received and filed.

"Boston will make short work of the National League winners for the world's championship." So spoke Manager Bill Carrigan of the pennant victory as he watched the sale of tickets for the big series.

"My men are playing baseball of the highets order, and are in better shape now than at this time last year," Carrigan continued. "The pitching staff is going great, as was shown by the manner in which they held down the Detroits as well as the heavy hitting Chicago swatters.

"I believe that Philadelphia will win the National League pennant and will be our opponents for the world's championship. The Phillies have a strong club and one that demands respect. Alexander is a wonderful pitcher and will have some strong hitters behind him. He has had experience in a world's series and should be better this season than last.

PRINCETON CLUB TO AWARD TWO PRIZES

Entries Now Being Received for Annual Interscholastic Tournament.

The annual Plainfield Interscholastic Tennis Tournament will be held under the auspices of the Princeton Club of Plainfield on Saturday, October 7, at 9 o'clock on the courts of the Plainfield Country Club. The names of all who wish to enter, together with a fee of twenty-five cents, should be handed to Burnham Carter, of the Plainfield High School, before Friday, October 6.

Two Plainfield High School boys, Rodman Parvin and Eustace Eggie, carried off first and second honors, respectively, in the tournament last year. Parvin left school last November, while Eggie graduated in June, so that North Plainfield will have an excellent chance to even up with the Ninth street boys. The tournament will be divided into two classes, the first of boys under sixteen years of age, and the second of boys over sixteen; the winner of each class will play for first honors. As usual, the Princeton Club has offered two cups so that the winner of each class will receive a prize.

SOUTH SIDE OPENS FOOTBALL SEASON HERE

Newark Team Expects to Conquer Red and Blue Eleven on Friday.

The first game on the Plainfield High School football schedule will be played next Friday, when the warriors from South Side High School, of Newark, invade this city. The locals naturally expect to win and the South Siders are equally as confident.

Coach Ralph S. Patch, of the Red and Blue, has had his men out on Parker Field daily. Yesterday afternoon over thirty candidates reported. However, as yet no word has been received from Dick Pennock, captain of the eleven. Pennock has not returned to school and, in all probability, will not participate in the first game.

Art Kyle, who will captain the Red and Blue baseball team, will probably play on the Ninth Street eleven. He reported for practice yesterday, and should develop into a first-class lineman. It is understood that he prefers to play end.

YALE TEAM WINS IN ATHLETIC CONTEST

Rutgers Outfit Second in Y. M. C. A. Athletic Events.

In a series of athletic contests held at the Y. M. C. A. last night, a team representing Yale emerged from the battle with a first place ribbon, securing a total of twenty-five points. The Rutgers team was second with eighteen points, while Harvard with fifteen tallies secured third position. Princeton was last, securing only eight points.

Martin Snyder was the captain of the winning team, while Lindsey Bohl was in charge of the Harvard clan. At the helm of the Princeton organization was Oscar Phillipson. Bert Newmiller led the Rutgers team. The judges were A. C. Estes, F. O. Dunning and Miss Winifred Mann.

MERGER OF MOHAWK AND TRIANGLE TEAMS

Two Elevens Consolidate Under Name of Netherwoods and Are Booking Games.

The Inner Triangles and the Mohawks, two fast football teams from the wilds of Netherwood, as the press agent says, have combined to form one eleven, which will play under the name of Netherwood. This is the first time in the history of Netherwood that these two teams have joined forces and some good games can naturally be expected to result.

On Saturday, the Netherwoods will open their season against the Scotch Plains Hustlers, a newly organized eleven of merit. The game is to be played on the Netherwoods' home grounds on Central avenue, corner of West Seventh street. Any team wishing games can secure same by writing to John Cartwright, 209 Jackson avenue, who is manager of the new eleven.

Despite the fact that these two teams have joined hands, the Triangles will continue to book games with teams averaging 110 pounds. The manager of this branch of the organization is James Carson, who lives on Midway avenue.

THE LADY ON THE LINKS.

Enjoying a Game of Golf With the Wife of Your Friend.

She—Would you mind teeing up my ball? Thank you. Perhaps a little higher. John says I ought to have my tees lower, but somehow I never dare try. Shall I go? (She drives and goes about twenty feet.) How dreadful!

He (cheerfully)—That's nothing! One never expects to play for the first three holes. (He drives and goes about twenty-two feet.) You see!

She—Never mind. What club would you use here?

He—The grass is pretty long. I think under the conditions I should use an iron.

She (calmly taking out her brassie)—Yes, I suppose I should, but one can always go so much farther with a brassie. (She tops the ball, which goes about ten feet.) How dreadful!

He—Never mind. (Savagely driving his ball with his iron out of the grass nearly a hundred yards.)

She—Wonderful! John says you play such a consistent game.

He—The last time I played with John it cost me $10.

She—What? You don't play for money, do you? John says—

He—Oh, never! I broke four clubs. (At the end of the eighteenth hole her score is 168. He has a bad 110.)

She—It was awfully good of you to put up with me.

He—Good! The pleasure is mine. After all, it isn't your score that counts. It's the exercise.

She—Thank you so much. (Later to John.) He told me I played some simply wonderful shots and said I was developing a great game. There!

He—Of course you are, dear. (Later to him.) Say, old man, how do you like lying to another man's wife—instead of your own?—Life.

QUEER HUMAN NATURE.

How the Significance of Words May Change With the Years.

How the same word may have a different significance for the same man at different stages of his life is given in the following from the New York Post, as adapted and expanded from the French in the Paris Figaro:

Life.—At twenty: Days that are coming. At fifty: Days that are going.

The Heart.—At twenty: An organ whose frequent palpitations are due to strong emotion. At fifty: An organ whose frequent palpitations are due to indigestion.

The Truth.—At twenty: Something to be flaunted in the face of the whole world. At fifty: Something it is not always politic to tell.

Poetry.—At twenty: Something you read with eagerness and enthusiasm. At fifty: Something to quote.

Time.—At twenty: You imagine you never have enough of it. Therefore are always in a hurry. At fifty: You know you never have enough of it. Therefore never hurry.

A Muffler.—At twenty: A protection for one's dress shirt. At fifty: A protection for what is under one's dress shirt.

The Hair.—At twenty: You shake it back off your forehead. At fifty: Comb it carefully down across your forehead.

Key.—At twenty: A contrivance used to open things with. At fifty: A contrivance used to shut things with.

TAB MANAGER ISSUES CALL FOR PRACTICE

On Tuesday and Friday Evenings All Basketball Candidates Will Report.

Rufus Larew, manager of the T. A. B. S. basketball team, has called practice for Tuesday and Friday evenings. Inasmuch as the first game will be played with the Knights of St. Peter on October 11, the local leader is of the opinion that now is the time to start preparations.

Material for the Tab five is promising, according to present indications. Art Kyle, Benny Rosenson, Harry Moulton and Jim Ramsey, it is reported, have signified their intention of trying out for the team. Although Rosenson and Moulton were members of "Dip" Jones' Plainfield A. A. team last year, it is thought that they will play with the Tabs this season.

ELIZABETH HURLER ALLOWS NO HITS

Permits No Plainfield Batter to Secure a Bingle During Contest.

According to the Elizabeth newspapers, the Elizabeth All Star aggregation, which played in this city on Saturday, was the St. James team of the Sunday School League of that place.

Owing to the fact that the manager of the local team did not provide us with a box score of the result, we were unable to publish the details in last night's Sport Topics. However, Leon Dillon, the Betsytown hurler allowed no hits and permitted but one run to cross the pan. In fact, it was Starr's wild pitch that was responsible for the tally. Freddie Mills started the mound work for the locals, but was replaced by Ally Compton, who fanned the first seven men who faced him. Each one of the St. James players fanned at least once during the battle. Some clever work in the field was exhibited by Randolph, the Dunellen first sacker.

Score by innings:

		R.	H.	E.
St. James	0 0 1 1 0 1 0 0 0	3	6	2

Batteries—St. James, Dillon and Starr; Plainfield, Mills, Compton and Dodd.

BOSTON MAY SECURE FIRST SERIES GAME

Braves' Field Has Larger Capacity Than All Other Sites.

John Heydler, secretary of the National League, has a set of coins which he values very much and which expected a new brother this month. However, from present indications it looks as though there will be no new brother at all.

Heydler has made a collection of the coins used by the National Commission in deciding where the first game of the world's series was to be played, and naturally looked for an increase in his coin family at world's series time.

During the preparations for the present world's series the ceremony of tossing the coin is almost certain to be omitted. It is practically a certainty that the first game of the 1916 world's series will be played on the Braves Field, Boston, which park has the largest seating capacity of any baseball field in the country, about 42,000.

President Baker, of the Phillies, announced yesterday that in the event the Quakers win he would waive the privilege of an equal chance to open the series in Philadelphia and would ask the commission to have the series open in Boston.

FOOTBALL

Fordham.

The Fordham varsity enjoyed an afternoon free from any outdoor practice yesterday when the trunks containing the gridiron outfits of the squad failed to arrive from Easton, where The Bronx eleven played Lafayette a scoreless tie on Saturday.

Head Coach Gargan has announced a stiff signal drill, but would not sanction the use of any regalia for the players other than their individual suits. A long blackboard talk was substituted.

Fordham's showing against Lafayette pleased Gargan generally. Assistant Coach Moriarity was especially pleased with the defensive strength of the rush line and Fordham's clean cut handling of the ball, as not one fumble occurred.

In the blackboard lecture three mistakes were pointed out and charged against the Maroon's offensive play. Chief among these was the slowness of the interference. This fault cost the Maroons a touchdown at Easton.

Yale.

There was no rest for the Yale football team yesterday. Instead of allowing the usual Monday layoff Tad Jones sent the men through a hot fifteen-minute scrimmage.

There was a good deal of kicking, Le Gore doing most of the punting. One of the kicks went 65 yards. Quarterback Smith caught a punt and ran the ball back 60 yards for a score. Because of slight injuries, Captain Black and Gingham were not out in practice.

Yale today distributed applications for the Yale-Princeton and Yale-Harvard games, and the ticket department tonight said that the demand for seats for the Harvard game here is unprecedented.

It is likely that the committee of twenty-one, having the bowl in charge, will order the erection of 8,000 additional seats to accommodate the crowd.

Stevens.

The Stevens Tech football squad yesterday afternoon was given a long workout. Forty men were put through three hours of hard drill.

Last Saturday's scrimmage showed that the squad had failed to grasp several of the fundamentals. Consequently most of the afternoon was devoted to falling on the ball and working with the dummie. Three sets of linemen spent a full hour pushing the charging machine up and down the field.

After this preliminary workout the teams ran through signals. Then the linemen were lined up against one another for offensive and defensive work. The backs meanwhile were running back punts.

Coach Rodgers is bending every effort to put a strong team on the field Saturday when Stevens opens at Haverford.

TOMMY MULLIN MAY PLAY WITH HOLY CROSS

Tommy Mullin will play on the Holy Cross football team this year, according to an announcement made a few days ago. Tommy, noted as a baseball player, is ambitious to become equally famous in the gridiron sport.

George Gage has also signified his intention of trying out for the Doyle team. Gage is a stockily built chap and should be of value to the Cricket Field's clan.

BORDEN RELIEF CLUB TO HAVE A MINSTREL SHOW

The first annual minstrel show of the Borden Relief Club will be held in Reform Hall on Thursday evening, October 5. An interesting program has been arranged, with John Taylor as interlocutor.

Among the end men for the show are William Kline, Fred Kline and William Dunham, three expert funmakers. John Butler is president of the Relief Club.

CORPORATION NOTICE

PROPOSALS FOR SEWERS.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, at an adjourned regular meeting held Monday, September 18th, 1916, notice is hereby given that the Common Council will meet on Monday, October 9th, 1916, at 8 o'clock P. M., at the Council Chamber, No. 149 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at which time and place said Common Council will receive sealed proposals for doing the work and furnishing the materials for the construction of such portion of the separate sewers or drains contemplated in the ordinance entitled "An Ordinance to provide separate Sewers or Drains, to carry off the surface water in Grove street and in portions of East Fifth street, West Fifth street, West Sixth street, East Seventh street, West Seventh street, West Eighth street, Watchung avenue, Park avenue, New street, Plainfield avenue, Grant avenue and West Front street," approved September 6, 1916, as provided for in the plans and specifications adopted by the Common Council September 18th, 1916, and filed in the office of the City Clerk, No. 151 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals, the Common Council will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided said parties or agents choose to be then and there present, and also make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Council.

The Engineer's approximate estimate of the quantities of material required, and the work to be done, is as follows:

720 feet, 3 feet 6 inches by 4 feet 6 inches rectangular reinforced concrete sewer; 7 to 11 feet deep; 560 feet, 45-inch concrete or segment block sewer 11 feet deep; 400 feet, 42-inch concrete or segment block sewer 11 feet deep; 450 feet, 39-inch concrete or segment block sewer 9 feet deep; 980 feet, 36-inch concrete or segment block or vitrified pipe sewer 9 to 17 feet deep; 700 feet, 33-inch concrete, segment block or vitrified pipe sewer 7 to 9 feet deep; 230 feet, 27-inch concrete or vitrified pipe sewer 11 feet deep; 2,910 feet, 24-inch vitrified pipe sewer 5 to 7 feet deep; 780 feet, 22-inch vitrified pipe sewer 5 feet deep; 1,760 feet, 20-inch vitrified pipe sewer 5 to 9 feet deep; 1,190 feet, 18-inch vitrified pipe sewer 5 to 9 feet deep; 360 feet, 15-inch vitrified pipe sewer 5 feet deep; 1 special manhole on rectangular sewer; 3 manholes on rectangular sewer 7 to 11 feet deep; 37 standard manholes 5 to 17 feet deep; 129 storm water inlets; 240 feet, 15-inch vitrified inlet pipe; 3,660 feet, 12-inch vitrified inlet pipe; 4,770 sq. yds. reconstructing pavement; 2 brook connections, 100 cu. yds. concrete for foundations; 100 cu. yds. foundations of gravel, slag or stone; 100 cu. yds. rock excavation; 10,000 feet B. M. lumber left in place; 4,000 feet B. M. lumber for platforms and foundations.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for $2,000. The amount of bond required will be $25,000.

The work to be completed June 1, 1917.

The Common Council reserves the right to reject any or all bids, to waive defects in bids, or to accept any bid as they shall deem for the best interest of the City.

Duplicate plans may be examined, and forms of proposal, specifications, contract and bond, may be obtained at the office of Andrew J. Gavett, Street Commissioner, 151 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

Proposals should be endorsed "Proposals for Sewers."

CIVIC ASS'N ASKS FOR MORE LIGHTS

East End Residents Seek Additional Improvements for That Part of the City.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Interesting Reports Presented at Annual Meeting — Pending Completion of Emerson School Temporary Arrangements Will Be Made.

The second annual meeting of the East End Civic Association was held last evening in the Netherwood Reformed church. During the two years past the East End Civic Association has been a very active organization, securing many things for the improvement of that section of the city. The most important of these are the new Emerson School, nearing completion, and the acceptance of East Second street by the city, and the macadamizing of lower Leland avenue, now being done. Besides these it has secured sidewalks, sewers, crosswalks, lights, and other things for the benefit of the residents. Its greatest work, however, has been the bringing together of the people of this new section for work for the common good, the development of a community consciousness, and the establishment of a force for greater work in the future.

At last night's meeting the matter of the delay in completion of the Emerson School was discussed at length, and the consequent difficulty of sending little children to the Lincoln School. Resolutions were adopted asking the Netherwood Reformed church to permit the Board of Education to use, if they could arrange it properly, the small room in the church for school purposes until the completion of the new building. The resolutions also expressed the gratitude of the association to the church for its assistance in the past, and its co-operation in matters for the good of the community.

Two resolutions were adopted, addressed to the City Council, one asking for the placing of two lights on Leland avenue, one in the block between East Second and Front streets, and the other at the corner of Leland and Midway avenue; the other asking the Council to investigate the matter of blowing of whistles on the Union line trolley cars within the city limits.

The election of officers for the coming year resulted as follows: President, Edward S. Ralston; first vice-president, Charles S. Sminck; second vice-president, Edward M. Hughes; secretary, Willard W. James; treasurer, George D. Merkel; executive committee, Captain Charles Peterson, J. O. Osgood, Jr., Robert N. Crane, Mrs. H. M. Burney and Mrs. William A. Lippincott.

Plans will be made at once for developing a community centre in the cases are divided as follows:

SMALLEY HEADS NORTH PLAINFIELD G. O. P.

Everyone Re-elected but Allen Cowperthwaite, Who Refused to Be Treasurer.

At the annual meeting of the North Plainfield Republican Club held at headquarters on Front street last night, all of the officers were re-elected with the exception of Allen Cowperthwaite, who declined to serve as treasurer again. Mayor William L. Smalley was re-elected president; Horace Conover, secretary, and Jules Stahl, treasurer, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Cowperthwaite.

There were five vice presidents chosen, they being committeemen from each of the five districts in the borough, and are as follows: Alexander Milne, Henry DeMott, E. P. T. Smith, Howard Woolston and James B. Hoskin. Jules Stahl was elected chairman of the finance committee that will run the club for the year.

From now until election the headquarters on Somerset street will be open and plans for an active campaign are underway. Saturday a number will attend a meeting of the Somerset County Committee at Somerville, when it is expected that Edge and a number of other candidates will be present.

TROOPERS RECOVER FROM LONG HIKE

Daily Drills Still Being Held Despite Report of Going Home.

By JAMES J. McNAMEE.

Douglas, Ariz., Sept. 29.—All of the men have recovered from the effects of the eight-day hike and the usual morning drills are being held, despite the general excitement akin to moving. Last night an order came through from Major Hobart Brown, who commanded the cavalry on the outing to Fort Huachuca, complimenting Lieutenant J. M. Charles for his efficient handling of the wagon trains on the long grind. Lieutenant Charles was automatically relieved of the command of the wagon train an appointment which he received just before the unit started.

Stable Sergeant Louis Roberts assisted in the work of piloting the wagons through the dirty and almost impassable Arizona roads and many ropes and pulleys had to be employed to derrick the wagons out of holes.

It is expected that the troop, when it does depart, will be forced to leave behind most of the horses, if not all of them. A headquarters detail has been appointed and this will remain behind to bring the animals ahead later. No Plainfielders are included in this detail and it is certain that all of the Troop D men will accompany the outfit home when it does go.

Supply Sergeant John Foster Sickler has just completed the work of issuing the winter clothing allowance and equipment. This includes overcoats, winter blouses and smaller articles. Cold weather is anticipated when the troops arrive back in Sea Girt and every precaution will be taken to safeguard the health of the men.

Captain Borden conducted a noncommissioend officers' school in the mess shack this afternoon. Instructions of a tentative nature were given out and the general routine of work followed.

All of the quartermaster's stores have been packed together and the troop will be able to entrain within a few hours when definite word comes.

HEART TROUBLE FATAL TO MRS. AMANDA CURTIS

Mrs. Amanda Curtis, a sister of Miss A. E. Lincoln, the florist, died suddenly this morning at her home, 129 West Second street. Death was due to heart trouble. Mrs. Curtis had made Plainfield her home for many years and was well known to local people, who will mourn her demise. Beside Mrs. Lincoln, she leaves one son, David L. Curtis, of East Orange, and a brother residing in Philadelphia.

The funeral will be held from the late home Friday afternoon and will be in charge of the Rev. C. A. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church. The interment will be in Hillside cemetery.

LOCAL DELEGATE TO STATE C. E. CONVENTION

Miss Ida M. Wheeler, of Mountain avenue, left this morning for Red Bank, where she will attend the State Christian Endeavor Convention, which is in session October 4, 5 and 6. She is a delegate from the Watchung Avenue Presbyterian church and was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. R. O. Martin.

PREPARE FOR JOURNEY

Good News is Received With Cheering and Singing—Homesick Boys Now Wearing the "Smile That Won't Come Off."

Elizabeth, Oct. 4.—Agreeing to grant a motion for a summary investigation of county affairs in Union, provided the petitioners file a bond of $3,000 to meet the expenses in case no irregularities are disclosed, Supreme Court Justice James A. Bergen, at the opening of the Court of Oyer and Terminer yesterday, said a Supreme Court commissioner would be named to take testimony. Appointment of the commissioner was deferred until this will be done soon.

The motion was urged on behalf of the signers to the petition by Samuel Koestler, while Charles A. Reed, counsel for the Board of Freeholders, opposed the motion. Attention was directed by the court to the demand for the filing of a bond for $10,000 when the Hudson county inquiry was made, but that the expenses were approximately $50,000. In order that the $3,000 bond asked for the Union inquiry will meet expenses, Justice Bergen announced that the investigation will be limited to two points—whether the roads were improperly

DEATH SUMMONS PAUL J. LOIZEAUX

Noted Evangelist Passes Away at His Home in North Plainfield.

WAS NATIVE OF FRANCE

Was Co-Founder of the Bible Truth and Tract Depot—Leaves Eight Children, Three Sisters and Three Brothers—Funeral Friday P. M.

Paul J. Loizeaux, noted evangelist and co-founder of the Bible Truth and Tract Depot, located at Thirty-first street, New York city, died at 6:38 last evening, at his home, 134 DeLacy avenue, following illness with which he suffered more or less for a year. He was 75 years old, and was born in France. He came to the United States in early youth with his parents, who located in Iowa. He was a nephew of the late Elie Charlier of the Charlier Institute of New York, where he received his education and for some years was associated with its management as vice-director. Later he left this profession to devote his life to preaching the gospel. He was engaged in the latter for nearly half a century. In 1878 with his brother T. O. Loizeaux of New York, he founded the Bible Truth and Tract Depot and publishing house of Loizeaux Brothers.

Mr. Loizeaux came to Plainfield thirty-eight years ago and had made his home here ever since, despite the fact that he traveled considerably in his evangelistic work. He not only toured America, but also spent considerable time in preaching in England and France.

He is survived by eight children, four sons and four daughters. These are John Loizeaux, of Boston; Paul Loizeaux, of New York; Dr. Edward Loizeaux, of California; William Loizeaux, of Boston; Mrs. George Romann, Mrs. Walter Lough, Miss Sarah Loizeaux and Miss Lydie Loizeaux, all of this city. Three brothers and three sisters also survive him. These are Joshua L. Loizeaux, of Plainfield; Dr. Charles Loizeaux, of Des Moines, Iowa; Leon S. Loizeaux, of Colorado; Mrs. F. C. Jennings, of the borough; Mrs. Edward Acomb, of Minneapolis, and Mrs. Scott Keachie, of Chicago. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and interment will be in Hillside cemetery.

COL. R. C. M'KINNEY DIES AT AGE OF 64

Was Founder of Niles-Bement-Pond Tool Works.

Greenwich, Conn., Oct. 4.—After an illness of more than two years, Colonel Robert C. McKinney is dead at his home in Belle Haven at the age of 64.

Colonel McKinney was a native of Troy, N. Y., and a graduate of Cornell. At 20 he organized the Niles-Rement-Pond Company, of New York, toolmakers, and at the time of his death was chairman of the board of directors. He had been in Greenwich for fifteen years. He was president of the Machinists' Club of New York and a member of the Lotus and Union League Clubs, as well as the Greenwich Country Club and the Indian Harbor Yacht Clubs. He is survived by his widow and a daughter, Mrs. Sandford Etehrington, of New York.

NO DANGER OF GERMANS STARVING, SAYS OPERA STAR

"There is no danger of the people of Germany starving," said Mme. Marie Mattfeld, of the Metropolitan Opera House, who arrived yesterday on the steamship Hellig Olav from Copenhagen, after spending two months in Germany.

"There are no luxuries, it is true," she said, "but of life and health sustaining food there is enough. The authorities have organized food distribution on a remarkably efficient basis. I was told that under this system Germany can hold out against starvation for years.

"The feeling of the people with regard to the war is one of confidence, with a full realization of its seriousness. There are no longer any exuberant boasts of victory, but this feeling has given place to a determination that they have to win."

SEND THEM TO FRONT.

Paris, Oct. 4.—A memorandum attached to a bill introduced in the Chamber of Deputies by the Minister of War, Gen. Roques, authorizing the enrollment of young men of the class of 1918 preparatory to their being called to the colors, explains that the military instruction of the class of 1917 is about completed. The youths of the class of 1917 were enrolled upon reaching the age of eighteen. When members of the 1918 class are enrolled they will be six months older than the preceding class and will not be actually incorporated into the army until later.

SENATOR REED OPPOSES

Declared Freeholders Have Always Awarded Contracts to Lowest Bidders—Says Investigation Will Be Welcomed.

The following story was written by the Plainfield Daily Press correspondent just before the official orders were received by the First Squadron of Cavalry telling of its early departure for home, which fact was announced yesterday exclusively by the Press.

By JAMES J. McNAMEE.

Douglas, Ariz., Sept. 30.—Enthusiasm ruled the day in the Jerseymen's camp here today, the news of the probable home going of the First Squadron of Cavalry and First Field Artillery brought in a newspaper dispatch shortly after the reveille, having turned these two units into a state of wild excitement. For hours after the report was read cheering, singing and general confusion played havoc with all military regulations and the boys in these outfits are firmly confident that they will move homeward within a week or ten days. While not officially confirmed up to a late hour tonight the official personnel of the outfit affected insist that the information comes from an authoritative source and are willing to accept is as final. PIANIST IS NOTED FOR HIS "THREE T'S"

Rudolph Ganz Possesses Technique, Taste and Temperament.—Here Oct. 26.

Rudolph Ganz, the famed pianist who is to appear at the Hartridge Auditorium, Thursday night, October 26 at 8:30 o'clock, under the auspices of the Plainfield Musical Club, is noted for his "Three T's," technique, taste and temperament." The following tribuae to Mr. Ganz was written by one of the best known music teachers in America:

"As Switzerland is a healthy country, so is Ganz a healthy pianist; not only physically, but mentally, and we might add morally. His playing gives one the impression of a clear and beautiful day among the Alps; it is unaffected playing without morbidity; it is clean-cut, perfect in technic, sane in interpretation, it reflects the bigness of the mountain country. At the same time it is not lacking in dramatic force, or in soothing, singing tenderness.

"Rudolph Ganz is a many-sided and well-balanced artist. The three 'T's': Technique, Taste and Temperament are his in happiest combination.

"While possibly not so emotional as Paderewski, he has plenty of feeling, controlled, however, at all times by a fine mentality. Technically his playing is marvelous. His active work is wonderful; he has great power; he makes the piano sing or storm at will. His light playing is like sparkling sunlight, and there seems to be no limit to his speed. The programs are well selected to show the breadth of his art, no two numbers being of similar style or character."

STATE HEALTH BOARD RAISES QUARANTINE

At its meeting held at Trenton yesterday afternoon the State Department of Health repealed the regulations of the State Sanitary Code which require identification certificates for children under sixteen who enter the State or pass from municipality to municipality. The repeal takes effect today and enables children to now travel about without certificates.

MISSIONARY TO SPEAK AT PARK AVENUE CHURCH

The Rev. J. Madison Hare was in charge of the services and the pallbearers were: Charles Meyer, Thomas Whiteneck, James Johnson, Richard Hart, Louis Morell and C. E. Cole. Interment was made in the Scotch Plains cemetery.

MISS EDNA WILDEY AN AUTUMN BRIDE

Will Become the Wife of F. M. Welty, of Porto Rico, This Afternoon.

Miss Edna Wildey, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Wildey, and Frank Marshall Welty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cook Welty, of San Juan, Porto Rico, will be married at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the home of the bride-elect's sister, Mrs. Morris J. Dumont, on Kensington avenue. Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, will perform the ceremony. The guests at the wedding and reception will number about fifty.

Charles F. Wildey, Jr., will give his sister in marriage, and George Graves, of San Juan, will be the best man. The bride will be unattended. After the reception the couple will leave on a motor trip, and in November will go to San Juan, where the bridegroom is connected with one of the banking institutions.

Miss Wildey is well-known as an expert tennis player, having taken part in a number of State and national tournaments and winning many prizes. She is also interested in golf and other outdoor sports.

HOUSE WARMING AT M. E. PARSONAGE

Affair in Nature of Reception to Rev. Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Anderson.

A reception and house-warming was given to Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Charles M. Anderson at the parsonage, 610 Central avenue, by the members of the First Methodist church last evening. The house has been remodeled and redecorated under the supervision of George Rittenhouse, Mrs. Henry McGee and Mrs. J. H. Peck.

On behalf of the members of the church, Harry Gee presented Mr. and Mrs. Anderson with an electric lamp and spoke of the high esteem in which the recipients are held by the community. Dr. Anderson responded in an appropriate manner. The members of the Sunday-school acted as waitresses during the evening.

Mrs. W. A. Burnett was chairman of the committee in charge of the affair, the other members being Mrs. Arthur H. Osmun, Miss Lena Mae Jackson and Mrs. Harry Gee. The following were hostesses: Mrs. L. B. Albin, Mrs. Harry Gee, Mrs. J. H. Howell, Mrs. Henry McGee, Mrs. George Whitney, Mrs. George Rittenhouse, Mrs. Arthur E. Crone, Mrs. J. C. Peck, Mrs. W. A. Burnett, Mrs. Arthur Goodenough, Mrs. A. P. Atwood, Mrs. Samuel Bingaman and Miss Lena Mae Jackson.

MRS. T. R. RANDOLPH TO UNDERGO SECOND OPERATION

Mrs. T. R. Randolph, of West Fourth street, will re-enter Muhlenberg Hospital tonight to undergo another operation tomorrow morning. Although she left the institution about two weeks ago after one operation and has been gaining in health every day, physicians advised another operation at this time. Mrs. Randolph is the daughter of Capt. and Mrs. William C. Smith, of Grandview avenue, the borough. She has been staying at the latter's home since coming from Muhlenberg.

CITY MAY BE CUT OFF FROM SUPPLY OF CREAM

In the opinion of the majority of the Plainfield milk dealers the people of this city will be able to get milk no matter how severe the present strike becomes although several of them are already experiencing difficulty in securing cream.

In talking with a representative of one of the largest dealers in the city this morning it was gathered that the pasturized milk and cream would be the only dairy products to be difficult to obtain for local customers. The ordinary raw product is obtained from Pennsylvania, where the strike has made little progress. The pasturized milk comes in most part from New York State and dealers are not sure whether they are going to receive the next shipment or not, one local concern being ten cases short this morning.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY.

The Matlack Bible class of the First Baptist church will conduct a Hallowe'en party under its auspices in the Sunday-school rooms of the church tomorrow night. The committee have arranged a program of amusing and entertaining features for the evening.

STATE WILL PROBE MILK WAR IN N. Y.

Sweeping Investigation Started—Accuse Commissioner John J. Dillon.

New York, Oct. 4.—With both State and city officials making an effort to get at the facts in the milk war, the shortage in the city's supply today promised to go radically below the 40 per cent. which had been the previous low figure. Some estimates for the day said that New York would have to worry along today on only a quarter of its normal supply.

Sweeping investigation of the entire situation is expected to be started by Deputy Attorney General Merton E. Lewis, who is due to come down from Albany during the day armed with subpoenas to bring all of the chief figures in the big fight before a referee.

Other investigations and charges made by both sides are to be held in abeyance until the State's probe has found the facts. Among the deferred complaints is that made by Edward Lazansky, representing several dealers, in which he charges Commissioner John J. Dillon with responsibility for the shortage and the milk war.

Rev. C. W. F. Atlee, of Plainfield, will preach in the Stanton Reformed church Sunday.

Runkle Fisher, of New Germantown, left yesterday to enter Blair Academy. Last June he was graduated from the High Bridge High School.

TEDDY AND TAFT ARE FRIENDS AGAIN

At Least They Shook Hands in Public Last Night.

New York, Oct. 4.—The honest hand of Theodore Roosevelt grasped the honest hand of William Howard Taft at the Union League Club last night.

"How do you do?" asked Mr. Roosevelt.

"How do you do?" asked Mr. Taft.

Neither answered the other's question. Maybe they didn't care.

Only the privileged saw the historical event. Newspaper men were excluded. The affair, it was explained, was only a little private matter between gentlemen, arranged at considerable trouble for the public good.

Versions differ. Anyway, Mr. Taft was in an alcove, listening to Chauncey Depew tell one of his best stories. Somebody led the Colonel over. According to one report, it was George B. Sheldon, former National Republican Treasurer. George W. Perkins, however, says he investigated carefully, and it was Gov. Whitman. Whichever one it was, having conducted the Colonel to a position where he could see Mr. Taft on both sides of Mr. Depew, said, lightly, as it were:

"Col. Roosevelt, I want you to meet Mr. Taft."

Mr. Taft put out his honest hand. Mr. Roosevelt put out his honest hand. The honest hands approached, touched, interlocked, loosened, withdrew. The Colonel screwed his face into a smile. Mr. Taft smiled. The two earnest inquiries were made as to the two honorable healths. The Colonel passed on. He didn't have time to stay longer. Mr. Depew continued his funny story.

A Deadly Weapon.

There is a horrible weapon favored by certain of the hill tribes in the Ghauts of western Asia, which consists of four sharp, curved blades hidden under the fingers and securely held in place by rings passing over two of them. With such a contrivance Shivaji, the Maratha hero, is credited with having disemboweled his Mohammedan overlord when making a pretense of rendering him his humble submission.

The vagnaks ("tigers' claws"), as they are called, are distinctly more brutal than their western prototype, the "knuckle duster." — Wide World Magazine.

NEW BASKET LAW GOES INTO EFFECT NOVEMBER 1

Standards for Climax baskets for grapes, other fruits, and vegetables, and other types of baskets and containers used for small fruits, berries, and vegetables in interstate commerce, are fixed by an act approved by the President August 31, 1916. The law will become effective November 1, 1817.

The effect of the act will be to require the use of the standards, in manufacturing, sale, or shipment for all interstate commerce, whether the containers are filled or unfilled. A large part of the traffic in fruits and vegetables in this country enters in interstate commerce. The law relates only to the containers and will not affect local regulations in regard to heaped measure or other method of filling. A special exemption from the operations of the law is made for all containers manufactured, sold, or shipped when intended for export to foreign countries and when such containers accord with the specifications of the foreign purchasers, or comply with the laws of the country to which the shipment is destined.

Standards of three capacities are fixed for Climax baskets—2, 4 and 12 quarts, dry measure. These containers, often known as "grape baskets," have relatively narrow, flat bottoms, rounded at each end, and thin sides flaring lightly from the perpendicular. The handle is hooped over at the middle from side to side. In addition to fixing the capacities of these standard baskets of this type, the law also prescribes their dimensions.

The other standards are for "baskets or other containers for small fruits, berries and vegetables." They are to have capacities only of one-half pint, one pint, one quart, or multiples of one quart, dry measure. Such containers may be of any shape so long as their capacities accurately accord with the standard requirements.

The examination and test of containers to determine whether they comply with the provisons of the department, and the Secretary of Agriculture is empowered to establish and promulgate rules and regulations allowing such reasonable tolerances and variations as may be found necessary.

"MADE MY BLOOD RUN COLD."

A Common Expression That States a Physical Impossibility.

"My blood runs cold at the very thought" is not a novel expression. You often either hear some one else say it or aver it yourself.

Your blood cannot "run cold" as long as you are alive and well. If the blood really becomes colder than "blood heat" something serious happens to your health.

When you feel cold it is a sensation, not necessarily the temperature of the tissues. Often with the blood feverish or away above its normal warmth you feel chilly. So much of the superheated blood is then at the surface of the skin that an extra normal amount of heat leaves too quickly.

On the other hand, men and women who drink beer, gin, whisky and similar alcoholic beverages "feel the glow of warmth" and believe they are hot when as a matter of course their blood is a trifle below blood heat temperature—at times manifestly a dangerous thing.

True enough, the blood has much to do with how you feel. This, however, is not because it "blows hot or blows cold," but because that part of it in the skin where the sensations of heat and cold are located reflects the outside surroundings according to the previous experience and habits of each individual's skin.

If a stoker and an employee of a refrigeration plant are put in a cold draft or before an open grate fire each will feel chilly or hot according to his previous experience and habits. The stoker will "catch a cold" in the "draft," which will have no effect whatsoever upon the man used to cold storage temperature.—San Francisco Chronicle.

TALK AT NANTUCKET.

Where Old Salt Sea Phrases Come as Natural as Eating.

There has always been a charm about Nantucket for outsiders because of the sleepy quaintness of the place and the islanders' odd sea phrases so generously interlarded in their conversations. These phrases are so much a part of their talk that their use is unconscious.

They never pull, they always "haul;" they do not tie or fasten anything, they "splice" or "belay" it; they do not arrange to fix a thing, they "rig it" or "rig it up;" they do not throw anything away, but "heave it overboard;" they "back and fill;" they "luff," "tack," "come about" and "square away" on any and all occasions.

Before engaging in any venture they first "see if the coast is clear," then as they proceed they "keep the weather eye peeled" and always "look out for squalls." Then they "sound it out" until they "fathom" it. If they don't like the "lay of the land" they "give it a wide berth."

All this is acording to "The Nantucket Scrap Basket," a book compiled and edited by William F. Macy and Roland B. Hussey.

The authors tell the story of a certain Quaker mother of Nantucket, who once denied that she ever used any of the nautical expressions so common there, and told her children to remind her if they ever caught her doing it. The very next morning she gave them some eggs to leave at the home of a relative on the way to school with the words: "Take these into Cousin Phebe's and tell her I think this squares the yard with us, and thee must scud, for it's almost school time."

EVIL EFFECTS OF ALCOHOL DESCRIBED

Youthful Writer Tells What it Does to Man in Interesting Article.

"What Alcohol Does to Man" is the subject of an interesting article written by Clinton R. Harrower, aged 12½ years, which was entered this year in a composition contest in the Plainfield Grammar Schools. It is as follows:

"Is alcohol a poison, and if so, what are its effects on the human body? This is an all-important question to every person, and therefore, I will try to describe its effects on the drinker.

"Alcohol, when classed with other chemicals, may be classed as a stimulant. But any person who makes a practice of being thus stimulated, at last finds that it is ruining his body, mind and spirit.

"For a time, it is true, alcohol is a stimulant. But after the first feeling of strength wears away, the body is left weaker than before. At first the heart and other organs work faster. The blood vessels expand, and therefore the heart is compelled to beat faster to supply the demand of the blood vessels. From the need of working faster one can readily see how the heart is weakened. Drinkers are apt to drop dead suddenly from this cause.

"There is one point where alcohol does not stimulate. The flow of the digestive fluids is not stimulated, but is interfered with. The fluids are neutralized and have little effect upon the food that has been taken. This leads to stomach trouble, and to prevent it some people take a glass of wine after each meal. Instead of curing, this leads to more trouble.

"Many laborers have an idea that if they can take a drink before work it will help them, and that they can do more and better work when under its influence than men who are sober. Experiments show that this is entirely false. 'Both science and the experience of life,' says Dr. John J. Abel, of Hopkins University, 'have exploded the pernicious theory that alcohol gives any persistent muscular power.'

"Some people take beer in the summer to make them feel cool, and in the winter to make them feel warm. If you should ask such a person if there were anything that in the summer would make you cool, and in the winter warm, he would probably think you were crazy. You ask yourself also how this can be true. The whole secret is this: Alcohol, when taken into the body, deadens the nerves, therefore, if you take a drink you do not feel the heat. At the same time, it cools the body more than it warms it.

"This same fact is stated in the Word of God, in what is perhaps the shortest and most comprehensive statement ever written of the effect of alcohol upon the human system. In Proverbs 23:31-32, it is written:

"'Look not thou upon the wine when it is red, when it giveth his color in the cup, when it moveth itself aright. At the last it biteth like a serpent, and stingeth like an adder.'

"Some Hebrew scholars say that the true translation of this is:

"'Look not thou upon the wine when it is red, when it giveth his color in the cup, when it moveth itself aright. At the last it chilleth the blood like the bite of a serpent."

"Science has discovered that the effect of a serpent's venom is to lower the temperature, and really does chill the victim's blood. Thus, the Word of God and the discoveries of science both prove that the effect of alcohol upon the human system is the same as that of the venom of a rattlesnake. Perhaps also this has some relation to the fact that when in the last stages of delirium tremens, the victim of alcohol thinks himself covered with poisonous snakes, pressing their fangs into his body.

"The triangular badge of the Y. M. C. A. teaches us that man is made up of body, mind and spirit. Whatever affects one of these must affect the other two. The effect of alcohol upon the human system, as has been shown, is a final ruination of the body and mind. But it is even more than that; for it works the ruination of the immortal soul, for the Scriptures say:

"'No drunkard shall inherit the kingdom of heaven."

SLOANE ASKS COURT TO DISMISS ATTACHMENT

New Brunswick, Oct. 4.—Circuit Court Judge Frank T. Lloyd has granted a rule requiring Paul Daniel to show cause why a writ of attachment recently granted in the suit of Paul Daniel against John E. Sloane and the Sloane-Daniel Motor Company, a corporation, should not be quashed. The rule is returnable in this city before Judge Lloyd on Monday, October 30.

Accompanying the rule is an affidavit by John E. Sloane setting forth that he is not an absconding debtor and that he has lived in Plainfield for 25 years, and at his present address, 732 Dixie lane, Plainfield, for more than a year. The affidavit also sets forth that the Sloane-Daniel Motor Company is duly incorporated and that service could have been had thereon.

Martin B. Stutsman, of Plainfield, is counsel for the defendants in the suit brought by Mr. Daniel. Recently an attachment was levied by Sheriff Houghton in this suit on the property of the defendants, located in Middlesex Borough, this county.

CLERGYMAN KILLED, 2 HURT IN AUTO WRECK

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 4.—An automobile containing three prominent Illinois clergymen was wrecked on the Princeville road, east of here today, instantly killing Father Edward J. Scheutz, and seriously injuring Bishop Edward M. Dunne and the Rev. Father James V. Shannon, the rector of St. Mary's cathedral.

N. P. H. S. NOTES.

At a meeting of the Junior class today the following officers were elected: President, Stanley Burner; vice-president, Jack Cannon; secretary, Adele Demarest, and treasurer, Florence Campbell. The committee named to select a class ring gave their report and it was decided to wait for more samples. Routine business, including consideration of the class dues for the year, consumed the remaining time.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Boys' Athletic Association today it was decided to give the annual play some time after Christmas.

A team from the alumni of the school, captained by Ralph Smalley, will play a team from the High School on Saturday, October 7. Baseball practice was held this afternoon and a large number of hopeful candidates responded.

STUMPING TOURS HAVE PLAYED A GREAT PART IN OUR POLITICAL CAMPAIGNS

This Feature of Politics Had Its Origin In "Ballyhoo," When Candidates Indulged In Personal Attacks on Each Other.

General Harrison Was First Candidate For Presidency to Undertake Long Speaking Tour—Bryan's Unexampled Campaigns.

"STUMPING tours," as we have come to call them, when they are undertaken by presidential candidates, appeal to Americans as does no other political display during the exciting days that precede a nation wide election. It is possibly because such a tour brings the man who will be president in closer personal proximity to us than he may ever be after he has once been invested with the highest office within the gift of the nation.

At the present moment Charles E. Hughes, the Republican candidate, is stumping the country. It was announced, but later denied, that President Wilson would deliver addresses in various cities throughout the country before election day.

We read of Mr. Hughes donning overalls and descending into mines to greet dirt begrimed men of toil who could not spare the moments to ascend to the surface to greet him. Again, we see photographs of this man who wore the ermine addressing a congregation from a log platform in a small town, says T. F. Healey in the Philadelphia Public Ledger. We do not wonder at this. In fact, in a measure, we demand that he should do so. We demand that issues be placed fairly before us in person by the man who seeks to guide us.

Before Mr. Hughes took the stump the press of the country predicted a campaign and a series of debates between Mr. Hughes and President Wilson which for rhetorical accuracy, enlightened thought, beauty and facility of expression would be unrivaled in political literature. Both men have those rare gifts which would make this possible.

Invective In the Dust Bin.

During the recent conventions political writers of all shades of partisan belief devoted columns to what they frankly declared was "guff" and "ballyhoo." It is not unlikely that we shall find that the stumping tour had its origin in "guff" and "ballyhoo" as expressed in personal attacks, abuse and recriminations, features which played prominent parts in the early campaigns. Fortunately this has disappeared. The campaign of today is a clear cut business proposition, carried on with a desire to enlighten the people as to the merits of party issues and party management. Criticism, it is true, plays a prominent part, as it should.

Adams-Jefferson Contest.

The first and second elections of Washington, as the nation is proud to acknowledge, were virtually unanimous. It was the Adams-Jefferson contest which developed that unsavory feature of political contests which marked the campaigns of so many succeeding generations, for undoubtedly it was the most defamatory campaign ever known. Jefferson was soundly denounced as an unscrupulous demagogue and Adams as a regal despot, opposed to every principle of democratic government. There was an echo of this acrimonious bickering in the Jefferson-Adams-Burr contest in 1800-1801. Charges and counter charges and such abuse as would scarcely be tolerated now marked the fight, which culminated in an open breach between Burr and Jefferson and marked the beginning of the former's decline in popularity and power.

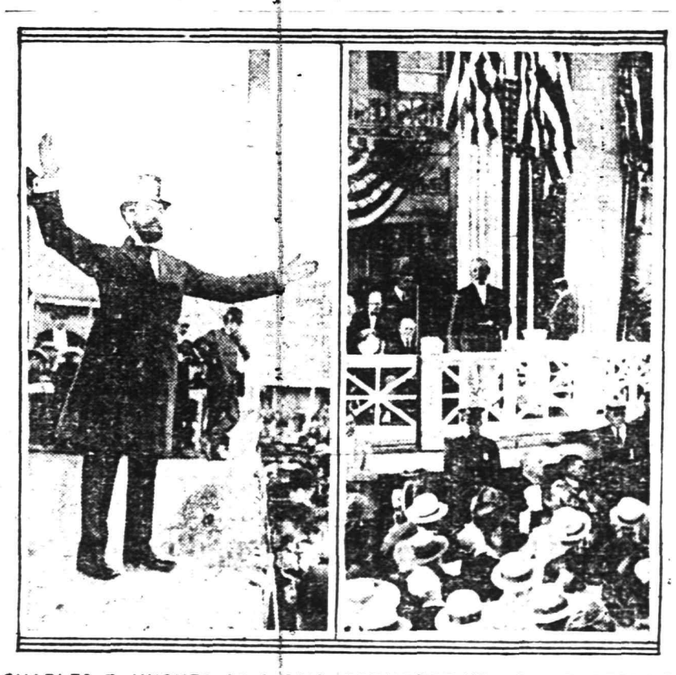
First Quarter of Century.

The battles from 1800 for a quarter of a century, which gave the succession of Jefferson, Madison and Monroe, marked the reaction from federal authority and the rise of democratic impulses in the republic. In fact, with the re-election of Monroe in 1820 the Federal party was a dead issue. The succeeding fight participated in by J. Q. Adams, Jackson, Crawford and Clay was in reality no contest at all. Some of the states did not poll half their votes, particularly Massachusetts and Virginia.

The Jackson-Adams and Jackson-Clay contests in 1828 and 1832 introduced the national convention. The first such convention was held in Philadelphia in September, 1830.

These fights were of unusual violence and bitter defamation, doubtless aggravated by the personal enmity which existed between Jackson and Clay. Clay's friends, and they were many, fought valiantly for him, using what weapons they could find, but Jackson was so strongly intrenched in the popularity of the masses that his victory was an easy one.

The Whig party was born during the Van Buren-Harrison struggle in 1836. It gradually absorbed the National Republicans, Federalists and anti-Masons and all the other forms of opposition that had fought Jackson. The party was strongly intrenched, and, had it not been for the power of Jackson, Van Buren could scarcely have been successful.



CHARLES E. HUGHES AS A CAMPAIGNER.

PRESIDENT WILSON ADDRESSING AN AUDIENCE.

An Unusual Campaign.

Now comes the first campaign which sees at least one of the candidates on the stump. The Harrison-Van Buren contest of 1840 is particularly of interest to students of American politics because it gave birth to the Abolition party, the cornerstone of the Republican party. It was born at Warsaw, Genesee county, N. Y., in December, 1839, and it nominated James G. Birney of New York for president and Thomas Earle of Pennsylvania for vice president.

Developed the Spellbinder.

As a large portion of the Democratic party were opposed to Van Buren, only their devotion to Jackson made them accept him as their candidate. General William H. Harrison of Ohio was his opponent, with John Tyler of Virginia his running mate. It was the first national campaign in which the masses of the American people took intense interest.

The campaign resulted in the overwhelming defeat of Van Buren, a result which was credited at the time to the efforts of General Harrison himself, who took to the stump to defend himself against accusations that he was a mere puppet in the hands of powerful political leaders. This, as far as can be learned without exhaustive research, was the first time a candidate personally undertook a long speaking tour. His efforts so impaired his health that he died little more than a month after his inauguration.

Scott's Speaking Tour.

The next record which can be found of a candidate facing the people is that of the campaign speeches of General Scott, the Whig candidate, in 1852. He was opposed by Franklin Pierce, and, although he had great faith in his own election, he stood virtually alone. Against the advice of his friends he arranged a speaking tour and delivered numerous speeches.

The canvass of 1856 gave the nation its first Pennsylvanian as president, James Buchanan. In that campaign the Republican party took its place as a national organization. It was in Cincinnati, on June 2, that Buchanan was nominated. Everything indicated his election, for the Republican party was not at that time considered strong enough to unite the American and conservative Whig elements. It held its first convention in Philadelphia in 1856 and nominated Fremont for president.

Millard Fillmore became the nominee of the American or Know Nothing party, and the resulting campaign was one of the most desperately fought of any. There is no record that Buchanan took the stump.

Lincoln took no prominent individual part in his battle against Breckinridge, Douglas and Bell in 1860, but Douglas undertook a speaking tour which covered the entire south and west, and he even spoke at various places in New York and in other eastern states. Following Lincoln's renomination in 1864 the victories of Sherman and Sheridan caused a tidal wave which overwhelmed McClellan, rendering him the worst defeated candidate in history.

Grant a Strong Speaker.

Grant delivered public speeches, probably for the first time in his eventful life, in support of Garfield. Grant was undoubtedly the first ex-president publicly to advocate the selection of another man. There is no record of the extent of Grant's tour, but there are records which state his speeches were strong and effective.

Blaine, in his contest with Cleveland in 1884, was beyond all doubt the man who made the campaign tour the national institution it is today. He was a speaker of great force and power. He knew how to sway audiences and, more than that, he managed to direct his own campaign.

Harrison an Adroit Campaigner.

The Harrison-Cleveland contest in 1888 differed from the Cleveland contest of 1884 in that it was free of vituperation and abuse. It was conducted in a most dignified fashion on both sides. Cleveland took little personal part in it, but Harrison delivered almost daily speeches to visiting delegations at Indianapolis. Harrison was the victor in this campaign.

The Democrats nominated Cleveland a third time to run against Harrison in 1892. The fight was earnestly contested along the lines of the previous one, and it will be remembered as one in which the party in power was defeated when the country was prosperous.

Great Battle of 1896.

The great battle of 1896 between McKinley and Bryan is still fresh in the minds of all. Bryan, the candidate of the Democrats and the National Silver party, made a campaign that astonished his opponents and established him as a popular idol of the people. It was an unexampled campaign, for he circled the country and delivered more speeches than had ever been attempted by any candidate.

In his second battle with McKinley Bryan repeated his stumping performance, although his opponent bore himself with the same dignity and discretion that he exhibited in 1896. He gave occasional political deliverances. Bryan found he could still draw the people, although his addresses were of a more sober tone.

Bryan's Last Effort.

When Roosevelt entered the contest with Parker in 1904, after filling the unexpired term of McKinley, it turned out to be an unusually quiet one, with Roosevelt successful. In the 1908 battle between Taft and Bryan the latter made a third great tour of the country in the hope of achieving success at last. Taft made political speeches at various places, but he attempted no such strenuous efforts as apparently delighted the "great commoner."

The story of 1912, with Roosevelt, Wilson and Taft before the nation, scarcely needs repeating. The colonel drew immense audiences. His great personality had captivated the American people, and it is doubtful if even Bryan ever drew such crowds. Wilson, with his great literary gifts and his skill as a speaker, made a remarkable impression on the stump. Hughes has been stumping alone, but as the campaign progresses more prominent men of both parties will go out on the stump to make votes for their respective candidates.

WOMEN TO REPLACE MEN IN CANADIAN INDUSTRIES

Males of Military Age Will Be Urged to Enlist In New Recruiting Campaign.

Women are to take the places of men in the industries of Canada, according to the latest dispatches from Ottawa. This step has been decided upon as a result of the latest recruiting campaign in the Dominion, which is endeavoring to raise an additional 100,000 recruits in order to bring its enlistments up to the half million quota promised to Great Britain. In order to facilitate the placing of women in the industries a labor census will be taken in each military district.

The arrangements call for the employment of women in each case where it is found that they can do the work required of men, while the latter will be urged to enlist if they come within the prescribed age limit. Discharged soldiers, men physically unfit to serve and those who are considered to be performing more valuable service in their present employment than they would be able to do in the trenches are to receive badges.

Four hundred thousand men have already enlisted in Canada, and in order to stimulate further voluntary enlistment an additional service board has been authorized. This new board will be under the direction of Sir Robert Tait.

JUSTICE SNAPE'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of Justice Thomas Henry Snape, formerly of North Plainfield, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30, from his late home in Linden. The service will be in charge of the Rev. Evarts C. Cook, pastor of the Temple Baptist church. The interment will be in Hillside cemetery, this city.

The Four Ages of Man at Rothberg's

THE SPRINGTIME OF YOUTH. For the young man of 16 to 20, who is starting out in life, Rothberg's Junior Clothes are the thing, combining in their lines the lustre of style and the gusto of youth.

THE SUMMER OF MANHOOD. For the man of 25 to 40 or thereabout, who has chosen a wife and a calling, and wants clothes compatible with his responsibilities—Rothberg's are prepared to supply them.

THE AUTUMN OF MAN. For the man of affairs, who is in the Indian Summer of life, deep chested and expansive, and wants clothes that will show his girth to advantage—Rothberg's Fashionable Clothes will do the trick.

THE WINTER OF MAN'S REFLECTIONS. For the man whose age is a secret and who wants to look young without trying, Rothberg's have the clothes that will enable him to lead a life of deception indefinitely.

An Ingenious Scarecrow.

A writer in the Farm and Fireside tells of one of the most effective plans for keeping birds from cherries and other tree and garden fruits. "Take two or three two-pound Manila paper bags, dip them in linseed oil to make them waterproof, place half a dozen peas in each, blow them up full of air and tie up the open end. Fasten these bags in the trees, two or three to each tree, or to stakes in berry fields with bits of stout twine about six inches long. The wind, blowing the bags about, will rattle the peas inside them, and the unaccustomed objects and the rattling noise will keep the birds out of every tree or bed so decorated and do it effectively."

In the Dwelling.

I have always felt that the best security for civilization is the dwelling and that upon properly appointed and becoming dwellings depends more than anything else the improvement of mankind. Such dwellings are the nursery of all domestic virtues, and without a becoming home the exercise of those virtues is impossible.—Disraeli.

BROOKLYN CAPTURES SENIOR LEAGUE FLAG

Phillies Officially and Hopelessly Out of National League Race.

After Brooklyn had waited sixteen years for a National League baseball championships its hopes were finally realized yesterday when Wilbert Robinson led the best pitching staff in the league and other accomplished guardians to victory over the New York Giants. But as is generally the case where unfortunate Brooklyn is concerned, there is a slight flaw in the final standing.

The fault does not lie with the Superbas, but rather with the opponents of the Brooklyn club—John J. McGraw's record smashing baseball machine. In the eleventh hour statement McGraw accused his players of not doing their best against the Dodgers. He asserted that the team was not a team but nine individual performers striving one against the other. He declared that indifferent playing by the members of the Giants made the load of their opponet lighter.

McGraw, angry at rebellion among his subordinates, attacked the supreme honesty of the national pastime and practically made charges against his hirelings, which aroused more than a breath of scandal to rest upon the heretofore carefully guarded, virtuous sport. In the heat of the moment McGraw said he was through with the Giants and would refuse to have any further dealings with men who would deliberately burlesque baseball.

By Peter P. Carney.

The Southern was the only one of the four subsidiary handicaps given by the Interstate Association for the Encouragement of Trapshooting in 1916 that had a larger number of entrants in the main event than in any previous year, although one of the tournaments—the Eastern—while not having as many entrants in the main event as on two previous occasions, was the greatest trapshooting tournament ever conducted in the East, excepting, of course, the Westy Hogans.

The Southern had 244 entries in the main event held in Memphis, Tenn., with 177 men and women to face the traps. The best previous entry list was at Roanoke, Va., in 1913, when 163 men appeared. F. C. Koch, of Phillipsburg, O., high average man in the Central Ohio Trapshooters' League in 1914, won the event from 19 yards with 95 breaks. R. E. Duval, Mayor of Belleville, Ill., and president of the gun club of that city, tied Koch, but lost on the second shoot-off. William Ridley, of What Cheer, Ia., won the introductory event, with 98; Woolfolk Henderson, of Lexington, Ky., won the special with 98; W. H. Fitzgerald, of Clarksville, Miss., won the overture with 99; John R. Livingstone, of Springville, Ala., won the preliminary handicap from 22 yards with 96; Mrs. B. P. Remy, of Indianapolis, Ind., won the women's trophy and Bill Ridley, of What Cheer, won the high average prize, breaking 340 out of 350 targets.

There were 159 entrants in the Western Handicap, held in Omaha, Neb., against 230 in St. Louis in 1915; 227 in Denver, in 1906; 202 in Denver, in 1907, and 188 in Omaha, in 1911. The handicap was won by E. T. Gibbs from 17 yards with 92. There was only six scores better than 90. It was quite different in the preliminary handicap, which was won by George Nicolai, of Kansas City, the doubles open champion. He broke 97 from 20 yards and 29 shooters broke 93 or better. W. S. Hoon, of Jewell, Ia., broke 100 straight in the introductory event and O. C. Bottger broke 99 in the special, while C. H. Larson broke 97 in the overture. Mrs. Edminston, of Des Moines, won the women's trophy. Hoon and C. C. Tappan, from the sand hills of Nebraska, tied for the average trophy with 339 breaks in 350; 40,775 targets were thrown.

Shooters of nine States and a hundred cities, fired at the inanimate clays in the Eastern Handicap; 85,555 targets were thrown representing a cost of $5,988.85 to the shooters in targets and ammunition.

Greenland's Exclusiveness.

Greenland, with its icy mountains, is very exclusive, and, so far from inviting visitors, it even makes it inconvenient for tourists to land on the little bit of occasionally green land that surrounds its great heart of perpetual ice. Permission must be had from Denmark. Denmark is, indeed, very careful and conservative in the management of Greenland affairs. The trade there is monopolized by the state, and only government vessels are welcomed to Greenland waters. This is to protect the Greenlanders from unscrupulous merchants. The state also fixes both the price they shall pay for food and the price they shall sell at.

Mazarin's Bible.

The "Mazarin Bible" is so called because the first copy described was found in the library of Cardinal Mazarin at Paris in 1700. It was printed by Gutenberg between 1450 and 1455 and was the first complete book ever printed from movable type. Its distinction is not in any peculiarity of text, but in the fact that it was the first book of any kind so printed under the personal supervision of Gutenberg, the inventor of printing. There are known to exist twenty-six copies, worth from $15,000 to $20,000 each.

FRED IRWIN'S BIG SHOW AT COLUMBIA THEATRE

Fred Irwin's Big Show is the title of the burlesque company at the Columbia Theatre this week. Two one-act travesties in which spirited musical numbers are generously introduced and a long program of vaudeville specialties constitute the performance. This particular "Big Show," like its distinguished namesake now on exhibition elsewhere on the local stage, is said to depend for its attractiveness upon the novelty of its arrangement, the spectacular character of its scenic and costume embellishments, the multitude of its comedians and singing and dancing girls and the prodigality of its interpolated special features. An unusually pretentious assemblage of talent of all descriptions is announced whose efforts are confined to creating the sort of entertainment that keeps an audience constantly interested and perfectly amused. In the cast are George Gould, Billy Power, George Wong, Jean Leonard, Marjorie Bonner and Queenie Happy. The vaudeville program is headed by the Nat Nazarro troupe of acrobats, and the Sherlock Sisters, who will be seen in a Hawaiian specialty that is said to be an exact counterpart of the national songs and dances that are performed by the natives. In all of its details this production is described as illustrating to the fullest extent the determination of burlesque producers to advance the character of their special line of endeavor to a place among the worthy things of the stage.

POLITICAL NOTES.

October 24—Third and final registry day in municipalities more than 10,000 population.

October 31.—Third registry day in municipalities of less than 10,000 population.

November 7—General election.

The official tabulation of the votes in Union and Morris counties, comprising the Fifth Congressional district, gives Congressman John H. Capstick a slightly greater lead over former Congressman Charles N. Fowler. The original returns gave Capstick a lead of 154. The official figures give him 175 in the two counties. The official Union county figures gave Capstick 4,282 and Fowler 4,964, while the original returns gave Capstick only 4,273 and Fowler 4,984, a difference of twenty-nine votes. The official Morris county figures give Capstick the same as in the origian returns, 3,595, but they give 2,738 as against 2,730 in the original returns. This plurality of Capstick's is just about one vote to an election district, there being a total of 171 districts in the two counties, 108 in Union and 63 in Morris.

Tentative plans have been made by State Committeeman Dennis F. Collins for a tour of Union county by H. Otto Wittpenn, the Democratic Gubernatorial candidate, October 27, on the eve of the general election. The tour will be by automobile, according to present plans, and will take in nearly every municipality in the county ending with a mass meeting in Elizabeth. The Democrats are planning to make an unprecedented bid for Union county this year and all signs indicate that this country will be as much a bone of contention as it was in the Republican primaries. It is likely that Senator Edge, the Republican nominee, will spend more time here than he did in the primary campagn and arrangements are being made for the Edge campaign.

Congressman Nicholas Longworth, son-in-law of former President Roosevelt, is coming to Atlantic City to take part in the campaign to re-elect Representative Isaac Bacharach.

If Sheriff Eugene F. Kinkead is elected Congressman in the Eighth district on November 7 he will resign as sheriff, and Governor Fielder will have power to name a sheriff to fill the vacancy in Hudson county. It is a matter of common report that in case Kinkead resigns, Surrogate John P. Egan will be appointed by Governor Fielder to the shrievalty for the unexpired term, ending November, 1917. The salary of sheriff is the same as that of surrogate, namely, $7,500 a year. James F. Norton expects to succeed John P. Egan as surrogate. The last time the Governor appointed a sheriff for Hudson county was in 1899, when Governor Voorhees appointed the late Alexander McLean to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Sheriff Heller.

Color Tones For Whistler.

About the time James McNeill Whistler, the artist, was causing a sensation with the painting which he called "A Harmony In Black and Red," "A Nocturne In Blue" or some such name he had a misunderstanding with his club regarding dues. The secretary finally wrote to Mr. Whistler saying that the club would be glad to receive from him "an arrangement in gold and silver."

A Matter of Stripes.

A St. Louis boy, who has often seen the convict labor of his state, was visiting a relative in Chicago, who one day took him to the zoo. Among the creatures that particularly interested the youngster was a zebra.

"Say, uncle," exclaimed he, pointing to the queer beast, "look at the convict mule!"—New York Times.

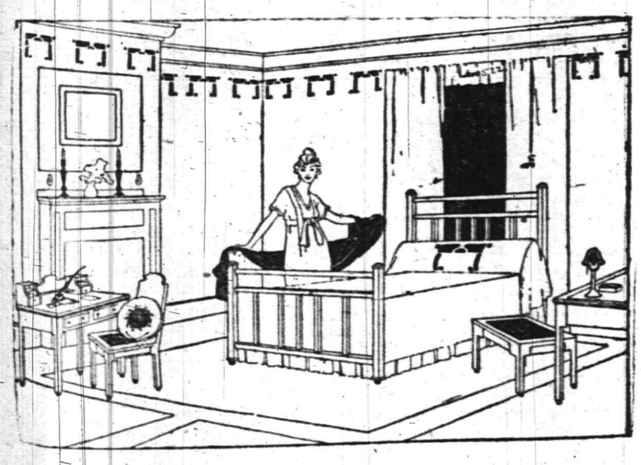
"THE FALL OF A NATION"

If you are a student of the "ads" you KNOW WHAT IT OUGHT TO COST.

Before you have followed the plan of reading the ads for very long you become an EDUCATED judge of values. This education must be kept up to the hour.

The shopper may often reduce the VALUE-GETTING POWER of her dollar to fifty cents—simply through neglecting to read the ads, or to know values—and by buying at "the nearest place."



"I had no idea that you carried such fine furniture at such low prices."

HER FIRST SURPRISE came when she saw the price on a beautiful Mahogany Dresser—"Only $25.00 for that and the other stores wanted so much more for the same kind."

THEN SHE SELECTED a rug of most dainty coloring and design, also her draperies to harmonize correctly with the other furnishings.

FURTHER SAVINGS were made in selecting the Bed, a soft, comfortable Mattress and guaranteed springs.

Make your next home-furnishing purchase here and see how pleasant, satisfactory and economical it will prove.

JOYOUS OVER HOME GOING

mind is obsessed with the thought of home and friends and the telegraph office was kept busy flashing home "one hundred words for a dollar" all day and part of the night.

For the first time in weeks the homesick element is wearing a cheerful countenance and the gloom that has been hovering over the camp for days past has broken suddenly into joy. Even before the official orders are received it is noticeable that individuals are packing up their personal equipment and companies and troops are preparing for the last minute rush. Quartermaster departments tonight are in such a condition that they could board a train in twenty-four hours and the men declare that only minutes will be necessary for them to say their fond adieu to Arizona and get what belongs to them on a troop train.

In one troop, however, a streak of gloom is mingling with the sunshine. While on the parade grounds this morning putting his charges through a drill, Captain Wilbur Kyle, of the Essex outfit, was thrown from his horse and sustained a broken collar bone. The break was set in the camp hospital and tonight he is resting as comfortably as can be expected in his tent here. It is not believed that it will be necessary to remove him to the Base Hospital, and that he will be able to accompany the outfit is certain. In the meantime the troops is going ahead with its preparations for departure.

An incident occurred in the Fifth Infantry camp last night that caused First Lieutenant Will Kruitboach to send out a hurry call for a car entry corps this morning and furnished him and his associates with enough work to keep their minds occupied while the other units were raising hub-bub about leaving. One of the inmates of the frame guardhouse which, by the way, is the pride of the camp and the direct result of Lieutenant Kruitbosch's ingenuity, took "French leave" last night and went to town to see a Jesse James motion picture in one of the local theatres. The prisoner who, by the way, is in for a ninety-day term, climbed over the top of the wooden partition that separates the cells and found himself in a corridor on the side of the building left unguarded by the sentry patrolling the detail. By lifting out a pane of glass the man found himself in the open and left for the "white lights." He returned to camp shortly before midnight and got back in his cell the same way he got out. This morning the missing pane of glass was discovered and an investigation followed in which the prisoner admitted his excursion to town and the officers are today willing to admit that the laugh is on them.

While it is confidently expected that some New Jersey units are to take possession of this camp, no information concerning the identity of the units could be obtained today, and inasmuch as the home trip is now in sight the soldiers here are not interesting themselves in or worrying about who is likely to succeed them. One things is certain, and that is that the newcomers will have a far more easier time of it than did those here now when they first landed. Everything has been put in tip-top shape and the camp is in ideal shape for the establishment of winter quarters. Of course, some additional buildings will have to be erected for the winter, but outside of this there is little room for improvement.

One thing the guardsmen have been thinking about in connection with their leaving is the fact that a majority of them are "broke." Most every man here intended to bring one or more Arizona souvenirs back to home folk and are scurrying around to make a "touch" in order to fulfill promises.

Colonel Albert Van Wairaven, who is in command of the troops now stationed here, issued an order this morning making compulsory for every man in the camp to submit to the para-typhoid innoculation. Many of the soldiers escaped the "jab" in the arm when the companies were lined up for it the forepart of the week. In accordance with this ruling the ones who had been classing themselves among the fortunate were called to the hospital tent late today and underwent the operation. The units who will probably return home first were placed at the head of the list, Company A, of the Fifth Regiment, which was infested with the ailment about three weeks ago and placed in an isolation camp, was returned to its regimental quarters this afternoon.

Officers of the Jersey City Signal Corps claim to have verbal orders to move to Nogales and they will be there for three months at least. The men are also firmly confident that this is what is in store for them, and although they are much depressed over the news, considering the fact that some units are due to return to Jersey, they are already packing and will be prepared to set forth on the trip the minute the official order appears.

FOWLER MAY JOIN IN ASKING FOR RECOUNT

Although no definite step has been taken as yet, it is very likely that on or before Thursday of this week an application will be made by former Congressman Charles N. Fowler for a recount of the votes cast in the Fifth Congressional district for the Republican nomination for Congressman. Possibility of the recount was made almost a certainty yesterday, when it was reported from Morris county that a recount of the votes in that county was to be asked by Senator Rathbun, who was defeated for renomination by J. W. Mutchler, of Boonton. If such a recount is applied for and ordered, there is little doubt but that Fowler will be a party to it.

113 PATIENTS AT BONNIE BURN DURING SEPTEMBER

Dr. J. F. Runnells, superintendent of the Bonnie Burn Sanitorium, in his September statement, reports that on September 1 there were 113 patients, 73 men and 40 women, at the institution. During the month 15 patients were admitted, 10 males and 5 females, classified as follows:

Incipient stage, 1 male; moderately advanced, 1 male, 3 females; far advanced, 8 males, 2 females. The largest numberof patients present at any time during the month was 113, the smallest number 107, and the daily average enrollment 110. Eighteen patients were discharged during the month.

ARE YOU STILL SKEPTICAL

The directors of the Newcomb Carburetor Sales Company were FAR MORE SKEPTICAL than you.

THEY HAD TO BE SHOWN

and in the showing, they too, admitted that the results from the Newcomb were years ahead of THE PRESENT-DAY CARBURETOR.

IN THE

Newcomb Carburetor

There are NO VALVES, SPRINGS, BALLS or CAMS as found in the ordinary carburetor; to vary and lose adjustment.

The air and gasoline are vaporized, not at ONE POINT, as in the Carburetors heretofore, but at 72 POINTS; and the mixture of gasoline and air is THROWN AGAINST a WALL WITH AN AVERAGE OF 27 SQ. INCHES, maintained at a temperature of 190 DEGREES, at a VERY HIGH VELOCITY. As a result, the Newcomb delivers a DRY, HOMOGENEOUS GAS TO THE MOTOR.

The present day gasoline is, on the average 21 per cent. Kerosene, and the NEWCOMB is designed to vaporize and handle PRESENT DAY GASOLINE.

The scientific precision with which the Newcomb Carburetor measures out the fuel at ANY THROTTLE POSITION for ANY LOAD or SPEED; with the AEROSTATIC CONTROL of the GASOLINE FLOW FROM THE NOZZLE, giving automatic connection for weather or altitudial changes, and the scientific way the instrument vaporizes PRESENT DAY GASOLINE, is the reason we can guarantee

MR. NUGENT AND LOCAL OPTION.

(From the Newark Evening News.)

James R. Nugent, at the meeting of the Democratic County Committee Saturday night, predicted the defeat of Edmund B. Osborne, Republican candidate for Senator from Essex county, because of his stand in favor of option option. If he knew anything of the temper of the people of Essex county, declared Mr. Nugent, he knew "that they will not elect to office any man who proposes to tell the men and women of the county what they shall eat or what they shall drink."

Now as it happens the people of Essex have elected repeatedly men to the Legislature who have done just this very thing and they have never shown any symptoms of sorrow. Every pure food act on the statute books is one telling the men and women of Essex what they shall eat and what they shall drink. So is the law fixing a certain milk standard, and likewise the law prohibiting the sale of certain habit forming drugs.

All these laws are restrictive of personal liberty. They interfere seriously with a man's right to undermine his health with adulterated foods, to destroy his body and soul with noxious drugs, or to starve his babies with thin, cheap and impure milk. Also they make it difficult for the dealers in these prohibited articles to earn a dishonest dollar and no body has protested more loudly against such restraints on the freedom of bargain and sale than these same thrifty and unconscientious individuals. Essex legislators have assisted in the enactment of every one of these bills, and not even Mr. Nugent would have the temerity to advocate their repeal.

But it is not even true that Mr. Osborne wants to tell the men and women of Essex what they shall eat or what they shall drink. In the instances above cited the legislators themselves took the responsibility of restricting personal liberty. Mr. Osborne proposes nothing of the kind. His proposal is that the people in each municipality of Essex county, as of other municipalities in the State, shall settle the question for themselves. If a majority of them want liquor, let them have it, but if a majority are in favor of no license then let the majority rule. It is a strictly home rule proposition.

Of course this is beside the question as to the proper method of applying the principle of local option, or of the claims that may be offered for or against Mr. Osborne's qualifications for the office he seeks. There are other issues involved in the Senatorial contest than that of local option.

* * * * * * *

There is a deplorable lack of interest in the Board of Freeholders' investigation. Taxpayers seem to look upon the probe as a far-away affair which cannot possibly interest them unless criminal charges result, and they are forgetting that every cent of the money paid out belonged to them. A victory for the people was won in Elizabeth yesterday when a motion for a summary investigation of affairs was granted by Justice Bergen. This was opposed by the freeholders, who want the investigation conducted by a committee of their own creation. Petitioners for the investigation will be required to file a bond of $3,000 which is to reimburse the county for expense if no irregularities are found and when they evidence a willingness to do this they prove the sincerity of their charges. Citizens should watch every detail of the progress of the probe, for it concerns their affairs.

There is a note of warning to the saloonkeepers of Plainfield in the recent selection of a Republican city chairman. J. Henry Crane, who succeeds John J. Carroll there, was one of the most active of the advocates of no-license, and his recognition by the Republican organization means that the opponents of the open saloon are on top, for the present at least.

POULTRY EXHIBITION AT COUNTY SEAT

All Members of Union County Organization Requested to Attend Meeting.

The annual poultry show of the New Jersey Poultry Association will be held in Elizabeth from November 28 to December 2, and it is expected that a large exhibit of birds will be had.

Charles J. Fisk, formerly of this city, president of the Union County Poultry Association, asks that all members of the association consider it their duty to attend the next regular monthly meeting to be held in the Board of Trade rooms, Broad street, Elizabeth. Rufus Delafield, South Plainfield, is vice-president of the county organization.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF MRS. MARIA GARDNER HELD

The funeral of Mrs. Maria Gardner, whose death occurred Sunday was held this morning from the residence of her sister, Mrs. George McCusker, 128 Berckman street, and later from St. Mary's church, where a solemn mass of requiem was offered by the Rev. Joseph S. McDonald. Many beautiful flowers were sent by relatives and friends of the deceased, and the church was filled with her many friends and acquaintances. The interment was in St. Mary's cemetery, the following acting as pallbearers: Charles Ward, Michael Whalen, Michael Monahan, John Flynn, Charles Flynn and George McCusker.

MANY MORUNERS ATTEND FUNERAL OF MRS. SYKES

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth B. Sykes, whose death occurred suddenly Sunday morning, was held in Grace Episcopal church yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, the rector of the church, officiated at the Episcopal service.

The church choir boys rendered a number of vocal selections. These were "The King of Love My Shepherd Is," "Hark, Hark My Soul" and "Ten Thousand Times Ten Thousand." Many beautiful flowers were sent by relatives and friends, a large number of set pieces being included. Interment was in the Scotch Plains cemetery.

APPEAL MADE IN BEHALF OF DEAF AND DUMB BOY

School days are here again and it is pleasant to see the bright faced children, with clean hands and faces and pretty new clothes. The Charity Organized Society is interested in a little boy who is deaf and dumb. He is as bright as the other children, but has to be taught at Trenton, where the State provides free schooling, but requires a uniform. This uniform costs $10.95 and the C. O. S. asks the boys of Plainfield to pay for the uniform. Will you, boys? Send a quarter or a dime or whatever you can to No. 323 Babcock building, or telephone 103 what you will give.

Plainfield Theatre.

In "The Spiegel Revue" which will be seen at the Plainfield Theatre on Monday, matinee and night, October 9, Max Spiegel has set out to give a burlesque production which will be to burlesque what Ziegfeld's Follies is in its own particular department. It is a mammoth production with ten massive sets of scenery and a wardrobe appointment that would dress three or four ordinary burlesque shows. Mr. Spiegel astonished producers by the magnificence of his "Merry Rounders" production but never satisfied with what he has done, this ambitious burlesque magnate has built his new show on a scale which easily eclipses last year's wonder. He gave his own personal attention to the staging and was assisted by Thomas Grady. He retained George Totten Smith to provide a book that would be regarded as unusual, and he had the music written by Ruby Cowan and J. Strause. His cast is composed of such well known burlesque people as Billy Mossey, the German comedian with the funny little laugh, Harry Crawford, the tall eccentric; Folly Follette, prima donna; Midgie Miller, a fast working soubrette; Callahan Brothers, dancers; Leo Mandell, a straight man; the Twentieth Century Four. A chorus of unusual beauty forms an important part of the organization and appears in a bewildering maze of dance creations. The piece is in two acts and ten scenes, the settings covering a variety of environments. They include Spotless Town, a railroad station, Kid's restaurant, 42nd street, New York city, a ladies' reducing parlor, a night court, a street scene, the Peacock room of the Hotel Giltmore, New York city, and others. There are also two big electrical novelties. One is called "The Girl on the Magazine," introducing Marie Allen, the modern Venus, who appears in a series of poses representing the covers of magazines. The other is "The Smiling Moon,' in which a girl's face appears in the moon, furnishing an electrical revelation of great beauty. The scenery was provided by P. Dodd Ackerman. Mr. Spiegel's shows all have a distinctive class about them, and even the "Merry Rounders," last season's big success, did not in any way approach this new show in point of beauty and grandeur.

That Bob Fitzsimmons still retains much of his prowess of the days when he was the champion heavyweight fighter of the world, despite his advancing years, was evidenced in the three rounds he sparred with his son, Bob Fitzsimmons, Jr., at the Plainfield Theatre last night. The Fitzsimmons act is the headline feature of the pretentious bill arranged by Manager Shannon for Tuesday and Wednesday. Bob, Sr. is still popular with the public and his appearance last night was the cause for thunderous applause. Before his exhibtion with Bob, Jr., he gave the true story of his life of how he came to be the champion of the world.

Four other acts complete the well rounded program. These are June and La Van, two dainty maids in a song offering; Ned and Norton, blackface comedians; Keene and Foxworth, comedians, singers and dancers, and William Delavan, entertainer. A feature of the photoplay portion of the program includes Charlie Chaplin in one of his funniest pictures. The title of the laugh maker is "The Champion." Pathe comedies and the Pathe Weekly are shown at every show.

The headline act on the program to be presented at the theatre the last three days of the week is Miss Mabel McKinley, the favorite neice of the late President McKinley. Miss McKinley will entertain with a selection of classical songs. Another Charlie Chaplin picture will also be included in the program.

Proctor's Theatre

N. S. HART AND GEORGE STONE IN "THE PATRIOT," LATEST TRIANGLE PLAY.

At Proctor's Tomorrow

Judging from the tremendous crowds that attend Proctor's Theatre nightly it would appear that the "catch line advertising" used at this theatre which reads, "Everybody Goes to Proctor's," is justified. This little theatre has enjoyed a new and prosperous era of big business recently, and it is evident that the big special photoplays are responsible for the large attendance. The management has adhered closely to clean pictures and has thrived on this policy. The schedule for the balance of the week is as follows Today, William Fox's special, with Walter Law and Valkyrien in "The Unwelcome Mother;" tomorrow, William S. Hart in "The Patriot," and Keystone comedy; Friday and Saturday, Charlie Chaplin in a brand new comedy, "The Pawn Shop," and added for good measure on Friday, Mary Pickford and House Peters in "The Velvet Law," will be seen. Cleo Ridgely in "The Love Mask," will also be shown on Saturday. "The Fall of a Nation" will be shown Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week.

RECEPTION DAYS.

The afternoons of Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, October 12 to 15, will be reception days at Bonnie Burn Sanitarium. On those days citizens of the county will be especially welcome.

He Doesn't Call Service in Arizona a Pleasant Vacation.

IS WRITING A BOOK

Will Be Ready for Publication About the Time Troopers Get Home—Some Incidents in the Life of the Local Man.

By JAMES J. McNAMEE.

Douglas, Ariz., Sept. 28.—Sergeant Walter L. Righter, of Troop D, is authority for the statement that the city section of Douglas is just about as lively as Coney Island used to be when Columbus played rounders with the Indians, or before they moved the ocean near to shore. In other words the soldier element doing service at this point finds its time pretty well occupied hunting for something to do rather than indulging in some pastime already provided. And better that it should be this way in this era of high salaried privates, soldiers full of kick and cities like Douglas with merchants who are wise to the sudrest methods of squeezing water from a stone.

"All in a day's work," is the title of a new edition being prepared by Sergeant Righter and the coming issue is dedicated to the civilian element who balked on enlisting when a fight with Villa looked promising and who now rests by the family fireside telling his callers about the vacation New Jersey guardsmen are having in the city of Douglas. Granting that we are really in Douglas, but in reality we are held in Pirtleville some 5,280 feet distant, this is an ideal place to spend a summer's outing, that is, if you are looking for something out of the ordinary and don't care what becomes of you.

The concluding chapter of Sergeant Righter's latest work which, by the way, will be ready for publication by the time the government gets ready to order the Jerseymen home, providing Uncle Sam don't suffer a relapse between now and then, reads something after this fashion

"It was a scorching afternoon in the last few days of September. Captain Borden during the earlier part of the day had treated his pets to a few hours drilling, some schooling for the non-coms, two short lessons in cleaning boots and saddles, a little exercise along the picket line and a few other small but important chores which served to keep the militiamen's minds fairly well occupied during the heat of the day.

"Shower bath were in order and those not afraid of cold water and gift soap were getting rid of a coating of Arizona sand that had been accumulated by some honest sweat. The mess call pealed forth just as the retreat lines were broken and just as the half starved khaki clad Plainfielders were ambled toward the mess shack some one announced the immediate session of non-coms and officers for an important business transaction.

"The important or unimportant business, whichever it might have been, was disposed of in short order and those who participated in the conference returned only to find that their companions had failed to give them a thought, licking the platter clean.

"Accordingly the next best thing was to wander down town a short walk of a mile or more, where we ordered some ham and two hundred and sixteen beans for two bits. This disposed of, some one suggested a walk along the more attractive thoroughfares of the bity, but we finally concluded to take in a movie show. After a wild scramble for the ticket window, a half dozen or more insisting that they be allowed to part with sixty or seventy cents, a fifteen dollar a month private found that he was elected and good naturedly pocketed the pasteboards. After being jostled about in line for ten or fifteen minutes by greasy Mexicans we finally located seven seats in as many different parts of the house.

"Those of us who have not reached the stage where we clap at innocent motion pictures promptly went to sleep only to be awakened by a half breed crawling over us as the finale of the exciting film feature was reached.

"Once more we met on the sidewalk and somebody suggested soda water. Again we wandered a block or two down the street and honored a fifty cents a day private with the checks. Some wanted to hike the mile back to camp and others insisted that a trolley ride would be nice if somebody else paid for it. There was one 'John' in the crowd and we rode on the rear platform back to Pirtleville. Our rear end ride was due to the fact that our cashier insisted on passing off five pennies on a conductor garbed in a uniform consisting of overalls and white shirt and straw hat.

"We alighted about half a mile from our picket line, probably because some of us were out for exercise but more likely because the atmosphere aboard the trolley was not any too pleasant to the minds of peace loving soldiers.

"After tripping over a score or more of cacti plants, jarring our backbone by a misstep or two when we came upon unguarded holes, veing scared to death by some 'rock' filling his bed sack behind a hay pile and being challenged by a guard that gave every indication of having suddenly aroused from a nap, we at last reached the camp street.

"No the first tent wasn't ours, but we had to stop there just to see why the light was burning. There sat Roy Cox, Gus Fiske, Jim Fleming and Perc Ransome engrossed in some game to which they had attached a fancy name. After watching Fiske and Fleming wallop the stuffin's out of Cox and Ransome, we scattered for our own tent

"Safely inside of the leaky canvas we fell over six chairs, broke soda bottles and aroused a cross youth and bumped our head on the wooden framework hunting for a match. At last we concluded the one best bet was to turn in without the light and we snoozed off restful in the belief that we had nothing to do till the next morning."

COLUMBIAN DRAMATIC CLUB TO GIVE AUTUMN DANCE

Arrangements have been completed for the autumn dance to be given under the auspices of the Columbian Dramatic Club in the Knights of Columbus auditorium on Wednesday evening, October 11. The final meeting of the various committees was held in the West Front street club house Monday night, when plans were perfected.

The committee has arranged an attractive program for the evening with a number of unique features. Dancing will be the principal form of enjoyment and dainty refreshments will be served.

RED BANK WILL BE C. E. "MAGNET"

Thirtieth Annual State Convention to Be Held There October 4-6.

Red Bank will be as a "magnet" to the Christian Endeavorers of New Jersey early this month, the thirtieth annual convention of the New Jersey State Christian Endeavor Union being scheduled for that place on October 4, 5 and 6. The sessions will be held in the Presbyterian church, beginning a 2 p. m. Wednesday afternoon, the 4th, and ending Friday evening, the 6th. The pastor of the convention church, the Rev. J. W. Rogan, D. D., is the chairman of the local convention committee

State President John T. Sproull, of Arlington, has had charge of the details of the program, and has been fortunate in being able to secure a number of the most popular and capable Christian workers in the field today.

Pennsylvania will send Dr. Clarence H. Chain, of Philadelphia, president of the Pennsylvania State C. E. Union, and State Secretary H. B. Macrory, of Pittsburgh, both of whom will have important places on the convention program, much to the delight of those who are acquainted with these two Christian Endeavor leaders of the Keystone State.

The United Society of Christian Endeavor, Boston, will be represented by A. J. Shartle, treasurer and publication manager, who will address the convention, and will also conduct a conference and open parliament.

The keynote of the convention will be "Opportunity," and the occasion will certainly be a wonderful opportunity for the Endeavorers and other Christian workers throughout the State.

The chairman of the local entertainment committee is M. V. B. Smock, 11 Park place, Red Bank, and delegates desiring entertainment for one night or throughout the convention should communicate with the chairman at once so that proper reservations may be made. Entertainment is free to the delegates and includes lodging and the furnishing of breakfast. The only convention expense is a nominal registration fee.

Rev. Wallace Sutton Maple of Hammonton, is chairman of the State nominating committee. He has issued letters throughout the State, asking the Endeavorers to forward to his committee their recommendations for nomination of officers for the ensuing year. The report of this committee will be presented on Thursday evening of the convention, and the officers duly elected.

The general program is just about completed and the details will be forwarded in the course of a few days for publication.

SEWING MEETING.

The all-day sewing meeting of the Missionary and Aid Society of the Watchung Avenue Presbyterian church will be held tomorrow in the church parlors. Sewing will begin at 10 a. m. and a hot luncheon will be served at noon. A full attendance is desired.

Mrs. F. M. Masker and son, of East Seventh street, have returned from their summer home at Belmar, where they spent the summer.

Her Feet Just Kept on Dancing.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — A Pair of Shoes, Both Black and Red.

(Adapted from Hans Christian Andersen.)

WHEN the children asked daddy for a story he told them this: "When a little girl, Karen, wore her red shoes to be confirmed instead of black ones the old lady she lived with was very cross and told her she must always wear black shoes to church, even if they were old. So when the next Sunday came Karen looked first at her red shoes, then at her black ones and then at her red. And at last she put the red ones on. It was a beautiful sunny day, and the old lady and Karen went to church by way of a path through a cornfield which was rather dusty. Beside the church door stood an old soldier with a crutch in his hand. He had a long curious beard not very white. In fact, it was more red than white. He bent down and asked the old lady if he might dust her shoes, and Karen stuck out her little foot too. 'What beautiful dancing shoes!' said the old soldier. 'Mind you stick fast when you dance.' And as he spoke he struck the soles of her red shoes with his hand.

"The old lady gave the soldier a copper and went on into the church with Karen. And all the people looked at her feet, and all the portraits on the wall looked too. And when Karen tried to sing hymns and say the Lord's Prayer all she could think of was her red shoes.

"Now, the old lady was tired walking to church, so her coach came to take her home. As she stepped into it Karen lifted her foot to step in too, and just then the old soldier cried, 'What pretty dancing shoes!' Karen couldn't help it. She took a few dancing steps, and then her feet just kept on dancing, just as if her shoes had power over her. She danced right around the church. She couldn't stop. The coachman had to come and lift her into the carriage. But her feet kept on dancing, and she even kicked into the old lady. At last, when they got home, they took the red shoes off, and Karen's feet had a little rest. The old lady put the red shoes away in a cupboard, but Karen could not help going every few minutes to take a look at them.

"Then one day the old lady became very ill. The doctor said she could not live. She had to have the best of care, and there was no one but Karen to tend her. But there was a grand ball in the town, and Karen was invited. She looked at the old lady who could not live, then she looked at the red shoes and thought there was no harm in using them. So she put on the red shoes and went to the ball and began to dance!"

Then daddy looked at the clock, which said five minutes past bedtime. So the children kissed him good night.

LACE AFTERNOON FROCKS EVIDENT.

Black and White a Popular Combination—Chiffon in Medium and Dark Colors Favored.

By Mary Glynn.

An especially interesting note could be made of he number of afternoon and restaurant gowns that are being shown in lace. Not allover, but the deep yard wide edges with net-top foundation and border designs. Often two widths of this lace is used, one forming a tunic over the other. Particularly attractive was one worn at a fashionable gathering recently, developed in black net-top lace over a flesh satin lining. The skirt consisted of two flounces of the lace, the flash satin shimmering through the transparency. The bodice was a fascinating affair with moderately low round neck and long tight net sleeves. Unusually novel was the princess effect evident at the waistline, this formed by a series of very fine tucks stitched carefully with silk. With this simple and attractive gown, dainty black kid button slippers and a charming picture hat were worn, these completing the outfit.

A SIMPLE NEGLIGEE.

Simple Classic Lines Void of Trimming-Material a Soft Satin Metior.

By Mary Glynn.

The French woman is without a negligee or lounging robe. Whether she be passing the hours in crocheting woolen items that go to some unfortunate member at the front or awaiting the service of her dainty hand maid, she loves a dainty outfit for the purpose. The lounging costume this season is a simple affair, with little or no trimming except bands of self material and silk stitching in matching tone. The garment illustrated is shown in pale blue satin metior. The hood, collar and band on the hem are of pale rose, this making a charming color note. The sleeves are very wide in kimona cut and a silk cord fastens about the waist line. The whole thing is simplicity itself, and just as graceful as it can be. This charming person wears pale blue stockings and rose satin shoes, these colors harmonizing beautifully with the colors in the garment.

Training a Husband

MRS EVA LEONARD

Marian Suggests a Partnership as One Way Out of Family Troubles.

"Who did you say was coming in the morning?"

"The dressmaker."

"The dressmaker?" echoed Morris Southy as if he were being introduced to a new species.

"Yes. I have absolutely nothing to put on if it should turn cold, as it is likely to do almost any time now. A few days of help will make me able to appear in public. If I can manage to have one thing ready to put on I can wait till later to finish my preparations for winter." Marian looked apologetic.

'I wish you had spoken to me about this before engaging her. Is it too late to send her word not to come?" Morris' forehead was knotted in a black scowl.

"I don't want to send her word. I may not be able to get her again for a long time, and, as I said, I need the help right away." Marian's mouth was drawn into a firm little line.

"If you think a minute you will see that we have no money to put into dressmaking this month, pursued Morris with the tone of long suffering patience that he would use with a stupid child.

"It will not be a big bill. My dressmaking bills are always reasonable," was the calm answer.

THOSE SUDDEN TWINGES

Bring Suffering to Many a Plainfield Reader.

Pain is nature's signal of distress.
A warning not to be ignored.
These sharp twinges in the back—
Those sudden, stab-like pains when stooping
Are frequent signs of kidney trouble.
To remove kidney pains, you must assist the kidneys.
Use a tested and proven kidney remedy.

Read Plainfield testimony.

F. E. Conshay, 24 Summit avenue, Plainfield, says: "I strained my back by lifting and climbing and it became very lame. I had a dull, constant ache in my kidneys and when I stooped over to pick up anything pains pierced my back. I finally learned of Doan's Kidney Pills and bought a box at Louis Z. Weiss' Drug Store. They gave me a permanent cure and I haven't felt such symptoms now for about seven months."

"We had a six weeks' grocery and meat bill to pay this month and the winter coal——"

"Why pay for the winter coal all in one month?" interrupted Marian.

"You must know that coal is cheaper if bought this month." Again the tolerant tone used when wits were wanting.

"Is it necessary to pay for all the coal? Can't you get a little time on it?"

"Marian, I wish you would leave the management of our finances to me. I understand all about affairs and if you would consult me before making any arrangements it would save a great deal of annoyance." Morris paced the floor with his hands in his pockets. Marian noticed again how thin and round-shouldered he looked and her heart misgave her.

"I must not add to his burden," she thought. Also she said:

"Morris, if you would consult me before deciding where every dollar is to go, it would save a great deal of annoyance." This echoing of his words, garbled to suit her whim, added to the annoyance of the harassed man. "You are not in a position to know just what my needs are, and I must either be consulted before all money is disposed of, or I must be allowed to spend what is necessary without being consulted," continued Marian.

"But I cannot see why you cannot wait a month for your sewing," persisted Morris.

"I must be the judge of how long I can wait for anything, Morris, dear. You know I never spend a cent unnecessarily. Do you not see that I must have a dress in which I can appear on the street if it should turn cold? One never knows what will occur. You would be humiliated if I looked conspicuous on the street."

Morris dropped into a chair, buried his head in his hands and sighed. His wife went over to him and placed her hand on his shoulder.

"If we could get over the needs of the month together, dear, I am sure it would be pleasanter all around. I could state my case and you yours and then in a committee of the whole we could decide what was best to do with the conflicting demands."

"I wonder if the time will ever come when we will have money enough to meet all the demands," was the weary answer.

"Till it does we must face the deficit together. Don't you think so?" she asked, stroking the bent head.

"I wish I was a money maker," was the dispirited reply.

"Lack of consideration is worse than lack of money, dear. We must try to have an abundance of that to help out on the finances."

COURT TO MAKE PROBE

built, which is the basis of the investigation, and whether County Engineer Jacob L. Bauer paid out funds he charged against the county as claims.

Mr. Reed declared the freeholders had always awarded contracts to the lowest bidders and defied the petitioners to point out any instance of favoritism. Asked by the court what his course would be in case the investigation disclosed any irregularities, Mr. Koestler said the freeholders would be asked to sue the contractors, and also that indictments would be asked from the grand jury if criminal action on the part of any one involved was disclosed.

Mr. Koestelr declared that twenty-five taxpayers had signed the petition for a probe, among them former Judge P. Hamilton Gilhooly. A road expert has found much of the work on county thoroughfares defective, he said, and it was up to County Engineer Jacob L. Bauer to insist on better work. Mr. Koestler then spoke of the relationship existing between Mr. Bauer and Henry Krouse, a member of the board, and between these two officials and George W. Bauer, who is associated with the C. H. Winans Company, which has received many contracts.

The county engineer, said Mr. Koestler, had received a total of $38,000 from the county in three years, while his salary is but $4,500 per annum. This money he said, was in addition to fees which the county engineer received from Linden township and Roselle. Mr. Koestler cited the affidavit made by Elias D. Applegate, member of the Board of Freeholders, who instigated the movement for the inquiry. In this affidavit the charges by Francis P. Smith, a New York road expert, who examined the roads, are cited.

In answer to the court's question as to what he expected to show, Mr. Koestler said he expected to show favoritism to the C. H. Winans Company and to the Weldon Contracting Company in the paving contracts. Outside contractors refused to go into competition with these companies, he declared, because of the alleged favoritism. In concluding his motion, Mr. Koestler said if the court appointed an impartial investigator he was sure "criminal negligence would be shown for the last five years." The situation was not unlike that in Warren county, he asserted.

Charles A. Reed, special counsel for the Board of Freeholders, in opposing the appointment of a commissioner, said an investigation by the board's own investigating committee had probed thoroughly and had found no wrongdoing. The State, he said, had superintended the road work.

"The Board of Freeholders welcomes an investigation, if the court sees fit to authorize it," said Mr. Reed. "We have nothing to hide." Mr. Koestler's charges were not based on facts, he declared, but were principally "insinuations." He told in detail how the road work had been supervised by the State Road Department. There was no need of an investigation, he insisted, but if the court saw fit to order it, the freeholders felt that a bond should be furnished by the petitioners.

Mr. Reed furnished affidavits by Robert A. Meeker, State engineer, and by Mr. Bauer, saying the road work was done according to specifications. Mr. Meeker said if there had been a deterioration in the condition of the roads it was due more to modern traffic than to anything else. Bauer mentioned his charges for work and the salaries he paid assistants, all of which has been presented by him at the board's committee hearings.

The roads specifically mentioned as being poorly constructed are South avenue, Fanwood street, George avenue from Elizabeth to Rahway, and Westfield avenue from Elizabeth to Roselle.

The court's charge was brief, there being no matters of importance to bring to the grand jury's attention. Justice Bergen appointed Dr. Edgar B. Grier, of Elizabeth, grand jury foreman.

MANSFIELD AS AN ACTOR.

His Genius Enabled Him to Turn Bad Parts Into Good Ones.

We were to open a new theater in Panton street, which was not ready, so we were transferred to the Royalty. Mansfield was a young man then, about twenty-four, I should say. He was practically unknown. He soon began to shine at rehearsal. His part was that of an old beau. J. G. Taylor was to play a certain waiter. The play was an adaptation from the French. Farnie was the adapter, with no pride of authorship, so he allowed Mansfield a good deal of liberty in the way of interpolation and business. Day by day the part of the old beau was built up, especially in Taylor's scenes, until Mansfield's part assumed the proportions of a leading character and Taylor's part, which was the principal comedy part of the play, faded away into the background. We all began to take notice of Mansfield and to perceive that his character was going to be the part of the play.

One day Taylor rebelled. He told Farnie and Alexander Henderson, the manager of the theater, that he was the leading comedian of the company and that Mansfield's character had now become the most important personage in the comedy. He protested violently. Farnie was in a dilemma. Mansfield's business and additions were so clever and so valuable that he deserved the prominence accorded to him. Taylor was an important actor and could not be dispensed with.

Mansfield came forward. "Would Mr. Taylor like my part?" he said.

Taylor felt that, as the principal comedian, the best part belonged properly to him. He ought to have Mansfield's part.

Mansfield handed it to him. "By all means," said he. "Here it is," and he handed over the manuscript covered with interpolations, corrections and business.

We resumed our rehearsals.

"You will allow me," said Mansfield to Farnie—"you will allow me the same privilege with this new part you were so generous as to accord me with the other? Mr. Taylor has the advantage of my suggestions on the other character; you will permit me to do my best with this?"

"By all means," said Farnie, and to work we went again.

Mansfield built up again. Day by day, little by little, his new part absorbed scene after scene.—E. H. Sothern in Scribner's.

Made a Costly Mistake.

A big commercial house in the middle west raised the salary of one of its officers to $40,000 a year.

The officer was greatly pleased. "Now my ambition is satisfied," he said.

Within two years the concern had found a way to dispense with this officer's services. It was done cleverly and smoothly. The man never suspected the real reason why he was released.

The head of the concern had overheard his remark. "We want to men in this business whose ambition is satisfied," he said. "When a man is satisfied, when he ceases to plan and fight for the future, we begin to lose money on him."—Woman's Home Companion.

Why She Made No Outcry.

"You say," said the lawyer, "you heard this man break into your home in the dead of night, and yet you made no effort to call for help."

"That is so."

"Were you too frightened to call out?"

"No. I was not disturbed a particle. He bumped into the rocker of a chair and swore, so I thought it was my husband."—Detroit Free Press.

SPORT TOPICS

Raking 'Em Over

By "JINKS"

PECULIAR VOCABULARY.

"The special terms which constitute the vocabulary of the various sports offer a field for interesting reminders.

"It is the peculiar expressions technically used in various sports which confuse those unacquainted with them but at the same time lead to a better understanding of them by those familiar with the sport in question.

"I presume that, technically, baseball terms are as Sanskrit to those who do not know baseball, but to those who do, they make the game and its play as clear as crystal.

"The use of special terms for special games adds to the reading of reports concerning them and while they may be confusing to some, they are the very life of the report to others.

"Every sport has its own peculiar language. I have cited baseball, but football, tennis, bowling, skat, bridge, curling, yes poker, and indeed all manner of sports and diversions have this characteristic.

"In this connection I may say that I have read with no understanding, whatever, accounts of a skat game. The terms used in telling about how successfully a certain game was won by the editor of the skat section is just about as illuminating as a thesis on religious philosophy, but the average player of this great game seems to take delight in reading the jumble of words which go to make up a skat report.

It is well that each sport has its own language for those who understand it enjoy it better than they would in the absence of technical terms."—Arbiter.

ST. LOUIS OUT OF IT.

With the Browns now out of it, the Cardinals never in it, an early fall setting in and the attendance during the final home stand of Fielder Jones' late pennant dropping to Class K proportions, a good deal of the baseball talk naturally turns to the "next year" stuff. Banking their arguments on the midseason flash shown by the Fielders the boosters for the club are telling the fans that Jones will make an even harder drive next year than he made this. Presumably the argument is that Fielder now has his bearings in the American League and knows the pace.

Weilman has come strong of late and today is Jones' one best bet as a pitcher. Koob is still a dependable. The second string men are worse than useless. Park may do, but Hamilton is done and McCabe already is slated for the minors. Jones therefore has two good bets as pitchers. Weilman and Koob—two pitchers who really have the class that makes them stars. The added members of the staff include Rogers, a star in the Southern League—Hank Robinson of the Cards also starred in that league—and several recalled after being sent down as not worthy.

CLEVELAND FANS STICK.

The Indians now seem doomed to finish in second division and Cleveland fans must content themselves with the fact that the tribe set the pace for sixty-six days of the season, longer in fact, than any other team in the league. But the old saying: "It is not what you were; it's what you are, that counts," goes in this case. Many of the fans have forgotten that Cleveland was in the lead for so long a time and are busily engaged in wielding the hammer. The knocking, however, is not general, and President Dunn arises to remark that he considers the treatment accorded the Indians ever since they struck their slump and dropped from first to seventh place, has been very generous.

• • • • • •

THEY MAY BE DANGEROUS.

"Princetonians who saw their eleven defeat Holy Cross 21 to 0 in the opening game at Worcester Saturday could not have left the field elated, convinced that the Tigers had found that pace which foretells sure success. There was nothing to send cold shivers down the backs of those Yale and Harvard scouts there to see what their rival had to offer. And yet there were warrantable smiles on Tiger faces, the passive Tigers of side-line bench and stand. The scouts, gathered later around the strategy tables, could not have reported "no offensive in sight from Nassau town."—Newark News.

GRIM DETERMINATION.

"Tris Speaker aided the Red Sox in cinching the pennant. Tris isn't back with the Sox, although he probably would like to be just now to get a slice of the world's series melon. Tris helped the Cleveland Indians down the White Sox and when the Indians blanked Chicago the White Sox and Cubs decided to play a fall series.

"When the Red Sox went into the West and squelched the White Sox and Tigers, their most formidable rivals, baseball fans the country over not only felt convinced that the Red Sox would carry off the American League pennant, but would capture the world's title as well. Carrigan's men displayed grit and endurance, in addition to classy baseball. The White Sox and Tigers were fighting for the pennant and the Red Sox were up against stronger opposition than they are likely to face in the world's series. Boston has never lost a world's series and doesn't intend to begin the habit this season."—Newark News.

NEWARK AMUSEMENTS

After a run of six solid months at Forty-Eighth Street Theatre in New York, Eugene Walter's latest and, it is claimed, best play, "Just a Woman," will be brought to the Broad Street Theatre, Newark, for a week's engagement, opening next Monday night, with matinees on Wednesday, Thursday (Columbus Day) and Saturday.

"Just a Woman" tells the story of Anna Stanley, a sort of modern Griselda—a woman who is humble, modest and unassuming as the heroine who is willing to fight to the end to keep the love of her husband and the possession of her son.

The same scenic environment used at the Forty-eighth Street Theatre, New York, will be seen at the Broad and it will be interpreted by a company of favorite players, including Mabel Browning, Clifford Stork, Ernest Anderson, Stuart Fox, Marjorie Burt, Margaret McWade, David Howell Lindley, William E. Randall, John Ward, George Burton and James Eagle.

JIM HERMAN TO RETURN TO FOLD

"Giant" Red and Blue Candidate Should Assist Team Materially.

(Special Correspondence.)

The Plainfield High School football squad went through the second scrimmage of the season yesterday afternoon with the outlook very promising for the opening game with South Side next Friday. The Ninth street boys' chances for a winning team were greatly strengthened by the addition of Jim Herman, the star tackle of the team two years ago. Herman played end on the Red and Blue team in 1914. He will be a tower of strength to the line as he is well over six feet in height and weighs 187 pounds in football togs. In the absence of Captain Pennock, Herman should prove the much-needed arm to steady down his less experienced mates.

Coach Patch sent the squad through a short signal drill, followed by a gruelling scrimmage. The new men showed up well and the older players are beginning to run true to form. It is still uncertain regarding the line-up for Friday's game, as Patch is giving every man a chance to make good.

Several of the candidates are out with minor injuries, but the whole squad will be in condition and ready to play by next Friday. Bill Daniels and Captain Dick Pennock are still among the missing, but for the time being, Fred Smith and Paul Geary are filling their places.

The first team picked by Coach Patch was as follows: Klein, center; Hooper and Geary, guards; Somfoch and Herman, tackles, with Butler and Vail at the ends. The backfield consisted of Alpaugh, quarterback; Mills and Snyder, halfbacks, and Smith, fullback.

M'GRAW IS ANGRY WITH HIS GIANTS

With the Phillies eliminated from the National League flag hunt, everything is all ready for the opening of the 1916 world's championship series between the Brooklyn Dodgers, champions of the National League and the Boston Americans, two times champions of the American League and present title holders. The series will open in Boston next Saturday.

The world's series is the blue ribbon event of the baseball season, and in the last ten years has become a national event, in which most of the business of the nation is done with one eye on the scoreboard. This year's series will be the thirteenth fought between the National and American League pennant winners. The world's series scandal is little ahead of time, but it is a regular feature and is part of the preliminary excitement. Still, Uncle Sam would not let a little thing like that put a damper on his interest in the series.

The National Commission, baseball's governing body, had an unexpected meeting yesterday morning, in which all arrangements for the world's series were completed. The schedule was so drawn up that it would cover either Brooklyn or Philadelphia, but as the latter club was knocked out of the pennant later in the day, the Philly details may very nicely be left out.

—Find the "likely-looking" ads. in today's classified columns—and solve that problem of yours.

Fordham.

Head Coach Gargan made up for Monday's illness by working the Fordham squad until dark on the Maroon gridiron yesterday. The practice consisted of a two hour signal drill, with special stress upon backfield interference, and a regular game of forty minutes. The varsity and scrub rush lines interchanged and no scoring was counted, but the elevens were a tired lot leaving the field.

The scrubs relied mostly on straight rushes and line ramming drives, but found the varsity rush line moulded into a very formidable defense that piled up the old fashioned football charges.

The varsity attack was supplemented by three new plays centered around the forward pass formation. Andy Dempsey directed the passes, and had but little trouble in hurling the ball to Cantwell and Golden on the ends.

Practicing drop kicking within the 35 yard line, Dempsey booted a half dozen tries between the bars and made seven valid goals from a dozen attempts outside of the 50 yard mark from difficult angles.

Stevens.

The Stevens team is fast rounding into shape for the game with Haverford Saturday. Coach Rogers has developed a kicker of more than ordinary ability in Egger, a freshman. Egger seems to have no trouble in getting away punts averaging fifty-five yards. Another new man, Butt, showed up very strongly in the line. Butt is a powerful man and seems to know how to use his strength. Stevens will face Haverford with only four of last year's team in the line up.

Rutgers.

Coach Sanford does not intend to rest his men any on account of the Villanova game on Saturday and he had the Rutgers football squad hard at work scrimmaging yesterday. He is particularly pleased over the way they trounced Villanova, because Whitehill, halfback, and Wittpenn, end, both stars, were out of the game. Both men will be back this week.

Hazel showed still further improvement and he tore through the second team's line for big gains. He was also given a long session in kicking and showed a great improvement in that branch of the game. In the Villanova game he missed a 50-yard placement kick by about six inches, and it is believed that he will be one of the best kickers of the year. The varsity ran up a big score in yesterday's practice. None of the men were injured on Saturday.

Yale.

Captain Black, of the Yale football team, was again out of the lineup yesterday, his place being taken by Durfee. The varsity made one touchdown, the result of a forward pass from Le Gore to Gates.

Considerable time was spent in bolstering up the defense, as the coaches are not satisfied with this department. In the Carnegie Tech game the Pittsburgh men made nearly a hundred yards through the Yale line. Bingham and Jaques played fast football yesterday and appear to be fixtures with Le Gore in the backfield. Yale looks forward to a hard game with Virginia on Saturday.

RAHWAY HIGH SCHOOL EXPECTS COUNTY TITLE

Coach Carl Eliason Rehearses Squad Daily and is Well Pleased.

That the Rahway High School will make a strong bid for county scholastic honors this fall is certain. The Red and Black squad was put through a thorough drill yesterday afternoon in preliminary preparation for the opening game against New Brunswick High School Saturday. Coach Carl G. Eliason rehearsed the boys in every department of the game, starting out with a short signal drill and ending with a torrid scrimmage.

During the first part of last month conditions looked blue to the local supporters of the High School team, as there seemed to be a lack of enthusiasm among the boys, and there were many of the prospective players for the team who had not returned from their vacation. This unpleasant prospect was supplemented by the absence of Former Coach Short, the producer of Rahway's State championship eleven of 1915, who this year has charge of Battin High School in Elizabeth. Even two weeks ago when candidates came out on the field for practice the local supporters were disappointed because of the apparently dormant condition of the squad.

DANCE AT CLUB.

The bowling committee of the Columbus Club will hold a card party and dance in the Knights of Columbus Hall on Thursday evening. Inasmuch as the bowling season will be officially opened about that time much interest is being taken in the affair.

CHORAL SOCIETY OUTLINES PLANS

First "Get-together" Rehearsal Will Be Held Monday Evening.

ATTRACTIVE PROGRAM

Miss Lamson Will Recite and Miss Marian L. Tice Will Sing—Several Concerts Are to Be Given During the Coming Season.

The Plainfield Community Chorus and Orchestra will have its first meeting on Monday evening, next, October 9, in the Franklin School, corner of Fourth street and Arlington avenue. It has been many years since Plainfield has had a large choral society, and never has it had a Community Choral and Orchestra, and those who have heard this fine organization sing sacred numbers will be glad to know that the work outlined for the winter will not only include oratorio but some of the splendid secular numbers which are rarely heard by a great chorus. The plans for the organization are rather unique, while primarily the thought is to present programs of good music twice during the season, still the thought of the entire organization plans is one of a "get-to-gether" for a "sing."

Instead of the formal rehearsal each week, it is planned to have an occasional informal program presented, this to include solos by members of the organization, papers presented on some musical subject, open discussions on musical topics, the whole program to be not only one of pleasure but one of profit as well. Of course this will be for members of the organization, and any person possessing the necessary musical skill may become a member of this organization subject only to the by-laws. On Monday evening the first "get-to-gether" will be held, and Miss Lillian L. Lamson has very kindly consented to give her popular rendition of "Peg O' My Heart," and Miss Marian L. Tice is to be the soloist, her numbers will include Tosti's "Goodbye" and Bartlett's "Come to Me Sweetheart, Come."

It is absolutely necessary that every member be in attendance, as the seats are to be assigned, and definite plans are to be announced. Any one may become a member who possesses the necessary musical skill, and application for membership may be made to Fred S. Cutter, 36 Sandford avenue. There is now an enrolled membership of 539, a larger enrollment than even the city of New York had in its first season. It is hoped that this splendid community spirit may continue and that Plainfield may have one of the best of Community Choruses. The officers of the organization are as follows:

President, F. T. Dickerson; first vice president, Arthur B. Cole; second vice president, John Lewis; recording secretary, Miss Florence G. Hawkins; attendance secretaries, Harold Tomlinson and Russell Tomlinson; committee on membership, Fred S. Cutter; committee on entertainment, Miss S. Etta Raybert; committee on associate membership, Miss Aubrey Eaton; musical director, Clifford A. Braider.

RUDOLPH GANZ THE "JAY GOULD OF THE PIANO"

Rudolph Ganz, the excellent Swiss pianist, who will be heard at the Hartridge Auditorium, October 26, under the auspices of the Plainfield Musical Club, has been compared to so many people, by the critics of this country, that he is sometimes bewildered, as to his own identity. But Ganz wears his hair cut short, just like a human being. He has a delightful sense of humor, and many of these comparisons afford him the opportunity for a good joke, and Ganz is not averse to having a joke told on himself, provided it is a good one.

It was in Los Angeles, that some witty scribe came out hailing Mr. Ganz as the Jay Gould of the piano, saying that he not only bore a striking resemblance to the great financier, but that he went at his piano playing in much the same fashion that the money king went after the control of the Erie Railroad.

HELD FOR EXTRADITION.

Picked up by the local police yesterday afternoon on a bench warrant issued in Philadelphia, Joseph Stills was arraigned before City Judge De Meza in police court this morning and held under $200 bail to await extradition by the Pennsylvania authorities. It is claimed that Stills deserted a wife and four children in Philadelphia and as soon as the papers are signed he will be taken back to that city.

MASONS PLAN SOCIAL.

At the recent meeting of the Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., plans were made for a social to be held about the middle of November, to which all unaffiliated Masons in the city will be invited. An effort will be made to have the Grand Master of the State present on the occasion.

DIRECTORS APPOINT ARTHUR E. CRONE

Will Succeed Late William F. Arnold as Cashier of City National Bank.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the City National Bank held Wednesday night, Arthur F. Crone, for the past ten years assistant cashier of the bank, was appointed cashier to fill the vacancy caused by the death of William F. Arnold. Thomas J. Mumford was elected to the vice-presidency of the institution. Mr. Crone announced yesterday morning that he will seek the office of city treasurer as an independent candidate. Monday night he was appointed by the Common Council to fill the position until a successor had been found, to fill Mr. Arnold's vacancy.

Mr. Crone has been a resident of Plainfield for twenty-five years, and during that time has been identified with the City National Bank for twenty-two years and ten years of which were spent as assistant cashier. Previous to that he was employed by the A. M. Griffen Company as bookkeeper. He is forty-five years of age and thoroughly equipped with a knowledge of banking and finance.

FREEHOLDER PROBE WILL BE STARTED

Attorney Koestler Says Bond Will Be Made at Once.

Investigation of the Board of Chosen Freeholders will not be halted by Justice Bergen's order that the petitioners post a $3,000 bond, to be forfeited if their charges are not driven home. Some delay may be experienced in consuling all the forty-one petitioners, according to the statement of Samuel Koestler, their attorney, but "a little thing like a bond won't stop the investigation."

Mr. Koestler said yesterday that he was both satisfied and disappointed with the decision of the court. He regrets that the investigation has been limited by Justice Bergen to the road contracts and to the question of whether County Engineer Bauer really expended money he received from the county, but even in that prospect he has hopes of bringing to light irregularities.

The petitions care nothing about looking up roads and their material. They are satisfied that their statement of the roads' faults are true. They do wish to learn where money given road contractors has finally gone. One of Mr. Koestler's fears is that the recent construction of some of the roads will make it impossible for him to dig out any alleged corruption, as the money may not yet have reached the hands of those alleged by the petitioners with having enjoyed the fruits of the county's loss.

Despite the limitations imposed on the petitioners' counsel in the investigation he is confident that on the way other things will be discovered which may tend to broaden the scope of the investigation.

As to the $3,000 it is believed that many besides the petitioners will be willing to support the investigation financially. According to Justice Bergen's decision both the disposition of the bond money and the investigation will be separate. If the charges in one case are proved that expense will be borne by the county. If the other charges prove to be unfounded, the petitioners will pay the expense of that investigation.

"PAN'S ANNIVERSARY" WILL BE GIVEN OCTOBER 14

Owing to a confliction of dates, it has been necessary to postpone the Recreation Committee's performance of "Pan's Anniversary" to Saturday evening, October 14. By some mistake, the Apollo Quartette was scheduled to use the High School auditorium on Thursday evening, October 12, the same night as the Recreation Committee.

There is some advantage in having "Pan's Anniversary" on the 14th. Those who are still in school will be able to attend the masque on Saturday evening, whereas there would be some hesitancy about coming out on a school night.

The story of Ben Johnson's masque, with its beautiful scenes, airy and delightful dances, artistic characterizations will be equally enjoyable to young and old.

There will be a rehearsal of the court scene in the High School auditorium this evening.

OFFICES TO BE CLOSED.

On account of the funeral of Paul J. Loizeaux, elder brother of J. D. Loizeaux, each of the three offices of the J. D. Loizeaux Lumber Company will be closed at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon for the balance of the day.

Close Saturday.

On account of holiday, Roth & Co., butchers, will close their store on East Front street, all day Saturday.—Adv.

DEMOCRATS LOSE WOMENS SUPPORT

Because Party in State Convention Refused to Endorse Suffrage Plank.

ACTION NO SURPRISE

Mrs. E. F. Feickert, President State Suffrage Association, Gives Her Views on Matter—Legislative Committee Meets Tomorrow.

When she was asked what she thought of the action of the platform committee of the Democratic convention at Trenton in tabling a resolution to reaffirm the National Suffrage plank in the State platform, Mrs. E. F. Feickert, president of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association said:

"While we did not expect any very enthusiastic endorsement of the principal of woman suffrage from a convention the chairman of whose platform committee was James E. Nugent, still we did think that the Democratic party of New Jersey would be loyal enough to President Wilson to reaffirm a plank which his personal representative at the St. Louis convention stated the President believed to be essential to the success of the party.

"Congressman Scully, of the Third district, who has always been a good friend to suffrage, presented the following resolution to the platform committee:

'Endorsing the pledge of the National Democratic platform, we recommend the extension of the franchise to women of New Jersey on the same terms as to the men.'

"Congressman Scully then introduced Mrs. Robert S. Huse, of Elizabeth, chairman of the suffrage legislative committee, as the speaker for the resolution. Chairman Nugent said she might have five minutes, and this she used in urging the committee to stand by the woman suffrage plank in the National platform, pointing out that the State conventions of thirty-seven States had passed resolutions favorable to some degree of suffrage within the past few months. Mr. Scully then asked that Banking Commissioner LaMonte, who was present, might have the privilege of saying a few words, and Mr. LaMonte made a short but earnest plea to the committee to make Congressman Scully's resolution a plank in the Democratic platform.

"Thereupon to the surprise of the suffragists, Sheriff Kinkead, of Hudson county, who has spoken for women many times, and who voted for the Federal Amendment when he was in Congress a few years ago, moved

WARREN TOWNSHIP G. O. P. HOLD BANQUET

Party Candidates and Others Make Speeches at Enjoyable Affair.

The members of the Republican Club of Warren township held a banquet in Mount Bethel last evening, a large number of Republicans from North Plainfield being in attendance at the affair. Herman Moosebrugger was toastmaster and Edward E. Cooper was chairman. The evening's program was opened by the Rev. George Bowers, who offered prayer.

During the evening speeches were made by Grover F. Kipsey, former Judge Clarence E. Case, Ellsworth Brokaw, candidate for sheriff; John Amerman, candidate for Assembly, and Charles L. Pfaff, who is running for membership on the Township Committee. About one hundred and fifty attended the affair.

STARLINGS STARTED ON ANNUAL BOROUGH INVASION

North Plainfield residents are again beginning to be annoyed by the large gathering of starlings such as swarmed in the borough last fall. So far this year the birds have been temporarily driven away by turning the fire hose on them, but some are already advising the use of buckshot.

Last year the noise made by the crowds of starlings became so incessant that many were killed by being shot, although many people raised a hue and cry against the practice. If the same thing is started again this year there are several who say they will take steps to prevent the birds being shot.

HELD FOR GRAND JURY.

Joseph Blake and Harry Thomas, two nineteen-year-old youths, who were caught by Sergeant O'Keefe Tuesday night stealing copper from the Netherwood Hotel, were released under $50 bail apiece this morning by City Judge DeMeza to await the action of the grand jury.

WORKCAR HITS TRAIN IN FOG

Nineteen Section Men Are Hurt in Early Morning Smash-up.

FOUR ARE IN HOSPITAL

None Fatally Injured—Collision Occurred at Raritan Junction, Between Metuchen and Perth Amboy.

Four men are in Muhlenberg Hospital here as a result of a collision on the Lehigh Valley Railroad this morning when a work car ran into the back end of a freight train. There were nineteen men on the work car and all suffered bruises and cuts. None were fatally injured. Those brought to Muhlenberg were:

Sam King, 58 Greene street, Goshen, N. Y.

Patrick Donahue, 208 East Forty-first street, New York.

Jack Miller, 297 Tenth avenue, New York.

Joseph Gurry, 23 Northfield road, West Orange.

The accident occurred at Raritan junction, between Metuchen and Perth Amboy. The workmen were riding a gasoline propelled work car and because of the heavy fog that lay over this section until the sun came up they could not see the warning lights on the rear of a freight. All were members of a section gang. Phillip Lillo, of South Plainfield, was badly bruised. He was taken to his home there this morning after his injuries had been attended. He is not badly hurt.

Automobiles were used to bring the injured to Plainfield. It was said at the hospital at noon that no one of the four was in danger.

"GET-TOGETHER" SOCIAL AT GRACE M. E. CHURCH

A get-together social will be held this evening in the Grace M. E. church to inaugurate the fall work. A male quartette, the orchestra and other features will make up the program. All members of the church and congregation are invited to be present.

MRS. RALPH E. HALLOCK WILL BE MATRON OF HONOR

Mrs. Ralph E. Hallock, of the borough, will act as matron of honor at the marriage of Miss Katherine Holden to Walter Nobel Hackett, on October 21, in Philadelphia. The wedding will take place at noon in the Church of St. Luke and the Epiphany. William Kirkpatrick, of Easton, will be the best man and there will be ten ushers.

JACOB VAN DEVENTER TO WED MRS. CAROLINE AVERY

The marriage of Mrs. Caroline Avery and Jacob Van Deventer, both of this city, will take place tonight at 8:30 o'clock at the home of the former's sister, Mrs. N. W. Ransome, of Woodland avenue. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace Episcopal church, and will be witnessed only by the immediate relatives of the couple. There will be no attendants.

DR. F. C. ARD LEAVES MOSQUITO COMMISSION

Dr. F. C. Ard, of Park avenue, this city, tendered his resignation as a member of the Mosquito Commission, at a meeting of the latter held in Elizabeth yesterday morning. His successor will be appointed by Judge Bergen. A special meeting of the commission will be held on October 24, at which time annual reports will be heard and bids opened for a gasoline dredge for marshes and ditches.

DEMOCRATIC HEADQUARTERS.

As a starter for their fall campaign the borough Democrats have opened their headquarters in the vacant store at 103 Somerset street, where the coming fight will be directed from. Next week the first rally night will be held, at which time a number of candidates will be present and give addresses.

LEASES HIS HOME.

Rev. J. L. Ferguson, of Sherman avenue, has rented his home to W. W. Williamson, of New Brunswick, who is associated with the Laing Garage Company. Mr. Ferguson will reside in Truell Court for the winter.

LEROY T. CLAWSON NOW A BENEDICT

Takes Miss Ethel May Morris, of Lambertville, for His Bride.

A RECEPTION FOLLOWS

Rev. Edwin Shaw Officiates at Ceremony at Home of Bride's Uncle and Aunt, Dr. and Mrs. F. S. Wells—Couple to Live Here.

Miss Ethel May Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther D. Morris, of Lambertville, became the bride of Le Roy Tingley Clawson, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Clawson, of West Front street, this city, at 7:30 last evening at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. F. S. Wells, of 916 Grant avenue. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Edwin Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, in the presence of about seventy guests from this city, Lambertville, Bound Brook, New Brunswick, Montclair, Elizabeth, Eatontown, Netherwood, Morristown and Freehold. The home was beautifully decorated for the occasion, ferns, golden rod, roses and greens being used in profusion. The wedding took place under a bower of greens and golden rod in the parlor.

Miss Morris, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a pretty gown of white charmeuse trimmed with marquisette, a tulle veil caught up with orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley. Her sister, Miss Ruth Morris, acted as maid of honor and wore a gown of robin egg blue silk trimmed with shadow lace. She carried an arm bouquet of pink carnations. Miss Anna Frances Wells, a cousin of the bride, was the flower girl. She wore a becoming frock of white trimmed with blue ribbons and carried a basket of cut flowers. Harvey Clawson, a brother of the groom, was the best man and the ushers were the Messrs. Elmer Hayes Morrison and George E. Leigh, both of this city. As the bridal party entered the parlor, the wedding march from Mendelssohn was played by Miss Helen Caleen.

Following the ceremony a supper was served and a reception held for the guests. Later in the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Clawson left for a wedding trip to the Great Lakes and Canada. On their return they will reside on West Front street. The couple were the recipients of numerous handsome presents, including checks, furniture, cut glass, china and silver.

Both Mr. Clawson and his bride are well known and popular among the younger set of the city. Mr. Clawson is employed by the Pond Machine Tool Company, of this city.

MILK FAMINE IS THREATENED TODAY

Worst Stage Expected by New York Officials—More Rioting Reported.

New York, Oct. 5.—Early morning indications were that the milk shortage in New York city would reach its worst stage today. The optimistic were hopeful over rumors the Borden company would make separate peace with the producers.

The predictions of officials of the big milk distributing companies that they would have more milk today than yesterday were offset by reports from milk producing centers that no more was shipped last night than the night before.

From up-State counties, from New Jersey and Connecticut, the source of New York's milk supply, came reports of new raids and riots in which much milk intended for New York was dumped into ditches. The Dairymen's League reported hundreds of new members, and officers asserted their position was stronger than ever before.

Despite the outlook, officers of the big milk concerns asserted there was no danger of a famine, because of the supply of condensed milk. Already some unscrupulous retail dealers have boosted the price of condensed milk.

CAN NOT SHIP ORANGES TO BRITAIN AND POSSESSIONS

Washington, Oct. 5.—A cable from Consul General Skinner at London, says that the prohibition on the importation of oranges, except in specially licensed ships, has been cancelled. The prohibition applied to oranges not produced in British territories and not carried in specially licensed vessels.

HEAVY SENTENCE SUSPENDED.

Sam Powell, of Park avenue, was arraigned before Mayor William L. Smalley in North Plainfield court this morning on a charge of disorderly conduct and fighting. After giving him a severe lecture, Mayor "Bill" suspended a sentence of $50 and 90 days over his head.

HOLY NAME SOCIETY PARADE ON SUNDAY

Local Branch of Organization Will Send Big Delegation to Rahway.

Members of the Holy Name Societies of this city and North Plainfield are very enthusiastic over the annual demonstration of the Union County Holy Name Societies which will be held at Rahway Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. It is expected that about five hundred local men will be in line when the parade winds its way through the streets of Rahway in its protest against blasphemy. The committee in charge of the arrangements at St. Mary's has made provision for transportation, special trolley cars having been secured.

Patrick O'Brien, who is chairman of the local committee, will act as marshal of the local division. The local delegation will be led by the T. A. B. S. Fife and Drum Corps and will hold a short parade through the streets of this city. The following committee has been appointed to assist in the arrangements for the local societies:

Patrick O'Brien, Frederick Green, John Miller, John Hurley, Patrick Griffen, Edwin Sullivan, Joseph McEvoy, John Powelson, Edward McCann and Joseph Gallagher.

KING'S DAUGHTERS TO HAVE TAG DAY

Five Hundred Members Will Work to Boost Fund on October 28.

At a meeting of the trustees of the City Union of the King's Daughters held this morning it was decided to hold a "tag day" on Saturday, October 28, for the benefit of the general fund. Although the day nursery has been closed all summer the large part of the expenses has continued and there have been no donations in some time the reports this morning showed the fund to be very low and to replenish it it was decided to have a "tag day."

There are nearly five hundred members of the union in Plainfield and it is expected that the larger part of them will take part in the tagging. The committee in charge does not wish to make up the fund by a few large donations, but hopes that everyone will contribute five or ten cents.

Fourteen circles made reports on their work this morning, and it was found that everything was ready for the opening of the day nursery at 502 West Front street on Monday, October 9. Besides the many that are regularly cared for, twenty-seven mothers have made application to have their babies taken care of and that will mean an added expense.

ENLARGED ENROLLMENT MARKS SEMINARY OPENING

The Plainfield Seminary opened for its fall and winter term this morning with an enlarged enrollment and prospects for a very successful year. At the chapel exercises held this morning there were many former graduates or friends that were present and a pleasing program was rendered.

The building has been made practically fireproof by the installing of a metal floor during the summer. Other minor improvements have been made and when all of the pupils have returned from various places where they have spent the summer and have enrolled the entire structure will be filled. The only change in the teaching corps for the coming year is in the English department, where Miss Ellen Davis, a Smith College graduate and a post-graduate of the University of Maine, will teach. There has been no change in any of the various courses over last year.

MILK DEALERS MAY HAVE TO DEPEND ON LOCAL FARMERS

Plainfield milk dealers got their supplies this morning, but in a number of cases shipments of cream and grade A milk were not more than half filled. None of them can tell for certain whether or not they are to receive their next shipment. The raw product does not come as a general rule to this city from the sections affected by the strike, although in several cases it is said the dealers are making arangements so that if the supply is shut off the orders can be partially filled by farmers in this vicinity.

THE TEMPERATURE.

The temperature as received at the State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 62 degrees; 11 a. m., 72 degrees; 1 p. m., 81 degrees.

NO ROUMANIANS ON BULGAR SOIL

Their Own Country is Now Being Menaced by Folkenhayn.

WIN DOBRUDJA BATTLE

Allies Also Make Notable Gains in Macedonia — British Territorials Show Their Mettle in Raid on Trenches.

London, Oct. 5.—While the Allies are making notable gains in Macedonia, while the Russo-Roumanian armies are pressing back Field Marshal von Mackensen in the Dobrudja, while the Roumanians are cutting further into the Transylvanian section of Hungary, and while the Russians are attacking in great numbers in Galicia, Gen. von Falkenhayn, recently dismissed German Chief of Staff, is menacing Roumania by a drive through Rothenthurm (Red Tower) Pass.

Von Falkenhayn, who recently defeated two Roumanian armies near Hermannstadt and then cut off their retreat by an encircling movement into the Red Tower Pass, is driving his Bavarian troops forward for an invasion of Roumania. At several places in the Transylvanian Alps east of this pass, too, German and Austrian troops have reached the crest of the mountains separating Transylvania from Roumania, and are threatening to enter Roumania from the northwest, according to the official reports from Vienna.

Trouble Over Greek Cabinet.

Rome, Oct. 5.—A despatch from Athens says that considerable difficulty has been experienced in forming a War Cabinet for Greece. It is doubtful if a post is held by Eleutherios Venizelos, the former premier and leared of the pro-Ally party. Venizelos is quoted from Crete as saying that he will be satisfied with any ministry that stands for war on the side of the Allies.

Territorials Make a Raid.

London, Oct. 5.—Artillery duels were in progress on the Somme front last night. London territorials carried out a successful raid in the Vimy area. In West Flanders the Germans tried hard to raid British trenches but failed.

Still Hammer at Mackensen.

Petrograd, Oct. 5.—The Russo-Roumanian offensive against Field Marshall Von Mackensen's army in Dobrudja continues. The War Office told of the capture of 13 guns from the German Allies. On the Vohynian front battles are still in progress.

French Take German Guns.

Paris, Oct. 5.—East of Morval on the Somme front the French have captured nine heavy guns from the Germans.

BAPTISTS TO OBSERVE 25TH ANNIVERSARY

Attractive Program Prepared for Event Beginning October 17.

Beginning Tuesday evening, October 17, the congregation of the Temple Baptist church will celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of that church. Rev. Earle C. Conover, the pastor, is head of the committee in charge of the arrangements. It is expected that Rev. J. W. Musson and Rev. Lester Leggett, former pastors, will have a part in the services. Music will be made a feature.

This church is the outgrowth of tent meetings held on the site of the present edifice. A Sunday school was also organized abzout that time. A little later services were held in a dwelling on East Third street. Prior to the calling of Rev. J. Musson, the first postor, L. W. Randolph had charge of the work which continued to prosper. The present edifice was erected at a cost of about $11,000, and for a time it was know as Faith chapel and later changed to Temple Baptist church. Through the efforts of a faithful band of workers the church has grown and the Sunday school has also increased in membership.

BOROUGH COUNCIL MEETING.

The October monthly meeting of the North Plainfield Borough Council will be held tomorrow night in the Council rooms, when several matters of considerable importance will be discussed.

WOMAN AUTO DRIVER HAS A NARROW ESCAPE

There was considerable excitement on the Grove street railroad crossing at 6:30 o'clock last evening when a large touring car with an unknown woman at the wheel, ran off of the crossing onto the rails. Trains were approaching from both directions at the time. Both were successfully signaled to with lanterns. It is considered fortunate that they were far enough away to be able to be brought to a standstill. One, a Philadelphia flier, was stopped only a hundred yards away. The car was assisted back on the crossing by a dozen or so of men, who were drawn to the scene by the commotion. The woman, who was bordering for a time on hysterics, was very grateful for the assistance rendered her and profuse in her thanks to Thomas Reynolds and John McCauley, who acted as leaders of the rescuers.

S. R. STRICKLAND, SR.'S FUNERAL ON SATURDAY

The funeral of Samuel Strickland, Sr., aged 64 years, who died in the Bayonne Hospital yesterday afternoon, following injuries sustained when he was struck by a Philadelphia flier at Bayonne Tuesday morning, will be held at the late home at 8 o'clock Saturday night, the Rev. E. R. Brown, pastor of the Presbyterian church, officiating. Interment will be held in the Cypress Hills cemetery, Brooklyn. The members of Nathan Hale Lodge, No. 804, I. O. O. F., of Brooklyn, to which the deceased belonged, will hold a service at the grave.

The deceased came to the borough with his family from Brooklyn about five years ago. With the exception of several months, when he was one of the borough sewer inspectors, he worked during three years as carpenter for the New Jersey Central. He is survived besides his wife by two daughters, Mrs. Robert Wright and Miss Edythe Strickland, and one son, Samuel R. Strickland, Jr.

ESTIMATED COST OF THE REMAINING SEWER WORK

The itemized cost of the remaining sewer work as of October 1, as furnished by the borough sewer engineers at the Council meeting on Monday night follows: Bound Brook road pumping station, $150; resurfacing, $1,800; Sanford avenue-Dunellen avenue to Bound Brook road, $4,000; Sanford avenue-Dunellen avenue to First street, $1,600; engineering, $450; inspection, $150; cleaning out Bound Brook road line from Sanford avenue to Madison avenue and Washington avenue line south of Culhans place, and sand caused by breaks, $500; gate valve at Bound Brook road pumping station, $100; fill at pumping station, $300. Total, $9,050.

BOARD OF EDUCATION WILL OMIT HOLIDAYS

The major portion of the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education last night was taken up in disposing of bills. It was voted to provide a manual training room in the basement of the Lincoln School. Owing to the time lost by the infantile paralysis epidemic, it was decided to omit the following holidays: Columbus Day, Election Day, Washington's Birthday, Lincoln's Birthday, Memorial Day and Easter week.

The Board decided to postpone action on the awarding of the contract for the painting of the flag pole in front of the Lincoln School, because it felt disinclined at this time of taking the responsibility of any injury sustained by the person willing to attempt it.

The superintendent's report gave the enrollment of local pupils in the Plainfield High School as 65, compared with 59 last year.

CIRCULATES PETITION.

Nomination papers are being circulated for David S. Campbell, who is desirous of becoming a justice of the peace.

At yesterday's meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian church, held in the Baraca room, the society voted to recarpet the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Pyatt have returned from their honeymoon trip to Atlantic City.

Mrs. William W. Walters yesterday entertained Miss Emma Lindabury, of Milford, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. Joseph Hamley, of Lincoln avenue.

Mrs. Lydia Parker, of Second street, who has been seriously ill with bronchitis and heart trouble, is better.

Postmaster Willard N. Apgar has been instrumental in having a new and much needed lighting system installed in the postoffice.

South Plainfield.

Mrs. William Farrel has returned to her home in Metuchen after visiting her mother, Mrs. Mary McDonough.

Work on John Bori's new home is progressing and will be ready for occupancy in a few weeks.

John Conger, of Perth Amboy, was the guest of his mother, Mrs. Charles Blackford, yesterday.

WHEN GUESTS MAY CALL ON BONNIE BURN PATIENTS

There are many residents of Union county who have visited the Bonnie Burn Sanatorium for Tuberculosis Patients, but there are many others who do not even know where the county's hospital is located. When the Scotch Plains institution was opened several years ago the doors were thrown open for public inspection of the buildings and equipment, and since that time there has been a general understanding that visitors are welcome.

Dr. John R. Runnells, the superintendent, is anxious they know more about the buildings, the method of treatment, and the surroundings of the patients. At the meeting of the board of managers held on Monday afternoon, it was decided that October 12, 13, 14 and 15 be special guest days and that all the people of the county be invited to come and get acquainted with this piece of county property. Dr. Runnells and his staff will be present to conduct the visitors through the buildings and over the grounds. It is a beautiful piece of property, put to good use, and the persons who have not seen it will feel repaid.

Visitors going in automobiles from any part of the county may go directly to the administration building. Those going by trolley—the Union Line—may secure a conveyance at reasonabde cost to take them up the mountain from Martine avenue, the point at which they alight from the trolley car. The managers of th sanatorium are making this provision for extra vehicles to meet the cars.

JAPS ARE NOW MAKING 25 CENT BASEBALLS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—It will not be long before Japanese baseballs will be used in the American world series, a Cincinnati manufacturer informed the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce today. Not content with the monopoly in five-cent baseballs, Japanese manufacturers are planning to compete with American manufacturers in league class baseballs. Already there is a great demand for the 25-cent balls manufactured in Japan and the market is being extended into Canada.

ENDEAVOR UNION IS IN CONVENTION

Red Bank Scene of This Year's Session of the State Union.

Red Bank, Oct. 5.—A three-day convention of the New Jersey Christian Endeavor Union, which last year held its convention in Elizabeth, opened yesterday in this attractive little town. Sessions are to be held in the First Presbyterian church, whose pastor, the Rev. J. W. Rogan, D. D., is chairman of the general committee of arrangements. The program of addresses and conferences has been prepared by the State president, John T. Sproull.

The convention opened with greetings and a devotional service. A conference of workers followed, with the State secretary, Miss Nellie K. Foote, of Elizabeth, in charge. At 5 o'clock there was conferences of intermediate and junior workers, led by the State superintendents, Miss Nina Rowland, of Clinton and Miss Mae Rice, of Cranford. The attendance of these conference consists chiefly of the leaders in the different counties and of society officers.

A meeting of the State executive committee followed a dinner tendered the committee by the Monmouth County Endeavorers at the convention church.

Additional delegates arrived by the early evening trains and trolley cars for the session that was held at 7:45 o'clock. The speaker will be Ralph C. Norton, who told something of the marvelous work of evangelizing among soldiers engaged in the war in Europe. Mr. and Mrs. Norton have been actively engaged in this effort and Mrs. Norton, who was expected to speak at the convention with her husband, has returned to England, so great is the need for her services.

Today and on Friday there will be addresses by prominent clergymen and laymen, some of them Christian Endeavor officers from other States. The sunrise prayer services on both days will, as usual, be led by State President Sproull. The Rev. Isaac J. Lansing, D. D., of Quiet Hour meditations, speaking on "The Social Program of the Lord's Prayer." He will divide the address, Ridgefield Park, will conduct the speaking at 10:20 o'clock tomorrow morning and at 10:40 the next morning. A. J. Shartle, of Boston, publication manager of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, will conduct a conference during the closing period of the morning.

BUY NEW JERSEY LAND TO TEST BIG CANNON

Mays Landing, Oct. 5.—A huge ordnance proving ground is to be established along the Great Egg Harbor River, with Mays Landing as headquarters, by the Bethlehem Steel Company, principally for use in work for the United States Government. A tract of land nearly eighteen miles in length and averaging six in breath has been bought, the purchase requiring more than a thousand deeds.

While the present plans of the company include only the proving plant mentioned, it was said authoritatively that the construction of other plants is contemplated.

The land is bounded on two sides by the Great Egg Harbor and Tuckahoe Rivers. It extends from Mays Landing to Tuckahoe. A railroad will be built between these points. More than $500,000 has been spent in acquiring the land and another half million will have to be expended before proving can be begun.

Hundreds of workmen will be employed, as this will be the main proving ground ffor the company's various plants and the bulk of testing of guns, ammunition and armor plate will be done here. Representatives of foreign governments whioh use Bethlehem steel products will be stationed permanently at this place.

N. P. H. S. NOTES

The senior class held its annual meeting today and elected the following officers: President, William Seidel; vice president, Andrew McDonough; secretary, Lillian Spencer, and treasurer, Irving Roddy. Madeline Blair, Robert Daley and Irving Roddy were appointed a committee to form a budget and to advise the class regarding dues for the year.

The sophomore class election will take place tomorrow and the freshmen election will be on Monday.

Captain McDonough, of the baseball team, started fall training yesterday afternoon and a large number of candidates responded. Among the candidates were: William Barry, Edward Yates, Newton Mair, Clifford Marsh, William Cooper, Sydney Dunning, William Carson, Robert Parsch, Arthur Townley, Edward Clay, Ted Zeller, Harold Vail, William Runyon, Nelson Kenworthy, Kenneth Stahl, Douglas Stewart, Harold Livingston, Clifford Feiring, Vincent LaPorte and John Doughty. While infielders are in the minority McDonough has hopes of picking a team to cope with the Alumni on Saturday, October 7.

TONY PELEGREEN MISSING.

POLITICS CAUSES SPLIT IN THE COLBY FAMILY

Politics has split many families, but at least the break between the Colby brothers of New Jersey, Howard, of Plainfield and Everett, member of the Republican National Campaign Committee, is a friendly one. Howard sent his check for $100 yesterday to Wilbur W. Marsh, treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, explaining:

"The inclosed represents the amount I expect to win from my brother on President Wilson's re-election. Please accept it as a campaign contribution."

Said Everett, hearing of this.

"So Howard expects me to pay his contribution, does he? Do you know why that brother of mine is for Wilson? I'll tell you. He flunked every examination he ever took at Princeton, but Wilson passed him. That's the reason. But he won't get my money. The election won't turn out that way."

The Pinchot brothers, Amos and Gifford, represent another divided family. The former chief forester is working for Hughes and Amos is supporting Wilson.

CHIMNEY FIRE.

A chimney fire at the residence of C. S. Jeffcott, of West Eighth street, called the fire daptrtment out early last night. Chemicals put the blaze out with no damage.

TWO DANGEROUS HABITS.

Don't Scratch, Even With Clean Nails, and Don't Pinch.

Scratching oneself and picking at pimples or sore spots are dangerous habits, likely to result in infections more or less serious. This is proved by examination of the scrapings of nails under the microscope. Even hands and nails that are kept scrupulously clean by washing and brushing are not free from the germs of skin diseases.

Dr. Albert Schneider of San Francisco reports to the Journal of the American Medical Association the results of the microscopic examination of the scrapings of the nails of 143 students in a surgical college. There were found bacilli, cocci and spirillae of many sorts, especially those that produce pus.

These facts, he points out, may be of great importance in criminal trials.

Dr. Schneider cites one case in which a man was accused of killing a baby. In the scrapings of his nails were found the "frustules of fresh water diatoms and a few filaments of oscillaria." This led to the suspicion that he had buried his victim's body in a marsh. Careful search of the banks of a marshy stream near by disclosed the little corpse.

Dr. Schneider says such diseases as lupus, acne, boils and carbuncles are traceable to scratching. Nail biters frequently infect themselves.

"There is the case of the husband," he writes, "whose neck on the left side was never long free from one or more small pimples or boils, traceable to his wife's habit of playfully pinching his neck. He ascribed the trouble to starched collars, but several changes in the laundry brought no relief. During the prolonged absence of the wife on a visit with relatives the trouble disappeared entirely to reappear again on her return with a renewal of the playful habits."

PICKED AN ODD NAME.

An Author Had a Long Search and Then Faced a Surprise.

When Albion W. Tourgee wrote "A Fool's Errand" he named one of his leading characters Theron Pardee. An early copy of the book fell into the hands of the Rev. Luther Pardee, an Episcopal clergyman of Chicago, whose father was named Thereon Pardee.

The name is such an unusual combination that in amazement the rector showed the book to his father, and they were both puzzled by the coincidence. They decided to write Judge Tourgee and ask him what had led him to use the name.

He replied, in equal amazement, that he had not supposed there was such a man living as Theron Pardee. Then he stated that he had a prolonged search for a suitable name for the character of his story—one that would express just what he imagined this character to be.

In the course of the hunt an old copy of the curriculum of Union college had fallen into his hands. It was dated 1825, or something as far back, and among the names of the students was one Thereon Pardee.

The judge said it had impressed him as being one of the richest, most solid and most satisfying names he ever had heard, so he decided to adopt it for his character. The curriculum was so old that he had no hesitation in using the name, and he was astonished to learn that the rightful owner of it was living.

His explanation was accepted, and the resulting acquaintance was pleasing all around.

One Letter You Never Wrote.

My Dear Wife—Since you've been away visiting your mother I have been having the time of my life—in fact, I haven't known what it was to live before since we were married. I fired all the servants the morning after you left so I could be free. I get my meals anywhere. The house looks as if a tornado had struck it. But, oh, what a lovely time I'm having! Don't come home until I send for you. Cordially.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Emptying a Bottle.

To empty a bottle, especially a large one, quickly it should be held inverted over the receptacle into which the contents are to be turned. Then while the neck is held in a steady position the bottom of the bottle should be given a rotary motion. This will form a small whirlpool that will admit air to the space vacated by the liquid and cause it to run freely from the bottle.—Exchange.

REPORT INFANTILE PARALYSIS ON WANE

However, State Health Board Advises People to Be Cautious.

Trenton, Oct. 5.—Believing that the epidemic of infantile paralysis in New Jersey is rapidly approaching an end, the State Department of Health has just announced that it has repealed the regulations of the State sanitary code which require identification certificates for children under 16 years of age who enter the State or pass from one municipality to another within the State. The repealer takes effect at once and this lifts the quarantine, which has been in force nearly two months.

Although the epidemic is definitely subsiding, cases are still being reported to the State Department daily, and in a few sections of the State the infection is still actively progressing. Officials of the State Health Department, therefore, said today that it is the opinionu of the members of the department that local Health Boards should still strongly advise against unnecessary traveling of children and against the assembling of children in large groups whenever this acn reasonably be avoided.

It is further pointed out by the State Department that the repeal of the provisions of the code requiring identification certificates will have no effect upon the precautionary measures which should be employed by local Boards of Health to restrict the spread of infantile paralysis by isolating cases and by keeping children who have been exposed under quarantine for the incubation period, which has been tentatively fixed at two weeks.

GASOLINE SHORTAGE TO GROW WORSE FOR THIRTY YEARS

Washington, Oct. 5.—According to Van H. Manning, director of the Bureau of Mines, the price of gasoline is higher because the supply is failing.

"We are facing a serious condition in the petroleum industry," said Mr. Manning. "We have probably reached the summit of our crude oil production in this country. Our future supply of petroleum is sufficient only to last us twenty-seven or thirty years at the present rate of consumption."

Mr. Manning said that the production of gasoline or crude oil in the Cushing field has dropped from 300,000 barrels a day a year ago to less than 60,000 barrel a day at the present time.

MANY NEW LIGHTS FOR FANWOOD BOROUGH

Roads to Receive Attention Also—Board of Health Discussed at Length.

The question of lights occupied the greater part of the discussion at the October meeting of the Fanwood Council held last night. Three lights that have been petitioned for will be placed on Terrill road, two by Fanwood and one by Plainfield. One that was petitioned for on Woodland avenue will be installed also, and one on Tilliston road and three on Le Grande avenue that have been asked for were referred to the proper committee.

Following a letter from the State Road Department it was decided to ask for aid in repairing Martine avenue, but as it is not known just how much it will cost to rebuild that thoroughfare the matter will be held up until an engineer can estimate on it. Martine avenue is one of the most important in this section and the heavy traffic on it makes it impossible for the borough to keep the ordinary dirt roadbed in repair. With State aid it is expected to make it amisite.

The Board of Health came in for a long discussion and ended up as usual with nothing being done. Councilman Brown offered a resolution that the Board be given an appropriation each year that they would have control of and make it last for the year instead of having that body contract bills to be paid by the Council. The regular monthly bills were audited and paid.

COURT GRANTS TRANSFER OF LICENSE, OTHERS ISSUED

Both William Lee and Herman Frowery were granted renewal of their inn and tavern liquor licenses by Judge James J. Connolly at Elizabeth last Tuesday. Lee is proprietor of the West Side House on Front street and Frowery keeps the hotel at the corner of Front street and Park avenue.

Judge Connolly also granted the transfer of a wholesale liquor license from Herman Frowery to Joseph Venizia. Frowery sold his wholesale business in Fanwood township recently to Venizia, who conducts the same kind of business in the borough.

WHAT MAY HAPPEN WITH PLAINFIELD DRY

Once Famous "Jug Train" May Come Into Existence Again.

While Plainfield is in the midst of a movement that may result in the closing of all the saloons, Scotch Plains and Fanwood are discussing how these two places were affected when Plainfield last went dry and wondering if the same thing is to happen again.

Twenty years ago when the "drys" got on top in Plainfield the Darby and Lambert distilleries were in their prime and had not been discovered by the government revenue officers. After all other plans had failed, those in Plainfield who couldn't stay dry used to come to the Fanwood station on the 3:20, known at that time as the "jug train," and get their bottles and also themselves filled at one or the other of the "moonshines."

If Plainfield is dry again the one or two local saloons will be the only places for the thirsty to go and already Herman Frowery, "Billy" Lee and "Billy" Freck are thinging of extending their bars out into the backyard.

MISS GRACE PATTEE BRIDE OF DR. MUNGER IN VERMONT

Word has been received here of the marriage yesterday at Manchester, New Hampshire, of Miss Grace Pattee, of that place, to Dr. Ray Munger, of Fanwood. The wedding was a quiet one and was witressed by a few friends and relatives of the couple.

After a several weeks' automobile trip through New England they will return to Fanwood, where they will reside on North avenue. Dr. Munger is known all over this section of the State as a physician, and Miss Pattee was superintendent of nurses at Muhlenberg Hospital, Plainfield.

GARAGE FOR FANWOOD.

A deal was closed this week between Charles Sheelen, acting for the owners of the property located at the corner of Terrill road and South avenue and Harry McNamee and Joseph Venizia, whereby the two latter took a ten-year lease on the place and will start the erection within a week of a garage. It will be of cement block, one story in height, fireproof and about 60x30.

EXPLORING A RIVER

The Niger, the Mystery of Africa, Was Long a Puzzle.

SOLVED IN A CURIOUS WAY.

Two "Armchair" Scientists, Who Never Set Foot In the Dark Continent, Worked Out the Problem of Where the Great Stream Entered the Sea.

The Niger is the third greatest river in Africa and the eleventh in rank in the world. A century ago nobody had found where the Niger river reached the sea, and as the mystery grew the theory became popular that the Kongo or Zaire river was the lower part of the Niger.

The most impressive fact known about the Kongo was that the majestic flood it poured into the Atlantic freshened the sea several miles from the shore. It certainly was a great river.

Mungo Park, the splendid and intrepid young Scotchman who inaugurated the modern era of African exploration, was largely responsible for the theory that the Kongo might be the outlet of the Niger. He was enthusiastic over the idea. He wrote that if the theory turned out to be true the fact, in a commercial sense, would be second in importance only to the discovery of the Cape of Good Hope.

The German geographer Reichard became interested in the problem of the Niger, and, gathering all data available with regard to the waters in the equatorial regions of West Africa, he came to the conclusion that the Niger must find its way to the ocean through the streams of a delta and that this delta was probably on the coast of the bight of Benin, where a large number of small streams were known to enter the Atlantic.

The eminent geographer hit the nail on the head. His theory told the truth. The problem was solved in an armchair, but the English gentlemen, who at that time were organizing the Tuckey (Kongo) expedition, laughed to scorn the German hypothesis, declared that Reichard's deductions were "entitled to very little attention" and that his data were "wholly gratuitous."

James McQueen was another armchair investigator, but the books he read were hundreds of black slaves taken to the West Indies from the Niger river region. He had read Mungo Park's fascinating story of his journey down the Niger for hundreds of miles and thought it very strange that no explorer had ever found where the great river reached the sea. McQueen began to question every native of the lower Niger he could find and kept accumulating this testimony for five years before he was ready to publish his results.

In 1841, when he had solved the puzzle to his satisfaction, he issued a book in which he announced as a fact and not as a theory that the Niger reached the sea through a wide spreading delta in the region of the "oil rivers." As a fact, the delta front is exactly where McQueen said it was. The oil rivers are the delta streams of the Niger.

McQueen's book made more fun for the learned geographers than any comic newspaper. The idea that an obscure trader in the West Indies should dream that his confabs with ignorant slaves had solved the Niger mystery was a most amusing joke. McQueen lived to see the day when his joke was recognized as a solemn geographical fact.

The Niger delta, one of the largest in the world, stretches 250 miles along the coast. Most of its streams are small, and, skirting the coast, one can hardly observe them, so completely are they hidden in the dense region of mangrove swamps. Explorers soon found that they might struggle for weeks up a stream only to prove it a blind alley, for a peculiarity of the Niger is that not a few independent rivers form between tthe delta branches and have no connections with the Niger itself. Most of the delta is a network, difficult to enter or to retreat from.

All nature is hideous there—the brown waters lazily coursing, the evil odors of the slime and ooze, the repulsive animal life from crocodile to pythons, lurking in the shadow for their prey, and a choice collection of insect plagues, including the anopheles mosquito, with its poisonous sting. These terrible conditions, persisting for about forty miles inland, are then succeeded by solid earth, noble trees and sweet air, but the swamp region of the lower delta is one of the most forbidding parts of Africa.

Richard Lander at last, in 1830 floating down the Niger, was taken by natives into the Nun branch of the delta and descended it to the sea. The Niger problem was solved.

England gave the Niger a wide berth till after 1850. It was thought to be a plague stricken region from which no good would ever come. Its terrors have fled today before the advance in knowledge. Large vessels ascend the Forcados branch, carrying commerce to and from the far interior of Africa, and Nigeria, a coming empire of industry, with its great cattle, cotton, tin mines and other resources, is joined to the sea both by rail and river.—Cyrus C. Adams in American Review of Reviews.

Diplomacy.

"Pa, what is diplomacy?"

"Diplomacy, my boy, is the art of being disagreeable pleasantly."—Detroit Free Press.

Cleanse the fountain if you would purify the streams.—Alcott.

DR. FLOWER, AGED CROOK, DIES IN HOBOKEN THEATRE

New York, Oct. 5.—It did not become known until today that the aged man who dropped dead while attending a vaudeville show in the Lyric Theatre, in Hoboken Sunday night was Dr. Richard C. Flower, who stole more than $1,000,000, mainly from women, and once was a fugitive from justice for twelve years. The body will be cremated today.

He was 73 years old and had been a lawyer, preacher and physician. At one time 500 indictments were pending against him, it is said. When finally caught he was sentenced, December 7, 1914, to two years in prison. His wife was given a sentence in Blackwell's Island, where he also served his time, for smuggling morphine to him in the Tombs.

DR. MUNSON SPEAKS AT ANNIVERSARY SERVICE

PROPOSALS FOR SEWERS.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, at an adjourned regular meeting held Monday, September 18th, 1916, notice is hereby given that the Common Council will meet on Monday, October 9th, 1916, at 8 o'clock, P. M., at the Council Chamber, No. 149 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at which time and place said Common Council will receive sealed proposals for doing the work and furnishing the materials for the construction of such portion of the separate sewers or drains contemplated in the ordinance entitled "An Ordinance to provide separate Sewers or Drains, to carry off the surface water in Grove street and in portions of East Fifth street, West Fifth street, West Sixth street, East Seventh street, West Seventh street, West Eighth street, Watchung avenue, Park avenue, New street, Plainfield avenue, Grant avenue and West Front street," approved September 6, 1916, as provided for in the plans and specifications adopted by the Common Council September 18th, 1916, and filed in the office of the City Clerk, No. 151 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals, the Common Council will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided said parties or agents choose to be then and there present, and also make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Council.

The Engineer's approximate estimate of the quantities of material required, and the work to be done, is as follows:

720 feet, 3 feet 6 inches by 4 feet 6 inches rectangular reinforced concrete sewer 7 to 11 feet deep; 560 feet, 45-inch concrete or segment block sewer 11 feet deep; 400 feet, 42-inch concrete or segment block sewer 11 feet deep; 450 feet, 39-inch concrete or segment block sewer 9 feet deep; 980 feet, 36-inch concrete or segment block or vitrified pipe sewer 9 to 17 feet deep; 700 feet, 33-inch concrete, segment block or vitrified pipe sewer 7 to 9 feet deep; 230 feet, 27-inch concrete or vitrified pipe sewer 11 feet deep; 2,910 feet, 24-inch vitrified pipe sewer 5 to 7 feet deep; 780 feet, 22-inch vitrified pipe sewer 5 feet deep; 1,760 feet, 20-inch vitrified pipe sewer 5 to 9 feet deep; 1,190 feet, 18-inch vitrified pipe sewer 5 to 9 feet deep; 360 feet, 15-inch vitrified pipe sewer 5 feet deep; 1 special manhole on rectangular sewer; 3 manholes on rectangular sewer 7 to 11 feet deep; 37 standard manholes 5 to 17 feet deep; 129 storm water inlets; 240 feet, 15-inch vitrified inlet pipe; 3,660 feet, 12-inch vitrified inlet pipe; 4,770 sq. yds. reconstructing pavement; 2 brook connections, 100 cu. yds. concrete for foundations; 100 cu. yds. foundations of gravel, slag or stone; 100 cu. yds. rock excavation; 10,000 feet B. M. lumber left in place; 4,000 feet B. M. lumber for platforms and foundations.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for $2,000. The amount of bond required will be $25,000.

The work to be completed June 1, 1917.

The Common Council reserves the right to reject any or all bids, to waive defects in bids, or to accept any bid as they shall deem for the best interest of the City.

Duplicate plans may be examined, and forms of proposal, specifications, contract and bond, may be obtained at the office of Andrew J. Gavett, Street Commissioner, 151 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

Proposals should be endorsed "Proposals for Sewers."

UNCLE SAM TURNS DANCING CENSOR

Government May Prohibit Hopi Indians' Snake Dance.

SAVAGES WORSHIP REPTILES

Many of Them Are Bitten by Rattlers, but Seem to Be Immune to Poison. Washington Woman Makes Long Journey to Witness Weird Ceremony at Oraibi, Ariz.

That the United States government, through its Indian agents, is striving to put an end to the weird snake dance held every summer by the Hopi Indians in Arizona and that this ceremony, which annually attracts people from all over the country, may not be held next year is the information just brought back from Oraibi, Ariz., by Miss Eva Wientge of Washington.

In order to witness this dance, Miss Wientge traveled on horseback from Holbrook, where she was visiting relatives, to Oraibi, on the Hopi Indian reservation, a distance of 145 miles.

"This is a long way to travel to see a dance," she said, in discussing the trip, "especially when the dance lasts only a half or three-quarters of an hour. But the scenery en route was wonderful; it reminded one of the glorious Grand canyon. One could see so far and the colors of sky and earth were so remarkable.

Tourists' Eyes Bulge.

"Arrived at Oraibi, we soon realized that the Indian snake dance was well worth traveling many miles to see. There were perhaps 200 tourists, who gathered round the Indians and gazed with bulging eyes at the weird ceremony about to be enacted with rattlesnakes as the chief objects of admiration. As far as I could ascertain, the Hopis gather their snakes from the mountain side, keeping them hidden until the dance begins and after the ceremony return them to their homes, at all times showing them the greatest reverence.

"One theory is that the Hopis believe in the wisdom and power of a 'great snake' somewhere in the mountains, and they wish the little snakes to return to the 'tata' snake and carry glad tidings of how well they were treated. Judging by what we saw at the dance, the 'little' snakes—they are husky looking rattlers quite as long as any one would care to encounter—do not reciprocate in this matter of respect and awe. We saw one of the awful reptiles strike his fangs into the jaw of an Indian boy, who kept right on dancing. One or two of the bucks also were bitten. They did not show any ill effects, and we were told that they have become practically immune to the rattlesnake poison.

Monster Rattler Fights.

"I have seen Indian dances in New Mexico, but there is nothing to compare with the savage snake dance and its rattling thrills. At one time we were just a few inches away from a monster rattler that was being chased around by an Indian whose duty it was to pick up the reptile. We passed a bad quarter of a minute waiting for the Indian to take a good hold of the snake. The reptile fought viciously for several seconds, coiling and striking. It was a bloodcurdling performance, but no one dared to interfere, of course, as the Indians would be much annoyed to see a paleface take a shot at one of their sacred snakes. The news of such a 'sacrilege' would undoubtedly reach the 'big snake' in the mountains and he would make the Indians pay dearly for wounding or killing one of his subjects."

COLLEGE MEN IN THICK OF BIG POLITICAL FIGHT

Thousands of Hughes and Wilson Partisans Hustling For the Candidates.

One of the striking developments of this presidential campaign is the extraordinary interest which it has aroused among the college alumni all over the country. The Hughes National College league announces that its enrollment was considerably over 25,000, and the National Woodrow Wilson College Men's league recently laid claim to an enrollment of more than 500 Princeton men in one day.

There is, of course, keen rivalry between the opposing leagues. In many instances classmates who would not otherwise think of opposing each other have split on the question of candidates and are fighting tooth and nail for their respective sides.

In an interview recently John Hays Hammond, president of the National Republican league, said that the highest and most important duty of college men is to work in politics. "If they do not," he added, "it is not merely a neglect of an obvious duty, but it is a burning outrage. I don't care which side he is on, every college graduate should get out and work."

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys if Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or side, headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.—Adv.

ALL HUSTLE TO LEAVE DOUGLAS

Troop D Preparing to Bid Farewell to Camp on the Border.

CLOTHING IS BURNED

Rumor Says a "Closed Camp" Will Be Observed at Sea Girt and Guardsmen Will Be Restricted for a Time.

By JAMES J. McNAMEE.

Douglas, Ariz., Sept. 30.—All is gloom tonight in the quarters of the Jersey City Signal Corps, orders to go immdiately to Nogales, Arizona, and make ready for a winter of training have been responsible for the resignation of the entire commissioned personnel of the outfit. Captain William Y. Dear scored in harsh terms the action of the War Department in ordering his company to remain in the west, alleging political play and influence from a quarter not favorable to his outfit.

The funeral of Corporal Alexander Bowly, of 124 Highland avenue, who died in the Base Hospital Thursday afternoon, following an illness with dysentery, added to the dismal atmosphere in the corps and the camp street of the Jersey City soldiers tonight bears a stronger resemblance to a graveyard than to a military headquarters. Military honors were accorded to the dead youth, the entire signal corps escorting the flag-draped coffin from the undertaking establishment to the depot this morning. H. H. Bowly, father of the youth, arrived here late last night and was prostrated at the news of his son's death. Captain Dear telegraphed the parents of the corporal's serious illness and the father set out immediately for Douglas, being on the road when death occurred. Sergeant Alexander Bowly, a brother of the dead militiaman, was granted a ten-day furlough to accompany the corpse back to Jersey City and attend the funeral.

Orders were issued in the two batteries of field artillery this morning to burn the large quantity of clothing which was condemned by the Federal authorities. This equipment was formerly State property and was taken over by the Federal government following the mustering in at Sea Girt. It is expected that the clothing condemned in other units will meet the same fate and there is considerable of it.

All is hustle and bustle in the quarters of the units that expect to bid farewell to Douglas the middle or latter part of next week. No official written orders have been passed out as yet but those concerned, especially the officers, are firmly confident that they will move not later than Thursday. The field hospital corps and Battery A, of the District of Columbia have been ordered to Douglas from Warren and the Signal Corps of the District of Columbia, now at Warren, has been ordered to Nogales with the Jersey Signal Corps. The shifting of troops leaves none at Bisbee or Warren, and only the First Arizona infantry at Naco.

Rumor has it in the Jersey units that a "closed camp" will be observed at Sea Girt, that is, no guardsmen will be allowed to go outside or visitors to come in for a prescribed period. This is believed to be a precautionary step against para-typhoid, and while the men have no official information on the subject, they are kicking vigorously about it.

The four troops of cavalry were informed at the noon-day meal that an effort had been made to induce the Government to pay off for September work before the middle of next week so that the soldiers might have their money to use on the homeward trip or to purchase souvenirs with in Douglas before leaving.

The full quota of New Jersey officers now stationed here have arranged to tender a farewell reception and dance at the army pavilion of Camp Harry Jones next Friday night. Should the cavalry squadron and artillery give indications of leaving before that time an earlier date will be chosen.

WILL LOSE WOMEN'S SUPPORT

that the resolution be tabled. His action can no doubt be explained by the fact that he is now running for Congress in the Eighth district, which comprises the Eighth, Eleventh and Fifteenth wards of Newark, and several Essex county towns, as well as one ward in Jersey City, and the City of Bayonne, and he probably feels that he needs Mr. Nugent's help. We were especially surprised, however, because Mr. Kinkead had told us not an hour before that while he would not vote for a suffrage plank in the platform, he would not do anything against it.

"The resolution to table carried, but there was so much indignation shown by some of the committee at its being side-tracked in this way that Chairman Nugent, remarking in an aside that he did not know much about parliamentary law, called for a vote on Mr. Scully's resolution. This was four in favor to seven opposed, a number of men not voting. Those who voted in favor of the resolution were William B. Phillips, of Atlantic county; John R. Phillips, Jr., of Mercer county; Dr. Joshua Hilliard, of Ocean county, and John Totten, of Passaic county. Congressman Scully, who was not a member of the committee, of course, had no vote.

"Two of the men who voted for the resolution stated to us that they intended to bring the matter up on the floor of the convention, but later on during the convention they said they had been asked not to do so as it might lose votes to have a fight in the convention. In other words, a number of the candidates for office were afraid to stand up and be counted. One of these gentlemen told us, 'If you ladies had not been present there would have been some rough-house in the platform committee, as Mr. Nugent's manner of downing the resolution was a little too raw.'

"The action of the Republican State convention in reaffirming the National platform in its entirety seems to us a very sagacious move on their part. The suffrage plank in the National platform is as follows:

"The Republican party, reaffirming its faith in government of the people, by the people, for the people, as a measure of justice to one-half the adult people of this country, favors the extension of suffrage to women, but recognizes the right of each State to settle this question for itself.

"One of the immediate results of the action of the Democratic convention will be the withdrawal of a number of prominent New Jersey women from active participation in the Democratic campaign. Two such women who were part of our deputation yesterday, Mrs. Philip McKim Garrison, of Llewellyn Park, and Mrs. James Billington, of Jersey City, stated at the close of the convention that they would at once drop the work they had been planning to do for the Democratic candidates.

"Tomorrow afternoon we will have a meeting of our legislative committee and decide as to what part, if any, the suffrage association will take in the present political campaign."

WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN WORK SOCIETY ELECTS

Mrs. William C. Hubbard is Again Chosen Head of Church Organization.

At the regular meeting of the Women's Society for Christian Work held in the Seventh-Day Baptist church yesterday afternoon, the following officers were re-elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. William C. Hubbard; vice president, Mrs. Sarah P. Wardner; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Charles P. Titsworth; treasurer, Mrs. J. A. Dunham; auditors, Mrs. John G. Spicer and Mrs. T. C. Smith.

The following nominating committee was named to name the remaining committees for the year: Mrs. Henry M. Maxson, chairman; Mrs. Charles C. Titsworth and Mrs. Lewis T. Titsworth. Reading of reports took up the larger portion of the session.

DEMOCRATS WILL SUPPORT MARTINE

Somerset County Declares Its Allegiance to United States Senator.

At a meeting of the Somerset County Democratic Executive Committee held at Somerville recently, the committee went on record with a resolution that there was at no time any organized effort on the part of Democrats to defeat Senator Martine, open or secret. Because of the widespread reports by the press of the State that the nomination of James E. Martine was accomplished by the votes of Democrats of New Jersey opposed to the Wilson administration, the executive committee took occasion to deny that there was any such intention among the voters of Somerset county. The members of the committee, every one of whom voted for Martine, are the most ardent Wilson Democrats.

During the meeting the following officers were re-elected: Chairman, Wm. Prout, Bernardsville; vice-chairman, Andrew E. Kenney, North Plainfield; secretary, D. D. Clark, Jr., Bound Brook; treasurer, H. P. Krausse, North Plainfield.

The following committees were appointed: Meeting—Andrew E. Kenney, Charles H. Mathews, Thomas Martin, finance—H. P. Krausse, W. C. Horton, Dr. J. T. Leahy.

THE FORUM

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

In the Elizabeth and Plainfield papers of last evening an article appeared in which my name was mentioned as one of those desiring the recount for Charles N. Fowler.

I wish to correct this statement and say that all through my campaign I positively refused to be identified with or to use my influence for any other candidate, my sole interest being in the candidacy of myself for the position of county clerk of this county. If you will publish this letter for me, I will appreciate it.

WHY NOT WELCOME THEM HOME?

Plainfield gave its "boys" a rousing send-off when they went marching off to answer the bugle call to "war." There were tears in many eyes as half the adult population and three-fourths of the children waved flags and cheered for members of Troop D when their train pulled out for the Mexican border. All this was just and proper. They were going away to do battle for the flag, if need be, and they were entitled to all the praise that is accorded heroes in time of war. But now that the danger has passed and the sacrifices have been made, are they not worthy of even more attention and praise? When the local cavalry organization reaches home, and it is scheduled to arrive about Saturday of next week, will there be a crowd on hand to welcome its tanned and tired members, or will they find only a handful of loved ones and the usual stray curiosity-seekers awaiting them at Plainfield? A monster celebration, with the Mayor in charge, and all officials and citizens participating, would help to pay them for the long days they have spent on Arizona's sun-baked desert. Someone ought to get behind this suggestion and make it a reality next week.

McGRAW PULLED A 'BONE.'

The great national game suffered from that travesty in Brooklyn Tuesday when the "Robins" won the National League pennant, although there are few so foolish as to accuse New York players of deliberately "throwing" the game. Baseball has long been one of the cleanest sports known, and since the gamblers were driven from big league parks years ago not a breath of suspicion has fouled its fair name. The "Giants" wanted their old friend Robinson to win the pennant. There is no doubt of that, but they did not wilfully lose the deciding game. Manager McGraw himself gave doubters an excuse for yelling "crooked" when he quit in disgust at loose playing. He is more to blame for the slur that baseball suffers than his men. It was the first time that the "Little Napoleon" has ever "quit cold" though, in all his career, and perhaps he should be forgiven. Anyway it will all be forgotten in the heat of another fight for the championship.

Two investigations are being conducted into the threatened milk famine in New York. The State and city have become interested enough to ask for facts in the dispute between the distributors and the dairymen, and there is a slight chance of sensible action growing out of one of the hastily-organized probes. It is to be hoped that either the State or city officials will find a way to put an end to the suffering of children and invalids, even though it is not exactly "fair" to one of the elements that is trying to squeeze another penny or two out of a quart milk bottle.

The health report for last month is sufficient proof of the oft-heard statement that Plainfield need no longer fear an epidemic of infantile paralysis. Children are running loose on the streets, and parents may permit them to do so without dread of danger, but it should always be remembered that no disease is easily communicated to a healthy person living in clean surroundings, and a little of the "clean-up" spirit spread over all the year will minimize the danger during "plague time."

If Candidate Hughes continues to attack President Wilson's part in the passage of the eight-hour bill while forgetting all other criticisms that might be made of the Democratic administration he will find his cause growing weaker each day. Mr. Wilson has been in office four years with a Democratic Senate and a Democratic House. Surely so able a corps of political advisers as those who are behind the Hughes campaign can find something for him to "shoot at" besides the railroad strike legislation.

Those who are lovers of good music will not miss the program that is to be offered by the Plainfield Music Club on October 26. LOCATE PASSENGER AGENT AT ITHACA

N. W. Pringle Transferred to That Point by Lehigh Valley Company.

Announcement was made by the Lehigh Valley Railroad today of the establishment in Ithaca, N. Y., of the headquarters of N. W. Pringle, division passenger agent. Because of the importance of Ithaca to the Lehigh Valley, it has been decided to place a division passenger agent there and Mr. Pringle was selected.

While Mr. Pringle's headquarters will be in Ithaca, he will be associated with Paul S. Millspaugh, assistant general passenger agent at Buffalo, N. Y., in the handling of the passenger business of the Lehigh Valley in New York State.

Frank H. Wingert, traveling passenger agent at Ithaca, has resigned to enter commercial pursuits after more than twenty-five years with the company. His resignation was a matter of regret to the railroad management.

Mr. Pringle was born in Huntingdon, Quebec. His railroad career began with the Rutland Railroad, his first position being that of pushing a truck in the freight house at Rutland, Vt. He continued at this, however, for only six months, later going into the passenger branch of the service and obtaining steady promotion until some nine years ago, when he became traveling passenger agent of the Rutland Railroad with headquarters at Burlington, Vt. Mr. Pringle joined the forces of the Lehigh Valley on May 1, 1909, as its New England passenger agent with headquarters in New Haven, Conn. Two years ago he was appointed division passenger agent and his transfer to Ithaca places him in a larger and more important territory.

Y. W. C. A.

There will be a tea given tomorrow afternoon in the interest of the membership committee of the Y. W. C. A., to which all members of the two sections of the committee are urged to be present. A cordial invitation is also extended to all the board members. Miss Emma R. Chapin, our city field secretary, will speak informally at four o'clock, when tea will be served.

The Marie E. Brake Bible Class will hold its regular meeting at the association at 3:30 o'clock.

The Y. M. C. A. orchestra will meet in the gymnasium for practice at 7:30, and at 8 p. m. will play at the meeting of the Business Women's League.

At 8 p. m. the Business Women's League will meet. Miss Chapin will speak on the work of business women's clubs, and on account of her wide experience as general secretary of the Paterson Y. W. C. A., and field secretary, her talk is anticipated with much interest. All business women of Plainfield and vicinity are cordially invited to attend.

Plainfield Theatre.

Not satisfied with the remarkable record made by his "Merry Rounders," Max Spiegel has entered the burlesque field this year with another production which is even more elaborate and pretentious than the first named show. He calls his newest endeavor "The Spiegel Revue," and it comes to the Plainfield Theatre Monday matinee and night, October 9. Mr. Spiegel has gone the very limit in spending money on the wardrobe and the scenic appointments. The show is in two acts and ten scenes, and so massive is the scenic equipment that it takes two sixty-foot baggage cars to transport this part of the show alone. He has paid a great deal of attention to the electrical part of the production and has two distinct novelties which have never been equalled by anything in the electrical line which has been attempted in burlesque. One of these features is called "The Girl on the Magazine," in which Marie Allen, the modern Venus, appears in a series of poses showing the covers of the popular magazines. The other novelty is called "The Smiling Moon," and it will be found something very pretty and unique. It is a faceograph, showing a girl's face in the moon. The curtain for the first act goes up on Spotless Town. Then follow a railroad station scene, Kid's restaurant, a setting which depicts Forty-Second street, New York, city, and a ladies' beauty parlor. A night court scene opens the second act and the following scenes are a street scene, a scene for a big specialty act and a setting which represents the Peacock Room of the Biltmore Hotel in New York city. The cast is composed of Billy Mossey, the German comedian whose funny little laugh has made him famous; Harry Crawford, the tall eccentric; Folly Follette, a beautiful prima donna with a rich soprano voice; Midgie Miller, the fastest of all soubrettes; Callahan Brothers, dancers; Leo Nadell, a good straight man; the Twentieth Century Four, an exceptional quartet.

Max Spiegel gave his personal oversight to the staging of the production and was assisted by Thomas Grady. The chorus is a typical Spiegel one, which means the girls are the very prettiest in burlesque. The whole show, in short, is the best thing Mr. Spiegel or any other burlesque producer has ever provided.

The vaudeville bill which opens at the Plainfield Theatre this afternoon and tonight and which will continue tomorrow and Saturday, afternoon and night, is one of the best yet booked by Manager Shannon for the local playhouse. Every act on the prententious program is a crackerjack and a sure blues chaser. The headliner will be Miss Mable McKinley, the favorite niece of the late President McKinley. Miss McKinley has gained considerable prominence on the vaudeville circuit through her rendition of popular and classical songs in a manner that is inimitable. Her voice is of the clearest soprano, wide in range and beautiful in tone. She will without doubt captivate Plainfield audiences as she has audiences elsewhere.

Four other acts complete the vaudeville numbers. These are listed as follows: Foley and Williams, in "Steps and Steppers," a novel attraction; Leon Mon Chau, the American Chinese, who is a scream from his entrance on the stage until his exit; Mack, Wheeler and Van, the three comedians in a novelty surprise, and Scully and Wild, comedians extraordinary.

A feature of the photoplay portion of the program will be the appearance of Charlie Chaplin in one of his funniest pictorials. Pathe comedies and dramas are also shown in connection with the show as well as the Pathe Weekly, the animated newspaper of current happenings.

U. S. IS CLOSED TO CRIPPLED SOLDIERS

Europe's Maimed Will Not Be Welcomed After War Ends.

Washington, Oct. 5.—Maimed and crippled survivors of Europe's battle fields will beat for admission at the gates of America in vain at the close of the war.

Present immigration laws are "entirely adequate" to check the influx of hopelessly crippled expected to follow with the declaration of peace and "the bars will not be let down," said Assistant Secretary of Immigration Hampton today. Any physical disability which will incapacitate an alien for self-supporting work, it was pointed out, will bar him out under the section of the immigration laws excluding persons likely to become public charges. Men minus arms or legs who are dependent upon physical labor, will be barred under this section. All aliens with vital organs wounded in such a way that they appear incapable of properly sustaining themselves, will also fail to gain admittance.

Unless European governments enact restraining legislation, immigration officials predict an unprecedented wave of immigration to the United States will be seen at the close of hostilities.

Citizens of the belligerent nations officials said, will flock to these shores to escape the extraordinary tax burdens during the re-establishment of the dismantled countries, and seeing retarding conditions on every hand will attempt to escape from the chaos. With these elements present, the Assistant Secretary said, America is waiting "with open eyes."

GRAND JURY TO MEET FIRST FOUR DAYS OF WEEK

The Grand Jury of the October term has adopted plans for its sitting. Sessions will begin at 9:30 in the morning and end at noon. Because of the Court of Special Sessions, which makes it necessary for the prosecutor to give his assent to other motions on Friday, the Grand Jury will meet only the first four days of the week—Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Sitting of the Supreme and Circuit Courts will not begin until Tuesday, when Chief Justice George S. Silzer arrives. Of the thirty-six causes listed thirty-three are ready for trial, while more will be ready by the 15th. In addition to those causes listed, others have been added since yesterday by permission of the court.

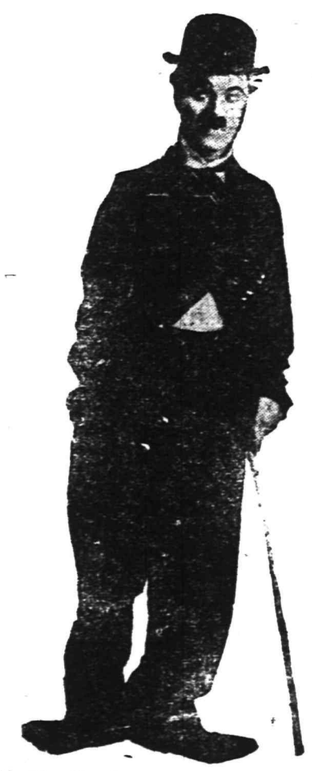
Proctor's Theatre

The progressive management of Proctor's Theatre has accomplished in a few months what could not be accomplished in several seasons, and that is the giving the amusement lovers of this city an entertainment that had merit enough to bring them out nightly and pack the local theatre to the doors. The entertainment is such as to bring letters by the score complimenting the management upon the policy of presenting the pick of the high-class screen plays and the large attendance is sufficient proof that the public prefers high-class screen plays with noted artists to mediocre stage plays with ordinary and commonplace actors. The new Paramount service at Proctor's has been one of the best ideas inaugurated in many weeks, and it gives Plainfield film fans an opportunity of witnessing all of the New York Strand Theatre's features and also all of those presented at the New York Rialto at advanced prices, at the local theatre at regular prices. All of the new Mary Pickford features and the Selznick series, which include Nazimova, Clara Kimball Young, and other famous stars will be shown at Proctor's Theatre.



Charlie Chaplin, in "The Pawnshop," at Proctor's, Tomorrow and Saturday.

A treat is in store for the patrons today when William S. Hart, the famous screen favorite who has been so successfully identified with Western characterizations, will be seen in "The Patriot," a Triangle masterpiece, and another notable screen play will be Mary Pickford in "The Eternal Grind." Friday a Paramount special. Saturday will bring Cleo Ridgely in a Metro feature, "The Love Mask," and for two days Charlie Chaplin has been selected, namely Friday and Saturday for the benefit of the kiddies, who have been denied the pleasure of seeing their favorite funmaker, because of the recent ban on those under 16. "The Fall of a Nation," because of the big demand for a repeat booking, has been rebooked for next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Many inquiries are being received about the newest film fad, "The Ring-around."

Our camera man takes pictures all over the city of groups of pedestrians, in and about public buildings, etc. A ring is placed around certain persons in the group who, if they recognize themselves to the satisfaction of the management, will receive a handsome gold prize. Join the crowds and enter into the spirit of the fun, and see yourselves in the "Movies." Watch for "Booster Week" announcements.

NAME CAMP AFTER A JERSEY SOLDIER

Sergeant Bierne, of Paterson, is Honored by the Government.

An army camp, for the first time it is believed, in the history of the United States army, which would have ordinarily borne the name of some President or Governor of a State, and at the very least of some famous general, will from now on bear the name of an enlisted man, and that man was a former resident of Paterson, N. J. He was Sergeant Owen Bierne, of the Twenty-third Infantry.

Sergeant Bierne was killed while performing his duties on September 21, last, by William Sands, a civilian and State ranger at El Paso, Texas, according to dispatches received.

The camp which has been named "Camp Owen Bierne" in his honor, is occupied by the Tenth Provisional division. The order for the naming of the camp came from Brigadier General Bell, on September 25.

Sergeant Bierne had nearly completed thirty years of service in the army, and next month he had expected to return to his relatives in the east. The news of his death caused considerable sorrow in the hearts of his relatives, who had planned an elaborate home coming welcome for him. He served in the Cuban and Philippine campaigns and was a clever pugilist. He answered the President's call during the Spanish-American War, and gradually raised himself in the ranks and gained the good wishes of his many companions by his good nature and willingness to help others.

UNION COUNTY MUSIC TEACHERS TO MEET SOON

Westfield, Oct. 5.—The Tri-County Music Supervisors' Association, comprising the teachers of music in the public schools of Union, Middlesex and Somerset counties, will begin their work for the coming season on October 11. The monthly meetings will be held in the Battin High School in Elizabeth.

The program: October 11, "The Psychology of Music Teaching," Miss Mabel E. Bray, of Westfield; Nov. 15, "How Can We Make Our Music Teaching More Vital to School and Home Life?" Thomas Wilson, of Elizabeth; Jan. 17, "The Changing Boy Voice, How It Must Be Considered in School," Miss Elizabeth Vosseler, Somerville; Feb. 14, "Problems of Music Teaching in High Schools," Miss Margaret Barnes, Summit; March 14, "What Fifty Songs Should Children Know When They Leave the Eighth Grade?" open discussion of lists prepared by all members; April 18, "Systematic Music Appreciation Training from Kindergarden to High School," Mrs. Peckham, instructor of music, in Hartridge School, Plainfield.

JOE TUMULTY MAY QUIT THE PRESIDENT

Rumored That He Will Resign Even if Wilson is Re-elected.

Washington, Oct. 4.—The opinion prevails in Washington that the nation' Chief Executive will be served by a new private secretary after March 4 next, regardless of whether Wilson or Hughes is the victor in the approaching election. If Mr. Hughes is elected he will bring with him to Washington a man of his own selection from among the many efficient and eligible workers whose acquaintance he has made in the course of his public career. In the event of President Wilson's re-election it is regarded as a foregone conclusion that the present secretary, Joseph P. Tumulty, will voluntarily resign his position, to be succeeded by some other man of the President's choosing.

President Wilson has been served faithfully and efficiently by Mr. Tumulty and the relations between the two are of the most cordial nature. If Mr. Tumulty resigns the position in the event of the President's re-election his act will be entirely voluntary. That it is his intention to ertire from the position after March 4 next is the belief of all of Mr. Tumulty's most intimate associates.

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

The Majestics, one of burlesque's most progressive organizations, will be seen at the Columbia Theatre the week beginning Monday afternoon, October 9, and present a program consisting of extravaganza, musical comedy and vaudeville that is said to be more pretentious than anything hitherto attempted in this division of amusements. Fifteen scenes are employed in the production and the costuming and mechanical and electrical effects are described as exceedingly elaborate and beautiful. Two one-act travesties compose the principal feature of the show and are relied upon to furnish the lively fun that is expected in all performances of this character and that is said to be abundant in the Majestic's offering. In the unusually long cast are several players widely popular among regular patrons of the Columbia, including Florence Bennett, Frank DeMont, Paul Cunningham, Louise Alexandria, May Penman, Mardine Grey, John Keit, Lyle LaPine, Gracia DeMont, Florence Emery, Lucell Cullem and Doc Dell. A large chorus of male and female voices will assist in the rendition of musical and dancing features that are announced as among the most attractive elements of the performance.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How Two Little Italians Bade Goodby to Their Home.

They Threw Back Kiss After Kiss.

"I KNOW a nice travel story," said daddy. Then he waited for his children to be happy about it. When they clapped he went on: "In Italy is a group of the most beautiful lakes in the world. Nowhere is the sky so blue and near, the air so sweet and soft, little crushed strawberry, canary yellow, olive green and violet blue homes along the shores and the wonderful fairy blue of the waters themselves so delightful as here in Italy.

"Once when your daddy was young he got on board a little white steamer about as big as our rowboat and went for a trip on Lake Como. There was a funny old man aboard who played operas on an old fiddle for pennies all day. Far away to the north the wonderful Alps threw their bleak, glistening tops against a fairy blue sky. Way down to the south stretched the big hot plain of Lombardy, with here and there a graceful poplar tree glancing in the vivid sunbeams. Your daddy knew that for miles across the plain beautiful little naked brown children played and sang, while white oxen helped women and old men to till the hot fields. The little steamer tooted gently once in awhile and glided up to quaint little landings to take aboard interesting Italians. It criscrossed from one shore to the other, so that your daddy had the happy feeling that the trip would last longer than he hoped. Sometimes he almost shut his eyes and imagined that the tiny steamer wasn't touching water at all, but just sailing through sky blue as gentians. Then again it amused him to wide open his eyes and feast them on the strange beauty.

"There were strange trees that grow only in tropical countries, beautiful spiky evergreens; fig trees with glossy, lacy leaves hanging over crumbling pink walls, but what I love best to remember is the oleanders, high as a house and massed thick with double pink and white blossoms that I could smell on the boat. Then the saddest thing I have ever watched happened on the landing of a tiny yellow home behind some oleanders. The house looked all asleep, but just as the boat tooted out dashed a little boy and his sister all alone and dressed entirely in black. They had the saddest eyes that ever held unshed tears, but they skipped jauntily on to the boat. When it pulled out they turned and threw back to the little yellow home dozens and dozens of kisses, and instead of waving goodby as we do they beckoned the home to come to them. Nobody answered them, and not even a leaf in their garden trembled an answering farewell. Then the captain came and hustled them down into his cabin. But the memory of those two little children all alone and all in black makes me so sad that I should like to have both my own children kiss me good night twice." And Jack and Evelyn kissed daddy three times.

Training a Husband

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

Life With Morris Southy Is Just One Grumble After Another.

"Marian, where in the world is my cough medicine? I have a beastly cold." Morris Southy swung open the door of the medicine chest.

"I think it was on the second shelf. It was a brown bottle, wasn't it?" called Marian from the kitchen.

"Yes. Why in the name of sense don't you clear out all these empty bottles. A person can't find anything amongst all this junk." Marian could hear the bottles clicking in a rapid dance over the shelf.

"I have been trying to get around to look them over and dispose of the empty ones, but——"

"You make such a fuss about the dust on my study table. I think the good of the household would be better served if you let that alone and cleaned out this medicine chest." The pawing was accelerated.

"I know my neatness breaks down in a great many places," sighed Marian.

"The trouble is you don't keep things clean. You have a 'grand clarin' up spell' like Aunt Dinah, and then things are allowed to slide till they get unbearable," fussed Morris. "I think you must have thrown that medicine out. It isn't here."

"I surely haven't thrown out anything. You were just complaining about it." Marian appeared at the bedroom door.

"That does not follow. It is always the thing that is wanted that is destroyed," grumbled Morris.

"Let me look for it." Morris stepped aside.

"If you would make it a point to keep this thing in order, just throw away every bottle as soon as it is empty and have a place for certain things, it would be far easier than having to clean out a lot of rubbish because you have neglected to do that," continued Morris in his pedagogical tone. Marian bit her lips to keep from making a hateful answer.

"Here is the medicine." She handed him the bottle.

"Oh, I looked over all those things. Now for the sake of future peace chuck all that junk, now that it is outside the cupboard," urged the husband after he had swallowed a dose of the medicine.

"I must look over the bottles first. There are a couple of prescription numbers I want to save, and I haven't time to see to them now," answered Marian.

Morris made a gesture of despair. "That's just it. Put it off. I suppose I shall find the whole mess there a month from now," fretted Morris.

"I will put it in a basket to await my slow motions." Marian's tone was not sweet and she left the room.

"I have a very good idea," she continued when she returned and began tumbling the contents of the disordered shelves into the basket. "I'll just turn over this little cupboard to you to take care of. You suffer so much when it is not in perfect order."

"I have no time to do housework," snapped the irritated man.

"It will not take much time, you know." Marian looked steadily at him. "Just keep it in order, never let a lot of unused things accumulate. Then it will be easy. Perhaps I can learn by your example." Morris cast a quick glance in his wife's direction, but her face was perfectly sober.

"Perhaps you think I can't keep things in order." His tone was injured.

"I know you can, for you have told me so and besides have I not seen your study table?" He could see the smile now.

"I will just show you that I can keep that cupboard in good shape." Morris raised his chin defiantly.

"Good! I wish you would take over more of the disorderly places. I am delighted to have so much help; and as you have charge of it, I shall never have to come and find your bottles; gain number two." She smiled at him over her shoulder as she left the room with the basket of discarded bottles.

NOVELTY COAT AND HAT.

Squirrel Fur Cleverly Introduced in This Set—Quaint Muff a Feature.

By Mary Glynn.

When a novelty is presented it must be such, for this season the conservative in everything seems to be the vogue. Though a little early for general wear, the novelty illustrated will undoubtedly serve as a motor outfit for the chill days of early fall. The set consists of cape, coat and muff. Pontine is used in the coat and turban hat. Squirrel fur forms a border on the hat. The coat is lined throughout with squirrel fur, this making it amply cozy for the coldest winter day. Particularly charming is the manner in which the muff is made as a part of the coat. One can sit comfortably with the hands snugly nestled in the muff without holding on to it. The combination of squirrel fur and the maroon colored pontine is extremely smart and very charming worn by the young miss. High button boots and a comfortable serge gown is worn with this set, making the outfit attractive and comfortable.

LANVIN'S YOUTHFUL TENDENCIES.

Chiffon Velvet Greatly Enhanced by the Delicate Hand Embroidery —The Dutch Neck a New Feature.

By Mary Glynn.

Jeanne Lanvin, the Parisienne modiste who would immortalize youth, for it seems that it is youth she personifies in all of her exquisite creations. Now she will shorten a bodice and lengthen a skirt; again, she will shorten the bodice and always end up by creating the gown that can only be worn by youthful mademoiselle. They are charming, her garments, for they always suggest spring time, youthfulness and beauty. One delightful frock just received is in an exquisite pale blue shade of chiffon velvet. The bodice is long waisted, almost Moyen age. It joins the skirt which is rather plain in front and back, but is quite full over the hips. The fullness is sheered closely and it falls straight even to the ankle, just above the joining to the skirt on the bodice is a three-inch border of silver embroidery in an odd angular design. This design is repeated on the cuffs and also the low Dutch neck which is the new and distinctive feature. A huge velvet picture hat was worn by this lovely creation and white kid button slippers afforded a dainty finishing note.

I cannot refrain from emphasizing the semi-princess effects which are appearing so strongly. Some of these are obviously of the Moyen age type and have the bodice portion and hip yoke of one kind of material to which is set a pleated skirt of another material or color. Sometimes this bodice and yoke portion are made of silk jersey and then it looks as if the wearer had on a real jersey with a pleated skirt. Again the princess line appears only as a back panel, but nevertheless one must admit that Paris is thinking a lot about the straight figure line, and the one piece, or princess, dresses are playing no small part in the silhoutte of the day.

Not by any manner of means are all collars funnel shaped, as many of the new suits have band collars often set from a low rounded neck-line and in many instances allowed to drop in soft folds about the throat. So if it is not a funnel it is a swathing or neck muffling collar. A frantic effort is everywhere evidenced to make something new. The more conservative houses have simple looking dresses in Russian blouse style, often with a tunic skirt trimmed at the sides to stimulate the edge of the Russian blouse. The use of [illegible] and gold embroidery is much in evidence and the craze for pleating ewll started extends even to its use in velvet.

If you are a student of the "ads" you KNOW WHAT IT OUGHT TO COST.

The housewife is the "official buyer" for the home—in almost all families. She is, consequently, the official "ad reader" for the home.

Sometimes a store will decide to perform a real "stunt" in value-giving on some special line. You may be sure that in all such instances the ad-readers will have earliest knowledge of the details.

THE DESERTED HOUSE.

By Alfred Bigelow Paine.

Hushed voices of the summer winds that pass;
Vague dimness of the vacant window sill;
Decay, and silence—these are death, and still
Something there is of pressuce in the air:
The sentient grace of her who planted there
The flowers that choke amid the tangled grass.—Scribner's.

The Home Education Division, Bureau of Education, Washington, D. C., helps parents in establishing health and right health habits, stimulating beginnings of their intellectual life; directing formation of their moral habits; guiding their emotions in right channels; choosing their work and play; making their childhood joyous and happy, and in consulting their education after school for vocations, parenthood, citizenship, ideals, culture, character, life.

Parent-Teacher Associations.

Three objects are given as the purposes of a parent-teacher association.

1. To give fathers and mothers the opportunity to educate themselves for the best home-making and child nurture.
2. To learn what the school is doing and by this knowledge to co-operate with the teachers, thus greatly helping both teachers and children.
3. To learn conditions affecting the welfare of children outside of home and school, and by united effort arouse the community to a sense of its responsibility to children.

Wasted Childhood.

"• • • But what must come in this is the entire reorganization of our whole school system—along an entirely different line. It will be resisted, naturally, by every interest and person connected with the existing tradition which now has control. And where will there be any central body to work out such an absolutely new institution as a "Modern School?"

The General Education Board may do so—taking up the suggestion of Mr. Flexner—in a kind of laboratory school. The work of the various bodies under the National Education Association is now moving in this direction. There are many hopeful movements in the schools themselves for efficiency and common-sense—especially the new efficiency standards and experts working in different large cities. And it may be that in the next ten years we shall see this modern school. But until that time, the greatest and most disastrous loss to the resources of this country will be—as it has been for many years—the silent and unnoticed waste of American childhood, which is taking place today in our public schools.—(George Kibbe Turner in McClure's.)

Mothers' Circles.

While there are babies in the home a mother will have little time for work outside, but she can not be an efficient mother unless she keeps in touch with outside influences which meet her children as soon as they enter school. Efficient motherhood can not be blind to the temptations of life, to the sorrows of the other half. Every mother has time for a Mother's Circle and for child study.

WILLIAM CARPENTER WEDS MISS KATHERINE V. DUFFY

Miss Katherine V. Duffy, of Grove street, the borough, and William Carpenter, also of the borough, were married yesterday afternoon in St. Joseph's church, by the Rev. Father P. J. Hart, the rector. The couple were attended by Miss Mae Duffy, a cousin of the bride, and John Caufield, of South Plainfield, as bridesmaid and best man, respectively. A reception followed at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Bridget Duffy, of Grove street. Following a short honeymoon trip, the couple will reside in the borough.

HOME FROM AUTO TRIP.

Jeremiah Manning, the Misses Manning, Mrs. A. H. Manning and Miss Emeline Manning returned home yesterday after a very pleasant trip through the New England States by automobiles. They visited the following points of interest, Boston, Mass.; Mohawk Trail, Berkshires, Crowford, Notch Bretton Woods, White Mountains and many of Maine's most beautiful spots, including Wilton Lake and Lake Cobleseecontee.

Raking 'Em Over

ASSIGNING UMPIRES.

There was quite a little surprise at the names of the umpires assigned to the series. The National League selected O'Day and Quigley, while Dineen and Connolly were the choice of Ban Johnson. This is the first world's series in years in which Bill Klem will not officiate, and his absence will be regretted, as he generally is regarded the nearest thing to a perfect umpire in a game.

A peculiar coincidence is that Connolly and O'Day were the umpires in the first world's series, played between the National and American Leagues in 1903, when the Red Sox defeated Pittsburg. Bill Dineen, who will be coupled up with Connolly this fall, pitched Boston to three victories in the 1903 series.

J. G. Taylor Spink, of Sporting News, was named as first official scorer of the series. A member of the baseball writers' association in each Brooklyn and Boston will be the other two scorers. The association scorers will score only in their own cities.

During the series the National Commission will make its headquarters at the Copley Plaza Hotel in Boston and at the Bossert Hotel in Brooklyn. A preliminary meeting of the commission will be held in Boston to discuss minor details next Friday afternoon.

RAHWAY LADS SUCCEED.

"Guess Johnny Brooks isn't going to be too light for that Brown University backfield after all. Both Brooks and his cousin, Elmer Armstrong, got into the game for Brown against Rhode Island State Saturday afternoon, and both showed enough stuff to keep them on the first squad. They've got older and more experienced players to buck, but these lads are going to advance in proficiency with the season, and we confidently expect to see the names of Brooks and Armstrong in the Brown line-up when the more important games are played."—Elizabeth Journal.

HAUGHTON WILL STICK.

President Haughton is not going to desert the Braves. Neither are the Braves going to desert President Haughton. Rumors of changes in Brave ownership and presidency and directorship flew thick and fast. It was said, to be colloquial, that the famous Harvard coach was to retire from big league magnateship. It was said that Manager Stallings was to become president of the Braves. It was said that Scout Fred Mitchell was to become manager of the Braves.

But President Percy denies that he is to retire. Manager George declares that he will remain as manager. Scout Fred Mitchell states that he will be scout, and scout only, in 1917.

In addition to all that, Treasurer Arthur C. Wise, who is the power behind the throne and one of the most regular individuals who ever broke into Boston baseball, issues a statement:

"You can make it as strong as you like," he said, "that there is no trouble in the Brave camp. We are satisfied that Mr. Haughton is a great president and we want Mr. Stallings for a manager. Haughton will be president and Stallings manager next year. That's certain.

"We signed Mitchell as scout because Stallings believed the Harvard coach would help him greatly. Stallings has had complete control of the baseball end of the Braves this season, and will have it as long as his contract runs, which is for four more years. Anything that Stallings said went this year, and will go for the next four years.

"The story was the greatest surprise we have had since we went into baseball. There is absolutely nothing to it. Mr. Haughton will be president of the Braves next year, and will spare no effort to get a championship team together."

ROBINSON POPULAR.

Whether they care for Owner Ebbets or not the fans of New York celebrated the victory of Manager Robinson and his Dodgers in uproarious fashion last night. "Uncle" Robbie" is in many respects one of the most popular and beloved figures in baseball. That he should come back into the big league after years of absence and top off his career with a championship is a source of immense joy to old time fans throughout the country.

In Baltimore they lighted bonfires and cut up generally in ways not in keeping with that decorous old city.

In every public gathering place in New York crowds were around shouting for "Robbie." For the moment the recent feeling against Owner Ebbets was forgotten. In fact, the name of Col. Ebbets was not heard all night. New York simply glories in the achievement of the famous old catcher and former coach of the Giants.

• • • • • •

COUNT ON COOMBS.

"Those who have been figuring Brooklyn out of a chance at the big prize have suddenly awakened to the fact that the Dodgers have two pitchers able to hold their own with anything the Red Sox may offer—Rube Marquard and Jack Coombs. Very cagily Robbie has nursed Coombs right up to the point where he strikes the big series in top form. He is an experienced man and critical games are no novelty to him.

"Rube Marquard also is familiar with the weakness and strength of Boston batters. He beat them twice while working for the Giants in the famous fight of 1913.

"Besides these there are Dell, Pfeffer and Sherrod Smith, but it is believed that Marquard and Coombs will shoulder the burden of the work."—New York World.

SAMPLE SENARIOS.

Well, the Phillies made a game fight—but lost.

Johnny McGraw may experience difficulty in proving his assertions that his men did not try to win.

Ebbets says he will retire, "comfortably fixed"—after the series.

GIANTS GET RETTIG.

Otto Rettig, the pitcher for the Paterson Silk Sox, the semi-professional team which shut out the Giants 2 to 0 in Paterson on Sunday, allowing them only three hits, will report to the Giants today. It is understood he will be taken South in the spring. Arthur Fletcher and Charles Herzog recommended Rettig after playing against him Sunday.

"RUBE" MARQUARD TO TWIRL FIRST GAME

Papers Say That Reuben is Anxious to Upset Red Sox.

"Rube" Marquard will pitch the first game of the world series for the Brooklyns, according to present arrangements. The big left hander had a "prep" at Ebbetts' Field yesterday before the game, was not called on to pitch, and that is taken as an indication that he is being tuned up for Saturday in Boston. The "Rube" is willing. He has taken the measure of the Red Sox, is in top form just now and feels that he can take their measure again. Marquard or Coombs is the way the sharps figure it for the opening game.

"Chief" Meyers, who does all the catching when Marquard is pitching, has been in the repair shop the last few days with an injured wrist. He was hit by a pitched ball in the Chicago series and has not been at his best since, though he handled Marquard against the Phillies last Saturday. He did some practicing yesterday and is confident of being fit on Saturday.

M'GRAW'S CHARGES STILL HOLD GOOD

But National Commission Decides to Take No Action Regarding Them.

Gathered in New York ostensibly to smooth the way for the World's Series, members of the National Commission are going to have to move to Boston to finish their business. New York is too filled with baseball eccentricities just at present for the worthy members of baseball's highest tribunal. The aftermath of John J. McGraw's sensational statements in Brooklyn Tuesday took most of the wind out of the commission's sails and aroused statement after statement from these leaders.

Ban Johnson, American League president, was certain yesterday that McGraw was too hasty. Johnson declared he thought the whole proceedings an outrage. "Had it occurred in the American league there would have been the devil to pay," was the assertion of President Johnson.

August Herrmann, chairman of the commission, insisted it was a fool act. John K. Tener, National League head, refused to take official cognizance of the statement, but believed "the wild Irish in McGraw rose to the top when he thought his players were not doing their best."

INDIAN LEAGUE WILL COMMENCE AT ONCE

Schedule for First Half Includes Many Interesting Events in Athletic Line.

The Indian League of the Y. M. C. A. will begin its schedule of athletic events on Monday, October 9. Teams will be organized and captains elected on that day. Every member of the class should be present and get into these events. A medal will be given to the champion athlete of the class at the close of the season.

The schedule for the first half is as follows:

October 9, 15-yard dash; October 16, running high jump; October 23, standing broad jump; October 30, potato race; November 6, medicine ball throw; November 20, running broad jump; November 27, basket shooting contest; December 4, running hop, step and jump; December 11, indoor baseball throw; December 18, two-lap race.

JACK MARTIN HOME FROM "WILD" WEST

Will Return to Fold of Milwaukee Club Next Year.

Jack Martin is home and he is glad that he is not in Milwaukee. Jack has been managing a baseball team that is sadly in need of material. He did not go West with the intentions of assuming the worries and cares attendant to the management of a baseball club, but the resignation of Harry Clark thrust these cares upon him.

Although, Jack is not to lead the Brewers next year, he was not a failure as a manager. He assumed the task only at the urgent request of the owner of the team and was aware of the fact that he was to be only temporary leader. It is said that Al Bridwell or Mike Donlin will head the team next year. Bridwell has the inside track, but Donlin is on the alert. Jack Martin will again play at shortfield.

On the GRIDIRON

Washington and Lee.

Washington and Lee's football squad of twenty-two men left today for West Point, where the team will meet the cadets on Saturday, in the first intersectional game of a schedule marked by six similar contests.

Coach Elcock announced at the conclusion of practice the names of the men to make the trip. They are: Ends, Larkin, Graham, Adams and Wadsworth; tackles, Ignico, Johnson and Scovell; guards, Moore, Bryan, Bethel and Evans; centres, Pierotti and Gardner; quarterbacks, Bagley and Cromwell; halves, Caput. Young, Kehoe, Fain, Till and Paxton, and fullbacks, Sorrells and Crile.

Practice during the whole week has been devoted to the development of the offensive work of the ends and backs and to forward passing. Capt. Young and Ignico have been giving attention to kicking.

Navy.

A very decided shakeup was made in the Navy varsity yesterday afternoon. Capt. Ward, who had been trying for end, was put back in his old job at tackle. Johnson was called from the second string aggregation to take his place. Von Heimberg, who covered the other wing in the game against Dickinson, was benched and Jackson got the call.

The coaches also put Ingram at halfback and the young plebe brother of the head coach covered himself with glory. Time after time he ploughed through the second team for substantial gains, getting away on one of these dashes for a sixty yard run and a touchdown.

Fordham.

That Head Coach Gargan does not hold lightly the Western Maryland eleven, which plays on Fordham Field on Saturday, was shown by the Maroon mentor's orders to make the workout stiffer yesterday.

The three-hour practice included every form of drill and ended with a half-hour scrimmage with the scrubs. The mixup netted the varsity a pair of touchdowns.

Dempsey scored his first touchdown of the season when he circled right end for a thirty yard run to the goal line. His twenty yard pass to Cantwell resulted in the other score.

Assistant Coach Moriarity is administering a stiff dose of offensive work for the line men. From tackle to tackle the Fordham rush line is heavy and welded into a solid wall defence, but the Maroon coach has his team scheduled for bigger things on offensive plays and put them through a gruelling charging drill yesterday.

Seriously Injured.

Walter F. Waldeman, a freshman at the University of Pennsylvania, who was injured Monday at Franklin Field while tackling a "dummy" in football practice, is in a critical condition in the university hospital. It is feared his neck is broken. His father, August Waldeman, of Vineland, is at his bedside.

Waldeman is paralyzed from the shoulders down. Instead of grabbing the sawdust "dummy," Waldeman became confused in running and dived straight at the frame supports of the apparatus. His head struck the post. Waldeman's injury is the most serious to occur at Franklin Field this year.

EDDIE STALLINGS TO COACH HOLY CROSS

Former Baseball Star to Again Assist in Directing Local Eleven.

The Holy Cross Football Club has again secured the services of Eddie Stallings as coach, and he will be on hand at the practice tonight. Eddie talks to the boys in a straightforward manner and considerable attention is paid to all that he says.

Stallings was at the helm of the organization last year and many of his iron-clad rulings brought notable victories to the locals. Students of football and the players themselves realize that in him they have not only a genial coach, but one who knows the game from start to finish.

The Holy Cross team will hold a practice on Marshall Field at 7:45 this evening and Stallings will be present to take charge of the affairs of the organization. The first game of the season will be played on October 14, Cricket Field having been secured for the occasion.

CYRIL POLING HEADS PAN FOOTBALL TEAM

Team is Out to Capture Junior Championship of the City.

Not to be outdone by their older pals, the Pans have decided to have a football team and are out to annex the junior championhip of this city and vicinity. The P. A. N. baseball team captured the junior baseball championship, largely through the efforts of Joe Newell, who is now registered at Plainfield High School.

Cyril Poling is at the helm of the Pan football team and is on the lookout for games. Managers of local junior football elevens are requested to consult with Cyril regarding the booking of games. The Pans average 125 pounds in weight. Manager Poling lives at 809 West Fifth street.

RED AND BLUE TEAM OPENS WITH NEWARK

South Side Team of That Place Will Be Here Tomorrow.

The Plainfield High School football eleven will open its season with the South Side High School team on Parker Field tomorrow afternoon and Coach Ralph Patch is confident that the locals will register a victory.

Practice has been held daily and, although Captain Dick Pennock and Bill Daniels have not appeared as yet, the team which will represent the Red and Blue tomorrow has been chosen and is as follows: Fullback, Smith; right halfback, Mills; left halfback, Snyder; quarterback, Alpaugh; right end, Butler; left end, Vail; left guard, Geary or Stevenson; left tackle, Jim Herman; right guard, Somlock; right tackle, Hooper; centre, Klein.

The South Side team comes here with a reputation which it must uphold. Coach Guido Cavellaro has had his men training daily and to open the season with victory is his ambition. Royle Phillips will referee and David Armstrong, of Rahway, will umpire. This is the first game in the New Jersey Interscholastic Football League.

PLANIFIELD OUT OF ELK BOWLING LEAGUE

Eight Aggregations in B. P. O. E. League Which Will Open This Month.

Plans are being pushed for the opening of the Elks' Bowling League, which will have its inception sometime during the third week of the month. Two teams have been dropped this year, Rutherford and Plainfield, leaving a loop composed of eight aggregations — Elizabeth, Newark, Jersey City, New York city, Paterson, Rahway, New Brunswick and Hoboken.

Passaic applied for admission to the league, but owing to the fact that this team had no alleys available for home matches, the bid was turned down. There will be no junior league this season. Many lodges have complained that it was too much of a task to handle a junior team and that interest that would other wise be focused upon the "big boys" was diverted to the "smaller brothers."

WORLD'S SERIES INFORMATION

DATES FOR THE GAME.

First Game—Saturday, October 7, at Braves Field, Boston.
Second Game—Monday, October 9, at Braves Field, Boston.
Third Game—Tuesday, October 10, at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn.
Fourth Game—Wednesday, October 11, at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn.
Fifth Game—Thursday, October 12, at Braves Field, Boston.
Sixth Game—Friday, October 13, at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn.

In the event a seventh game is necessary it will be played on Saturday, October 14. The place will be decided by the toss of a coin unless the clubs agree to stage the contest at the larger Braves Field. If a game is postponed on account of rain, or if for some other cause a legal game is not played, the teams will remain in the city where the postponement occurred until a legal game shall have been played.

A tie game will not be played off in the city where it occurred, but the teams will move on to the next city.

TIME OF GAMES.

In both Brooklyn and Boston all games will be started at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

HOW RECEIPTS ARE TO BE DIVIDED

The players will get 60 per cent. of the receipts of the first four games. This pot will be divided, at the rate of 60 per cent. for the winners and 40 per cent. for the losers. The National Commission will get 10 per cent. of the receipts of each game. After the first four games the club owners get everything but the commission's 10 per cent.

TRAP and FIELD

By Peter P. Carney.

Fifteen women shot in the exhibition events held in conection with the Grand American Tournament. Women shooters will add attractiveness to trapshooting.

There were 18 women who handled a gun for the first time at the Beginners' Day event of the Carondelet Heights Gun Club in St. Louis, Mo.

Five hundred and twenty-two women participated in the beginners' day events in 1915, but that number will be cast in the shade this year. Four hundred and ninety have already taken part, and many clubs have still to send in their data.

Miss Marion Fuller, of Boston, Mass., recently killed a white deer in the Adirondacks and offered the specimen to the Museum of Natural History.

With an average of better than 80 per cent. Mrs. Dick Donaldson recently won the Reiber trophy, given by the Thornburg Gun Club, near Pittsburgh, for competition among women shooters.

The Interstate Association is doing a wonderful lot to aid women in the sport alluring. Additional prizes are being offered in all large tournaments and it is up to the fair Dianas themselves to see that the enthusiasm does not wane.

The annual tournament of the Westy Hogans at Atlantic City brings out more women trapshooters than any other tournament. This year the Hogans put on a special event for the women shots.

Crazy, but Rich.

Some years ago a man was arrested on the ground of insanity. His filthy dwelling was searched. Even the wall paper was lined inside with bank notes. A kitchen copper was the store place of thousands of old bank bills. The grate was filled with silver and copper coin. Jars and bottles were crammed with pennies he had collected on the streets. When the treasure was counted it totaled £25,000, and another £5,000 was in a bank!—London Tit-Bits.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Adv.

HEARTY WELCOME HOME EXPECTED

Troop D Looking Forward to Reception Upon Arrival in Plainfield

INTEREST IN ELECTION

Choice of a "Dry" Councilmanic Ticket Here Chief Topic of Discussion Among Local Cavalrymen—Conditions at Douglas.

By JAMES J. McNAMEE.

Douglas, Ariz., Oct. 1.—Sunday was a day of rest throughout the Jersey camp, especially in the Troop D outfit. Not because the cavalrymen are downcast about the possibility of returning home Wednesday or Thursday, but because their minds have been relieved of the nervous tension under which they have been laboring for weeks past whn the date of the homegoing was uncertain. All are now fully convinced that the Government intends to send them back to Sea Girt and that it will not be a great while before they are in Plainfield.

Just what kind of a recognition is in store for them concerns them at this stage. They are spending idle hours picturing an eager-eyed mob crowding about their ranks as they march from the station platform at Sea Girt and building castles in the air of receptions and dances that will be accorded them in Plainfield. Some of the more pessimistic are whiling away their time discouraging these happy thoughts, declaring that the enthusiasm over the Mexican trip has simmered out and that only the immediate relatives and friends of the soldiers are concerned in the homecoming event. No matter how the tide runs the Plainfield troopers will be glad to set foot once more on Jersey soil and the three days' intervening between now and the date for departure are certain to be long ones. The guardsmen are counting every minute and many of them have their equipment partially packed and will be ready to board the train at a moment's notice.

Little work was done in Troop D today. It was the outfit's turn to do guard detail but only a few men were needed for this work and the remainder lolled about their tents, played cards, took walks into the surrounding country or visited town to purchase souvenirs, merchants having kept their stores open today in order to take advantage of what they believe to be the last trade from the Jersey cavalry and field artillery.

Curios of various kinds are beginning to crowd the corners of tents and every man has under his cot an assortment of keepsakes which he hopes to be able to take to home folk. The collection is unique and represents in mostly all cases an outlay of many days' earnings. Souvenirs have been marked up to top-potch prices by the get-rich-quick merchant element and rather than go home heavy handed the fifty cents a day buck privates are paying heavy toll for the attractive relics.

The first returns from New Jersey elections arrived here in Wednesday's issue of the Plainfield Daily Press and the troopers showed especial interest in the Plainfield results. The chief subject of interest was the unexpected defeat of Councilman Christie Hamilton and Abiel D. Edgar and the victory of the "drys." To say that the latter feature was a popular one with the soldiers would be stretching a point for they see the way prohibition has worked out in this country and are thoroughly disgusted with it. Although this place is but a quarter of Plainfield's size, there are ten "bootlegging" establishments for every saloon in the Jersey city and the "dry" law is a constant source of trouble between the politicians and the taxpayer. That the "bootleggers" her are paying for protection and getting it is certain and the wholesale roundup of liquor law violators twice a year is but a mere sham to help the lot of some political candidate. That the soldier vote will make a difference in the anti-saloon candidates' returns in New Jersey next November is a foregone conclusion.

Orders issued last night made it certain that Troop D and the other three cavalry outfits would carry their live stock back with them when they go. The rolling stock of troops expected here from other parts of Arizona and New Jersey this week will be used to carry teh troopers and artillerymen back to Sea Girt.

One thing has been troubling the Plainfielders' minds and that is the possibility of their having to leave "Susan," the burro mascot, behind. They have been laying plans to bring this little animal back with them.

LICENSE NOT TRANSFERRED.

Herman Frowery, of Scotch Plains, says that a mistake was made in the reported transfer of his wholesale whiskey license. He declares that the license is still his property and will be used by him.

Miss Christelle M. Giles, of North avenue, will spend the winter months with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Christian G. Kuehn, of Scotch Plains.

TROOP READY TO LEAVE TOMORROW

Expects to Get Out of Douglas by Daylight Saturday.

By JAMES J. McNAMEE.

Douglas, Ariz., Oct. 6.—Major Brown has received notice that trains for the loading of the cavalrymen will be here this afternoon and that all will be in readiness for the biggest move of all tomorrow. As the troopers go hastily about the work of packing up their belongings most of them are softly singing "Home, Sweet Home,' and their tones are reverent and loving.

We will get away early Saturday, is the statement of the officer in charge of the return trip. All tonight will be spent in loading the cars, if it is necessary, and there will be plenty of volunteers for the night work.

Troops A and D with Major Brown and the staff headquarters leave first. They expect to be under way by daylight Saturday. Troops B and C will follow immediately.

The absence of an armory in Plainfield has again worked a hardship on the troop. All of the organizations with the exception of Troop D has been given thirty-two horses by the government to take home for training service. The adjutant general denied Troop D this right because there is no armory in Plainfield. At Captain Borden's request Major Brown has communicated with the adjutant general, asking that the horses be allowed the Plainfield men, and there is still hope.

Several Plainfielders have applied for discharges at once. They intend to remain in the West if they are released here. Some have jobs in sight, others will look for work here.

OPENING SOCIAL SEASON AT PLAINFIELD COUNTRY CLUB

The opening of the fall social season of the Plainfield Country Club will be ushered in tomorrow night with a dance to be given for the members who have recently returned from their various summer outings. A similar event will be held next Saturday night, October 14. Tomorrow night's affair promises to be one of the most elaborate of the receptions yet held at the club, the members arranging an interesting program for the evening. Dancing will be the chief diversion.

MATLACK BIBLE CLASS HELD SOCIAL LAST NIGHT

A Hallowe'en party that was attended by over a hundred young people was held by the Matlack Bible Class in the Sunday-school room of the First Baptist church last night. The rooms were tastefully decorated with autumn touches, and a committee headed by Miss Marie Moore and arrayed in bungalow aprons and sun bonnets greeted the guests. Miss Sallee Smith and Miss Marion Tice, of Westfield, sang several duets, accompanied on the piano by Miss Alice Drade.

After everyone gathered in a large circle and played games of all kinds, refreshments being served later.

MRS. LANG THE BRIDE OF WILLIAM J. RICKETTS

Mrs. Elizabeth Lang, of the borough, but formerly of Brooklyn, became the bride of William J. Ricketts, of this city, Wednesday evening, at a ceremony performed in the rectory of St. Paul's church, Westfield. The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hahn, of Westfield. Following the wedding, a reception was held in the vacant store at the corner of Lincoln place and Duer street, and was attended by nearly fifty guests from this city, New York, Newark, Paterson, Caldwell, Westfield and other nearby places.

Mr. and Mrs. Ricketts will make their home later on in Netherwood. For the past eleven years Mr. Ricketts has been connected with the real estate department of the New York Telephone Company in this city.

FRAUD CASE POSTPONED.

After an hour of wrangling in the city police court this morning, the case on the complaint of Robert Trovell against Thomas Martin, charging him with the fraud of $200, was laid over for two weeks. It is probable that before that time a settlement will be reached.

FUNERAL OF MRS. CURTIS.

Private funeral services were held this afternoon for Mrs. Amanda Curtis, whose death occurred suddenly Wednesday. The service was held at her late home, 129 West Second street, and was in charge of the Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First Methodist church. The interment was in Hillside cemetery.

NAMED CONSUL-GENERAL.

T. N. Fetherston, of this city, has just been appointed by the government of Bolivia as vice consul-general of that country to the United States. His offices will be in New York city.

P. H. S. GRADUATES ORGANIZE A CLUB

Plans of Work Are Discussed at Meeting of Alumni Last Evening.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

William Backer Is Chosen as First President—Matters of Interest to Commercial Students Will Be Considered.

Another step toward the permanent organization of the Plainfield High School commercial graduates was made at the second meeting called for the purpose in the High School commercial rooms, last night. A number of the Alumni responded to the invitation to join and participated in an animated discussion of the project. J. C. Evans, the commercial director of the school, gave a short talk on the benefits to be derived from such a union of the graduates and told of the flourishing condition of the New Haven club where 500 students are enrolled and which has been in existence for the last five years. The club meets once a month for discussion of business methods and at many of the meetings the members are addressed by prominent business men of the city. Frequent socials are held and the members often visit large corporation offices to become acquainted with business routine.

Miss Jeanette Neighbour acted as chairman pro tem and Miss Frederica Quentin, the secretary, while the election of officers and committees took place last evening. These resulted as follows: President, William Backer; vice president, Miss Jeanette Neighbour; secretary, Miss Lottie Mendel; treasurer, Millard McAfee. The committees appointed were as follows: Executive, John Heron, chairman; Miss Frederica Quentin, Miss Ellen Sanberg, Harry Brick and Edson Woodhull; education, Joseph Gallagher, chairman; Miss Neva Waldorf, Miss Louise Brotmann, Miss Viola Sebring and William Vail; press, Miss Helen Bryniarski, chairman; Joseph Gallagher and Miss Bessie Levine; social, Miss Jennie Bremble, chairman; Miss Bessie Morris, Guy Snyder, Albert Dealaman, Miss Blanche Beekman, Cortlandt Fleming and Miss Dorothy Cameron; by-laws and constitution, Harold Eckert, chairman; Miss Anna Murphy, Miss Helen Edwards, Miss Hazel Sawyer and Carlton Vail; membership, Miss Grace Hunt, chairman; Miss Ellen Sajarback, Miss Hazel Putnam, Benjamin Rosenson and Benjamin Harris.

The Commercial Graduates Club, as it will be called, will meet the first Tuesday of each month in the commercial rooms. All of the commercial teachers in the High School will be members of the organization as well as advisors.

FUNERAL SERVICE OF PAUL LOIZEAUX HELD

The funeral of Paul J. Loizeaux, whose death occurred Tuesday, was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from his late home, 134 De Lacy avenue. The interment was in Hillside cemetery, the pallbearers being two sons, two sons-in-law and two nephews.

MAY LOSE LICENSES.

Several taxicab drivers were before City Judge DeMeza in police court this morning for racing with each other on West Front street and were remanded until tomorrow morning. It seems to be a general practice among the men to race whenever they meet anywhere in the city and Judge DeMeza said this morning that every one found guilty would have heir licenses taken away for good.

WANT CHURCH DECORATIONS.

All fruits and vegetables intended for decoration for Rally Day at the Park Avenue church sould be delivered at the church tomorrow afternoon. Last year a beautiful display was made and the substantial things were given to charitable institutions.

MISS KELLER TO LECTURE.

Miss Helen Keller will appear at the First Baptist church the latter part of the month under the auspices of one of the women's societies, the proceeds of which will be for the benefit of the church.

MAKING ALTERATIONS.

Alterations are under way in the Sunday school room of the First Baptist church, whereby needed room will be given to some of the larger classes which are rapidly increasing in membership.

ATTRACTIVE SPEAKERS FOR OPENING DINNER

Rev. Frederick F. Shannon and Others to Address the Dutch Arms October 10.

Announcement is made that the annual opening of the Dutch Arms Men's Club of Trinity Reformed church, which was postponed on September 18, will be held on Tuesday evening, October 10, at which time an informal dinner will be served at 7:15 o'clock for men only. This affair will mark the resumption of the club's activities for the coming season, and it is expected that the largest new membership in its history will be enrolled.

Edgar F. Sheppard will be the toastmaster at the opening dinner, and the committee has secured for the principal speaker Rev. Frederick F. Shannon, of Brooklyn, whose subject will be "The American Creed." Assemblyman Arthur N. Pierson and others will also speak.

The informal dinner will be preceded by a business meeting of the club at 7 o'clock sharp. There will be music during the evening by the Dutch Arms Band and other features which will make the affair an enjoyable one.

NOTED SPEAKER TO VISIT PLAINFIELD

Dr. George Bacarat Will Visit New Street Synagogue Today and Tomorrow.

Dr. George Bacarat, professor at the Rabbinical College of America, in New York city, will be the guest of the New Street synagogue tomorrow morning, at which time the Yom Kippur, or Day of Atonement services will be held.

His talk this evening will be in the Jewish language and his theme will be "This Day and Its Significance." Tomorrow morning he will speak on "True Orthodoxy and Its Relation to the Day of Atonement."

Professor Bacarat is well known as a scholar of Jewish history and traditions and has been for some time recognized as an authority on Hebrew lore. He has lectured before a large number of Jewish institutions, and has been honored by the University of Bologna and the Sorborne with the degree of doctor of philosophy, which title he now holds. For some time he was professor of French in the college at Jersey City, and he is also an ex-master of the Harlem preparatory school in New York city, where he also held a chair in foreign languages, of which he is versed in many, including French, German, Hebrew, Polish and English. His studies at Heidelberg were distinguished for his scholarship there, and it is believed it will be a rare treat for the members of the local synagogue to hear Dr. Bacarat.

During his stay in this city he will be the guest of Harry Perlman, of West Front treet, who is an officer and member of the New Street synagogue. The members are all looking forward to Dr. Bacarat's coming. On Sunday he will be the guest of Kalman Rothberg, of Madison avenue, who has known Dr. Bacarat for several years.

U. S. SOLDIER HANGED BY MEXICANS, SAYS LETTER

Woodland, Cal., Oct. 5.—Charles Call, a member of the Ambulance Corps, National Guard of California, while on border patrol duty recently, strayed across the international line and was caught and hanged by Mexicans, according to a letter received here today.

The letter was written to a friend here, where Call lived, by Tito Zuniga, a California guardsman on duty at the border.

CRIME ACT READ TO SEWER BOARD

Councilman Told They Cannot Create Salaries for Themselves.

NO TREASURER NAMED

Plainfield and North Plainfield Members Clash—Fuller Selected as Superintendent of Complete New Sewer System.

Plans of the Joint Sewer Commission to name an operating committee that would have authority over the sewer plant, with small salaries for the members, were abandoned at last night's meeting, when Attorney Ashemeade called attention to the fact that the voting of a salary for this work would be illegal, unless the members were selected from outside the Councils of Plainfield, North Plainfield and Dunellen.

There was an understanding that this committee was to be made up of three members, and a chairman. One member was to be a member of the Plainfield Council, one of the North Plainfield Council and one from the Dunellen Council. Chairman Blatz was to appoint, and also to name the chairman. A salary of $400 a year was to be paid members, with $800 for the chairman. The committee was to have authority in all sewer matters between meetings of the Joint Commission. Councilman Hylan made a motion that the chairman be authorized to name three members of this committee. No mention of salary was made. Councilman Milne, of North Plainfield, refused to vote for the motion until he knew who the chairman was to be. He insisted that if there were any "plums" to be handed out North Plainfield must get its share and asked Chairman Blatz directly if he would name a North Plainfield man as chairman if the operating committee was authorized. Mr. Blatz as directly applied that he would not.

Councilman Hylan said that the assignment was to be a difficult one, and that there was nothing but hard work ahead of the men named on the operating committee. "There is no 'plum' in it,' he said.

Attorney Ashmeade ended the controversy when he called attention to the fact that the State law provided that no official could vote himself a salary for any services other than that provided for the office to which he was elected. As councilmen receive no pay, they cannot name any of their own number to a salaried position. He read from the "crimes" act and said that the proposed operating committee would be a direct violation of that act. The only way that these jobs could be put on a salary would be to name men outside the Councils of the three municipalities, he said. Nothing else was done as to the operating committee.

Another clash between Plainfield and North Plainfield arose when an attempt was made to elect a temporary treasurer to succeed the late William F. Arnold. James K. Arnold, treasurer of North Plainfield, was nominated for the office by Councilman Milne. He was defeated by the votes of the Plainfield councilmen. Mr. Hylan then nominated Arthur E. Crone. The North Plainfield delegation voted solidly against him and he was defeated, the solid vote of the borough acting as a veto on any subject. It was explained that there was nothing personal in the vote against Mr. Arnold or Mr. Crone, both delegations merely insisting on naming their own man.

This left the commission without a treasurer and there are many bills to be paid. Attorney Ashmeade advised that the commission could delegate one member to serve as treasurer temporarily. Elias H. Bird, of Plainfield, was selected. He will have authority to collect the assessments against the three municipalities and to pay all bills.

George W. Fuller was named superintendent of the entire sewer project. His salary will be $200 a month. John R. Downs was named supervisor of the disposal plant at a salary of $2,100 a year, and Elmer Donelly assistant superintendent at a salary of $900 a year.

The sewer plant is ready and will be taken over about November 15. Bills amounting to approximately $25,000 were ordered paid.

MARTIN TO OPPOSE CUTTER FOR COUNCIL

Former Councilman Will Be Independent Candidate on "Wet" Platform.

The petition of former Councilman Theodore Martin as an independent candidate for Council in the First ward in opposition to Frederick S. Cutter, the Republican nominee, is now being circulated. Mr. Martin enters the contest as a candidate in favor of the present excise conditions in Plainfield and, if elected, will vote for liquor licenses.

Mr. Cutter is a no-license candidate, having defeated A. D. Edgar for the nomination. The former has received the endorsement of the Republican organization of the First ward and will have its support at the November election.

Since serving a term as Councilman, Mr. Martin was a candidate for Mayor on the Democratic ticket, opposing Mayor Leighton Calkins. His friends feel sure that he will be successful in November and be returned to the City Council for another term.

ARREST 2 IN PLOT TO KILL SHONTS AND HEDLEY

New York, Oct. 6.—An alleged conspiracy to kill Theodore Shonts and Frank Headley, president and general manager of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, became known early today with the arrest of Oscar Wallace, 31 years old, of No. 152 East 125th street, and John J. Sheehan, 24 years old, of No. 400 East 144th street.

The plot, according to Detectives Thomas Jenkins and Cahrles Wallace of Captain Tunney's bomb squad, has been hatching since September 29, and had progressed, according to details spread on the blotter at police headquarters, to the point where Wallace, unable to buy a revolver in a New York pawnshop, made a special trip to Newark and got a weapon and ammunition, while Sheehan was keeping a revolver convenient under his pillow.

The tip came to the detectives when they overheard a conversation between four men in a saloon near Third avenue and Eighty-sixth street. Wallace, they say, made the suggestrike would be to shoot Shonts and Wallace. To this the rest of the party agreed. Jenkins and Wallace, after reporting their conversation, were detailed to trail Wallace.

The two men were arrested last night near 141st street and Alexander avenue, where it is charged they were throwing bricks at passing elevated trains. When examined at headquarters each man was found to have two pieces of brick in his pockets.

MILK WAR NEARS END, SAYS COMMISSIONER DILLON

New York, Oct. 6.—New York today faced the smallest milk supply since the opening of the war between the farmers and the city distributors, with the prospects for a settlement of the fight during the day by no means assured.

Opposition on the part of many of the 17,000 up-State farmers, in the Dairymen's League, backed by their New Jersey fellows, to any settlement that does not assure advanced prices for six months, is the chief element in the negotiations.

Whether the distributors will recedo from their positions that they will only make contracts for the month of October at the new rate (an advance of practically one cent a quart) was the main question to be answered when the two sides resumed their efforts to reach a settlement.

"I do not think peace is far off," said Commissioner John J. Dillon, the agent of the dairymen.

YOM KIPPUR, SOLEMN JEWISH DAY, IS AT HAND

Kom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, the most solemn day of the year for all Jews, begins at sundown today and ends at sundown tomorrow. During these twenty-four hours every Jew is forbidden, by the tenets of his religion, to taste food or drink a liquid. He must fast, humble himself and ask forgiveness of God for his sins.

In a word, the day is appointed to implore from God His fatherly love and forgiving mercy. It is set apart for repentance and the reparation of wrong.

CHARGE GERMANS ON NEW FRONTS

Fighting in France is Extended Beyond Somme and Verdun.

TRENCHES ARE TAKEN

King Constantine Calls Venizelos Back to Head a New Cabinet—Bulgars Fall Back Before the Fire of the British.

London, Oct. 6.—Fighting in France now is extending beyond the Somme and Verdun areas, to which it has been particularly confined for the past six months. In a report issued today, the War Office announced a gas attack east of Loos and fighting east of Armenteires on the Franco-Belgian border and south of Arras. Three successful raids on German trenches were carried out in the sector of Loos.

Bulgars Are Retreating.

Paris, Oct. 6.—The Bulgarians on the Struma River front in Greek Macedonia have been retreating, the War Office announced. Violent attacks by British who face the Bulgars on the Struma front disclosed King Ferdinand's forces dislodging from this strongly fortified position.

Venizelos Back in Athens.

Rome, Oct. 6.—A dispatch to the Messagero from Athens says that it is rumored there that former Premier Venizelos has returned to the Greek capital. King Concstantine decided to ask the noted leader to form a new cabinet.

Big Guns Are Busy.

Paris, Oct. 6.—Artillery duels on both the Somme and Verdun fronts were reported by the War Office today. North of the Somme River French and German guns engaged in heavy exchanges of fire during the night. There were heavy bombardments in the sector of Cote du Poivre in the Meuse Valley, north of Verdun.

Russians Attacked Fiercely.

Petrograd, Oct. 6.—Powerful counter attacks are being delivered by Austro-Germans and Turkish troops against Russian positions at numerous places. These assaults, the War Office announced today, have led to stubbornly contested battles. The Russians have captured 539 more prisioners in Galicia and the Russo-Roumanion armies in Debrudja have captured 300. In the direction of Zloczow and in the region of Jeniaki, Gukolavo and Mlynovoe fierce battles are proceeding. The statement says the enemy is obstinately counter attacking.

CHARLES SENGER HEADS DEMOCRATIC CITY COMMITTEE

At the organization meeting of the Democratic City Committee held last night Charles P. Senger was elected chairman of the committee, while the other members of the committee chosen were: James Cullen, secretary, and Henry Rosenbaum treasurer. Plans for the campaign to be conducted during the general election were discussed and other steps taken for an active fall campaign.

At the next meeting of the Democratic club, George M. LaMonte, of Somerville, State banking commissioner, and others, will make addresses.

COUNCILMANIC CANDIDATES FILE THEIR EXPENSE ACCOUNTS

According to reports filed with City expended in this city in the recent primary campaign was that spent by Clerk John J. Carroll, the only money the no-license candidates. The expenditures of the several candidates were as follo— Frederick S. Cutter, First ward, $5—52; C. L. Hight, Fourth ward, $61.57; Charles Loizeaux, Second ward, $60.90.

G. Herbert Condict, who was the candidate from the Third ward, failed to file his expense account, but it is thought that J. Henry Crane will appear before Judge Connolly in the county court in a few days to ask permission to file Mr. Condict's expense account. Mr. Condict spent nothing during the campaign. It is believed the court will permit Mr. Crane to file the statement.

COMPLAINT IS DISMISSED AGAINST E. O. BOCKNER

Emil O. Bockner, a contractor, was arraigned before Recorder Campbell in the borough court last evening on complaint of Vincent Jablonky, who alleged that the defendant used indecent language and threatened to kill him when he told him, the defendant, that he was not following certain specifications in the erection of the brick building and store at the corner of Chestnut and North avenue for his, the complainant's, brother-in-law, Joseph Kolekasky. Bockner denied that he had threatened to kill Jablonsky.

He said that if he addressed Jablonsky in indecent fashion it was because he was making himself obnoxious by hanging around the building and continually butting in, and he asked that he be forced to keep away. The court informed Bockner that the complainant was acting in the capacity of building inspector for his brother-in-law, and he therefore had a right to be on the premises. Bockner was dismissed with the warning that he would be dealt with to the full extent of the law if brought in court again.

ROCKEFELLER NOW WORTH A BILLION

Fortune Almost Trebled Since Standard Oil Dissolution.

GAVE AWAY $200,000,000.

With Standard Oil Shares Selling at $2,014, His Wealth Has Increased Over $331,000,000 Since 1911—He Holds 247,892 Shares of the Stock.

ST. PAUL GOOD BUSINESS MAN, SAYS ROCKEFELLER.

St. Paul as a captain of industry would have been a foeman worthy of his steel, said John D. Rockefeller in Cleveland, O., after hearing a sermon in which the evangelist was cited as a splendid example of the forceful man.

"Yes, Paul would have been a great success as a business man," said Mr. Rockefeller. "All he would have needed was capital, and a man like him would have had no trouble getting credit. He was persistent, and persistency is the thing that gets you somewhere in these modern days.

"What a leader he would have made for a big combine, to be sure. His natural abilities would have placed him among the topmost captains of industry."

Increased value of the stock of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey has reached such a high figure that the total wealth of John D. Rockefeller, founder and largest stockholder in the corporation, is now estimated at $1,000,000,000. Standard Oil the other day was sold at the remarkably high figure of $2,014 a share. The highest ever paid for the New Jersey stock before the dissolution suit was $750, and at the time of the dissolution order May 15, 1911, five years ago, the shares were at $675.

In the trial of the government's suit for dissolution it was brought out that Mr. Rockefeller owned 247,692 shares. Two estates ranked next to him.

The following table shows the value of Mr. Rockefeller's stock in the Standard at various times:

Par value of John D. Rockefeller's 247,692 shares	$24,769,200 00
Value at the time of dissolution at $675 a share	167,194,100 00
Value today, including subsidiaries, at $2,014 07	498,869,028 44
Increase in value of his holdings since dissolution	331,674,928 44

Holdings of Others

Value of holdings of others is given in the following table, which presents, first, the par value; second, the value of the stock at $675 a share at the time of the supreme court's dissolution order, and, finally, the value today:

Estate of Charles Pratt, 52,802 shares	$5,280,200	35,641,350

Besides these holdings in Standard, Mr. Rockefeller has extensive interests in many banks and railroads. He owns large blocks of national, state and municipal bonds. In 1915 he purchased $10,000,000 of the Anglo-French loan. He owns considerable stock in the United States Steel corporation.

Gives Away $200,000,000.

Mr. Rockefeller and his son have given a total of $200,000,000 to institutions. Of this amount $60,000,000 went to the general education board, $30,000,000 to the University of Chicago, $10,000,000 to the Rockefeller Institute For Medical Research, $6,000,000 to the Rush Medical college and $10,000,000 to relief enterprises of the Rockefeller foundation since the war started.

Original Standard Oil has an equity in thirty-six stocks. These represent the various companies resulting from the dissolution and the Prairie Pipe Line company, which was organized two years ago. The parent company had 983,383 shares of a par value of $98,338,300. Prior to the dissolution this reached a high figure of $727,537,250. Today's value of the shares is placed at $1,966,706,000.

Three Hundred at Family Reunion.

The annual reunion of the Marks family at the home of J. M. Marks, four miles southeast of Kingsland, Ark., brought 300 persons together. Mr. Marks is ninety-two years old. Nine of his thirteen children, forty grandchildren and three great-grandchildren were present. Of the 300 persons at the reunion 225 were related. Mr. Marks settled in Kingsland in 1840. He is a civil war veteran.

Superstitious Musicians.

Musicians are often singularly superstitious. Paderewski once ordered an expensive apartment in London, but refused to enter when he found it was No. 13 of a certain street, although he paid for it. Massenet has written twenty-one operas and many other compositions, but on all of his manuscripts page 12½ is written in place of 13.

No Place to Go

The happiest nights
I ever know
Are those when I've
No place to go.
When the missus says
When the day is through,
"Tonight we haven't
A thing to do."

Oh, the joy of it
And the peace untold
Of sitting round
In my slippers old,
With my pipe and book
In my easy chair
And the thought I
Needn't go anywhere!

Needn't hurry
My evening meal
Nor force the smiles
That I do not feel.
But can grab a book
From a nearby shelf
And drop all sham
And be myself.

Oh, the charm of it
And the comfort rare!
Nothing on earth
With it can compare.
And I'm sorry for him
Who doesn't know
The joy of having
No place to go.

THREE ACTIVE VOLCANOES IN NEW NATIONAL PARK

Hawaiian Reserve, Just Created by Congress, Contains Lakes of Molten Lava.

The Hawaii National Park, just created by congress, is the first national park lying outside the continental boundaries of the United States, says Science. It sets off the three Hawaiian volcanoes, Kilauea, Mauna Loa and Haleakala, and intrusts their protection and development to the department of the interior. "The Hawaiian volcanoes," writes T. A. Jaggar, director of the Hawaiian volcano observatory, "are truly a national asset, wholly unique of their kind, the most famous in the world of science and the most continuously, variously and harmlessly active volcanoes on earth.

"Kilauea crater has been nearly continuously active with a lake or lakes of molten lava for a century. Mauna Loa is the largest active volcano and mountain mass in the world, with eruptions about once a decade, and has poured out more lava during the last century than any other volcano on the globe. Haleakala is a mountain mass 10,000 feet high, with a tremendous crater rift in its summit eight miles in diameter and 3,000 feet deep, with many high lava cones built up inside the crater. It is probably the largest of all known craters among volcanoes that are technically known as active. Haleakala erupted less than 200 years ago. The crater at sunrise is the grandest volcano spectacle on earth."

Versatile.

"They tell me your boy Josh is very versatile."

"He is," replied Farmer Corntossel patiently. "I never saw anybody who could do so many fool things without repeatin' hisself."—Washington Star.

An Appeal to Americans
BY

The Commission for Relief In Belgium

Sole Clearing House for all Belgium Relief

We, as Americans, are enlisted for the war to save seven million men, women and children. It is the greatest commissary undertaking in the history of the world, and in the lexicon of America there is no such word as fail.

We Need Food Supplies as Well as Cash

Railroads, express companies, postoffices, governors and state committees are aiding. Our Flotilla of Mercy, comprising thirty-five chartered ships, is constantly carrying food. But—Our Supplies Are Far too Short!

Are You Helping? If Not, Send in Your Name Now!

Make out your check or money order, or send cash either to your state committee co-operating with this Commission or to the New York Headquarters:

BUY IT IN PLAINFIELD

If YOU spend your money AT HOME with HOME MERCHANTS you get a second chance at that same old dollar; when that dollar goes out of town, it's—"Good-bye Mary."

A dollar is no "carrier pigeon." Send it away and it will never come back. Keep Plainfield made money in Plainfield.

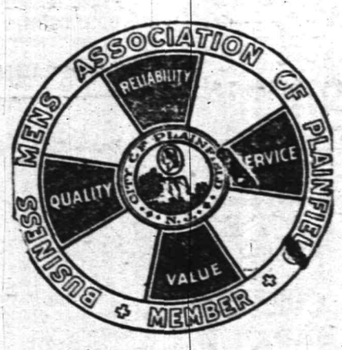
Consider the power of a dollar when it is spent at home. It is like magic. It circulates—it pays off a hundred obligations—it creates business and puts people to work in this community. But the dollar sent away to an out-of-town house does nothing for Plainfield—it is dead to us—out of commission forever as far as we are concerned.

There are only two kinds of dollars—the "Dollar With Wings" and the "Development Dollar."

The "Dollar with Wings" flies away with a value that rightfully belongs to the home community. If spent with a Plainfield Merchant its value would stay with you and help to build up your interests.

The "Development Dollar" goes to build up Plainfield. It stays right here in our own community—it puts people to work here—builds roads and schools and churches and homes.

No matter what your position in life may be, some of its benefits "filter" down to you. "Letting George do it" is poor logic. We want YOU to cultivate the "Try Plainfield First" habit.



JAPAN SEES WAR AHEAD IN CHOICE OF PREMIER

Tokio, Japan, Oct. 6.—Count Terauchi's selection as Premier to succeed Okuma has caused public apprehension, for it is looked upon as foreshadowing war.

Twenty members of the Seinukai (Conservative) Party have adopted a resolution in opposition to the proposed new Ministry on the ground that it would be hostile to the Constitution and progress.

UNCLE SAM HAS SCRAP BOOK WORTH $16,000

Washington, Oct. 6.—The most valuable scrap book in Washington is in possession of Uncle Sam. It is worth $16,000.

It was compiled by and is in the custody of Major Alfred R. Quaiffe and is kept in a safe at the Treasury Department, where hangs probably the most valuable picture in the capital. The scrap book is made up of specimens of Uncle Sam's paper money, ranging from the fiat currency of Civil War days down to the present, and contains every sort of paper currency issued since the sixties.

RAG DOLL HELD $180 GOLD.

Woman Finds Hoard In Mother's Gift of Twenty Years Ago.

"Keep this, my child, as it may come in handy some day."

This was the remark made more than twenty years ago by the mother of Mrs. Maggie Doyle, wife of a Fresno (Cal.) policeman, when she gave her daughter a rag doll.

Mrs. Doyle has kept the doll for twenty years and has carried it in her trunk from one town to another. The other day she unpacked the trunk and found that the stuffing was coming out of the doll. She went to sew up the rip, but pulled out a little sack containing $180 in gold. Mrs. Doyle's mother died ten years ago.

AT 82 TAKES FIFTH WIFE.

California Preacher Elopes With Sister of No. 4.

Marriage has no terrors for the Rev. James Sunderland of Fruitville, Cal. After being wed four times in church, with a gathering of friends on hand each time to congratulate him at the completion of the ceremonies, he eloped with Miss Mary Ham and was married in Monterey.

The Rev. Mr. Sunderland is eighty-two years old, and his bride seventy-five years old. The bride is the sister of his fourth wife. She has been keeping house for him since her sister's death some time ago.

Returns After Twenty-six Years.

Henry James of Chicago, supposed by Pana (Ill.) relatives to have been dead for twenty-six years, arrived in Pana recently, only to find his parents long since dead. It was a happy surprise to his brother, Louis James, and sister, Mrs. Minnie Brown, still residents of the old home place.

Bandit's Increasing Activity to Delay Disbanding Troops.

UNITS ON WAY TO BORDER.

Ten Thousand New Troops Pouring Into Camps While Others Make Ready to Depart—Indiana Soldiers Shake Hands With Jess Willard.

The recent visit of General Funston, commander of the southern division, did not cause as much joy among the New York troops as had been anticipated.

It had been expected that after his conference with Major General O'Ryan, commander of the New York division, he would announce the return of one of the infantry regiments to accompany the First field artillery. Instead he intimated that on account of the increasing activities of Villa in Mexico the New York division on the border again might be increased to full war strength.

Units Going to Border.

The war department has given directions for the dispatch to the Mexican border of the following national guard units from the state of Michigan: One regiment of infantry, the Thirty-third; two troops of cavalry, one field hospital, one ambulance company, one company of engineers, one signal corps company and two batteries of field artillery.

The following stations of national guard units just ordered to the Mexican border have been announced at the war department:

At Laredo, Second Florida infantry; at El Paso, Third New York field artillery, two Connecticut batteries, two Colorado batteries, one Georgia battalion of field artillery, two Michigan batteries; at Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, four Virginia batteries, one New Hampshire battery, District of Columbia regiment of infantry, District of Columbia cavalry troop; at Douglas, Ariz., two Alabama batteries and one New Jersey battery; at Llano Grande, Minnesota battalion of field artillery; at Nogales, California company of engineers.

10,000 Coming Home.

What national guard regiments and organizations are to be relieved from border duty by new state troops under the order by the war department was announced by General Funston. The total is approximately 10,000 men.

Movements will not begin, it was announced, until the incoming troops have arrived. The rolling stock which brings them to the border will be used for the return of the home going regiments.

The troops that will go home are: Second marine infantry, at Laredo; one regiment of New York field artillery and First New York ambulance company, both in Brownsville district; Rhode Island battery, at El Paso; First battalion of the First Massachusetts field artillery and Second Massachusetts field artillery, both at El Paso; First Pennsylvania field artillery, at El Paso; First Illinois field artillery, Wisconsin battery and First Wisconsin field hospital, at San Antonio; First Connecticut infantry, at Nogales; First Montana infantry, First squadron New Jersey cavalry and First battalion New Jersey field artillery, all at Douglas; battalion of infantry from the District of Columbia, at Naco, and First squadron of Utah cavalry, at Nogales.

"Jess Willard" Comes to Camp.

A great many of the officers and men among the Indiana troops stationed at Llano Grande pass the week end in Brownsville, and while there Lieutenant Marion O. Reiff, Company D, First regiment, met G. A. Trasker of Chicago, who bears a resemblance to Jess Willard, the pugilist. An admiring crowd gathered, and "Willard" was introduced to the Indiana boys as they came into the hotel. He treated them all with proper condescension and explained his presence in Brownsville by saying that he had come down to sell some horses to the government from the 101 ranch. When Lieutenant J. D. Johnson of the machine gun company of the Second regiment was presented Trasker remarked modestly that he had met a gentleman of that name previously. Captain Chambers of Company B of the First from Laporte, Ind., and Captain Calvert of the First regiment supply company were among those to "fall," and a pleasant time was had by all concerned. Plans were made to take a trip over into Matamoros under Willard's protection, but an unfortunate business engagement permitted him to escape.

Two Wyoming national guard infantry battalions, Troop A of the Kansas cavalry and Troop B of the Wisconsin cavalry have reached the Mexican border. The Wyoming troops to go are the First and Second separate battalions, attached to two regimental organizations.

Fifty Indiana national guardsmen, recruited by a party sent back from the border, have received winter clothing at Fort Benjamin Harrison. No time has been set for their departure for the border, and the rookies fear they will spend a part of their winter at the post.

Luck and Hard Luck.

While picking up a one dollar bill pointed out to him by a stranger a St. Louis man had $29 stolen from his hip pocket.

Tough Tissue Paper.

The Chinese manufacture a tissue paper which when oiled is waterproof and extremely tough. It is used extensively by the native manufacturers of liquids, such as wood oil producers, to line the wicker baskets to contain the oil for shipments to the large exporting firms. So efficient is the paper that the oil is often transported several hundred miles. Wine producers use the same paper for conveying wine in wicker baskets from wholesale to retail dealers. Similarly this paper is tied over a bottle or earthen jar to prevent the liquid from being poured out until the container is opened. This native made paper is very efficient and economical.

HOW THE NATIONS GATHER WAR LOAN

Bulk of Billions Comes From Small Investors.

GIFTS TO THE TREASURY.

Pounds and Marks Flow In Steady Stream Into Nations' War Chests. England Uses Publicity, Germany Organization, to Collect War Loans.

If the spendthrift American people had to dig down into their own private resources for contributions to a national loan in the time of some great emergency, how long would the treasury have to wait for subscriptions to be taken up by the rank and file of the working people and the middle classes, as the bulk of the war loan has been taken in England and Germany?

The stories that have come over the seas of the things that have been done in both England and Germany reveal the remarkable amount of capital that each government has had at its disposal in the private savings funds of the people. England, for instance, raised a single [illegible] of $1,750,000,000, the larg[illegible] issue ever made at th[illegible],000 single individual [illegible]re made for small amo[illegible] sums were taken by ban[illegible]nsurance associations and by members of the royal family, but the great bulk of it came in moderate subscriptions from the people. And England has employed in the raising of this money the same democratic methods, the same wide publicity, that she has used in her conduct of the recruiting campaigns.

Gifts to Treasury.

Just how willingly English men and women and children all over the empire have poured their savings and their gifts into the treasury is told in an article in the London Times by James Douples. One of the remarkable developments of the war, according to this article, has been the development of the voluntary gift to the treasury of the empire. In normal times men do not send gifts to the state; in fact, it is usually quite hard enough to get them to pay their taxes, but the last year of the war has seen a steady stream of outright gifts to the treasury, a treasury that would be well satisfied with loans. The romance of these gifts is revealed in the places that they are sent from and the messages that come with them. A firm carrying on business in Sandakan sends £500 to the empire for the benefit of British protection—where they have formerly contributed nothing toward British finance.

Funds Come From Everywhere.

School children and school clubs send in gifts to the war funds, and the huge machinery of the treasury is put in motion to acknowledge the gift of a shilling from a small girl. Alice, who sends it out of her pocket money, having heard from her father that the government is collecting money for the war. And one generous soul, a common seaman on one of the trawlers that brings coal up from Australia, sent £1, and at the same time touches the government familiarly on the shoulder with the remark that he hopes his gift will be accepted and that "his grammar will not be minded. Grammar does not count as a rule between gentlemen."

The raising of the British loans has been in most ways a matter of inspiration and publicity, whereas Germany, as in everything else, has achieved what she has by organization. The magnitude of the four German war loans and the imminence of a fifth has amazed people who are disposed to fear for the steadiness of the resources raised with possible future indemnities as security for liquidation. But it has evidently not dismayed the German people despite the reports that come now and then as to the supposed financial bankruptcies of individual bankers and citizens.

Germany Employs Business Methods.

The German secretary of the treasury, Dr. Karl Helfferich, has not utilized the popular advertising methods of the English. The loans have been advertised as simple commercial projects, as they have been advertised in England also, and people have so taken them up. All of these popular subscriptions (the great bulk in small sums from the mass of the people) have been made voluntarily, and not the least pressure has been exerted from above. To the fourth German war loan, for instance, which amounted to some $2,678,000,000, excluding the subscriptions of persons on the fighting lines and in foreign countries, 5,279,946 people—men, women and children—subscribed. The number of subscribers for 200 marks or less was nearly 2,500,000, and altogether the small investors subscribed 200,000,000 marks. The floating of the loans has gone on apparently with less and less difficulty, and associations of employees in factories, savings banks, labor unions, holders of pension funds, servant girls, charitable relief associations, cities, towns and groups of school children have bought up shares in the loans. The rigid German organization and the discipline—the system that has utilized the savings banks, that has founded additional loan banks and war credit banks and the safeguarded stupendous credit of the whole scheme—have done for Germany what the popular appeal, the poster and the insistent popular appeal have done for England.

Really Careful.

Natalie, aged five years, for the first time planted some pansy seeds in small boxes. One evening she rushed to water them, and on her return her mother said, "You know after a rain you don't have to water them."

Natalie's reply was startling:

"Oh, I take them in when it rains!"—New York Times.

15 NEW PARALYSIS CASES REPORTED IN NEW JERSEY

Fifteen new cases of infantile paralysis were reported to the State Board of Health yesterday morning for the preceding twenty-four hours. The municipalities reporting and the number of cases reported by each follows:

Newark, 3; Bridgeton, Jersey City, Trenton, Paterson, 2; Northampton township, Woodbine borough, Evesham township, Elizabeth, one each.

ENJOYABLE SOCIAL AT THE GRACE M. E. CHURCH

Nearly two hundred and fifty people were present at the social given in the Grace M. E. church last night. An excellent program of musical and vocal selections was rendered. Miss Elsie Schmidt, of Watchung, gave an interesting reading and Miss Dorothy Seader gave a cornet solo, while Vincent Stalatro player several selections on the violin. Both the Bible class male and female quartets sang several selections, and the Rev. C. E. Gillespie and Rec. Charles Anderson made addresses.

N. P. H. S. NOTES

At a meeting of the sophomore class today the following officers were elected: President, Howard Willett; vice president, Norman McGee; secretary, Nora McDonough, and treasurer, Stella McDonald. The report of the treasurer show that the class was flourishing financially.

President William Seidel, of the senior class, appointed the following as members of the senior play committee: Vincent LaPorte, Lillian Spencer, Kenneth Laurie, Marguerite Barkalew, Katherine Britting and Andrew McDonough. The play is to be given at the annual Christmas entertainment of the senior class.

Four candidates have applied for the position as piano player in the High School. They have all tried out in the morning chapel exercises and one will be chosen in the near future. The candidates are: Elizabeth Voorhees, Gladys Lee, Adelaide Ricketts and Helen Nelson.

Captain Andrew McDonough, of the North Plainfield High School baseball team, will put a scrub team against a team from the 1916 Alumni tomorrow afternoon on Hyde Oval. McDonough has had his rookies out for training for the last week and is quite hopeful of giving the "grads" a warm reception. Dunning, a sophomore, is to do the pitching. The lineup is as follows: N. P. H. S. Scrubs—Dunning, p; A. McDonough, c; Mair, 1b; C. Marsh, 2b; Yates, ss; Force, 3b; Stewart, lf; Robert Parsh, cf; Algernon, rf. 1916 Alumni—Dilts, p; Newkirk, c; A. Seidel, 1b; Ray Parsh, 2b; J. Dawe, ss; W. Townley, 3b; Kirch, lf; Causbrook, cf; R. Dawe, rf.

CORPORATION NOTICE

PROPOSALS FOR SEWERS.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, at an adjourned regular meeting held Monday, September 18th, 1916, notice is hereby given that the Common Council will meet on Monday, October 9th, 1916, at 8 o'clock, P. M., at the Council Chamber, No. 149 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at which time and place said Common Council will receive sealed proposals for doing the work and furnishing the materials for the construction of such portion of the separate sewers or drains contemplated in the ordinance entitled "An Ordinance to provide separate Sewers or Drains, to carry off the surface water in Grove street and in portions of East Fifth street, West Fifth street, West Sixth street, East Seventh street, West Seventh street, West Eighth street, Watchung avenue, Park avenue, New street, Plainfield avenue, Grant avenue and West Front street," approved September 6, 1916, as provided for in the plans and specifications adopted by the Common Council September 18th, 1916, and filed in the office of the City Clerk, No. 151 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals, the Common Council will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided said parties or agents choose to be then and there present, and also make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Council.

The Engineer's approximate estimate of the quantities of material required, and the work to be done, is as follows: 720 feet, 3 feet 6 inches by 4 feet 6 inches rectangular reinforced concrete sewer 7 to 11 feet deep; 560 feet, 45-inch concrete or segment block sewer 11 feet deep; 460 feet, 42-inch concrete or segment block sewer 11 feet deep; 450 feet, 39-inch concrete or segment block sewer 9 feet deep; 980 feet, 36-inch concrete or segment block or vitrified pipe sewer 9 to 17 feet deep; 700 feet, 33-inch concrete, segment block or vitrified pipe sewer 7 to 9 feet deep; 230 feet, 27-inch concrete or vitrified pipe sewer 11 feet deep; 2,910 feet, 24-inch vitrified pipe sewer 5 to 7 feet deep; 780 feet, 22-inch vitrified pipe sewer 5 feet deep; 1,760 feet, 20-inch vitrified pipe sewer 5 to 9 feet deep; 1,190 feet, 18-inch vitrified pipe sewer 5 to 9 feet deep; 360 feet, 15-inch vitrified pipe sewer 5 feet deep; 1 special manhole on rectangular sewer; 3 manholes on rectangular sewer 7 to 11 feet deep; 37 standard manholes 5 to 17 feet deep; 129 storm water inlets; 240 feet, 15-inch vitrified inlet pipe; 3,660 feet, 12-inch vitrified inlet pipe; 4,770 sq. yds. reconstructing pavement; 2 brook connections; 100 cu. yds. concrete for foundations; 100 cu. yds. foundations of gravel, slag or stone; 100 cu. yds. rock excavation; 10,000 feet B. M. lumber left in place; 4,000 feet B. M. lumber for platforms and foundations.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for $2,000. The amount of bond required will be $25,000. The work to be completed June 1, 1917. The Common Council reserves the right to reject any or all bids, to waive defects in bids, or to accept any bid as they shall deem for the best interest of the City.

Duplicate plans may be examined, and forms of proposal, specifications, contract and bond, may be obtained at the office of Andrew J. Gavett, Street Commissioner, 151 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

Proposals should be endorsed: "Proposals for Sewers."

JOHN J. CARROLL,
City Clerk.

Heroism.

Heroism, in which I include courage, fortitude and self denial, is an essential element of a great character; courage, which leads a man forth to meet danger whenever thereto called by duty; fortitude, the power and practice of endurance, which renders him superior to pain and makes him accept with cheerfulness whatever fate comes, and self denial, the subordination of the material to the spiritual, of the lower to the higher nature of man, which renders his will master of his appetite and passions and causes him to forego every personal benefit for the sake of honor and conscience.—David Dudley Field.

ALLEGIANCE TO LAWS DEMANDED

Senatorial Candidate Frelinghuysen Presents His Views On National Issues.

DISCUSSES THE TARIFF

Favors Merchant Marine, Arbitration for Labor Disputes and Preservation of Honor and Dignity of the Nation.

Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, candidate for United States Senator on the Republican platform, in a speech at the Republican convention, held at Trenton, Tuesday, October 3, said:

"As the candidate for United States Senator. It is perhaps fitting and proper that I should present to you my views on the National issues of the campaign. As chairman of the Economy and Efficiency Committee, Sen. Edge learned the needs of the State and framed the laws which resulted in the reorganization of many of the departments. No one is better informed on existing conditions and no one is better qualified to grapple with such conditions. For his election we must make every effort. I trust that it will be my pleasure and opportunity as Senator to confer and to co-operate with Governor Edge on all matters affecting the State and the welfare of its citizens.

"New Jersey is a great industrial State. A large part of the population are wage earners and their protection is of vital interest to our progress and prosperity.

"During my campaign for nomination I have canvassed the manufacturers of New Jersey, to ascertain the effect of the present tariff schedules on our industries. I have yet to find any testimony to the effect that in the absence of war we could compete with the low wages which prevailed in Europe. Cashing dividends on the agony of Europe and paying high wages from the temporary prosperity resulting from the war is not a sound or stable condition and such fact must be made plain to our workers.

"The President and his party declare that the present tariff law is sound and scientific. If the Underwood Tariff is correct why does he propose a tariff commission? By the time that such a commission would discover that the Underwood law does not and will not afford protection against Europe, impoverished by war and ready to resort to every expedient to restore prosperity, much of our trade will be ruined and many of our workers thrown out of employment. Let us have a law which guarantees protection. Conditions are now extraordinary. Far better for a tariff commission to find that we have too much protection than too little.

"I do not admire the indefinite and aimless policy of the present administration. It lacks vigor and direction. There should be a plan, carefully devised by army and navy experts. There should be a standing army of such size that it will not be necessary to call upon our militia for patrol duty. Our militia has proven itself effective and has reflected credit upon the State, but a great nation of one hundred millions of people should not be compelled to take men from their families and business to do police work that should be done by professional soldeirs.

"It is said that President Wilson has kept us out of war. I do not consider the killing of our citizens in Mexico and in the United States keeping us out of war. Perhaps the humble and humiliating submission to indignities to our national honor have temporarily postponed a conflict, but they have not removed the menace of war. On the contrary, they have increased it, for many now believe that the United States would submit to any insult rather than vigorously assert its honor. We are in grave danger and we are as defenseless as we were when our President first took office, though he has seen one nation after another plunged into war.

"I believe in the upbuilding of our merchant marine by government aid. We must, as a nation, seize the opportunity open to us to restore our flag on the seas. I promise co-operation with, and assistance to, the forward looking men of New Jersey who have been urging harbor development and inland waterways, and I will assist, should I be elected, in furthering practical legislation and necessary appropriations to that end—not for Pork Barrel purposes, but for permanent and desirable improvement.

"One of the great problems of the day is the settlement of labor disputes. I believe in arbitration, both sides to any dispute should have their day in court before a deliberate and impartial jury. Arbitration has failed twice; once, when the European conflict began, the other, when the President of the United States abandoned it as a principle.

"I do not belive that Congress, under duress, should pass legislation fixing the scale of wages of any class and discriminating against other classes of wage-earners.

"I stand for the preservation of the dignity, honor and welfare of the American Republic. I shall represent no particular class of citizens, no matter where born. I am a citizen of the United States and to it only do I owe any allegiance. This government is not a government of special privilege to any sect, class, or race, but a government of equal rights to all. We demand from every citizen, whether born of ancestors who came in the Mayflower, or whether naturalized, a strict observance of our laws and customs. We demand of all, allegiance to but one flag, that of the United States. We can not expect to prevent in those of foreign birth sympathy for their native land that heritage and previous environment have created. From them, however, should be demanded loyalty to this country and the flag, and a strict adherence to our laws and institutions. We must and we will go forward in this country as one nation and one people. We must avoid race prejudice and treat as friends and fellow citizens all who by their acts and deeds prove their allegiance, no matter where they were born.

Interested deeply, and having had some experience in the agricultural and educational problems in this State, I shall try to further the development of these great forces that are so essential to our future progress, and I shall do my part to promote economy and efficiency and business methods in the government."

"RUBE" MARQUARD MAY OPPOSE LEONARD IN OPENING GAME AT BOSTON TOMORROW

Elongated Ex-Giant May Be Hero of World's Series—Larry Gardner Counted Upon to Put "Life" Into Contests—Some Believe Mike Mowrey Will Give Gardner a Tussle —Red Sox Should Win By a Shade.

On paper Brooklyn appears to be better than the Red Sox, but in reality the Boston Americans are favored as being the more likely to capture the world's championship. The Trolley Dodgers certainly can outhit the Red Sox and a detailed comparison of the fielding ability of the players on each team indicates that Larry Gardner is the only Bostonian who has anything on a rival Dodger. However, Hooper does not outshine Jimmy Johnston, but still Jimmy is not the Dodger best bet in the outfield.

Owing to the Brooklyn weakness at shortfield, we would pick the Red Soxs to win by a shade. However, it is not our opinion that the heavy odds which are posted on Boston are the result of careful thinking. Wilbert Robinson's boys are not slow and they are certainly not going to allow the Bostonian to run away with the series. For the benefit of our readers, we will compare the individual comparison. This comparison is not a "reprint." It is original and may or may not be prompted by the best of judgment. Here goes.

Ivan Olson, the Superba shortfielder, is an ambitious player and is one who has had to contend with much opposition. Ivan is very game and this attribute may help him decidedly. He admits that his favorite position is third base. However, he is willing to play any position; hence he is a shortstop. Everett Scott, of the Sox, is a clever man and a wonderful fielder in those departments in which Ivan Olson is recognized as weak. But fate may decree that Ivan shall shine, but to us it looks as though the Sox have it on Brooklyn at short.

Jake Daubert will play first base for Brooklyn. And Jacob leads them all. There is no use in discussing the merits of Delos Gainer or "Doc" Hoblitzel. Each is a good man, but Jake Daubert is better. That's all there is to it.

George Cutshaw easily outbats Jack Barry, but there are few fans who would prefer the Dodger to the ex-Athletic player. Nevertheless, Cutshaw is a very capable player and will, undoubtedly, do well. Barry's hand has been troubling him of late and he may be considerably off form. Hal Janvrin will take Barry's place if it is impossible for the latter to play. And Hal cannot compare with Cutshaw.

Larry Gardner is a more efficient performer than Mike Mowry, although Michael has been doing splendid work of late. He is a strong man in a pinch, and many a pinch comes up in a world's series. It may be that Mike will demonstrate to the fans that he is Gardner's superior.

The Bostonian outfield seems to have a shade on the Ebbets team. Hooper and Lewis are players upon whom the records tell but little. Each is a dangerous man at all times and each is a more dependable player than either Jimmy Johnston or Stengel. Zach Wheat is the mainstay of the Brooklyn outer works. Hy Myers may get a chance in centerfield.

Meyers and Miller seem to be about on a level with Carrigan, Thomas, Cady and Agnew when it comes to catching. In all probability Thomas will do the bulk of the catching for the Red Sox. Otto Miller is a fair man and is almost certain of doing a portion of the catching.

Marquard, Coombs, Smith and Pfeffer will be the Dodger mainstays on the mound, while Leonard, Ruth, Foster, Shore and Mays are considered Carrigan's stars.

The probable batteries for tomorrow's game are as follows: "Rube" Marquard and "Chief" Meyers for Brooklyn: "Dutch" Leonard and "Bill" Carrigan for Boston.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, OCTOBER 6, 1916.

A WORK THAT BELONGS TO 1916.

There is much in the record of the Common Council now serving Plainfield that is worthy of the highest of praise, and there is little that it has left undone in the form of public improvements, yet the year is fast drawing to an end and one important work is not yet started. This is the providing of one or two public comfort stations in the downtown business district. Business men advocate these stations, women and children will bear witness to the need and the general public has long ago admitted conviction of the wisdom of the expenditure of public money for such a purpose. The Council has discussed the question and it has been referred to an appropriate and capable committee. In the hands of this committee has come printed matter showing accomplishments in this line in other cities over the country, so that there is no need of further delay. If members of the Council need further arguments as to the immediate need of such stations they have but to interview the hundreds of shoppers who visit downtown stores each day. The consummation of this project is a work that belongs to the year 1916, and to leave the work for another Council will be to fail signally in caring for the public need.

THE DEMOCRATIC VOTERS NOT TO BLAME.

As was clearly shown in the statement made by Mrs. E. F. Feickert in the Press of yesterday the Democratic party in New Jersey has fallen far short of the National party in its treatment of the equal suffrage amendment. The defeat of the Scully resolution in the State convention was but another example of the absence of fairness and reason that will always be conspicuous in any machine bossed gathering. There never was a political convention that expressed the sentiment of the party accurately on all subjects and never can be so long as such men as James R. Nugent, Eugene Kinkead and others of their kind hold political power. However the influence of the Trenton convention will not be far-reaching and New Jersey voters have the satisfaction of knowing that Mr. Nugent and others of his kind received an awful jolt in the people's primaries of last month and have another one coming to them when Mr. Voter goes out to settle things for himself in November.

"A little think like a $3,000 bond wont stop the investigation," says Attorney Koestler, who represents the petitioners for an investigation into the expenditure of Union county moneys for road work by the Board of Freeholders. It is evident that those who are demanding the probe are in earnest, and the minute they make a $3,000 bond for expenses in case they fail to prove their charges the hearing will be started. Many technical stipulations have been made which will work to the interest of the freeholders, guaranteeing them even better than a fair investigation.

The King's Daughters' tag day arranged for October 28 should be a red letter day in the history of this organization. There are few works more worthy than that of caring for children who come into the world under conditions that are a serious handicap. The work of the Day Nursery is next to that of the milk stations in importance and it should touch all people. Those who do not need the Day Nursery should realize that it needs them and respond to that need.

- Proctor's Theatre -

Thursday of this week, the management of Proctor's was doubtful about the showing of a certain picture to "Minors and Women," and requested the censors to pass on it, and advise what they thought would be best for the community in the line of good pictures. They thought it unwise to show this "certain picture" and the management immediately had it taken out of the program. We advocate decent pictures that every member of the family may witness without offense. You may safely bring your sister, daughter, mother or sweetheart to this theatre—clean pictures and the pick of the best photoplays made will be presented regardless of expense seems to be the slogan, and among the good things listed today "Mary Pickford" "In the Eternal Grind" (a Paramount picture), also Charlie Chaplin in his very latest, "The Pawn Shop." Saturday will bring Cleo Ridgely in "The Love Mask" (a Metro), and Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday a request picture, "The Fall of a Nation," at reduced prices, and announcement has been made that the Paramount contract has been renewed for another year, so patrons may rest assured they will witness first run Paramount pictures every Friday and Saturday at Proctor's, with Mary Pickford, Marguerite Clarke, Pauline Fredericks, Clara Kimball Young and in fact all of the biggest and best stars, the same show, only a little more of it, that is presented at the Rialto and Strand Theatres, New York city. To get into the newest thing in pictures in the city, "Proctor's Ring-Around," and see yourselves in the movies at Proctor's every week, you have but to stand in the group that our camera man catches daily on the streets of the city, and if by chance a ring is placed around your picture you get a handsome prize.

BOY SCOUT COUNCIL TO MEET AT THE Y. M. C. A.

The monthly meeting of the Boy Scout Council, Plainfield jurisdiction, will be held in the lecture room of the Y. M. C. A. at 8 o'clock, Monday evening. All members are urged to be present.

SENTENCE SUSPENDED.

George Barry, a local taxicab driver, was arraigned before Mayor Smalley in the borough court this morning on a charge of speeding and driving without a rear light. He received a lecture and suspended sentence.

BUSINESS WOMEN'S LEAGUE.

Miss Lena Farrar, of the National Board of the Y. W. C. A., will address the league tonight. In addition, Mr. Wilson, the local manager of the telephone company, will give a talk on "The Telephone." The meeting is to be at eight o'clock in the rooms of the Y. W. C. A., 212 East Front street. A cordial invitation is extended to all employed girls and women.

Plainfield Theatre.

Miss Mabel McKinley made a profound impression on the large audiences that crowded the Plainfield Theatre yesterday afternoon and last night. She was the favorite neice of the late President McKinley, and as such has become a popular favorite. She possesses a rich voice of remarkable sweetness and volume and her reditions are of the highest order. She was repeatedly encored at the performances and responded in a generous manner.

Beside Miss McKinley, Manager Shannon has booked four other acts of high calibre to complete the vaudeville show, and each one is a hummer. Foley and Williams, entertainers extraordinary; Leon Mou Chan, the American Chinese, is a scream; and Mack, Wheeler and Van, in a novelty surprise, pleased the audiences and received much applause. Scully and Wild, the comedians, present twenty minutes of the newest in jokes and songs.

Charlie Chaplin again occupies a portion of the motion picture program, and his funny antics cause the blnest to wear a smile. Beside the above Pathe comedies and dramas, featuring popular photoplay stars, are shown at every performance. The Pathe Weekly is also shown. The complete show will be seen at the Plainfield Theatre tonight and tomorrow for the last time. Don't miss it. Next Monday the musical comedy attraction at the theatre will be "The Spiegel Revue," larger and more pretentious than ever before. The vaudeville program will begin again next Tuesday.

Max Spiegel, producer of "The Merry Rounders," will offer to the patrons of the Plainfield Theatre on Monday matinee and night, October 9, his latest and greatest effort, "The Spiegel Revue." This production is regarded as one of the leaders of its kind and nearer to a spectacular musical aggregation with its brilliant illumination and costuming. "The Spiegel Revue" offers something entirely new, picturesque and gay in surroundings and bright and witty in dialogue. Clever vaudeville features are interspersed in the medley of mirth and music, making the "Spiegel Revue" well worth the place it has achieved in the frontmost ranks of burlesque offerings. The cast includes Billy Mossey, Harry Crawford, Midgie Miller, Folly Follette, Callahan Brothers, Leo Nadell, Josephine Young, Twentieth Century Four and others. Spiegel's famous beauty chorus will introduce twenty tuneful musical numbers. One of the very many big features will be an electrical act entitled "The Girl on the Magazine," introducing Marie Allen, the modern Venus, said to be the most perfect formed woman on earth.

WOODROW WILSON DAY.

Saturday, October 28, has been set aside as Woodrow Wilson Day, and when it dawns the country is to receive from Shadow Lawn "a proclamation of the New Freedom."

The New Freedom is a little late in arriving, but this may be excused in view of the many remaining vestiges of the old freedom that have had to be done away with, such as the freedom of Americans to invest their money in foreign countries with reasonable certainty that their property rights would be safeguarded, and the freedom of American citizens to sail the seas in personal security.

Everybody, by grace of the old freedom, will remain free to celebrate Woodrow Wilson Day as he sees fit, but we hope no one will feel so emancipated from the restraints of decency as to refer on that day to the regrettable loss of American lives in Mexico or on the Lusitania.—The New York Sun.

G. O. P. PLATFORM WILL WIN PROGRESSIVES, RECORD SAYS

Jersey City, Oct. 6.—The platform adopted by the Republican State convention at Trenton meets with the approval of George L. Record, unsuccessful candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor. In a statement issued yesterday Mr. Record declares the platform will meet with the hearty approval of the Progressive voters of the party, as it contains a plank pledging the party to the taxation of franchises of telephone, telegraph, gas, electric and water companies at five per cent. on the gross receipts.

"It is inconceivable," says the statement, "that under these circumstances the public utility monopolies will contribute any money to help the election of the Republican ticket, and these interests will now have to look to the Democratic party for protection."

Hudson county, declares the statement, is the weak spot in the Republican campaign and Mr. Record suggests the formation of a temporary campaign committees which will leave factional differences to be fought out after the campaign. Mr. Record offers his advice in helping to straighten out the tangle in Hudson and in helping to elect the entire Republican ticket.

RECREATION NOTES.

The executive committee of the Public Recreation Committee is to hold a meeting this evening to discuss plans for the year. Activities are now well under way.

The Dunbars will meet this evening in the Washington School auditorium.

The regular municipal dance will be held as usual in the Washington School tomorrow evening.

Three organizations will start this season's work on Monday evening. The West End Glee Club will meet in the kindergarten room of the Washington School. Mrs. J. Edgar will be in charge to welcome any new members. The Athenian Athletic Club will meet in the High School gymnasium. The Community Chorus will hold a "get-together" meeting in the Franklin School auditorium.

Miss Snyder's dancing class is to open the season on Thursday evening, October 12, in the Washington School auditorium.

POLITICAL NOTES.

October 24—Third and final registry day in municipalities more than 10,000 population.

October 31—Third registry day in municipalities of less than 10,000 population.

County Clerk Abram P. Mirris is hard at work making ready for the general election. The work of preparing the ballots falls upon the county clerk instead of upon the various municipal clerks as in the primaries, and the task of drawing up the many different ballots and having them correctly printed is no small one. From now on until election the clerk's office will be all activity. Acceptances for "lead pencil" nominations must be sorted out and filed and petitions for independent candidates must be received before any names are filled in on the dummy ballots.

Independent petitions for city offices and for offices in the State at large or any political division larger than a county must be filed twenty-five days prior to election, or by October 13, but petitions for county offices must be filed five days sooner, or by October 8. Actual work on the sample ballots can not be started therefore until after October 13. Sample ballots will be ready on October 28. They will be delivered to the various municipal clerks by the county clerk on that date and will be distributed to the voters on November 1. The official ballots must be in the hands of the municipal clerks by November 2.

Fifteen cents for postage was all that Richard B. Fordham, Republican candidate for county clerk, spent in the recent primaries, according to his statement filed yesterday.

Primary supplies entailed an expenditure of $382 on the part of the county, according to bills sent in to the county clerk. This does not include the cost of ballots or the charges for delivering the supplies to the various district election officers.

REV. JOHN M'MURRAY TO SPEAK AT ANNIVERSARY

The celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Monroe Avenue Methodist church will be observed tomorrow night in an historical and social way. Rev. John MacMurray, a former pastor, but now pastor of the second largest church in Washington, D. C., will be the speaker. Sunday morning Rev. Dr. J. F. Hubach will preach while in the evening Rev. George Monney, also a former pastor, will occupy the pulpit.

Patrolman and Mrs. Tobias W. Nolan and son and Mr. Nolan's mother, of 961 Arlington avenue, are enjoying their vacation at Saratoga Springs and Glens Falls, N. Y.

TEACHERS OF UNION COUNTY PLAN MEETING

Will Hold Conference in Westfield Thursday, October 19.

Teachers from each Sunday school in the county will gather in the Presbyterian parish house in Westfield on Thursday, October 19, to consider ways and means of developing the youth of the county that their lives may be of service, that they may grow to manhood and womanhood honored and respected among their friends and neighbors. The morning will be given over to the routine business of the convention — reports of officers and committees—and luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock.

At 2:45 institutes will be held and teachers from primary, junior, intermediate, senior, adult and home departments will gather in separate conference, each to discuss under the leadership of experienced men and women of Statewide reputation the needs of the scholar of that particular department to plan ways and means for the methods, not only of teaching but of developing the scholar that they may put into practice in the daily life the principles learned in the lesson hour.

For Testing Gold.

The acid used by jewelers for testing gold is extremely powerful and has to be very carefully handled. To prevent any considerable quantity of the acid being spilled a specially constructed bottle is employed. The stopper of this is made of glass and contains a long pointed glass rod which passes down the center of the bottle. When an article of jewelry is to be tested the stopper is simply removed, and the article is touched with the point of the glass rod, to which a very slight quantity of acid has adhered. Gold is not affected by the acid, but imitation metal turns green.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

Where Michelangelo Played When He Was a Little Boy.

They Taught Him How to Draw.

"YOU must always remember," daddy told the children, "that Rembrandt, who made all the world love him because he painted light and shadow so beautifully, spent all his boyhood playing in his father's old mill, where one big sunbeam always shone through one window across the shadows. Tonight I am going to tell you the story of another talented boy, the world's greatest sculptor, who spent his babyhood playing in a marble quarry."

"Oh, tell us the sculptor boy's name, please, daddy!" cried Jack.

"Michelangelo. Isn't that a wonderful name? Four hundred and forty-one years ago the 6th of this March he was born in a small Italian town, Caprese, where his father, a judge, lived in an old ruined castle in a beautiful valley. When the baby Michelangelo was a year old his daddy moved to a lovely little town of the name of Settignano, near some of the finest marble quarries the world has ever known. In our time two famous lovers lived in Settignano, but what you must please remember always is a delightful, brown, lusty Italian baby rolling around in the hot sunshine that gleamed down upon great ledges of yellow and purple and creamy marble. I like to think of this lovely child handling little satiny blocks of it in his fat, eager hands, sitting on the great, wonderful shafts of it that hundreds of miners turned out for all the gifted sculptors of the world to cut into statues so lifelike.

"Well, this amazing baby boy grew up the way children have a habit of doing. He went to school and seized all the beauty that lies broadcast in Italy till it became a part of him. Then he went to excellent teachers who taught him how to draw and paint, and the first thing the old world knew priests were ordering him to paint the walls of their churches and make them holy statues. Princes were fighting to get him to decorate their palaces. There was one old chap who used up many beautiful years of Michelangelo's life carving a marble 'Night' and 'Morning' to go over his family's terrible tombstone. Then came the chance of Michelangelo's life. The pope commanded him to paint the bleak walls of a very holy chapel in Rome. So up on a high ladder, with his neck strained back and his glorious brush in hand, this gifted Italian splashed and painted and colored a whole huge room, sides and top, with saints and sinners and athletes and prophets and fortune tellers, delightful ladies swaying around on their beautiful waist lines to listen to what voices told them. Some day I shall bring you a picture of this glorious chap who was a sculptor, a poet, an architect, a painter and a splendid man all in one and who played in a marble quarry when he was a baby."

Training a Husband

BY MARY EVA LEONARD

Marian Gives Morris Some Much Needed Advice Concerning Tact.

"Don't explain." Morris made a gesture of impatience.

"But, Morris, I——"

"As if it was not bad enough to live through a disagreeable experience without prolonging the agony by rehashing everything over and over again." Morris drummed on the table and scowled.

"Do be reasonable, Morris." Marian looked almost ready to cry. "You are blaming me for what was not my fault at all——"

"Nothing of the kind. I simply want to have an end of the matter. I don't care whose fault it was." The scowl was blacker than ever.

"You do not understand the affair at all, or you would not feel so about it," persisted Marian, looking steadily into the irate face.

"I can leave the room if it is necessary for you to keep talking about the thing." Morris rose threateningly.

"I think myself that it would be a good thing for you to go somewhere and cool off. You are not yourself. When you are able to listen to reason I have something I insist on explaining to you." Marian met his irate glance with a calm level gaze. Her husband took a few turns up and down the room, then stopped in front of her chair.

"I suppose when a woman is full of something that she is bound to deliver, a man might as well give her her opportunity first as last." Morris was evidently making a clumsy effort to restore pleasant relations.

"If you are ready to listen to what I have to say, sit down." Marian drew up a chair in front of her and Morris dropped into it.

"In the first place I hold and expect to maintain the right to explain to you things that I do that you do not understand. It is the only way we can live together. You must see things from my point of view or you canot understand my actions. We must drift far apart if we can't undertand each other."

"Is this to be an evening's discourse?" interrupted Morris in a sarcastic tone.

Marian bit her lip and looked down. She was dangerously near tears. It grew so still that the clock's tick seemed to fill the room.

"I can't tell you how it hurts me to know that you for one moment believed I was disloyal to you; that I took sides with that dreadful woman," she began after she had gained control of her voice.

"What else could I think?" burst out Morris. "She said you told her I did not understand the case."

Marian held up her hand for silence. "The woman came to me in a towering rage because of the wrongs her son had suffered and I knew she must be quieted before she could listen to reason——"

"Listen to reason! As if she ever could!" exploded Morris.

"I said," continued Marian calmly, "that my husband would see that she had her rights, and when she said that it was you that had inflicted the injury, I suggested that perhaps you did not understand the case."

"As if I would act before I understand a case." Morris' tone was injured.

"From her point of view, I meant, of course," continued Marian.

"The only way to treat those people is to give them to understand that you will suffer no interference with the management of the school," blazed Morris.

"Certainly, they cannot interfere, but there are two ways of reaching that desired end. Your way is to antagonize them by telling them flatly to keep hands off. The other way is to placate them with dignified courtesy and at the same time give them to understand the very same thing." Morris gave a contemptuous snort. "You seem to think that it is not honest to fail to show a person that you are disgusted with him if that is the case; that it is deceitful to treat a person that you dislike with politeness. That is why we had to move so frequently, dear. You must learn to meet people and hide your dislikes." Morris sat in sullen silence gazing at the floor. "Tact after all is only putting yourself in the other person's place and seeing things from his point of view." Marian stooped and kissed the bald spot on her husband's head and softly left the room.

Extensive Use of Fur Gives Ample Opportunity for Novel Arrangements.

By Mary Glynn.

Fur, and especially the flat pelts such as ermine, seal and mole, is seen on many of the new suits. Beaver is too, also evident. That fur is shown in bands of varying width as a border on coats and skirts. Arranged in this way it is very attractive. Particularly are the new skating costumes that are already appearing The semi-dress suits, too, are charmingly trimmed with bands of fur. The suit illustrated is of rose velour. This is a military suggestion evident in the manner in which the fur is arranged. Seal is featured in this instance, and it is ued to border the cuffs and buttons of the coat. The collar is a curious affair which rolls up high about the throat, yet is combined with a cape. The manner in which the tabs cross in front is particularly odd. They fasten to a snug narrow collar of self material. Smart cloth topped button boots and a trim military hat of black hatters' plush complete the outfit.

Another point in furs is the funnel collar, which is cut in one with a yoke and being shaped in with seams it stands up about the neck and makes the lady look like she had sunk down into the smokestack of a steamer. Along with these funnel collars that swallow up the neck are shown big sleeves, which starting at a low shoulder line flare widely at the lower edge and are called "pagoda," though I do not know why. Another sleeve eccentricity is the half and half effect, the upper portion of the fabric composing the suit or dress and below the elbow plush or satin to the cuff line which is of a third effect; that is, either braided or trimmed with fur.

ORGANIZE LEAGUE TO PUSH ROAD BOND ISSUE CAMPAIGN

Jersey City, Oct. 6.—Advocates of the Egan $7,000,000 highway act, which is to be passed upon by the voters at the November election, have organized the New Jersey Good Roads League, which is expected to assist materially in the campaign in favor of the proposed issue of State bonds.

The organization meeting was held at the home of Herbert Scott, president of the Hudson County Automobile Club, and he was chosen president of the league. Hugh Kelly, engineer of the Department of Parks and Public Buildings of Jersey City, was elected secretary, while W. H. Ellis, of Newark, was selected to fill the office of treasurer. Mr. Ellis is also treasurer of the general campaign committee of the Auto Trade Association. The small buttons designed to boost the project and which have been in circulation will be more widely distributed throughout the State. The buttons have white lettering on a blue background. Thousands of these have been shipped to various points in the State. Every garage and auto club has received a large supply.

Do You Want a "Guest-Tenant?"

When you rent a room of your home to someone, you secure a "guest tenant." Your "roomer" is a guest of your house, on a business basis—but still a guest, somewhat in touch with your home, and this makes it highly important that the person should be of the right sort.

In advertising a furnished room it is a simple matter to indicate that the tenant-to-be must have reasonably convincing credentials as to character. You will thus have applications from a desirable class of people while a door sign or window card would merely bring to you the chance passer-by.

BOSTON HURLERS MUST WORK.

When the Dodgers and Red Sox go into the first game of the world series on Saturday it will be the toughest test of the year for the Boston hurlers. Undoubtedly Boston must depend on defense, more than offense, in this series. They have no Tris Speaker to bat near .400 for them. It has been the great mound staff that won for the Carrigan crew. Boston should win the series and it should go about six games. On dope, Brooklyn should grab two games and Boston four. Brooklyn is going to depend mostly on hitting. The National Leaguers have a big advantage in the hitting, as the Dodgers, as a team, is batting .259 for the season to date, with Boston trailing with a percentage of .240. This fellow Daubert is dangerous at all times. Wheat is a bad actor in a pinch, and a whole lot of credit must be given Mike Mowrey, for Mike has delivered in a pinch more than any other player on the Brooklyn club. Mowrey has been one of the biggest factors of the Dodgers winning the pennant. A team never won a championship without a good third baseman. Perhaps Heinie Groh is a better all-around third sacker, but Mowrey can certainly handle infield hits and come in on a ball much better than Groh. It is going to be Robinson placing his hunch on the hitting strength and Carrigan his dependance on his pitchers. The pitchers should win, in a short series. In a long clash Brooklyn would have the best chance, but in a week of play it looks like Boston. No wagers of any consequence have been made, but odds should favor the Red Sox. Pittsburgh will be pulling for Brooklyn to win, because this is a National League city, but the judgment leans the other way.

HEMPSTEAD SEES INJURY.

President Hempstead said he regretted very much the publicity given to the McGraw statement. He acknowledged that the sport was injured in a way, but he insisted that McGraw and the players had tried hard to please.

Reports that McGraw may sever his relations with the Giants and refuse to manage the club next year were current, but without foundation. He still is under contract for next year, and according to John B. Foster there is no likelihood of his breaking that contract. McGraw will not be with the team again this season, as the race is over, all positions won and lost and nothing more to play for. However, McGraw after his annual vacation will again tackle the task of molding a winner of 1917.

President Tener said that there was no just cause for an official investigation of the matter by the league. He is satisfied that the players performed to the best of their ability and that McGraw made his remarks while under the excitement of the game. Since President Tener does not consider the integrity of the league has been impugned there can be no investigation by the National Commission. The commission has no jurisdiction over the acts of any league unless this act concerns the other organizations.

SENIOR ELK LEAGUE.

The Senior B. P. O. E. Bowling League will come in for a whole lot of additional attention this winter with no junior circuit to divert attention from the big loop. The one reason given for abandoning the second wheel was that it was too much of a strain on the lodges to put two teams in the field. However, no matter how heavy the drain was every last lodge in the race saw to it that they had a spanking quintet chasing the honors, with the result that the work of several individuals and one or two teams completely overshadowed the best work of the tail-enders in the major organizations. Now, however, with this dandy little league slipping into history, all of the attention which it received will revert to the seniors, and there are innumerable good reasons for the belief that the budding season will be the best the latter outfit has ever enjoyed.

MARQUARD WILL PITCH.

"Rube Marquard, who is enjoying a splendid comeback, will pitch for the Brooklyns in the first world's series game at Braves' Field on Saturday. Uncle Robbie said yesterday that he was grooming the noted southpaw for the opener. Marquard and Coombs just about won the pennant for the Robins. Marquard came to the rescue last Saturday afternoon with a magnificent display of skill which crushed the Phillies and enabled the Robins to regain first place. Coombs increased Brooklyn's chances when he shut out the Giants on Monday. In addition to these hurlers Robbie is banking heavily on Pfeffer and Cheney. Pfeffer has made a better record in point of victories this year than any of the Red Sox pitchers. But Marquard and Coombs are Brooklyn's biggest guns. If the Rube gets by in Boston on Saturday he will be one of the heroes of the series. He is supremely confident."—New York Sun.

* * * * * *

SAYS McGRAW IS HONEST.

"McGraw wanted to see Brooklyn win, but it placed him in a very peculiar position. John has come through all these years without any kind of shadow on his reputation. He got his men into conference, before the Dodger series started, ordered them to play to the limit to win from Brooklyn, and offered a bonus to each player if Brooklyn was defeated three out of the four games. McGraw is square and on the level. Maybe he will use rough tactics at times to acquire his desires, but they are always above board and not of the kind that leaves anything but respect for his power of planning. McGraw believes his team slipped yesterday because they wanted to slip. At the end of the fifth inning, when he stated his players were disregarding signals, he left the field in disgust. He openly accused his players of helping the Dodgers. It has cast a very black aspect on the national game for such a condition to exist, but it shows McGraw's straightforwardness."—So says S. P. McCarty, a Western sport writer. Evidently, Jawn has a friend.

ANDY M'DONOUGH IS ENERGETIC CAPTAIN

Will Tryout Baseball Candidates on Hyde Field Tomorrow Afternoon.

Preparedness! That's Manager Andy McDonough's slogan. Andy has been presented with the task of leading a North Plainfield High School baseball team next year and present prospects are by no means bright.

In order that he might get a glimpse of just what kind of a team he may be expected to turn out, Andy has scheduled a game between the alumni and his charges. The contest will be played on Hyde Field tomorrow afternoon. It is next to impossible for us to present lineups for the teams, but it is understood that plenty of surprises are in store for followers of Canadian interests. There may be truth in the rumor that Art Kyle will follow Andy's plan.

BOSTONIAN FANS CLAMOR FOR SEATS

One Speculator Arrested as Thousands Storm Fenway Park.

Seekers of reserved seats took on the appearance of bleacher crowds yesterday in the scramble for reservations for the world series baseball games, which begin in Boston tomorrow. They swarmed about the ticket offices at Fenway Park in lines broken often by the eagerness of some enthusiasts to obtain earlier possession of tickets. Women and staid business men vied with messenger boys and others in their efforts to gain prominent places in the line. No actual disorder developed, but the police were called upon to reform lines and club employes endeavored unsuccessfully to placate disappointed applicants who clamored for answers to their written requests for seats.

The rush for reservations was a result of a new system, made necessary this year, J. J. Lannin, president of the Boston Americans, explained, because of the late date upon which the American League race was decided. By this system successful applicants were assigned a number calling for tickets of a certain class, without a definite designation of seats, as in other years. Those first in line obtained the better seats, as they were distributed by the ticket sellers, and it was to obtain this advantage that applicants sought the leading places in the line.

In all probability, club officials agree, more persons have been disappointed through failure to receive tickets this year than ever before. The fact that the series opens in Boston and that the third game in that city, the fifth of the series will be played on Columbus Day, a holiday, if the schedule is followed, has greatly increased the demand. Hundreds of requests have been refused.

ST. NICHOLAS SKATING RINK TO OPEN SOON

The ice skating season for New York and vicinity will begin on October 14, when Cornelius Fellowes will open the big skating palace—St. Nicholas Rink—at 69 West Sixty-sixth street. The rink has been entirely refitted and redecorated since last spring at a cost of $20,000. A unique feature this season will be the famous Guatemalan Marimbo Band, which caused such a sensation at the San Francisco Exposition and in last year's Hippodrome show.

The list of skating instructors will include Miss Fannie Davidson, Herbert Held, William F. Chase and Armond Cobeille. Last season's scale of popular admission prices will again prevail and the rink will be open morning, afternoon and evening daily, Sundays included.

WORLD SERIES RESULTS.

The Plainfield Daily Press will be "first," when it comes to accurately announcing the World Series results, play by play. The first game of the series will be played in Boston tomorrow afternoon and the details of the contest will be megaphoned in a clear and interesting manner. The game is scheduled to start at two o'clock and the first news will reach local fans, through the medium of the Press ticker, about ten minutes after two.

In addition to announcing the results of the game, the sporting editor of the Press will conduct a tabulated box score, which will be operated in full view of the many fans who are anticipating the enjoyment of the Press service. The box score can be accepted as accurate, inasmuch as the General News Service will supply the results.

Fans, be ready. There is plenty of room in front of the Press building and traffic will not necessarily be interfered with. Jack Martin will, in all probability, be on hand to assist the Press staff.

On the GRIDIRON

Dartmouth.

Coach Cavanaugh hustled the Dartmouth squad yesterday. It was the last scrimmage before the Lebanon Valley game on Saturday and he kept the men working hard for more than an hour. The regular backfield was not used in the scrimmages. He confined their work to signal drills and punting.

The line showed a great improvement, but still shows signs of inexperience. This was made evident by its weak defensive work whenever the quarterbacks used other than straight formations.

Syracuse.

The Orange football squad under the tutoring of Coaches Hollenbeck and Horr closed its fourth week of practice. The coaches now have a line on the material and are whipping it into shape for the big games.

The linemen under Coach Horr have shown all that can be expected of them. The backfield situation is rather complicated. From present indications the backfield will be light and will have to depend on speed. Injuries to Williams, the speedy colored halfback and Planck, the big punter, have retarded the development of the backfield.

Mat Brown, a Duluth boy, has shown a decided improvement over last year and is practically assured of a backfield position. Malone, who reported only a few days ago, is proving himself to be a good understudy to Quarterback Meehan, who is suffering from an injured shoulder which has handicapped him.

Captain White has assumed his responsibility as captain and is proving himself to be a very capable leader. His playing is an inspiration to the other members of the team.

Yale.

The Yale football team was given a hard drill today in preparation for the game with Virginia on Saturday. One score was made against the scrubs, Bingham making the touchdown. Hutchinson and Neville took the places of Jacques and Legore, Comerford, who started the Carnegie game, was back at right end.

Captain Black's injuries are such that he may not play against Virginia. It is likely that Avery, a brother of Yale's former end, Ben Avery, will play centre Saturday, as the other candidates for the place are in poor shape.

Fordham.

Daily grinds are now synonymous with football practice at Fordham. Coach Gargan added a half hour to the workout, but eased up on the daily scrimmage. The team is in fine form.

Although the varsity could not cross the scrub goal line, they made a fair showing. The varsity offence consisted almost exclusively of six trick formations to be shown for the first time against Western Maryland tomorrow. The forward pass was in constant use. Dempsey's hurling of the sphere was the best so far.

McNamara reported for practice. His playing at quarterback on the first team showed his ankle has entirely recovered after two weeks on the injured list. He is expected to be in condition tomorrow.

Games Tomorrow.

Yale vs. Virginia.
Dartmouth vs. Lebanon Valley.
Harvard vs. Tufts.
N. Y. U. vs. Rensellaer.
Pennsyvania vs. Franklin and Marshall.
Columbia vs. Hamilton.
Princeton vs. North Carolina.

ABSTAINER COURT FIVE AT NEW BRUNSWICK

Game With Knights of St. Peter Carded for Next Wednesday.

The Tabs' basketball squad held first practice last Tuesday evening and will conduct similar work this evening. Manager Rufus Larew does not favor the newspapers with a large amount of publicity. In fact, he is unusually reticent, although he does admit that the Abstainers will show the Knights of St. Peter a few things next Wednesday evening.

The first game of the Tab season will be played on Wednesday evening on the New Brunswick court. A large delegation of local rooter and followers of the destinies of the Tabs expects to accompany the Plainfield team next Wednesday evening. Benny Rosenson, Frank Wall, Bill Ramsey and Art Kyle are among the most likely candidates for the team.

QUEEN CITY GOLFERS COMPETE AT ARCOLA

J. E. Erickson and F. S. Wheeler Both Play in Invitation Tournament.

Showing up well at medal play as he usually does, Frank W. Dyer, of Montclair, led the field in the eighteen hole qualifying round of the invitation golf tournament at the Arcola Country Club yesterday. His card of 76 was two shots better than Max Marston, of Baltusrol, the only other contestant to get round better than 80.

There were many prominent amateurs present, including Hamilton K. Kerr, of Greenwich and Roy Webb, of Englewood, and their failure to score lower must be attributed to the testing nature of the links. The par for the round is 72.

In the fourth sixteen J. E. Erickson, of this city, finished first, while F. S. Wheeler finished well up in the third sixteen.

PRINCETON CUP MAY GO TO RED AND BLUE

Only Two North Plainfield Lads Have Entered Tournament as Yet.

The Plainfield interscholastic tennis tournament to be held at the Country Cub courts tomorrow is arousing much interest at the City High School, although little has been heard from across the brook. Up to Thursday evening the Red and Blue had eighteen entries, while the borough boys had only two. It is expected that North Plainfield will have several more entered when the match starts tomorrow at 9 o'clock.

In the junior division a close fight is slated between Burnham Carter and Everett Case, who both played on the Red and Blue team last year. As North Plainfield has not entered in this class it seems that Plainfield is positive of one of the cups offered by the Princeton Club of Plainfield. Sidney Dunning is North Plainfield's one best bet in the senior division. With his cannon ball service, he will be one of the hardest men to outplay and without a doubt will give the Plainfield boys a hard fight. Plainfield's best man in this division is Philip Mills, and if he can withstand the test, it will be almost a certainty that the Red and Blue will carry off both prizes. The following were entered up to Thursday at 6 o'clock:

WAGNER'S TWO WIVES.

One Helped Him to Attain Success, the Other to Retain It.

In the case of Wagner we find female influence exerting strong power in some of his compositions.

The uncomplaining devotion of his first wife can scarcely be exaggerated. During the Paris days of poverty she trudged about seeking and obtaining loans for her husband (a Wagnerian loan was practically a gift), she took in lodgers in their humble apartments, she blacked the boots of husband and lodger.

She sewed and washed and drudged, only to be set aside when the days of prosperity came and when she objected to her husband seeking inspiration from the wives of other men. Such inspiration he found in Mathilde Wesendonck, who was the chief factor in bringing forth "Tristan und Isolde."

But the reader should imagine two distinct Wagners, almost a real Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde—Wagner the Little and Wagner the Great.

The latter it was who never forsook his highest ideal in art, who worked a quarter of a century upon a great music drama, "The Ring of the Nibelungs," without the hope of ever seeing it given, and wrote to a friend, "If I live to complete it I shall have lived gloriously, and if I die before it is finished I shall have died for something beautiful."

The second wife of Wagner was Cosima, the daughter of Liszt. Cosima Wagner was a helpmate indeed for her imperative and very erratic husband.

She was his secretary. She stood as the buffer between him and trouble-some ... who smoothed out many a trouble that was caused by Wagner's impolitic and irritating ways, and, next to himself, Wagner loved her as well as anything on earth.—Louis C. Elson in Mother's Magazine.

TORRICELLI'S VACUUM.

Experiment That Led to the Invention of the Barometer.

The barometer was invented by Torricelli, a pupil of Galliei, in 1643. In attempting to pump water from a very deep well near Florence he found that in spite of all his efforts the liquid would not rise higher in the pump stock than thirty-two feet.

This set the young scientist to thinking, and as he could not account for the phenomenon in any other way he was not slow in attributing it to atmospheric pressure. He argued that water would rise in a vacuum only to such a height as would render the downward pressure or weight of the column of water just equal to the atmospheric pressure and, further, that should a heavier fluid be used the height of the column could be much reduced.

To prove this he selected a glass tube four feet long and after sealing one end filled it with mercury and then inverted it in a basin containing a quantity of the same peculiar liquid. The column in the tube quickly fell to a height of nearly thirty inches above the mercury in the basin, leaving in the top of the tube a vacuum which is the most perfect that has ever been obtained and which is to this day called the Torricelli vacuum in honor of its discoverer.

The name of the instrument meant "weight or pressure measure," and its fundamental principles cannot be better illustrated than by the above described experiment.

Got One, Anyhow.

The accused was a beautiful woman. Under the circumstances her examination was purely a matter of form; still legal formalities had to be observed.

"I understand," said the detective, "that during the absence of your husband you shot a burglar?"

"I did," the beautiful lady admitted.

"What became of him?"

"Why, the other burglar took him away."

"Which other burglar?"

"The one I shot at."—New York Times.

The Loveliest Hats in New York in a Sale, Remarkably Low-Priced, $8 to $24

They are made of the finest silk velvets.

Their trimmings are furs, silk flowers, smartly posed wings, soft breasts, chic ornaments.

Sometimes the large sailors are faced with silver cloth or exquisite panne velvet.

New York has not seen their equals for grace of line.

Hardly two are alike, and there are hundreds of them, so that we can imagine no woman who could not find one, two or a dozen flattering modes.

The youthful will like the broad sailors, sometimes jauntily upturned, the odd little student caps, the demure mushrooms with garden flowers, the small tricornes.

Older women will like the beautiful high-draped turbans and larger tricornes and the Valkyrie helmets.

The Ready-to-Wear Millinery Salons will make extra efforts to have plenty of sales-people to help you choose the most becoming.

New Fashionable Winter Apparel for Young Women

Today we shall not talk price. New York young women know what Wanamaker prices are, fair and moderate. But we shall talk beauty and smartness.

If you want an individual suit, coat or dress, one that you will not see duplicated everywhere you go, it is here.

If you want fashions that are the youthful adaptations of Lanvin, Callot, Bernard, Jenny and Cheruit, they are here.

Suits of line and beauty, in velveteens, that are like velvet, wondrous wool velours, satiny fine broadcloths, serviceable gabardines and whipcords in every new shade, usually fur-trimmed, are included under prices $20 to $105.

Luxurious coats, furred most gorgeously, warmly colored, in velveteen, Bolivia cloth, tweed, corduroy, wool velours, $17.50 to $105.

Frocks charmingly youthful, in serge, silk and serge, Georgette crepe and serge, satin, crepe de chine, crepe meteor, charmeuse, and silk and Georgette. Just to show the variety there are 30 models alone at $25. Other dresses, $12.75 to $80. Sizes 14 to 20 years.

Nearly all Little Gray Salons apparel fits without alteration, but when anything needs to be fixed it is promptly and cleverly done.

Second floor, Old Building.

500 Women's Suits in Seven Selected New Styles

We have been weeks preparing for this offering, selecting models, materials, colors, and seeing to the good tailoring of the suits. It is one of the most attractive offerings we have ever made.

Models are adaptations from Cheruit, Lanvin, Bernard, Doucet; plain, practical, tailleurs simples, and trimmed with fur. Materials are rich wool velours, gabardines, broadcloth. Colors are the new Burgundy, damson, taupe, wood-brown, black and navy. The variety embraces all the suit requirements of women at the prices—

$23.50, $25, $28.50, $35, $38.50

$23.50 — Wool velours, after Cheruit; coat cut on lines that cling to the figure, swinging below waistline; finished with rows of tailor buttons at sides; side pockets that button; collar adjustable high or low; tailored skirt with pockets.

$25—Wool velours, after Lanvan, youthful pouch pockets; belt that winds about waist; edging of dyed coney on collar, cuffs and pockets.

$25—Gabardine, after Bernard; lines nipped to waist; attractive slit pockets; new ripple cape collar.

$28.50—Broadcloth, after Doucet; three-quarter length; exquisite lines; deep collar and cuffs; trimmed with dyed coney.

$28.50—Wool velours, after Cheruit; hip length; slightly swinging coat, straight but loose; half belted; trimmed with fluffy taupe-dyed squirrel.

$28.50—Two other models in gabardine, simply tailored, untrimmed.

Other Special Groups

At $35 and $38.50. And behind them, a wonderful new stock of individual suits priced up to $250.

LAY FOOD COST TO WEATHER AND WAR

Chicago Experts Say Nearly All Farm Products Are Short This Season.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 5.—A canvass of some of the largest food dealers in the United States has been made in Chicago in an effort to explain why it costs so much more than a year ago to eat.

The fundamental reason seems to be the perversity of the weather during the year. Next is the war. The high price of butter is almost without exception ascribed to export, but the prevailing high prices of cattle feed contributes a little to it, but that high price, too, is due in some measure to the war. The hot weather of last summer is blamed for the falling off in the egg and poultry supply. Chickens have not regained their health, according to South Water Street experts, and probably they will not for months.

The weather also has suppressed the volume of production of potatoes, onions and cabbages. However, there still is hope of a larger supply of the latter food, because that crop has been very late and should be given three weeks more to mature.

A leading official of Armour & Co. said the European war was the main cause of high food prices.

"Grain is being exported in great quantity," he said. "There has been a crop failure in wheat and corn and the canned goods of the year are short. The farmer is becoming more independent. He will not let go of his wheat and other products any more unless his price is paid. The cost of doing business has increased. Paper bags have increased in price and other things in proportion."

HAS FIVE BULLET WOUNDS; WON'T TELL WHO SHOT HIM

Elizabeth, Oct. 6.—With five bullet wounds in his body and in danger of death, Salvatore Puleo, thirty-two years old, of 608 Third avenue, refuses to tell the police or Union county authorities how he came to be shot.

Puleo is at the Elizabeth General Hospital, where he was taken yesterday after he had rushed into the arms of Patrolman Buckley, at Third and Christine streets. He would not tell who shot him, but later at the hospital muttered something about "two tall men."

The police think Puleo knows who his assailants were but will not divulge the information through fear He is in a semi-conscious condition. His wife and several other persons have been taken into custody as witnesses.

Puleo is a fish dealer. He says that $20 was taken from him by his assailants.

Puleo received three bullets in the back, one in the side and one in the hip.

LINDEN WATER CO. OPPOSED IN FLORANCE POND PROJECT

Trenton, Oct. 6.—Opposition to the application of the Linden Water Company for permission to take water from the Florance Mill Pond for distribution in Linden and Linden township was made by the Elizabethtown Water company and the City of Rahway, at a hearing before the Board of Conservation and Development. The hearing will be continued October 18.

Rahway's opposition was based upon the asuumption that diversion of water would diminish the supply available for Rahway and would increase the pollution of the Rahway River. The Elizabethtown company opposed the application because it serves the territory in which the Linden company proposes to operate. This raised a question as to the adequacy of the service afforded by the Elizabethtown company.

President John Winans, of the Linden Water Company, testified to the inadequacy of the present supply for Linden. Mr. Townley, engineer for the Elizabethtown company, said only one request for water in Linden had not been granted. Other witnesses brought out that the Elizabethtown company is willing to extend its mains provided a guarantee can be obtained respecting the amount of water which will be paid for.

C. McK. Whittemore, of Elizabeth, counsel for the Linden company, sought to prove that Rahway is not confronted by any danger of a water shortage. Theron Wasson, engineer for the Linden company, testified that the granting of the application would not pollute the Rahway River by decreasing its flow. Richard M. Montgomery, of New York, a property owner in Linden township, testified several prospective purchasers of sites for factories had been driven away because of lack of an adequate water supply.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The public speaking work this year will take the same form as last year. Organized societies will be formed, which will be open to both senior and junior boys and girls. Attendance for seniors will be compulsory. One point will be given toward graduation for satisfactory work. The work of the juniors will comprise declamation and debate. There will be inter-society contests and the persons selected in these contests will be the representatives in any contests with outside schools.

The society work will give its members a decided advantage in the alumni prize speaking contest which takes place every year. The societies will also give opportunity for the selection of suitable material for the junior and senior plays. Meetings will be held every two weeks. The first meeting, for purposes of organization, will be held Monday afternoon, October 19, immediately after school.

All those who intend to take gymnasium this year reported to Mr. Hatch in his office for examination. It is compulsory for the three lower classes. For seniors gymnasim work is optional.

The boys who expect to play on the different athletic teams this year were examined by Dr. A. H. Van Horn yesterday morning. Every year there has been some one who failed to pass, but this year every boy who took the examination came through successfully.

Enrollment has begun in the manual arts course, which was started last year. The course consists of the following departments: Architectural drawing, wood work, wood turning, arts and crafts, cooking and sewing. All the work is done in the afternoon with special instructors. It is expected that many will enroll, as the classes of last year were large.

Senior class elections started yesterday afternoon in Room 210. Four boys were examined for president. They were as follows: Horace Bunker, Everett Case, Percy Stelle and Edward Crone. Five ballots were taken but no one received a majority. Another vote will be taken with Case and Bunker as the candidates, the other two being eliminated in the second ballot.

YOU CAN'T GET FLAT FEET BY BEING HIT ON THE HEAD.

Being bumped on the cranial cavity by a hod full of bricks does not necessarily cause a man to become flat footed, according to the ruling of Deputy Compensation Commissioner W. C. Richards at Syracuse, N. Y.

In the case of William La Grange, who claimed compensation for being struck on the head by said hod of bricks, which blow, he declared, caused him to become flat footed, Commissioner Richards was unable to see the connection between the perihelion of one's dome and the extremity of the nether pedals and dismissed the claim.

"The Laocoon."

The famous work "The Laocoon" was modeled by the great artists of Rhodes about A. D. 70. It represents the death of the Trojan hero Laocoon, priest of Neptune, and his two sons, as described by Vergil. It was discovered near Rome in 1506 and purchased by Pope Julius II. It is now in the Vatican. "The Laocoon," like "Hamlet," has provoked a world of comment, but all agree that it is one of the masterpieces of artistic expression.—New York American.

Bands of Ribbon hide the Stitches in this Lace Will O' the Wisp Teagown

A Quilted Sacque with Cap to Match—Both for Breakfast Wear

Quilted Sacques the Latest Wrinkle in Boudoir Wear - Corn Color a Favorite for Peignoir and Teagown - A Pantalet Negligee Astonishingly Charming - Slippers Must Match the Negligee, Stockings Also.

An important item has been added to the negligee wardrobe; one must possess a chaise longue negligee now, in addition to the various peignoirs, dressing sacques, bathrobes and tea gowns which make up the complete list for a woman of fashion. A thousand dollars may easily be spent by the autumn bride for negligee wear alone, if she be so minded; for some of these beautiful things cost a pretty penny indeed. Five hundred francs is really a modest sum to pay for a lounging gown of chiffon and lace, bought in a Paris shop; and when it comes to a tea gown or an elaborate negligee for the chaise longue, there is scarcely any limit to the amount—it all depends on the quality and quantity of lace, lavishly used.

The chaise longue robe is a garment of dreams. It is not quite so formal as the tea gown, though equally elegant and it has an ineffable grace of line that blends with the lines of the figure, stretched reposefully in that most graceful of reposing places—a chaise longue. A belt would spoil the effect entirely; the soft folds of filmy material must sweep downward from shoulder to hem, clinging to the lines of the figure and ending in a froth of lacy petticoat about the feet. The beautiful negligee pictured is from Cheruit and is a triumph of achievement in this type of boudoir costume, possessing a Recamier-like grace, with its garland of roses beneath the bust in the Empire effect and its long lines of chiffon and lace softness. The material is flesh pink chiffon over an under-slip of Georgette in the same shade; the garland of roses is in tearose and flesh tones; the ribbon bands that attach the lace flounces are flesh pink; the flounces creamy tint; and the long scarf of chiffon palest apricot. It would be hard to imagine a lovelier negligee than this, and lucky indeed is the October bride to whose trousseau it belongs.

The Quaint, Quilted Sacque.

Quilting is the very last word in fashion now, and is the successor of smocking which is beginning to be a bit passe. There is a fussy, overdressy suggestion about quilting which marks it as a Victorian revival, though quilted petticoats were worn in Colonial times under looped-up panniers of flowered silk. Smocking was rather difficult of acquirement by unskilled fingers but anybody can do quilting—all one needs is the ability to make tiny, even stitches and a needleful of silk thread. All quilting is done with silk, even on a cotton fabric, for cotton thread would not run smoothly enough in the tiny stitches and a sufficiently fine cotton to make such little stitches would not be strong enough. The quilted sacque in the picture is made of white soiree silk, quilted with white sewing-silk, and sacque and sleeve are in one, the quilting being done straight across the fabric, from selvedge to selvedge before the sacque is cut out. It will be necessary to make a seam down the center back, for the quilting takes up the material and one breadth would scarcely cut back and sleeves in one piece; but the seam at the back will not show in the quilted effect. Do not try to run the tiny stitches in straight rows by the eye, for they will certainly run crooked and the effect will be entirely spoiled. The best way is to do the quilting from the wrong side of the material, first ruling light pencil lines at an even distance apart and following them carefully. Take long threads of silk and run all the lines with tiny stitches, without attempting to gather. When all the stitches have been set the ends of the silk may be drawn up and the gathers stroked lightly to give the quilting a uniform effect.

The sacque is lined with white chiffon and all the edges are finished with braided ribbon. Use for this No. 2 white satin ribbon and three strands will be required to make the braiding. For finishing the sacque and trimming the cap you will need at least twenty yards of the narrow white ribbon. In flesh pink, palest blue or corncolor, this quilted sacque would be equally charming.

Corncolor For The Boudoir.

So many pale yellow negligees are being displayed in the shops nowadays that one wonders if all the boudoirs are being done over in corncolor, daffodil and tulip shades, for of course no woman of sensitive colorsense would dream of wearing a yellow negligee in a rose pink or turquoise boudoir. Yellow is a charming color for the negligee—provided the shade is pale yellow and the wearer's skin has no yellow tints. There are not many women who can wear yellow in garish daylight, though by candlelight the color is becoming to almost everybody. Since the negligee is worn during daylight hours—except when a boudoir is artifically lighted during the day for the sake of the soft effect—one should be very certain that one's corncolored or tulip-tinted negligee does not detract from one's good looks. Pale yellow crepe de chine veiled with lace or embroidered net makes a lovely color-scheme and sometimes the faint yellow tone may be relieved with violet. A tea gown of this sort has violet satin ribbons run through casings in the lace over-slip, the lining being pale daffodil in tone.

Cushions and pillows of the chaise longue are carefully matched to the negligee in which milady takes her siesta. For a background to the delicate pink chiffon gown there are half a dozen pillows of pink satin and cream Renaissance lace; for the pale blue negligee, a set of pillows in embroidered batiste over blue satin. Lavender satin and lace cushions will show off the pale yellow negligee to advantage. These various sets of cushions are kept in a special drawer built into the wall of the closet; or in a box-couch which stands at the foot of the bed, and a maid adjusts milady's cushions when the negligee has been selected. A woman who sets off her vivid brunette coloring with splendid peignoirs of gold-embroidered black satin with panels and trimmings of scarlet silk, has a chaise longue covered with black and gold striped satin, and her cushions are black and gold colored.

A negligee in the fashionable yellow is illustrated today, an orange silk kimono—a type of garment that never goes out of fashion, for the kimono is the ideal lounging gown, no matter what it is made of. The model pictured belongs to the most exclusive type of Japanese kimonos and these negligees are always rather high-priced; the soft silk crepe in orange tone, the lining of flesh pink silk crepe, the beautiful hand embroidery in rose pattern; all contribute to the costliness. Like all genuine Japanese kimonos of handsome quality, this one has the padded hem and the obi which ties around the waist. And unless you want to be very un-Japanese and really shocking in Oriental opinion, I beg of you always tie your kimono sash, or obi, in a crisp bow at the back and never, never knot it in front, girdle fashion. A Japanese lady of high degree would be horrified beyond expression at the girdle arrangement for only women of a certain class in Japan—and that class the very worst—tie the obi in front. Its significance to a Japanese is unmistakable.

All Afrill, This Tea Gown.

Borrowed from late Victorian days of a surety is the frilly negligee with quaint shoulder-bretelles extending in panels over a full skirt. An idea that is distinctly new, is this—new for the 20th century, that is; white muslin "wrappers" with fluted frills arranged in this fashion were very much the thing in the seventies. The tea gown pictured is of white soiree silk and the waist and sleeves are of embroidered net. The bretelles form a deep cape collar at the back, the dainty ruffles running all the way around. Slippers to match, made of shirred silk, has this old-timey but also distinctly modern negligee, lately supplied by Jeanne Mallee for a November trousseau.

Looped Up With A Rosette.

There is nothing exceptional about the pink brocade negligee except that it is looped up in rather a novel manner under a "rose" made of pink velvet ribbon in countless loops. The negligee itself is notably simple—not a thought of trimming on sleeve or neck, and the cut of it no more than an ordinary kimono shape. But in material as rich as this pink brocaded satin, the simplicity of cut makes for extreme grace and distinction, and the looping up of the front under the rosette adds coquetry and chic to an otherwise austerely simple robe. This is a peignoir, taking the same place in the wardrobe as a bathgown or a kimono—or a "wrapper" as my lady of Victorian days used to say—and is not intended for tea hour or for chaise longue wear. The cap of shirred lace has a pleated van dyke frill and a trimming of pink and silver leaves.

Accessories Of The Boudoir.

Fashionable negligee wear has its correct accessories just as tailored wear has—or evening wear. Boudoir petticoats are ravishing affairs, coquettish in the extreme with their layers and tiers of lace flounces, their featherbone hoops, their little fluttering bows and garlands of tiny rosebuds. The filmy sacques of embroidered net, chiffon and lace demand very elaborate petticoats and sometimes sacque and petticoat are designed to match, and great is the price thereof. There are special negligee corsets too, soft girdles of silk mesh to don when one lounges for an hour or two between formal engagements. The well fitted corset would not do for the lounging hour and the figure must not be allowed to "spread" during the hour of repose; therefore the flexible, comfortable girdle or negligee-corset. Slippers and stockings are very important items of boudoir wear. They must match the chaise longue gown or peignoir to a nicety. Mules or slippers of glazed kid in pastel shades are worn with negligees, and as a rule boudoir slippers have moderate heels, the very high Louis heel being not quite so comfortable for lounging hours.

Bleaching Out the Summer Tan

The place where the heaviest coat of summer tan seems to be acquired is in the railway train coming home. No scorching sun, no sea-breezes, no hours spent on tennis court or sailboat seem to have painted one's complexion black so quickly, as the journey from unconventionality to conventionality, from the summer resort where everybody was tanned to the city where pale faced folk are all about one.

The woman who has grown perfectly accustomed to her swarthy complexion in the mirror of the summer boarding house, faces it with horror as depicted in the triple glass over her pink-silk draped dressing-table at home. Seen in its town environment, her complexion is truly "a sight." And how is one ever to get it fair enough again to look right with the smart fall hat and veil; or with the new evening frocks of dainty hue? To be sure the tan will wear away in time, but the time will be several weeks distant. Some coats of tan or freckles do not disappear until long after Christmas, and while a tanned face and neck look quite "in the picture" on a breezy pier out over the water, with sunshine glinting on white yachting togs, the same tan above a pale pink satin evening frock in a candle-lighted room is a vastly different matter. Everything in its place; and the tanned complexion for out-of-doors!

Three things will bleach the complexion of summer tan; staying in the house till the face grows pale, steaming the skin to blanch it, and applying bleaching pastes. The first method is out of the question for the woman who has just come from the world of out-of-doors and feels stifled within four walls. It is surprising how one longs to get out into the sunshine in September and October; the same sort of day in April or May one lazily lounges and reads indoors and reviles the janitor for letting the furnace die down; but that is after a winter of indoor living and the debilitating effect of steam heat.

Cucumber juice will bleach off summer tan right speedily and the bleaching may be helped along with face steaming and massage with cold cream. Never try steaming the skin too frequently—twice in one week is all the average skin can stand without becoming too tender to face the harsh winds and dust it is likely to encounter out-of-doors. Some skins will bear steaming but once a week; and always, some soothing cream should be rubbed in after the process and cold water should be dashed on vigorously in the morning to close the pores and make the skin firm.

Tan And Freckles Must Be Combatted With Plenty Of Cold

There are two ways of steaming the face; with a bowl of hot water and with a hot flat iron covered with a wet cloth. The latter method is illustrated, though for convenience in taking the photograph an unheated iron was used. It would, however, be easier for most women to stand the hot iron, covered with a wet towel, on an ironing stand set on a table, and to sit with the face held close to the steaming vapor. For the water steaming, draw a bowl full of water so hot that the steam rises well from it. Lean over the bowl and draw a large towel over your head and down over the edges of the bowl so that no steam escapes. Stay in this position until the water begins to cool off and manipulate the flesh of the face with the fingertips, pinching it gently all over brow, temples, cheeks and chin; not forgetting the portion around the nose where blackheads gather. As leaning over the steaming bowl for several minutes is apt to be tiring to the back, some women will choose the hot iron and wet towel steaming process.

The moment the face-steaming is over, pat the face lightly with a dry towel to remove the excess of moisture and then apply cold cream liberally, working it in with the fingertips. After this you may go to bed and sleep the sleep of the just. And do not forget the dash of cold water in the morning. After four of these treatments the face should begin to look very fair and clear enough to show color through, like a young girl's complexion; but between steamings do not use powder or any other cosmetic to remove shine; for the heavily powdered and rouged face will never grow milky-fair, no matter how much it is steamed and cold-creamed.

A Bi-Weekly Steaming Will Help In The Bleaching-out Process.

Suppose you steam your face Monday and Thursday nights; then on Wednesday and Sunday nights apply a bleach. Slice cucumbers very thin and lay them between strips of clean, soft linen. Bind one strip across the forehead and another under the chin, covering as much of the cheeks as you can. Then make two little pads in the same way to lay over that part of the face not covered by the strips. You will have to lie on your back for awhile; but by the time you remove the cucumber bleach and go to sleep. In the morning bathe the face with warm water and then with cold water. The cucumber treatment may be applied for an hour during the day, if preferred, while you take your after-luncheon rest.

There is a famous Irish bleach for making the skin lily-fair—a bleach which has as its basis the humble Irish potato. Several famous Irish beauties have used this bleach and have vouched for its beneficial qualities. Boil a good-sized potato in its jacket until quite soft; peel and put the potato on to boil again mashed with a little water. Stir until you have a pulp. This is to be used as a paste, spreading it over the skin and allowing it to dry on. Then the face should be bathed with sweet milk and dusted with powdered cornstarch. It is said that if this bleach will not make the skin white, nothing will. It is worth trying any way.

The forearms may be whitened and rid of their summer tan by a special steaming process. Wrap the arm in a cloth wet with cold water and then hold a very hot iron close to the cloth. Be careful not to burn the skin in this process, but pass the iron back and forth until the towel is almost dry. Then apply cold cream, as after the face steaming, and bind up the arms in strips of old linen for the night.

Freckles are harder to get rid of than tan. Indeed there is only one good way to keep the skin free of freckles—and that is to keep it protected from the sun. The woman with a delicate skin should wear a long-sleeved and high-necked bathing suit and a wide-brimmed bathing hat; and parasols and brown chiffon veils should form a part of the summer out-of-door wardrobe. The moment freckles come on arms, face or back of neck, they should be treated copiously with lemon juice and then cold cream, for once permanently established in the cuticle they will

Steaming The Forearm To Remove

A Comfortable House Dress

Now that the middy-tunic is being worn by middle-age as well as girlhood, and Paris is producing silk "middies" for autumn wear with separate skirts, the middy idea should be incorporated into the house dress. The first requirement of a house dress—the dress into which a busy housekeeper slips in the early morning before she hurries downstairs to get breakfast—is that it shall be easy to put on. A house dress that fits so trimly that it demands a carefully laced corset is no house dress for a busy housewife. Most women wear their corsets very loose early in the morning, drawing them in later, when the figure seems to have grown slimmer or the corset has better adjusted itself. Many a neat and pretty house dress has been discarded after the first laundering because the belt has shrunk so that only over trimly laced corsets will the waistline come together in front. Here is where the useful middy style comes in.

The middy slips on over the head and never shrinks at the waistline. Tucked under the skirt-belt and trimly belted with a stitched band of the material, it is always shipshape and presentable, no matter how loosely the clothing is worn beneath it. Blue linen makes an attractive house dress of this style. The collar may have a knotted black silk tie and the skirt may be smartly cut in circular gore style with an attached belt of the material.

YOUR LAMP SHADE A FULL BLOWN ROSE.

The latest absurdity in boudoir furnishings is the rose bush lamp which is so bizarre and novel that one may pay forty good dollars for it and be in the very van of the mode—if one fancies such things. The base of the lamp is hand-carved and painted in old ivory to represent an earthen flower pot. From this rises the metal standard of green metal with sprouting green leaves and red rosebuds—all cleverly intertwined with the central stem or standard. Presumably the lampshade of pink silk represents the full blown rose at the top of the long stem; but since the "rose" is twice the size of the flowerpot below the imagination must strain itself somewhat to accept the effect. The whole lamp stands 29 inches high and is intended for a boudoir or a draw-

JOHN HARRY BUNNY'S HIND LEG WAS LOOSE.

Two little brothers, one carrying a rabbit in a basket, wandered into the dispensary of the Paterson (N. J.) General hospital the other day.

They had walked a long way with their little pet, whose leg had been broken by a dog. They showed the little victim to Dr. John Van Winkle, house surgeon.

"Please, mister," said the elder of the two, "fix our bunny. His hind leg is loose."

The doctor smiled and laid the rabbit on the operating table. Gravely he reset the broken leg and while the boys stared in wonderment bound it in a plaster cast.

The registry book now shows this strange notation:

Name, John Harry Bunny, pet, aged three weeks; case, broken right hind leg; referred outdoor patient department.

CAVALRY GUARD OF HONOR FOR PRESIDENT

War Department May Organize Escort to Be Used on State Occasions.

The formation of a special squadron of cavalry to serve as an escort for the president and to be designated as "The President's Own" is being strongly urged in Washington. Brigadier General William E. Harvey, who is in command of the national guard of the District of Columbia, now in camp at Radio, Va., has taken up the matter with the war department. His idea is that the squadron be composed of men attending colleges in Washington, business men and young men without special affiliations who can meet the requirements.

The object of the movement is to give the president a suitable escort for state occasions, to give young men physical training and to enlarge the cavalry arm of the District of Columbia national guard. The plans call for a squadron of four troops, the first of which would be the present Troop A of the District national guard, commanded by Captain James H. Washburn. A new Troop B is now being formed, to be commanded by Captain Edward M. Nevils. Troop B would be the business and professional men's troop and would consist of members of the Commercial, Columbia Country, National Press, Chevy Chase, University and Washington Riding and Hunt clubs. Troop C would consist entirely of college men, and Troop D would consist of young men without any special affiliations.

TEETH TRADED FOR MIND.

Woman's Mental Faculties Restored by Dental Operation.

Cured through the extraction of all her teeth Mrs. Lloyd Warfield of Spencertown, N. Y., is likely to become of considerable interest to medical men and alienists.

Early last February she showed evidences of mental depression. Her condition rapidly grew worse and soon she was unable to attend to her household duties or care for her children, a girl of nine and a boy of two years.

She failed to improve in a Troy sanitarium, and her husband was considering sending her to the state hospital at Poughkeepsie when the family physician suggested that as a last resort all her teeth be drawn.

When the teeth were extracted it was discovered that several molars had ulcers at the roots. No sooner had Mrs. Warfield stepped from the dentist's chair than her full mental faculties returned. Her children, who had been sent to a relative at Martindale N. Y., returned at once and a joyous family reunion followed.

PROFIT IN GUINEA PIGS.

Indiana Boy Raises Them For Experimental Clinics.

Carl Weiss, fourteen, son of Otto Weiss, a contractor, of Evansville, Ind., has proved that raising guinea pigs for experimental clinics is profitable. Weiss has a guinea pig farm in the rear yard of his home.

Weiss operates his farm on a systematic basis. Everything is kept clean and sanitary, and the pigs are housed in boxes with plenty of ventilation.

In addition to being the caretaker and breeder of the animals, Weiss acts as crater, shipper and carpenter, and when he gets an order for pigs he makes his own boxes for shipment. Before he began to raise guinea pigs he was a chicken fancier and had many prize game fowl.

Kansas Town Being Moved.

The town of Victor, Kan., is moving seven miles to Hunter. In long caravans wagons and trucks are transporting one town to the other. Victor has been defeated in its fight with Hunter for the Salina Northeastern railroad. So, after admitting it had been beaten Victor has decided to get on the railroad line. The bank has already been moved overland into Hunter, and the elevator and several business enterprises, with residents and employees, will follow.

PREPAREDNESS.

Look ahead and try to arm against all dangers. Hope nothing from luck and the probability is that you will be so prepared, forewarned and forearmed that all shallow observers will call you lucky.—Bulwer-Lytton.

CANDIDATES BUSY ON COLUMBUS DAY

Political Oratory on Anniversary of America's Discovery.

WILSON AT INDIANAPOLIS

Legal Holiday Will Be Observed In Many States on Four Hundred and Twenty-fourth Anniversary of Discovery of America—Civic Preparations to Honor Columbus.

Columbus day, Oct. 12, has been set aside so that Americans may pay tribute to the memory of the man who discovered this vast continent 424 years ago. This year, however, political candidates throughout the country will appropriate the day and make it an especial occasion to present their various views and claims before the voters. In all of the thirty-three states in which Columbus day is celebrated as a legal holiday political orators have announced their intention of addressing the people, and so campaigning will be the general feature of the holiday this year.

The city of Boston has probably gone further this year to prepare for a municipal celebration than any other. Mayor Curley and the committee of the Citizens' Public Celebration association have made elaborate arrangements for patriotic and memorial observances, and prominent men have been invited to speak. The program includes a flag raising and military ceremonies on Boston common; a commemoration meeting, at which Mayor Curley will preside; an amateur athletic meet and a public band concert, with singing in which several hundred children and their elders will take part.

President Wilson to Speak.

Similar arrangements for celebrations have been made in many towns throughout the country. Prominent among the celebrants will be the Italians, who annually pay marked tribute to their illustrious countryman.

President Wilson's part in the celebration will be a nonpolitical address to be delivered at Indianapolis, where a "better highways" meeting is to be held in connection with the celebration of Indiana's centennial. One of the features of the combined centennial-Columbus day celebration will be a monster parade. In the evening the president may address another meeting, upon which occasion he is expected to deliver an important campaign speech.

Monuments to Discoverer

Before the exposition at Chicago was under way in 1893 the Italian societies of New York city had the Columbus shaft at the intersection of five thoroughfares in New York city ready for unveiling. It was unveiled in the presence of President Benjamin Harrison and his cabinet on Oct. 12, 1892.

There is another statue of Columbus in Central park, New York city, a gift from Mrs. Marshall O. Roberts; St. Louis has one, the gift of Henry Shaw; the one in Boston was presented by Joseph Iasigi; there is one in Sacramento, presented by D. O. Mills, and that in Fairmount park, Philadelphia, was given by the Italian residents of that city.

Where He First Landed.

There is a monument to him on Watling island, supposed to be the first place in the West Indies where he landed on his voyage of 1492. This monument was erected in 1891 by the New York Herald. One of the most artistic monuments to the discoverer stands in the City of Mexico. It is surmounted by a statue of Columbus. The whole work is that of the French sculptor Cordier.

Quick Action.

A father remonstrated with his son, an Oxford undergraduate, for wasting his time in writing for local papers, and cited Dr. Johnson as saying that a man who wrote except for money was a fool.

The son wrote back immediately: "I shall follow Dr. Johnson's advice and write for money. Please send me £20."—London Telegraph.

W. M. CALDER, NEW YORK'S REPUBLICAN SENATORIAL NOMINEE, HAS SERVED TEN YEARS IN CONGRESS

Defeated Two Years Ago In Primary Contest For Nomination as United States Senator. He Has Pledge of Support From Robert Bacon, His Late Opponent

AMONG his friends William M. Calder, who recently was nominated for a seat in the United States senate by the Republicans of New York, is known as a "first class campaigner, a modest winner and a good loser."

In his home town, Brooklyn, Mr. Calder is always sure of a large personal vote. But the personal popularity of the man who expects support outside of his party is by no means confined to Brooklyn. It extends to every part of the state.

The nominee was born in South Brooklyn forty-seven years ago. At that time that part of the old city and young borough was almost a wilderness. But Mr. Calder's father determined to make South Brooklyn the family home, as his father before him had done.

The nominee was educated in the public schools of Brooklyn and in Cooper institute. A wide range of reading supplemented the information he obtained in these institutions. He has been heard many times to say that the public school is among America's greatest blessings.

Begins Public Career.

Mr. Calder began his public career when he was appointed commissioner of buildings during the nonpartisan administration of the late Mayor Seth Low. He served the city with fidelity and ability.

He retired from that office to make the race for congress from the Sixth congressional district. He entered the lower house of the national legislature in 1905, being elected the preceding November. By his genial manners, by the modest though confident way in which he approached his duties at Washington, Mr. Calder soon made substantial friends among members of both parties and served on important committees.

In 1910 he was the only Republican to be elected to congress from Greater New York, and in 1912 he was the lone "delegation" of his party from the greater city. The following story, which is fully vouched for, illustrates how keenly the Brooklyn statesman enjoys a joke even at his own or his party's expense:

After the congress elected in 1910 was called into session Mr. Calder paid a visit to the White House. He was one of President Taft's intimate friends as well as his loyal political supporter. On the occasion of this visit he approached the genial executive, extended his hand and said:

He Was the "Delegation."

"Mr. President, I have come to present the Republican delegation to the lower house from Greater New York."

"I will be most happy to receive the delegation from Greater New York. Please ask the gentlemen to come in and be seated," responded Mr. Taft warmly.

"All the delegation is here, and I have the honor to be it," said Mr. Calder. They both laughed heartily over this.

It was to some extent because he was known as the state wide congressman that Mr. Calder managed to cultivate so large an acquaintance outside of his own district. This acquaintance proved of the highest value to him when he sought the nomination for United States senator against Senator Wadsworth and David Jayne Hill two years ago. In that campaign he was not the choice of the so called organization. Mr. Wadsworth was fortunate enough to command this support.

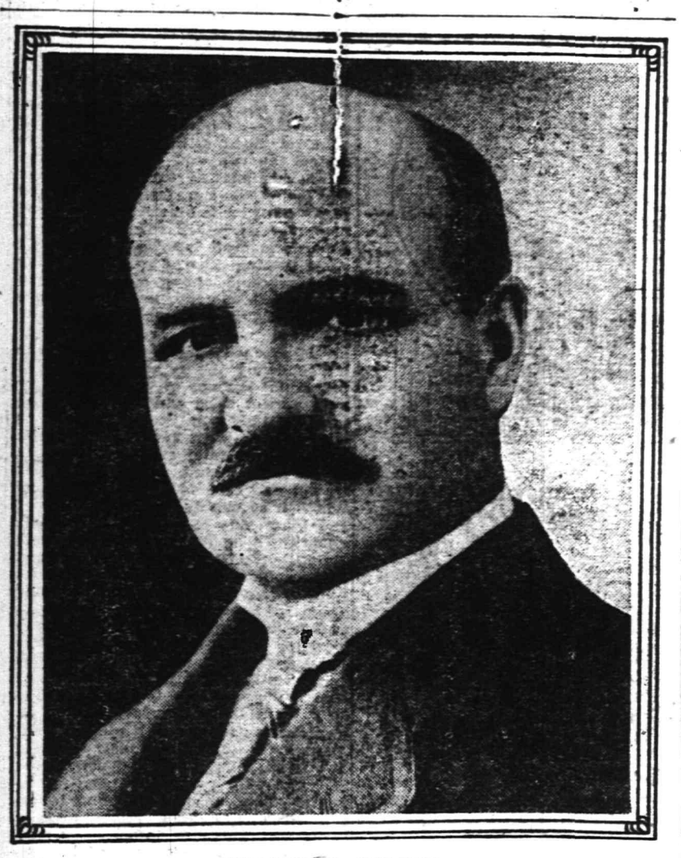
Mr. Calder's own organization was a fragmentary collection of friends from every part of the state, personally devoted to him, but because of their lack of general cohesion unable to present a solid front during the progress of the fight. They did all that could possibly be done, and when the votes were counted it was found that the candidate had lost by about 5,000.

A Good Looser Too.

The outcome of this contest gave Mr. Calder an opportunity to display his sportsmanlike instincts. Before the judges of election had completed their count he had dispatched a note to Senator Wadsworth congratulating him on his nomination and pledging him his support. He redeemed this promise by filling all the speaking dates of the brilliant young statesman while Mr. Wadsworth was confined to his home through illness.

Mr. Calder said his opponent for the nomination, Robert Bacon, had adopted precisely the course which he himself followed after his defeat by Senator Wadsworth.

"Mr. Bacon has assured me of his hearty and undivided support," said Mr. Calder. "This is exactly the course I would have followed had he, instead of myself, been the choice of the party for this nomination."



WILLIAM M. CALDER.

Well Fitted For Duties.

It is contended by the friends of Mr. Calder that his ten years' service in congress fits him for the higher duties in the upper house. The tradition which requires that a senatorial "rookie" wait two years before making his maiden speech, they point out, will not apply to the probable new senator from New York. He already knows, they say, all or almost all that is to be known about Washington and its environments and is thoroughly equipped for effective and immediate service.

Discussing his candidacy for the United States senate, Mr. Calder modestly said:

"The only thing that worries me in connection with this effort of my friends to place me in the United States senate is an acute consciousness of my own limitations. Some citizens regard a seat in the United States senate as a personal perquisite. But in reality it is an asset belonging to all the people. To the man who occupies it an opportunity for service to his state and nation is given."

Mr. Calder was asked if he thought the method of electing United States senators by direct vote of the people was likely to result in the intellectual deterioration of that body.

"Decidedly not," was his emphatic rejoinder. "The people can always be trusted. If they make mistakes they have the power to correct them.

"Lincoln said you could always trust the people, and that is as true now as when the martyred president gave expression to that sentiment. The people in the mass are honest. Leaders sometimes betray the people, but the people never betray worthy leaders."

Do You Want a "Guest-Tenant?"

When you rent a room of your home to someone, you secure a "guest-tenant." Your "roomer" is a guest of your house, on a business basis—but still a guest, somewhat in touch with your home, and this makes it highly important that the person should be of the right sort.

In advertising a furnished room it is a simple matter to indicate that the tenant-to-be must have reasonably convincing credentials as to character. You will thus have applications from a desirable class of people while a door sign or window card would merely bring to you the chance passer-by.

LOST FREIGHT CARS

Tracing Them Is Often a Hard Job For the Railroads.

HIDE AWAY LIKE CRIMINALS.

One of These Runaways, That Holds the Truancy Record, Was Visiting Around For Two Years and Had Been In Nearly All of Our Big Cities.

At times when the scarcity of freight cars causes the railroads to place an embargo upon certain classes of goods the problem of keeping track of its cars to see that they do not run away and become wanderers upon the face of the earth is a stupendous one for each company.

Before the National Association of Car Accountants was formed and there was no close traffic arrangement between the various railroad systems respecting the control of freight cars it was a common thing for some erratic unit to travel ten or fifteen thousand miles before it returned to its starting point. There is the record of one runaway car that was away from home for nearly two years, and in that time it traveled a trifle over 20,000 miles, visiting nearly all the principal cities of the United States.

In all that time a car tracer from the company which owned it was on its track, but it eluded him constantly until it was finally run down and sent back home from a remote region in Texas. When it left the home sheds it was a bright new car; when it returned it was battered and old—so travel stained that its own maker could hardly recognize it. It holds the prize record for truancy among freight cars.

Traffic conditions have been greatly improved since those days, and railway companies detaining a car belonging to another company are penalized by a fine. The agreement is that when a car is received from another railroad it shall be immediately unloaded and returned to its owner. But in time of a general car famine not all of the railroads obey this rule. Because there is more profit in using the car, even though a daily fine is exacted for its unlawful detention, some railways keep it for weeks or even months for its own traffic, returning it only after the congestion has lessened. The small connecting railroads are often the greatest offenders in this respect in times such as the present, when traffic congestion is more than usually abnormal.

When a freight car is built it is given a number before it leaves the shop, and thereafter it is always known by that number until it is worn out and scrapped. When a new car receives its number and starts out upon its business career it is entered in the record book, and a careful account of its wanderings and earning powers is kept there. This record book is a history of the car, and by consulting it one can learn how many trips it has made, what cities it has visited, how many times it has been to the repair shop and also where it is supposed to be at any given time.

But in spite of all this care in keeping a record of each car, now and then, for some unexplained reason, one disappears from sight, literally running away. Some of the big companies employ car tracers, but as a rule a printed tracer is first sent after the car to bring it back home. This printed tracer, in a blue envelope, is sent to the person in whose jurisdiction the car was last supposed to be, and if it has passed out of his district the tracer is sent on to the next one to whom the car was consigned. This little printed tracer failing to bring the car home in a reasonable length of time a man known as a tracer is sent after it. The tracer is really a railroad car detective.

And sometimes it is more difficult to track a runaway freight car than a criminal. There are tens of thousands of miles of railways and hundreds of thousands of freight cars, and to find one carrying a certain number is often like hunting for the needle in the haystack. The tracer may arrive in a city where the runaway is supposed to be at the very moment when the car is leaving it in the opposite direction. It may cross his track on a parallel line or dodge around him on a short line. It may be headed south while he is traveling north or rolling merrily toward the Atlantic.

A runaway car apparently is as depraved as any criminal. It hides on a lonely siding or gets lost in a short swamp line. One such runaway rested nearly a year on a siding in southern Texas simply because it got lost, and no one seemed to know just what to do with it. In the course of time it was occupied by a family of squatters, who lived quite comfortably in it for six months and were routed out only when, quite by accident, the car tracer discovered it.—Popular Mechanics.

Gilbert and Punch.

When the late W. S. Gilbert wrote "The Yarn of the Nancy Bell" he sent it to London Punch, but the editor returned it as being too bloodthirsty, for it will be remembered that "the elderly naval man" had practically eaten all of the Nancy's crew except himself, whereupon Gilbert sent the ballad to Fun, which accepted it with delight. Gilbert never forgave the insult he considered he had received from the editor of Punch and consistently refused to contribute to its pages up to the time of his death.—London Opinion.

There is no utter failure in trying to do what is good.

Making Love.

A girl of seventeen once asked a grass widow:

"When a man makes love to a girl, is it a sign he wants to marry her?"

"Yes, my child," the grass widow answered grimly, "and when he stops making love to her, it is usually a sign that the marriage has taken place."—Detroit Free Press.

Pelisse and Pelerine of Fur Daintify the Formal Costume - The Evening Wrap of Snow White Peltry - Mole a Fashionable Fur - Seal and Mole a Novel Combination.

WINTER furs used to mean one good set of muff and scarf, selected to harmonize with the tailored street suit; and one chose with much consideration for at least two winters' wear. The woman of fashion new requires four or five sets of furs for morning, afternoon and evening wear, for every costume must be suitably matched with fur and it would never do to let one's dear five hundred friends and critics see one day after day in the same old furs. Quite as poverty stricken that would be as an appearance in the same pair of boots, no matter what the costume.

There must be ermine or white fox for the evening; a dainty wrap or scarf of mole or beaver for restaurant wear over light frocks; a handsome muff and neckpiece of fox, mole or seal to accompany the calling costume of velvet; and one or two sets of "ordinary furs"—mink, marten, raccoon or pointed fox, elegant and distinguished in quality but not conspicuous in color or shape, for wear with dark street costumes. A thousand dollars is little enough to set aside for winter furs, these days, if one hopes to present a creditable appearance on all occasions. Even at that, one will have to economize a bit on the evening wrap, eking out its distinction with brocaded satin or corded chiffon and putting the money into a rich border trimming of fox.

Fashions In Furs Are Evanescent.

Fortunately for most of us, furs may be made over and over, for fur fashions are as changeable as all other fashions. The making over is expensive, for only an expert can handle fur properly; and home-made fur trimming is nearly always hopelessly bad style. It pays in the end to buy only the very best pelts; these, redressed and matched to new, and reshaped in modern style, will endure through many seasons, whereas the cheap fur soon loses its nap and its luster and is almost hopeless for use a second season. This is particularly true of the short-napped pelts like mole, seal and beaver. Seal is extremely fashionable this season as a trimming fur and for small, smart wraps, as well as for long coats. The best Hudson seal is the only possible kind for trimming purposes and for dressy little wraps. Nearseal coats look rather well for a while—half way through the season any way, but the fur must be frequently redressed as the somewhat shaggy nap soon becomes dust-filled and matted. Nearseal is really dyed muskrat, a rather coarse fur which is not expensive. A nearseal coat always looks surprisingly well after being caught out in a snow storm, and this is because the dust has been washed out of the nap by wetness and vigorous shaking given to the garment prior to its drying has dislodged the matted nap, making it spring up to new luster and freshness. If you own a nearseal coat or cape, treat it now and then to a light sponge-bath given with a whisk-broom dipped in cold water. Then hang the coat (on a garment-hanger) to dry in a cold place, out of the sunlight, and shake briskly every fifteen minutes. You will be surprised at its darker, sleeker, newer look.

The Postillon Cape Of Seal.

A dashing fur set for this season's wear, combines cape, muff and hat of sealskin with a narrow border trimming of beaver. It is called the postillon set because cape and cap imitate a cape collar and hat worn by coach drivers in the bygone days when stagecoaches formed the only means of conveyance for getting from place to place. The deep cape, falling to the elbows, outlines the shoulders and arms and has a choker collar that swathes the throat. The cap is a three-cornered affair of seal with a very narrow edge of beaver and a smart, cockade of black ribbon. The muff is of seal in the new shape, plump and perfectly round and soft.

Skating sets of fur are sure to be popular, for the models now ready for the soon-to-be skating season are irresistibly fetching. Civet and leopard are favorite pelts for these sets, having the conspicuous marking that lends a sporty suggestion and accord well with dashing sport toggery. The saucy skating cap and collar of civet and scarlet velvet, pictured today, are typical of this mode. The collar and crown of the cap are of bright red velvet and the bow of civet on the collar points up rakishly to meet the cap, fur tassels on the cap dangling down to meet the collar on the opposite side. There is a round muff of civet lined with scarlet silk, to match the cap and collar. Leopard is another skating fur high in favor and one of the smartest sets displayed thus early combines leopard and bright green velvet. This set of cap, collar and muff will be worn with a short skating skirt of green and white plaid worsted above laced boots of white washable kid, and a decidedly smart skating coat made of the new material, pontine, in bright green shade stitched heavily with black silk and showing the reverse side of the fabric in facings of black satin on cuff, pocket flaps and the like. This new pontine will be much used in combination with fur for all winter sports. The outer side of the fabric, waxed and glazed, is as impervious to wet and cold as is the soft leather which it so closely approximates; and the inner side of silk, satin or cloth constitutes a smoothly fitting self-lining. White pontine skating coats have collars and cuffs of white fox and rows of silk stitching in color, the color appearing somewhere else in the costume—perhaps in a velvet cap, perhaps in the silk stockings. The skating fad gives the winter girl wide opportunity for picturesque costume and she is preparing to make the most of it while the season lasts.

A skating set of seal is pictured, and though the cap is obviously intended for sport wear, muff and collar may be worn with a formal afternoon costume. The cap with its long toboggan crown of pink velvet and its swinging pink silk tassel is exceedingly picturesque and youthful.

Mole And Ermine Spell Formality.

Ermine is the most formal fur in the world. It is considered very bad taste to wear ermine with an ordinary street costume and this beautiful fur of royal degree is never seen in the morning—on women who are well informed about ethics of dress. Many of the little fur wraps of mole and seal for formal afternoon wear are trimmed with ermine in dainty fashion and such a wrap is pictured, a charming little pelerine of moleskin with a facing of ermine around the top that forms itself into a rolled over collar. The muff is small and round with bands of ermine over shirred ends of mole colored velvet. This dainty fur wrap and muff accompany a frock of catawba broadcloth and the small velvet turban is in a deeper shade of reddish violet. White gloves and boots of white washable kid complete the costume.

Equally charming is another set of mole and ermine for afternoon wear. In this instance there is a long scarf of the mole which drapes around the shoulders with a turned back collar of ermine, the scarf-ends, lined with white satin, falling well below the knee. The muff is square rather than round and combines mole and ermine. This set, for an October bride, matches a frock of mole colored faille matinee silk, and the frock—like most frocks of high degree—claims its own pair of boots, pretty affairs of gray glazed kid with white buttoned tops. In the same trousseau is a scarf of fitch, all paws and brushes which trail over a green velvet coat and skirt when the long scarf is tossed over the shoulder. The small muff to match is trimmed with brushes, also. Not sufficiently provided with two fur sets of such distinguished quality, this bride-to-be has also a pelisse of sealskin with a muff to match, both trimmed with beaver. The pelisse is shaped like a deep shoulder-cape with long stole ends at the front which fall over the skirt. The muff which invariably accompanies such a wrap is useful in two ways; its elegance adds to the elegance of the wrap, and the muff may be held against the straight wrap to give a more graceful line to the figure. This is true also of the muff and the loose, ripple fur coat. The figure looks much slimmer and less bulky when a muff holds in the lines of the garment at the front.

Mink A Modish Trimming Fur.

Mink is very fashionable—if you wear genuine mink. Fashion frowns upon all imitations in this fur particularly, and the genuine mink, rich textured and dark in shade is rather costly. It is a much more beautiful fur than kolinsky, the Russian mink, and always has a distinguished suggestion when used as a trimming fur on a frock of velvet or broadcloth. A trousseau gown for a November bride is of pale yellow broadcloth with a deep band of mink around the long tunic, and a deep collar of mink with closely set tails, at the back of the bodice. Another mink-trimmed costume of distinction is of apricot broadcloth, with bands of the fur on skirt, tunic, sleeve and belt. A fur-trimmed belt does sound rather bulky in suggestion, I admit, but the belt is wide, and closely stitched in rows with self-toned silk and the band of fur runs narrowly through the center. Under this trim belt is a foundation of featherbone girdelin which makes the waist look smaller than anything I know of.

Fur And Feathers.

A particularly pretty combination for afternoon wear is silver fox and shaded gray ostrich; no mere print can do justice to the lovely softness and fluffiness of this delicate combination of plumage and peltry, though one of today's photographs tries to show you how smart a hat and neckpiece of this type may be. Silver gray fox is used with blended gray and white ostrich and the sailor hat is faced with dark gray velvet. Its top—of gray faille silk is almost completely hidden by the trimming of fur and ostrich. Rose fox has been combined with ostrich of the same shade in similar effect, and cross-fox with pale tan ostrich; but one feels sure that the shaded gray effect is the most beautiful.

Two delectable fur wraps for evening wear are pictured, and it would be hard to choose between them indeed, for both are so rich and so graceful. The ermine cape has a more tailored style with its severe lines and straight, high collar, a style which harmonizes with the sailor hat for restaurant wear and the long-sleeved frock of pale blue chiffon and silver lace. Quite properly, a round muff matches this tailored ermine cape. For a fluffy dance costume is the pelisse of ermine and white fox. The little cape points downward at the back over the net and lace skirt and at the front, loose ties of white satin keep the cape on the shoulders while leaving the neck bare. No muff accompanies this evening wrap, and the white feather fan is more in keeping with its character of a "between-dances" wrap.

These dainty fur wraps for the evening are daintily lined and some of them show hand embroidered roses, bead ornaments and border trimmings of gold lace on the soft lining of tinted soiree silk or satin. And nearly always there is a little pocket for milady's kerchief and vanity box.

EVENING COIFFURES MOST FORMAL

THE "grande toilette" demands a mode of coiffure equally formal, elegant and perfect. The arrangement of the hair must carry out the effect of finished daintiness conveyed by the evening costume; and though a rigid, over-dressed coiffure, entirely in contrast to the daily manner of doing the hair is to be avoided, there should certainly be a greater formality in the arrangement of the locks than the everyday manner shows.

"What shall I wear?" is the first question that springs to the feminine mind when an invitation of importance is received in the morning's mail. And forthwith there are plannings and contrivings, shopping expeditions and hours at the dressmaker's. Finally the gown in all its glory, supplemented by fan, lace petticoat and dainty slippers, is laid out in readiness for the festivity. But how much preparation is spent on the coiffure? The hair may be shampooed, indeed, before the party, to lend it fluffiness, and twenty minutes instead of five are spent in "doing it up." Fortunate it is if its owner has not tortured it into unaccustomed frizzes with curling iron or metal curlers so that its changed line around brow and temples destroys the individuality of her face. Middle aged women in superb gowns and meager coiffures utterly lacking in distinction are a common sight at every evening gathering—women who spend small fortunes on their silks and laces, their furs, their made-to-order corsets, upon the preservation of their teeth. It does seem a pity.

If women would only realize that beautifully cared for and arranged hair can make of an otherwise unnoticeable and rather commonplace individual a personality! If they would but realize the beauty value of the coiffure, a far greater value in the making of attractiveness than handsome clothes or a perfect figure! And guished coiffure—if she is willing to give to the matter sufficient money or time. It is possible these days to match thin locks so perfectly with artificial tresses that any difference in shade or quality of hair is undis-fancy artificial aid in this respect, there are ways of arranging the thin tresses—modish ways too!—so that every hair, so to speak, is made the most of.

Shampooed To Make It Soft, Marcelled To Give It A Pretty Wave And Then Brushed To Satiny Luster Must Her Hair Be For The Evening Coiffure.

Washing and crimping the hair the day of the party is not enough to give the coiffure modish distinction. In fact it is always a mistake to shampoo the hair immediately before building a formal coiffure. Even a professional coiffeuse "can never do anything with" just-washed hair, and the beautifully built arrangement will slip and sag before the evening is over because of the softness and unmanageableness of the locks. Wash the hair the day before the party and have it waved next morning, so that the first rigidity of the waves will be out by evening and the effect will be softer and more natural.

Naturally dry hair should not be shampooed oftener than once a month; oily hair may be washed once a fortnight or even once a week. Every night give the hair "a hundred strokes" with the brush, to make it live and lustrous. Brush twenty-five strokes to the right, twenty-five to the left, twenty-five straight back from the brow to the ends of the hair; then bending over with the head hanging forward, give twenty-five strokes from nape of neck to the ends of the hair. After the brushing shake the hair back into place and massage lightly with the finger-tips, pushing the hair up from the roots. You will be surprised to find how much more beautiful and how much more manageable your hair is after a month of the "hundred strokes" at night. Each separate hair stands up with a life and a luster unknown to unbrushed tresses that cling dankly to each other.

It is easy to perfume the hair during the brushing process. One of the fascinations that a finished coquette never overlooks is subtly perfumed hair. The faintest suggestion of violet and orris should be used, for the perfume must not be heavy or overpowering or all the fascination will be lost. Sprinkle the violet and orris powder over the hair before the "hundred strokes" which will brush out all traces of the powder, leaving only the impalpable fragrance.

The close-to-the-head coiffure of the moment demands softly waved hair and if the locks are not naturally wavy it will be well to have them marcelled once a fortnight. The marcel wave when well done, lasts about two weeks in cool weather when there is no humidity and the head does not perspire. For a night or two after the wave has been made sleep with a mesh veil tied over the head so that the marcel may not be crushed out against the pillow. Both coiffures pictured show the fashionable close arrangement which reveals the contour of the head and is not at all puffed out at the sides, though the hair, in both cases, covers the ear almost entirely. In both cases also, the wavy locks are swept across the forehead in a soft pompadour effect and a little artificial "fringe" attached with invisible hairpins, shades the forehead.

In the undecorated coiffure, the waved hair is drawn down and back to the nape of the neck and pinned; then the ends are twisted and brought up to the crown where they are spread out to cover a small cushion of artificial hair which builds up the coiffure at the back. You will note that the ends of the hair, usually coiled out of sight, have been made to do their part in this charming coiffure, the only artificial aid being the small cushion on the crown of the head. The other hairdressing has a flat, coiled knot below the crown at the back and over this is clasped the band of paillette embroidered gold tissue from which springs a double aigrette of split ostrich.

METHOD IN UNPACKING

MUCH advice is offered anent packing the vacation trunk; but nothing is ever said about unpacking the same—a dreary job enough, to be sure, after all the fun is over and one returns to the dull routine again. When home is a small apartment, or a single room in hotel or boarding house, it is of first importance to get the incoming trunks unpacked and into the store-room as speedily as possible; for the sooner one is settled, tidily and cosily, the less will homesickness for vacation-land depress one. The average woman unpacks a trunk with no method at all. Clothes, soiled and clean are spread over chairs and bed, to be sorted later, books are piled on the floor; countless trips are made to dresser, wardrobe and bath room with small belongings, and chaos reigns in the room for hours. A trunk may be emptied and hurried off to the store-room and its contents tidily disposed of all within half an hour if one proceeds with method and system. Have the soiled clothes hamper on one side, the waste-paper basket on the other to receive crushed tissue papers taken from garments and belongings. Place the articles for the dresser in one pile, those for the bath room in another; the shoes by themselves. Carry the hats to their resting place as you take them out; hang garments up in the window so that the air will remove wrinkles. Put underclothes in a dresser drawer, waists in another, veils, gloves, etc., in another. After the room is cleared and the trunk banished, the small belongings in their various drawers may be sorted leisurely.

LETTERS FROM THE TRAVELER

A POOR excuse is better than none, but the traveler provided with one of the new writing cases, compact enough to carry in his vest pocket, will have positively no excuse at all for not sending frequent messages to the home people. These handy little cases are of colored morocco, lined daintily with silk. They fold into a five by four and a half inch space and contain combination paper and envelopes, blotting pad, leather-bound address and memo books and pencil. A fountain pen slipped into the pencil holder will make the outfit complete, all ready for a hasty line anywhere—in the train, in the hotel smoking room or while the traveler is waiting for something or somebody. More complete still is a writing case to be carried in the trunk. This measures twelve by six inches folded and is of morocco leather fitted with paper, envelopes, blotter, envelope opener, safety inkwell and compartment for pens, pencils and penknife.

LONE WHITE WOMAN LEADS SAVAGES AGAINST BRITISH

Thrilling Stories Told of Wild Life of German Official's Wife Who Seeks Revenge.

There has appeared in the Kilimanjaro region a German woman warrior, who is leading a force of native troops without the assistance of any other European, says a dispatch from Cape Town, South Africa.

Near the Mountains of the Moon this desperate woman is waging a guerrilla warfare against the allied forces, and thrilling stories are told of the strange, wild life which she and her black followers lead.

The native story is that she is the widow of a German commandant who was killed in the fight which took place at Longido on Sept. 25, 1914. She was so grief stricken over the death of her husband that she openly declared her desire to be revenged.

The natives, who spoke of her as a mad woman, said that her anger was particularly concentrated against the King's African rifles, in a skirmish with which force her husband had been slightly wounded, and the East African mounted rifles.

In the early days of the East African campaign, before and even after the arrival of the Indian troops in November, 1914, there was a great deal of guerrilla fighting, and on both sides there were retirements before superior forces. The woman was seen on several occasions, her force varying from 100 to 200 natives. Through glasses many officers of the British forces have seen this white woman commander in her kraal, surrounded by blacks. Never since the Longido fight has she been seen in the company of a European.

She is described as a big woman with flaxen hair. She rides astride and is armed to the teeth. She seems to have a wonderful control over her native followers.

Th Askaris tell wonderful stories of the woman's prowess with the gun. She has the reputation of never missing anything at which she aims.

The Key.

Miss So-and-so was about sixty years old and still teaching school. It came about that her class had to be vaccinated according to law. They made a terrible fuss about it.

"Oh, pshaw," said Miss So-and-so to them, "that's nothing. Why, I've been vaccinated twenty-one times."

"Is that once every seven years, Miss So-and-so?" asked James from the front row eagerly.

And then the class began to figure with their fingers in the air.—New York Post.

The First Telegraph.

Professor Morse successfully operated the first telegraph line May 27, 1844, between New York and Baltimore.

Test of the Elect.

Let me ask you a question. Did you ever on a freezing winter day stand precariously in one slippery washbasin while you sponged your shivering self with about a quart of water from another china bowl? If you think you would have persisted in this morning after morning in an unheated bedroom through zero weather I salute you. You belong to the elect.—Atlantic Monthly.

Flow of Solid Metals.

Metals flow into each other just as gases and liquids mix, though more slowly. If a cube of lead is placed on one of gold, the surfaces of contact being kept smooth and clean, and left for a month a small quantity of gold will be found to have penetrated the lead.

Start Tomorrow and Keep It Up Every Morning

Get in the habit of drinking a glass of hot water before breakfast.

We're not here long, so let's make our stay agreeable. Let us live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, and look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet, how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of inside-bathing before breakfast.—Adv.

The Shots That Hit Are The Shots That Count

Said a former President of the U. S. Our aim for the past years has always been to give you Quality Shoes at moderate prices. We found it paid back in the first year of our business, and we find it pays today—altho most everyone knows how hard it is to keep Quality up and prices down under present abnormal market conditions.

CLAIMS LETTERS BASED ON FACTS

"Here Are Some Autumn Leaves," Says Mr. Saunders in Reply to Perkins.

WOULD SWAP INCOME

North Plainfielder Declares That Tariff Has Had Little to Do With Panics—Soup Kitchens Are Recalled.

George W. Perkins replied yesterday to the letter of William L. Saunders, of the Ingersoll-Rand Company and member of the Naval Advisory Board, in which Mr. Saunders had expressed the fear that Mr. Perkins' criticism of Mr. Wilson's business men's speech was due to the fact that he had not been in close touch recently with business affairs.

Replying to Mr. Perkins, Mr. Saunders today sent the following letter to the former:

"Here are some more 'autmun leaves.' They are rather seasonable just now, and for my part I like to see them around.

"You accuse me of writing notes that ignore the facts', but if you will take the trouble to read my letters you will see that they are based upon facts, which are either correct or incorrect. You do not deny that they are correct, nor do you refer to the alleged facts in any part of your letter.

"Instead of confining yourself to the facts you say that you have not been money making as much of late as I have been. I will swap my income for the last four years for yours, or for one-quarter of yours.

"You refer to the soup kitchens of several years ago and your work as a member of the Mayor's Committee, but you do not say anything about the soup kitchens of years past. I remember them as far back as 1876, under Grant and Hayes; I remember them under Ben Harrison, and I remember, with pain, the worst one of all, under Roosevelt in 1907. Mind you, these cases were all under Republican Presidents and under Republican high tariffs. The great panic of 1907 not only resulted in soup kitchens, but it extended even to Wall street. It was a rich man's as well as a poor man's panic and it lasted until this Democratic Administration got well under way.

"You know very well that the tariff has had little or nothing to do with panics; that the depression during 1913 and the early part of 1914 was a world wide one. It existed in Germany, with a protective tariff; in France, with a higher one; in England, with no tariff; and in Brazil where the tariff is highest of all. It was also found in Canada with an increased tariff.

"If your soup kitchen period was due to the tariff you will admit that importations from foreign countries would have been increased. Such is not the case. As a matter of fact there has been little or no increase in our manufactured imports, the slight increase being easily accounted for by increased prosperity.

"You refer to the high cost of food—a situation which is world wide and which is brought about, as you well know, by the fact that the war has diverted labor from productive pursuits to destructive ones.

"You say that when the war is over we will have industrial depression. I do not believe it, but my opinion, and even yours, should hardly count against Mr. Farrell, president of the Steel Corporation, and Mr. Vanderlip, president of the National City Bank, for both in recent addresses expressed their belief that this country had entered upon an era of unexampled prosperity that should continue after the war."

FUNERAL SERVICE OF MULFORD COLE HELD

Rev. J. Madison Hare, pastor of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, conducted the funeral service yesterday afternoon of Mulford Cole, whose death occurred Wednesday. The service was held at the late home, 1135 East Front street and was attended by many relatives and friends of the deceased. During the service, Miss Etta Raybert sang "Lead Kindly Light" and "Asleep in Jesus." Many beautiful floral pieces were sent by friends, a number of handsome set pieces being included in the number.

The interement was in the family plot in Hillside cemetery, the following acting as pallbearers: George W. Cole, Daniel Cole, Clifford Cole, Russell Doeringer, John Brower and Edward Morgan.

REVIEW HISTORY OF MONROE AVE. CHURCH

Interesting Service Held in Connection With 25th Anniversary Celebration.

Last evening was historical and social evening at the Monroe Avenue Methodist church, which is celebrating its twenty-fifth anniversary. W. M. McGee, the church historian, reviewed the events of the organization from its early history up to the present time. Addresses were made by the Rev. John MacMurray, of Washington, D. C.; Rev. W. C. O'Donnell and Rev. Dr. F. J. Hubach, all former pastors.

Tomorrow Dr. Hubach will preach in the morning and in the evening Rev. George Mooney, of Paterson, a former pastor, will speak. Rev. Dr. Herbin, of the Westfield Methodist church, will address the meeting Wednesday night.

P. von Minden, of New Market and State Treasurer William LaRue, of Bound Brook, visited Benevolent Council, No. 256, Jr. O. U. A. M., and witnessed the exemplification of the three degrees on eight candidates.

There was a social session afterward with speeches by the visiting officers, and refreshments. This was the State councilor's last official visit before retiring from office.

"PAUL AND THE MODERN MAN" SERMON THEME

Rally Day exercises will be held tomorrow at the Park Avenue Baptist church, when there will be an attractive program of vocal and instrumental music. The edifice will be appropriatly decorated for the occasion. Rev. Dr. Birney S. Hudson, the pastor, will preach a special sermon in the morning on the subject of "Paul and the Modern Man," the theme being suggested by the recent utterance of a prominent person that if Paul was on earth today he would be a capitalist.

At the evening service there will the young people will have charge. Dr. Hudson will preach on "A Struggle with Destiny."

COURIER-NEWS AND DAILY PRESS TO UNITE

With the issue of October 9 the Plainfield Daily Press will be consolidated with the Plainfield Courier-News, and this city will have but one newspaper.

The joining of the publications is the outcome of long negotiations. The publishers of both have realized for many months that the mounting cost of everything that goes into the production of a newspaper, including labor, has precluded the possibility of either paper making what is considered a reasonable profit on its investment, so long as two publications remain in the field. Ever since the negotiations started each publisher has tried to secure the interest of the other. Both wanted their paper to be the one continued. The figure quoted for a supply of white paper during 1917 to both the Daily Press and the Courier-News finally caused the decision of the publishers of the Press to accept the satisfactory offer made to them. From the time the negotiations started the question of price has not entered into the matter, as each was prepared to pay what the other considered a fair figure.

The Daily Press has prospered during the past five years under the present management. It has had liberal support from the merchants who have used its advertising columns, and we doubt whether another paper exists in New Jersey which has so faithful and loyal a group of readers as has this newspaper at the present time. The circulation, while not large for a community of this size, has represented the highest possible purchasing power, because of the careful way in which every issue has been read.

Under the consolidation all who have paid in advance for the Daily Press will receive the combined paper for the time that their subscription has yet to run. Those who have been reading both papers will have their subscription to the Courier-News extended for the length of time that it still has to run with the Daily Press.

ARMY AND NAVY TEAMS AT Y. M. C. A.

LAROCK NOW OWNS BIG PRINTING PLANT

Central Publishing Company to Take Over Press Building and Job Work.

Albert F. LaRock, for the past two years manager of the Central Publishing Company, has bought full control of that company, and with the combination of the consolidation of the Daily Press and Courier-News, Mr. LaRock will take over the Press building and will continue to conduct a job printing plant here.

Mr. LaRock has secured a lease on the first floor of the Press building at 193 North avenue, and he will move his office and workrooms at once. New equipment will be added, and with the exceptional facilities offered by the building and the modern machinery, the Central Publishing Company will have a shop second to none in this community. For some time Mr. LaRock has been in charge of the job printing of the Daily Press, the Central Publishing Company handling this by contract, and he has given full satisfaction to all patrons. He has had twenty years experience in the printing business and is a thoroughly capable and progressive manager.

No alterations are necessary in the Press building, and Mr. LaRock will begin moving Monday. Until the change is made the Central Publishing Company will be on the third floor of the same building.

ALL-DAY MEETINGS.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will hold an all-day sewing meeting Thursday in the church parlors. A luncheon will be served at noon. A large number of members are expected to be on hand. The Ladies' Aid annual birthday and social and reception will be held on October 27.

"THE PRESENT EVIL WORLD."

"The Present Evil World" will be the topic for the lecture to be given tomorrow afternoon to the Association Bible Students in their meeting room at 204 West Front street. The address will commence at 3 o'clock. "The World to Come" will be the subject next Sunday afternoon.

Although the Plainfield Daily Press will not be published any longer, the management of the newspaper has decided to give the fans of Plainfield a treat by megaphoning the results of the World's Series games daily. In addition to megaphoning the results, play by play, the Sporting Editor of the Press will keep a tabulated box score in full view of the fans. This box score will be accurate, inasmuch as the General News Service furishes the results.

Y. M. C. A. DECIDE TO RAISE $200,000

Directors Reduce the Amount Wanted for New Building by $50,000.

In anticipation of the coming building campaign, the monthly meeting of the board of directors of the Young Men's Christian Association was held in the Central Y. M. C. A. building in Brooklyn last night.

A thorough inspection of the building was made, and every member of the board was impressed with the possibilities of a modern building and equipment. After thorough discussion of the situation in Plainfield during which the recommendations and suggestions made by experienced men of the International and State Committees, it was decided that the amount of money to be raised in the campaign could be reduced from $250,000 to $200,000 nowithstanding the advanced cost of building material and furnishings. No change was made in the date of the campaign, November 12 to 22.

J. A. MacArt, who has been engaged as leader of the campaign and who is well-known to Plainfield people, will be on the field the latter part of October remaining through until the campaign is over.

ALUMNAE MEETING OF MT. ST. MARY COLLEGE

Mount St. Mary College will hold its annual Alumnae meeting at the school in Plainfield on Thursday, October 12. In the morning there will be an important business meeting at which election of officers will take place. Luncheon will be served and a social afternoon spent. A number of young women throughout New Jersey have been graduated from this school, and each year they assemble and have developed a strong organization. The nuns at the college have made every effort to make next Thursday a most enjoyable day for all, and they anticipate a large attendance.

The members from Trenton who expect to be present are: Mrs. George N. J. Sommers, who has been president of the Alumnae for some time; the Misses Anna McGrory, Kathleen Brown, Margaret Ribsam, and Eleanor Convery, Mrs. Frank D. Schroth, Mrs. James J. Egan, Mrs. Charles Walker and Miss Catherine McGrory.

BOROUGH BUILDING PERMITS.

At the meeting of the North Plainfield Council held last night the following building permits were granted: C. F. Bryan, for a house on Watchung avenue; H. C. Wells, for a garage on Washington avenue; John Hulick, for an addition to his residence on Park place, and James Jannuzzeli wor a barn on Codington avenue.

W. C. T. U. MEETING.

Mrs. R. K. Case will lead the meeting for the W. C. T. U. tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. All members are urged to be present.

VON MACKENSEN IS FALLING BACK

Terrific Force of Roumanian Drive Brings German Retreat.

London, Oct. 7.—Yielding to the terrific force of the Russian-Rumanian drive, the forces under Von Mackensen are being driven steadily back in the Dobrudja, according to today's reports.

At the same time the Serbs have not halted for a moment their advance on Monastir. And once more the Britian are vigorously pressing the fight in Eastern Macedonia.

Only in Transylvania, where von Falkenhayn is opposing them with overwhelming large forces, are the Rumanians on the defensive. Here the Teutons pressed forward at several points on the fifty-mile front.

For the time being interest centres on the latest effort of Sarrail to drive a wedge into the enemy's lines along the Struma River. Here the Bulgars, apparently reduced in numbers by the necessity of transferring troops to meet the threat of Rumanian invasion along the Danube, are steadily falling back.

Berlin Admits Retreat.

Berlin admits that the Bulgars have evacuated "some of the most remote villages" on the east bank of the stream, while the capture of the town of Nevolyen is claimed in three Allied war office reports. That the Bulgar resistance is not what it has been is indicated by the fact that the British were able to consolidate all their newly won positions with little or no opposition. So vigorously did Sarrail's forces follow up their victories that the counter attacks the enemy launched were beaten back with ease.

ATTRACTIVE PROGRAM FOR CONVENTION

Annual Gathering of State Sunday School Ass'n to Be Held in Paterson.

The annual convention of the New Jersey Sunday School Association will be held at Paterson on November 14, 15 and 16, during which time the Sunday school people of that city will entertain a large gathering from all parts of the State. Elaborate prepartions are bing made for the reception of visitors, and the Chamber of Commerce of the farfamed Silk City has issued a cordial greeting. For three days inspiration and practical guidance will be given to Sunday school teachers and officers of every grade and condition.

Not alone in conference, but in banquets, where good fellowship and good cheer will abound, the different groups will meet. The teacher training will have a meal together on Tuesday evening. The home department workers and the pupils of the summer school on Wednesday noon, the superintendents on Wednesday evening, the county and district officers on Thursday noon and elementary workers on Thursday evening.

Dr. Wallace MacMullen, of Drew Theological Seminary, a famous metropoliatn and college preacher, will give the convention sermon on Tuesday evening. Miss Margaret Slattery will lead the conference for older girls on Wednesday evening, address the whole convention on Thursday forenoon, and mark the climax of the Teen Age Institute on Thursday afternoon.

The specialists for boys' work will be Preston G. Orwig, Teen Age superintendent of the Pennsylvania association, and Ivan P. Flood, superintendent of the young people's work of the New Jersey Baptist Convention.

On the last evening of the convention there will be a double meeting, one for women and one for men. Mrs. Emma Gary Wallace, of the International Adult Committee, will address the former, and Rev. Roy B. Guild, of the Federal Council of Churches, the latter.

William G. Landes, general secretary of the Pennsylvania Association, will address the superintendents, and a general meeting on Wednesday evening. Prof. Luther A. Weigle, of Yale, a noted specialist in teacher training, will speak several times on Wednesday. Further facts and programs may be secured from the New Jersey Sunday School Association, 835 Broad street, Newark.

TO PREACH ON EDUCATION.

Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, will preach tomorrow morning on the subject, "Education, Secular and Religious," following out the suggestion of State Commissioner of Education Kendall that tomorrow be observed as "Education Sunday."

WILHELMINA SENIKOUSKY.

Wilhelmina Sneikousky, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Senikousky, of 412 East Second street, died this morning. The funeral will be held Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the parents' home and the interment will be in Hillside cemetery.

TELEPHONE WIRES WILL BE LOWERED

Borough Council Cannot Force Company to Take Them From Somerset Street.

HEATED DISCUSSION

Citizens Petition for Changing of Chatham Street to Brook Avenue —Council Borrows $7,500—Fire and Police Reports.

The New York Telephone Company will lower the wires on Somerset street between Jackson avenue and Johnston's Drive, but beyond that they will not do anything more. After two hours spent in heated discussion at the meeting of the North Plainfield Council last night representatives of the telephone company agreed to do that much toward making Somerset street more attractive.

Mayor Smalley and the members of the Council were of the opinion that the wires should be removed entirely from Somerset street, but this was declared to be impracticable by the telephone representative. In some cases, where there is at least fifteen subscribrs on a block the wires are strung through the backyards, but this, also, would be impossible, according to the telephone official. To try and force the telephone company to do as the borough officials want would not be possible unless the way the wires are strung at present is a public menace and so the Council could do nothing beyond trying to persuade the company to do as much as possible.

According to the plan presented to the Council last night the wires will simply be lowered to about half the present heighth from the ground, something that can be done at little expense. The Council has been after the telephone company for over a year in an effort to get the wires out of sight. It was at first wanted to have them put underground but the telephone company absolutely refused to go to the expense of making the improvement.

A petition signed by Albert Pangborn and a number of other residents of Chatham street was presented to the Council asking that that thoroughfare east of Watchung avenue be changed to Brook avenue. The petition was placed on the table.

Charles Swody, a member of the police force for a number of years, handed in his resignation to take effect immediately. It was accepted.

The Mayor and treasurer were authorized to borrow $7,500 in anticipation of the coming taxes, and the reports of the fire department showed that $660.87 had been spent during the past month, including $400 for new hose. The expenses of the police department for the month of September was $672.83. The report of the recorder for August and September showed that forty-one arrests had been made and $38 in fines collected.

COUNTY PUBLISHERS ARE ENTERTAINED AT ELKS' CLUB

Union county publishers were the guests of Leslie R. Fort, of the Daily Press and Charles H. Frost, of the Courier-News, at a dinner given last nights at the Elks' Club on Watchung avenue. Covers were laid for twelve, the following being present:

E. E. Stanton, Elizabeth Journal; L. F. Sawvel, Elizabeth Times; De Witt C. Peek, Westfield Leader; Bryon M. Prugh, Westfield Standard; James E. Cranford, Cranford Citizen; Hugh Hearon, Cranford Chronicle; H. B. Rollinson, Rahway Record; Charles H. Frost and Herbert Smith, Courier-News, and Leslie R. Fort, the Plainfield Daily Press.

"THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS A BULWARK OF LIBERTY"

At the Netherwood Reformed church tomorrow the rally day exercises of the Sunday school will be held at the morning service, at 11 o'clock. The Sunday school will meet at the usual time, 9:45 a. m. All members of the departments are urged to be present. The evening service begins at 7:45. Rev. Edward S. Ralston will speak on "The Public Schools a Bulwark of Liberty." A cordial invitation is given to all to attend these services.

D. C. Ivan has awrded the contract for the erection of an addition to the dwelling owned by him on Hillside avenue to William Pangborn' Son for the mason work and John Wyman for the carpentry work. The improvements will cost in the vicinity of $3,000.

Felmley brothers are to build a two-family house at 903 West Sixth street to cot $4,000. R. Richard will do the mason work and F. Finkelstein the carpentery work.

Miss Mabel Conover, of Jackson avenue, the borough, has returned home after spending three weeks with relatives at Lebanon.

WOODMEN OF THE WORLD INITIATE LARGE CLASS

Dunellen Camp, No. 97, Woodmen of the World held a large and enthusiastic meeting at the W. G. Holton Hall last evening, at which there was held a class initiation and nearly all members were present. Westfield, New Brunswick, Perth Amboy, Plainfield and Bound Brook were represented and promised to have a large delegation present at the package party and ball to be held by the local lodge on the evening of Friday, October 20. Two colored comedians and song artists, Samuel Jones, of Jersey City, and C. A. Reed, of this place, recently from the South, will present original Southern dialogues.

Mrs. H. S. Phillips, of Fourth street, left today for Pittsburgh, where she will probably remain until New Year's visiting her mother, Mrs. W. Collingswood.

Richard Pennock, of Mountainview Terace, has returned to the borough after an absence since early summer. Up to Labor Day, Mr. Pennock was employed as life guard at Asbury Park. From then on he stopped at Mt. Gretna, Pa.

No action was taken upon reopening of the public library at the meeting of the library board last evening.

Miss Marguerite Gray entertained the members of the Whit Lynn Club Thursday evening in honor of her birthday.

Edward Ayers, of Second street, has taken a position with D. T. Heaume & Son.

Walter Bowlby has taken a position in the local store of the Union Pacific Tea Company.

Dr. and Mrs. Francis Hickman, of Bound Brook, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Henry Smith.

Mrs. Willard N. Apgar, of Lincoln avenue, is visiting at Phillipsburg.

C. G. Hunt, of Lincoln avenue, is attending the banquet of the Electrical Engineers of America at Philadelphia.

TO HOLD DIME SOCIAL.

The dime social to be held next Thursday by the Ladies' Aid Society at the home of Mrs. Frank Bowlby, will be in the evening instead of the afternoon as formerly announced.

Watchung.

Rev. Mebane Ramsay will have charge of all the services in the Wilson Memorial Union church tomorrow. The morning service will begin at the usual hour at 11:45, Sunday school in the afternoon at 2:45. The evening service will begin at 8 o'clock preceded by a song service at 7:45, led by Mr. Douglas Demler.

One of the most interesting meetings of the Christian Endeavor Society was held last evening at the Wilson chapel, led by Mrs. Robert Love, of Plainfield. "New Work Our Society Should Undertake" was the topic. The meeting was very well attended. The annual business meeting was held after the meeting, and very interesting reports were read by the various committees.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Wilson Memorial church will hold its regular meeting Tuesday afternoon in the chapel. A reception will be tendered to Mrs. Franklin Ramsay, of Hopkinsville, Iowa, who is visiting her son, the Rev. Mebane Ramsay. All the women are cordially invited to be present.

Frank Fenner and family, of Plainfield, have rented the new house recently built by Ephriam S. Ackor.

Miss Aubrey Eaton, who has been visiting in Toronto, Canada, for about two months, has returned to her home on Valley road.

TO DIG ENGLISH CHANNEL TUNNEL

Project For Linking France and England May Be Revived.

ONE MILE DUG IN 1882.

Great Work Was Dropped After Agitation Against It In Great Britain Look to Resumption of Engineering Operations at Close of War.

There seems to be fair promise that after the war another of the great engineering feats of the world will be seen in the long delayed construction of the English channel tunnel from Dover to Calais.

If this be accomplished the stupendous work will rank beside the other wonderful triumphs of man over the forces of nature.

The Alps have been bored again and again, the latest achievement of the Simplon tunnel being the greatest. Niagara falls have been harnessed and the Suez and Panama canals cut.

It was only the other day that the shareholders of the Channel Tunnel company, remarks London Answers, received from the directors their annual report, in which they said:

"The board has watched with interest the growing movement of public opinion in favor of the tunnel, but has abstained from taking any active part therein."

It is over forty years ago—namely, in 1874—that the first concession for such a tunnel, to start at Calais, was obtained from the French government.

In 1875 the Channel Tunnel company obtained an English act of parliament to commence experimental work in St. Margaret's bay, to the east of Dover.

The First Mile.

For years nothing really practical was done, and then at last work was begun in earnest, and by July of 1882 some 2,026 yards of the tunnel had been made, or well over a mile.

The work was suspended shortly after it was begun.

But in the year before the outbreak of the war—namely, 1913—the scheme was revived by the British government calling for reports on it by the admiralty, the war office and the board of trade, such reports to be submitted to the committee of imperial defense for subsequent decision by the cabinet. And then the war came.

Then there was the "invasion" scare, and on that point Major General Sir Alfred E. Turner, K. C. B., remarked in October, 1913: "The tubes would be ventilated by artificial means, which could at any moment be arrested with the certainty of asphyxiating every living being in the tunnel. It would thus seem clear that an attempt to use the tunnel for purposes of invasion would be infinitely more deadly to the assailants than the assailed."

Invasion Possibilities.

The view of a well known Londoner is that had the tunnel been in existence when the war broke out Germany would have tried still harder to reach Calais.

The North of France railway is the line that picks up on the French side, and its council of administration is very keen on the tunnel, for in an official document issued a few months ago it says:

"With England our relations will without doubt be considerably developed, and there is every reason to expect early construction of the submarine tunnel. The present war has only too well shown from all points of view the absolute necessity of it. Brought together more than ever by sentiments of unalterable fellowship, united by a means of communication secure from all attacks, the two countries will develop their resources and their commerce to such a degree as will promptly yield to us a new source of prosperity."

KIN OF LONGFELLOW IS A HAPPY HODCARRIER

Poet's Grandson Is Pursuing Simple Career In a Canadian Town.

Edmund Trowbridge Dana, grandson of Henry W. Longfellow, has been found by a Boston friend carrying the hod in a Canadian town. Three years ago he worked as a street car conductor, for the same reason that he now slings bricks and mortar—he desires to be a Tolstoy.

"Since I left Harvard," he said, "I've had various jobs, and I have made a success of all of them except teaching, which I considered my profession."

Dana was removed as professor of philosophy in the University of Minnesota after the suicide of his wife, an English girl, a Socialist like himself.

"Every time I've had a position as teacher in a college I've been fired," he continued. "I seem to be willing to tell my whole mind to any one, they said. Such a trait is considered very naughty in a college teacher."

1,217 Mines Washed Up.

Since the start of the war a total of 1,217 mines have been washed up on the coast of Holland. Of these 656 were British, 62 French, 219 German and 280 of undetermined origin.

—Do the avaiiable household workers of this city, who read the classified columns of this newspaper, know that you need a good servant?

TORPEDOED WITHOUT WARNING!

At great risk of life and limb the following interviews were secured from members of the crew of the scuttled ship as they grabbed frantically for life-preservers or jumped into the threatening waters of idleness:

Walter Van Hoesen—"I'll go back to school, I guess. A little learning may be a dangerous thing, but I can stand to have a few more facts crammed into my head without having to worry about its bursting. I never thought The Press would treat me in this manner, though. It will be a hard blow to the Scotch Plains people when I tell them there's no more Thursday page."

James J. McNamee—"Poor Jim is 3,000 miles from the base of supplies with his line of communication cut. We wired him news of the disaster and asked for an interview, but the Western Union probably wouldn't print what he had to say. Look him up on the map and allow him just one cuss word for each mile he has to walk and you can readily see why.

I. M. Conover—"After trying to decide for five years whether or not to leave the Press and become an opera star, I have had it decided for me. I could never retire to the quiet confines of Jackson avenue after this sudden shock, so me thinks, I shall follow in the footsteps of Anna Case."

H. A. Brynfarski—"It will be very hard indeed to break off the many pleasant relations formed at the Press, but I have about made up my mind that I do not care to be a 'newspaper man' any longer. I already have a dozen jobs waiting for me and I'm trying now to decide which one draws the biggest pay and has the shortest hours, because I belong to the union just like the rest of the Daily Press employes."

Carl Hood—"I aint bothered. One newspaper, more or less, doesn't mean anything in my sweet, young life. Anyway winter is coming, and I haven't got a date up here with Jack Frost, or any of his kinfolks. Tennessee, I hear you calling me."

Benny Berse—"When the Press goes I go, but I don't go where the Press goes. Mother never intended me for a newspaper magnate so I think I will endeavor to realize my earliest ambition and enter the 'movies.' If size counts for anything I'll beat Charlie Chaplin at his own game."

Henry Dresselt—"There is no peace for a Dutchman, even in a neutral country. It's a hard year on the Dutch, but the Kaiser would have me bear up well. Anyway I am going to stay in Plainfield, and there is much consolidation in that. I don't have to move to New Germantown."

Joe Gallagher: For the present, I should worry While the world's series lasts, I have a "position." Just because "Raking 'Em Over by Jinks" goes out of Existence, my candle of life does not have to flicker and die. Miss Mary Pickford can secure my services at a moment's notice. Seriously, although this was my first job, I can candidly say that I can never hope to work for a squarer man that Mr. Leslie R. Fort. So long. "Sport Topics."

Chauncey F. Colthar: "Did you ever stop to think what it means to leave home and go out in the cold, cold world? That's me. Gee! such a shock and such a headache! Got it about a week ago and haven't got over it yet The Plainfield Daily Press is going out of existence, and that tells the sad tale, and starts all fond recollections from the office boy up to the Editor-in-Chief. How I shall miss the call for pork that was ever coming from the composing room, and I surely will have to carry away with me one of the little pigs. It's hard lines, but it all comes in a lifetime."

S. Doctor: "I knew something was going to happen. I have been here just thirteen weeks. Well, Plainfield isn't the first town I worked in, and I'll manage to get along, although I hate to leave the "bunch."

William Coe.—"Did you read this in last night's Press?

"Oh, the charm of it
And the comfort rare!
Nothing on earth
With it can compare.
And I'm sorry for him
Who doesn't know
The joy of having
No place to go.
—"Detroit Free Press.

"It surely expresses my feelings."

John Franklyn Mason (Score Keeper)—"I sadly take my leave, from the one place that I have enjoyed working for. The many pleasures that I have had from the time I started till this time has been all that can be said for the Plainfield Daily Press. The owner, Mr. Leslie R. Fort, has always treated me with the utmost consideration and for this reason I have always tried to do my best. Now comes this blow to all the pleasures and I shall never, in all probability, work for Mr. Fort again. We all, I am sure, feel the same as I do on this subject and will always try to do our best in the other places that we may happen to be employed. feeri((aetidiorn M HM HMH

Win Cram—"My regret at leaving the Press and Plainfield is mellowed by thoughts of what is going to happen when the 'dry' councilmen take office. Of course the two events are not connected, but it is just as well, just as well."

Edward C. Searing—"I am beginning to think there is no such thing as a steady job. Just as I am getting settled here, I am forced to leave. Leaving the Press is like leaving home. It has been a good old paper, and I hate to quit after thirty years."

Walter C. Dibbins.—"Fate has been kind to me during the twenty-eight years I have been connected with the Daily Press, both as to employers and those with whom I have been associated with in various departments of work. But I confess being told that after today my services will no longer be required makes me wonder whether it is really true. Severing fond relations and ties of years' standing recalls many sad and pleasant memories, but success and good luck for all who leave the Daily Press is my earnest wish."

"Hoppy" Walls—"Now I'll have time to play baseball. I would have quit anyway just as soon as McGraw saw me play."

Roy Stewart: "Good-bye, boys! I'm through."

W. Bremble: "I came on an unlucky day, the thirteenth. Something had to happen to this job."

Charley Hewitt: "I won't worry a whole lot. I spoke to Gavett some time ago. There are a lot of good street jobs waiting for a good man."

T. J. Lynch.—"I was just thinking it was time I changed my job. Thirty years is too long to work for anybody or anything."

C. Gibbs—"Back to Park Row. I've got no business in the country anyway."

Tommy Heron—"It is hard, but it's fair. Where Searing leads me I will follow. Elizabeth sounds like a girl's home, but it isn't. It's a job."

IN HIS OWN PAPER, TOO---MAYBE HE WON'T LIKE IT, BUT HE CAN'T FIRE ANYBODY, CAUSE THE FIRES ARE ALL OUT

When Ed and Tommie have locked the last form today, and Charlie has noisily tucked it away in its iron bed on the steam table, "thirty" will have been sounded for The Press, and "thirty," you know, in the language of newspaperfolk, means goodnight. It is the end.

The end of The Press! To all of us who have helped in the making of the paper it is a day of regret. Laughter and jest may mock the ceremony of closing the last form, for there is little of sentiment in the everyday workroom of a news gathering or composing room force, but it will be the grim humor of the funeral coach, for we all are burying a part of ourselves. There will be some, perhaps, who will cry a little when they are alone with memories at the end of the day, and will not be ashamed at the thought of it tomorrow.

For thirty years The Press has fought, and begged and argued for the best that was in sight for Plainfield, It has become a part of the city, and it will be missed. Men and women will miss it, and organizations and institutions will miss it, and everyone and everything that has hoped for a bigger and better city in which to live and work, but we will miss it most.

There are those on the staff who have given this paper all of youth and most of life. To them The Press has been not only a source of weekly wage, but the mould into which ambition, thought and daily endeavor have gone, and out of it they have taken character. Theirs is the deepest sorrow. To others it has been an inspiration and a school, and their grief is lessened by the realization that they have been enriched in knowledge that will be of untold use in the struggle yet before them. There are others to whom it has been but a shady spot in which to rest as they traveled the road of life. They go on their journey refreshed and strengthened with happy remembrance of this incident in the Great Adventure.

Yes, we will miss The Press, and we will also miss Our Friend. Sometimes we have called him "The Boss," but mostly when we thought of him it has been only as Our Friend. We have worked for him and with him, and every day we have found him the same—honest, true, fair and kind. We know of the trials that have been his, of the work that he has done and of the odds against which he has fought, and we know that through it all he has been loyal to his ideals and unafraid when called upon to defend that for which he stood. He has never been bought or bullied, and through him The Press has never been bought or bullied. He has been considerate of the interests of all people touching on The Press, and always he has been ready to lend aid, or even to fight alone, in any cause that would work for the public good. He has done much for Plainfield, this we know.

Sometimes we have not given him the best that was in us, but then we were guilty not only of disloyalty, but of ingratitude, for he has always given The Press the best that was in him, and he has always given us encouragement, example, justice and kindness. He had been "square" and "white." Whenever he needs us, or wants us, here's a whole staff ready to come back to Leslie R. Fort.

SLIPPING SOMETHING OVER ON THE BOSS.

This is a little story of our own. It isn't hard in this last day of excitement, and with every member of the staff in the conspiracy, to have it set and made-up into the paper without Mr. Fort seeing it, and we have made our last story for The Press a surprise for him, Every man, woman or boy who signed it is sincere. It is our swan song. Our goodbye to him and to you.

G. O. P. CANDIDATES TO TOUR COUNTIES

Following Meeting Monday Edge and Frelinghuysen Will Start Campaign.

Following their appearance in Newark Monday with Charles E. Hughes, both Senator Walter E. Edge and Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, candidates for Governor and Senator respectively, will begin a campaign tour of the State that will keep them going at a lively pace for the week. They will travel together.

Mr. Hughes' plans for Monday contemplate but one speech in Newark, this to be delivered in Military Park. There will be no stop downtown, as previously announced, but at the Public Service shops in Ferry street the Hughes campaign caravan from New York will be joined by a squad of Newark police, who will lead the way through the city. It has been suggested by the managers of the Newark visit that motorists and others who intend to join the Hughes procession do so at the point where the police will meet the party, which then will go direct to the Robert Treat Hotel.

The Edge-Frelinghuysen schedule calls for a visit by the candidates to Long Branch Tuesday night and a tour of Middlesex county Wednesday. They will visit Salem county the following day, with a noon meeting at Pennsgrove and a night meeting in Salem. Friday they will campaign in Cumberland county, with evening meetings at both Bridgeton and Millville. Part of Saturday will be spent in Cape May county, and they will leave in time to attend a meeting at Hackensack that night.

At Hackensack Henry J. Allen, the Kansas Progressive leader who took a prominent part in the Progressive convention at Chicago, will be one of the speakers.

ARTHUR SHAW TO PORTRAY PART OF "PROPERTY MAN"

Mr. and Mrs. Coburn, as a further earnest of their intention to reintroduce "The Yellow Jacket" to New York in the worthiest possible manner, have engaged Arthur Shaw for their series of ten November matinees at the Cort Theater. Needless to state Mr. Shaw will again interpret the "Property Man," that unique characterization with never a word to speak throughout, although indubitably the most important accessory to the action of the play.

YALE'S ENDOWMENT FUNDS SHOW $2,256,356 INCREASE

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 7.—The annual report of the treasurer of Yale University shows that during the fiscal year ending June 10, 1916, there was a net increase in the endownment funds of the university and its various schools amounting to $2,256,356.68. The total of such funds now amounts to $18,431,444.64.

In its operations for the past year the university reports a deficit of $13,561.16, as compared with a deficit of $5,628.06 for 1914-15. The largest deficits reported by the various schools are $63,572.46 for the graduate school; $34,483.63 for the Sheffield Scientific School and $21,492.56 for the school of medicine. In the dining hall there has been a deficit of $9,445.95, due to a heavy increase in the cost of food supplies without any corresponding increase in the prices charged for board, which has averaged $5.55 a week, as against $5.50 for the previous year. Seventy-three per cent. of the total disbursements for dining hall supplies were made in local markets.

From its loan funds the university made during the year loans aggregating $18,365.19 to deserving students. Notes now outstanding for student loans amount to $68,237.31, while notes given to the college for scholarship grants total $39,672.38. Payments of loan fund notes for the year aggregated $7,018.95.

HIGH BRIDGE--CALIFON

A daughter was born Wednesday to Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman at Mt. Lebanon.

Mr. and Mrs. Dumont, of Flemington, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Geist at Califon.

Frank Pill has purchased a lot on Parsonage Heights, Califon, and will build a residence.

Mrs. Walter Crater returned yesterday to Newark, after visiting Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Crater at High Bridge.

Mrs. Jessie Williams, of Califon, is ill.

The senior class of the High Bridge High School has elected these officers: President, William Henderson; vice-president, Raymond Welsh; secretary and treasurer, Miss Margaret Banghart.

Rev. E. H. Bronson, pastor of the Lower Valley Presbyterian church, spent part of the week at Lamington.

Mrs. Austin Cramer, of High Bridge, is at Annandale.

More Important.

Important Events Going On Monday—Exhibits & Sales

London's foremost tailors, whose names are known by gentlemen the world over, have sent to the Dress Fabrics Salons a limited number of women's coat and suit lengths of their exclusive all wool fabrics.

We believe this is the first time the women of New York have been given the opportunity to have their clothes made of these smartest of mannish suitings and coatings. Only one of each pattern. First floor, Old Building.

Stuffs that Paris gowns are made of—white and silver and black and silver brocades.

Exceedingly scare combinations; but Paris always demands what is rare and hard to get and beautiful. Copyists of Paris models are advised that we have a valuable collection of both white and silver and black and silver French metal brocades at $5.50 to $30 yard.
Silk Rotunda, Main floor, Old Building.

Blouses Lately from Paris

Hand-made French chiffon blouses at $12. Crepe de chine blouses with original embroidered border in blue, $15. Slip-over-the-head blouses of chiffon, $16.50. Bewitchingly feminine blouses of chiffon or crepe de chine with quantities of imitation Valenciennes in the old real patterns, $10. None of these has a basque.
Third floor, Old Building.

Ordered ten months ago—arrived now—from France and England—fine novelty GLOVES for women.

Short French gloves have white or black fourchettes, or scalloped tops, or fanciful embroideries. The English gloves have smart magpie stitching. Variously priced $1.50, $2, $2.25.
Main floor, Old Building.

Fur Mantillas from Paris. "The same old-fashioned, new-fashioned mantillas," said a traveler just returned from France, "which I saw everybody wearing there."

They are a bit like a shawl; warm and really practical. One is of youthful gray squirrel with ermine collar and a new muff of the squirrel. Another is of beautiful moleskin trimmed with very dark fitch and it also has a muff to match.

Other new Paris model furs just off the steamers include an Empire coat of mole, a circular coat of moleskin, a coat of Hudson seal with beaver, and others. All will be shown in the Fur Salons beginning Monday. Second floor, Old Building.

Women's Suits, $35—charming adaptations of LANVIN, the ever-youthful.

Wool velours in burgundy, brown, green, navy, black; long lines, slim silhouette; coat trimmed with row after row of stitching; straight buttoning pocket; beautifully tailored.
Second floor, Old Building.

Girls' Party Frocks—

Flesh chiffon with a blue velvet girdle, $13.75; pale blue with pink ribbon rosebuds, $10.75; quaint taffetas, $15.75; and pretty nets with cut out pink organdie trimmings, $13.75. Sizes 8 to 14 years. Second floor, Old Building.

Youthful Separate Skirts worn with new basque blouses make a perfectly conventional dress.

The newest skirts are in checks, broadcloth, gabardine, serge and wool velour; in Little Gray Salons for young women, priced $5.75 to $18.75.
Second floor, Old Building.

Young Women's Frocks, 35 Styles at $25—

In serge, silk, or the pretty combination of serge and silk, serge and Georgette crepe. Nearly all are the dark navy blue which girls want. Sizes 14 to 20 years. Second floor, Old Building.

A Paquin Corset Copied—

Made of taffeta with deep lace frills for a finish, $18.50. It is only one of the new Parisienne corsets just arrived in new models to give the slender silhouette. Third floor, Old Building.

Motor and Skating Sets—

Brushed wool sweater with collar and sash faintly checked with white to match the cap and scarfs. The set is $10.50.
Sweater Shop, First floor, Old Building.

Sale of 410 Wilton Rugs—New purchase, high grade rugs, from one of the leading mills.

It isn't desired that the name should be associated publicly with such little prices at this time. Medallion and all-over patterns. Good choice.

Fourth Gallery, New Building.

A new Bedroom Suite—one of the prettiest we have ever seen.

9 pieces in antique ivory enamel finish, Louis Seize style; chiffonier, bureau, desk and vanity toilet table have inset marble tops; cane panels in head and footboards of large double bed, $422.75.

This is just one of a number of exquisite bedroom suites newly arrived on our furniture floors. Sixth Gallery, New Building.

Landscape by Daubigny—

In oil; a striking contrast in light; the dim twilight of the fields in the foreground; the glow of the setting sun in the sky in the background. A painting one comes back to look at again and again. Framed, $350.
Eighth Gallery, New Building.

October Victor Records are in. And a large stock of all the newest styles of

Victrolas

Any style you want will be delivered at once at your home on payment down of

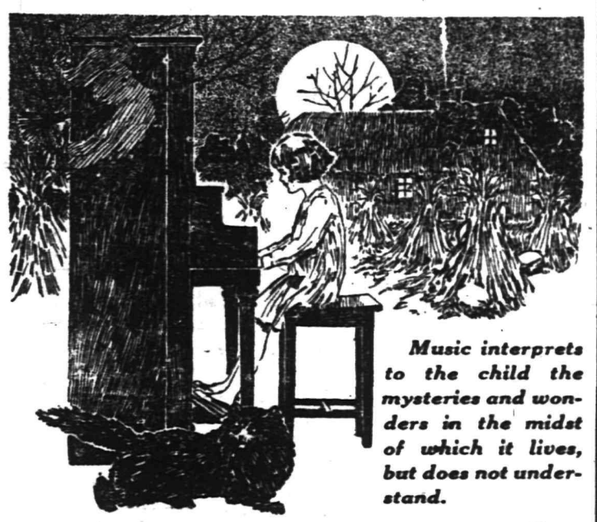
JOHN WANAMAKER—PIANOS AND PLAYER-PIANOS



Music interprets to the child the mysteries and wonders in the midst of which it lives, but does not understand.

Children Love MUSIC

Surely there will be music in YOUR home on Hallowe'en

What is it makes a child in the first ecstasy of its walking, stop and listen when the piano is played? It is the pull on the little heart, in which a song was when the child was born. Give it music, and the song in the heart grows and spreads, becoming an uplifting factor in life. Deny it music, and more material things develop while the song dies away to silence.

Beautiful Tones

are those of the old, long-loved instruments on the Wanamaker Roll of Honor—

LINDEMAN SCHOMACKER
EMERSON And the Celebrated KNABE

Each may be had as pianos, or as player-pianos, with the wonderful ANGELUS or other player action installed in them. These player-pianos a child can play—play the finest music the world has heard.

Very Convenient Terms

A small payment now, and a small sum paid each month, will bring to you AT ONCE the instrument you would like to have in your home.

Come and hear them, compare, choose.

Leisurely Rush Times

That's a queer statement, but true of Hearn's, West 14th St., New York. Rush, as far as selling goods is concerned; as getting in goods, but leisurely for the customers. Plenty of clerks, plenty of goods, plenty of varieties, plenty of time. We even have installed cash registers in each department, so you would not have to wait a second for change.

Every day brings new styles. The style in dresses varies so. Long waist; short waist; natural waist line; Directoire; Le Moyen age; no matter what the styles, we have each variation.

Frocks, coats, there never was a season when coats had such dashing lines. They're becoming to everyone. Full; some belted; some loose from shoulder; big collars; huge cuffs; most alluring, all of them. Then about Furs. A muff always gives a demure air; but this muff, especially the barrel shape, adds the quaintest charm. A long flat stole, a muff of Hudson seal, Moleskin, or whatever makes a costume most effective.

Hats, now that the tailored ones are well decided, begin to appear in lovely lines for afternoon. One in sailor shape of soft velvet, fluted and gathered around edge with the underbrim of gold cloth, and on the top a soft blue rose with a suggestion of gold. Everything to wear from head to toe.

The Fall Sale continues with its great values.

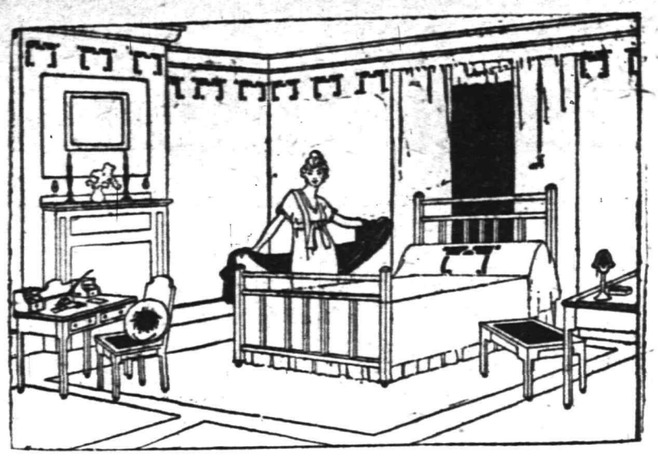
The Cooling of the Worlds.

All bodies in space are gradually approaching frigidity. When a redhot cannon ball is taken out of a furnace and suspended in the air it parts with its heat and keeps on parting with it until it finally reaches the temperature surrounding it. And what happens to the cannon ball is happening to the sun. The sun is steadily losing its heat and contracting, and the same is true of the planets and of every other body in space. Just as the arctic circle is ever encroaching upon the temperate and equatorial regions, so the final chill is steadily advancing upon the warmth everywhere.—New York American.



"I had no idea that you carried such fine furniture at such low prices."

A printer's best work is not obtained on the competitive basis. It cannot be.

The man who asks for competition in price seeks estimates on so much stock, composition and presswork and nothing more. He does not bargain for the skill, originality, time and individuality of the printer, and he does not get them.

GARAGES FORGE AHEAD IN OCTOBER PERMITS; $12,000 BUILDING TOTAL

Building developed nothing startling during the first week in October, and a total of but $12,000 was reached at of the eight permits issued. The total for the year has now reached $724,418. Because of the drop during the past few months in building throughout the city it is doubtful if the million mark for the year can be reached, although if plans for several large realty moves are put through it will be close to that figure.

The Hillside Realty Company filed plans for the erection of a modern two and one-half story frame house on Putnam avenue, to cost about $5,500. It will be 36x26x26 and built by William D. Bird.

W. F. Tallamy was granted permission to build a garage on his property at 118 East Sixth street, to cost $250. It will be one story in height, of frame construction, and 18x18x20. No contractor is named.

Max Tepper is to build an addition to the rear of his residence at 933 West Seventh street, to cost $3,390. It will be two stories high, of frame construction and 16x16x8. Lester Heminger has been awarded the contract.

Mary Gallup, of 551 West Front street, is to build a garage to cost $75. It will be a one-story affair, of frame construction and 10x10x21.

John Abbott is to build a garage at 808 Hillside avenue, to cost $400. It will be one story, frame construction. It will be 19x19x21, and be erected by himself.

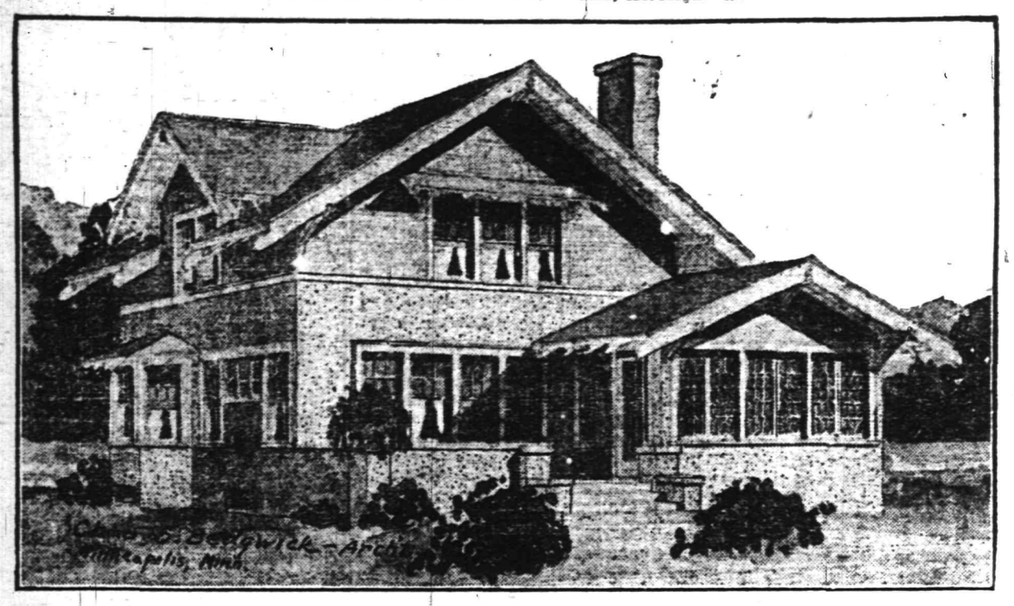
Robert Dorman will build a garage also, to cost $210, at 611 Clinton avenue. It will be 12x12x20. Theodore Zellor has the contract.

Charles Van Herwerden, of 1812 South avenue, is to build a garage on his place, to cost $75.

A dwelling to cost $2.300 is to be built on Summer avenue by William Southard, of Scotch Plains, for the J. D. Loizeanx Lumber Company. It will be 22x22x28, two and one-half stories high, and have all improvements,

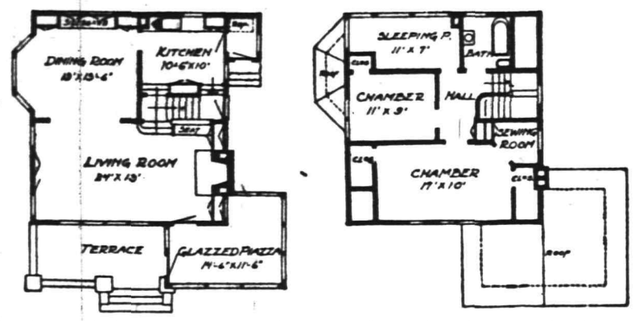
A HALF CEMENT AND SHINGLE COTTAGE

DESIGNED BY CHAS S. SEDGWICK, ARCHITECT.



HERE is a very pretty and artistic cottage designed for an east front, it is 25 ft. in width and 28 ft. in depth, exclusive of the front glazed piazza.

It is estimated to build complete exclusive of heating and plumbing for $3,400 to $4,000. The exterior is finished in cement stucco up to the sills of the second story windows and above this point the walls are shingled. The roof is also shingled, and all shingles are stained. There is a large living room across the front with a wide fireplace on the right end and book shelves on each side. The entrance is onto a wide terrace with cement floors and from this to the glazed piazza and thence into the living room. There is also a wide glazed door opening from the piazza to living room.



The arrangement of dining room, kitchen and staircase are convenient, with basement stairs beneath the main stairs and grade entrance. The first story is designed to be finished in hard wood and the second story in pine and white enamel. There is a full complete basement. There is a sleeping porch on the second floor and two good bed rooms, also sewing room, bath room and closets.

JERSEY CENTRAL TO BUILD AT WESTFIELD

Purchase of Land May Mean New Freight Station and Other Improvements.

Announcement was made this week of the purchase by the C. R. R. of N. J. of the large tract of land along the railroad tracks just east of the Westfield station. The purchase price has not yet been made public, but it is known to be one of the largest sums for any tract in Westfield in a number of years.

While it has not yet been stated just what the land will be used for it is thought possible that a new freight depot will be erected. The rapid increase of the amount handled has made the present structure inadequate, it is said, and larger accommodations are really necessary.

On the other hand the opinion is more general that the company in purchasing the tract only adhered to its policy of getting sufficient land all the way from Jersey City to Bound Brook to add two more tracks. In fact the ground, with the exception of a few plots at various points, has been purchased and in some cases two additional tracks are already laid.

NEW SPICER OWNERS PLAN IMPROVEMENTS

Another Year May See Plant Doubled in Size and Output.

The anncuncement last week of the change in ownership of the Spicer Manufacturing concern, with plants at South Plainfield, brought the rumor also that extensive improvements would result in greatly enlarged facilities, would be begun in the near future. At the present time the Spicer corporation is recognized as the largest maker of universal joints in the world, but with a syndicate of New York and Philadelphia bankers now behind it there is no telling how much larger the output will be before long.

For some time officials of the corporation have said if the transportation facilities could be obtained the plants could be enlarged so that nearly twice as many men as at present could be employed. It is now said that if possible the problem is to be solved at the expense of the new backers.

The new addition at South Plainfield is practically completed and will be all that will be undertaken before winter, and with the coming of spring it is said, that several new buildings will be erected.

IN THE SUBURBS

Scotch Plains.

The development on the Flanders Park tract will mean much for Scotch Plains. The selling of some eighty lots, all for building purposes, should result in a big "shaking up" of the plum tree for contractors. Work on a number of them will start this fall, although the majority of the owners of lots will wait until spring. The alterations at School No. 1 are completed and the addition is being built rapidly.

Fanwood.

Ground was broken this week for a fireproof garage to be erected at South avenue and Terrill road. It will take about six weeks to build and when occupied will be conducted by McNamee and Venizia. The Earl house on Madison avenue will be completed in another two weeks.

Westfield.

Westfield is enjoying an extensive building boom of moderate priced residences. Eighteen have just been completed on the Frutchery tract, and on the Monny tract some dozen dwellings are in the course of construction. The Lockwood Company has just completed five houses at Manor Park and work has been started on twenty-one more.

South Plainfield.

The addition to the Spicer plant has been practically completed and will mean employment for about one or two hundred additional men. It is of brick and one story. Work has just been started on a dwelling to include four apartments and a store.

—Find the "likely-looking" ads. in today's classified columns—and solve that problem of yours.

BUILDING NOTES

The building inspector's office has granted the trustees of the Shiloh Baptist church permission to tear down the edifice located at 517 West Fourth street.

A number of repairs are being made at the First Baptist church, including the remodeling of the Sunday school room.

Plans are progressing favorably for the additions at the Bethel and Hope chapels, and it is expected that work will start before cold weather.

CONTRACTS FILED

Only one building contract was filed in the office of the county clerk from this city during the past week. This was listed as follows: Raphael Tomaso with William Getz, carpenter work new building, Plainfield, $1,245.

TOWN IN THE MAKING AT MANCHESTER, N. Y.

Five Years Ago it Was a Cross Roads With One General Store.

There is a town in the making at Manchester, N. Y. Five years ago it was a cross-roads where there was a general store for farmers who did not wish to go two miles further to Shortsville, the nearest town. Then the Lehigh Valley Railroad decided to construct a modern and up-to-date plant for the consolidation of its less than carload lots of freight into through cars for important centers in the east and west. Manchester, a point 86 miles east of Buffalo and adjacent to Rochester and Geneva, was picked as a site.

Big yards, four concrete platforms each 1,000 feet long, and an office building were constructed. A battery of electric trucks and a large force of men were employed. The plant was put in operation in 1914.

Recently the company has begun the construction of a large engine terminal and roundhouse and yesterday it was announced that more electric trucks had been purchased, which will entail the enlargement of the garage and other improvements.

In the meanwhile Manchester is devedoping rapidly. Local property owners and the industrial department of the railroad have been busy, which promises to result in new houses going up in every direction. A bank and more stores are in contemplation and the town boomers are now talking population.

IN THE SUBURBS.

Dunellen.

Edward Maurer and family, of Dunellen, have returned and reopened their handhome home on Madison avenue after spending most of the summer at Lake Hopatcong.

The new house being built by Contractor Alberne H. Burdick on Walnut street, Dunellen, for investment is nearing completion. It is ready for the trim and will soon be put on the market.

The new brick building containing a store and tenement at the corner of North avenue and Chestnut street, Dunellen, is rapidly nearing completion, the walls being up and roof on.

Improvements in the repainting and decorating line have been in progress this week at the residence of Captain Benjamin A. Cole, of Dunellen.

A new garage is to be built at once on the rear of the property of Assessor John H. L. Peters on North avenue to house his automobile.

PENSION FUND FOR EPISCOPAL CLERGY

Trustees of Church Will Report on Raising of Three Million Dollars.

Inside.....

The trustees of the Church Pension Fund will report to the General Convention, which opens at St. Louis October 11, the raising of three million dollars towards the fund of five million for providing an adequate pension for the aged and disabled clergy of the Protestant Episcopal Church. It is confidently expected that the whole amount will be contributed by March 1 next when the plan will be put into action.

Under this scheme a minimum pension of six hundred dollars per annum will be paid to clergymen who retire at the age of 68, and similar provision will be made for those who retire earlier by reason of disability. Widows' pensions will be half of the foregoing, with allowances for minor orphans. The five million dollars will constitute a reserve, and the fund will be maintained by an assessment on the parishes based on the annual salary of the clergy. These payments have been calculated on a scientific basis with the assistance of Robert Henderson, Chief Actuary of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, and the work will be under the supervision of the Insurance Department of the State of New York.

This is the largest financial campaign ever inaugurated by the Episcopal church. Its success is unprecedented. Two dioceses have already pledged more than $500,000 each, and eight others have promised to contribute more than $50,000 each. Sixty-two of the sixty-eight dioceses in the Church have pledged gifts to the fund. Many generous contributions have also been made by individual members of others churches.

The pension plan originated with Bishop William Lawrence, of Massachusetts, who has been temporarily released from his diocesan duties to act as president of the Commission. Besides Bishop Lawrence the trustees include John Pierpont Morgan, treasurer; William H. Truesdale, president of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad; William Fellowes Morgan, president of the Merchants' Association of New York; Charles A. Peabody, president of the Mutual Life Insurance Society, and Samuel Mather, of Cleveland, Ohio.

FOWLER-CAPSTICK VOTES IN FIFTH TO BE RECOUNTED

Elizabeth, Oct. 7.—Former Governor Foster M. Voorhees has obtained on order from Justice James J. Bergen at Somerville, permitting a recount of the votes cast for Charles N. Fowler and John H. Capstick.

Capstick led Fowler for the Republican nomination for Congress in the Fifth district, comprising Morris and Union counties, by 168 votes. Fowler's friends insist that a recount will give the victory to the former Representative.

The recount is to be held here October 16. A similar count will be made in Morris county.

RED BANK PLANNING TO WELCOME SOLDIERS

Red Bank, Oct. 7.—Plans are being made by the Soldiers' Welfare Association to give Troop B and the First Ambulance Company a rousing reception when they return to the armory from the border. Committees have been appointed and every one will be invited to help. The fire bell and whistle will announce the arrival of the organizations and they will be escorted to the armory. In the event that both organizations arrive at different times each will be tendered a day or two after the second organization arrives. The association wants the co-operation of other towns which have representatives in the troop or ambulance company.

NUGENT TOO ABRUPT TO WOMEN--SCULLY

Congressman Charges Essex Leader With "Superfluous Discourtesy."

Representative Thomas J. Scully, of the Third Congressional District, shares the opinion of the women who attended the Democratic State Convention at Trenton Tuesday with a view of having a suffrage plank inserted in the platform that James R. Nugent did not treat them properly. Mr. Scully also charged, in a statement yesterday that Mr. Nugent ran the convention in a high-handed manner.

"Mr. Nugent treated the women with superfluous discourtesy," said Mr. Scully. "There was no good reason why they should not have been permitted to have their say. Then the committee could have taken any action on suffrage that it wished to take.

"The trouble is that the whole business of the convention was so completely arranged for in advance by Nugent that he would not tolerate even a brief discusssion of any part of it. I thoroughly sympathize with the position of the women. All they asked was a courteous hearing, and they did not get it because Jim Nugent was running the show in the same old Nugent way. He takes no chances. 'Me too' is the only kind of a speech he can listen to patiently. Toward one woman in particular he was grossly discourteous.

"As a matter of fact, the convention was a formality. There was hardly a quorum, and the few perons who were there looked at one another and wondered why they had come. They certainly were not needed. Nugent had attended to everything."

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, OCTOBER 7, 1916.

THE LAST ISSUE OF THE DAILY PRESS.

Seldom is it necessary for a newspaper to say farewell to its readers as the Daily Press is today called pon to do. This issue closes a period of nearly thirty years, all but five of them under the management of the late A. L. Force, during which this newspaper has endeavored to faithfully serve its readers. There are now on the subscription lists persons who will read this notice with perhaps as much interest as they read the first announcement of the newspaper and its policies.

As this is written we have before us the first issue of the Daily Press, a four-page, six-column newspaper, which modestly made a bid for patronage in a news item on the first page, and had no editorial reference as to what it proposed to do. From that date to this the Press has thrived, and been generously supported by the merchants of the city and by its group of loyal readers.

Conditions in the publishing world have made great strides and changes in the thirty years last past. The expense of everything connected with the publication of a newspaper, combined with the demand which the people make for much more news and many features, have increased the operating cost several hundred per cent. over what it was in 1887. All over the country publishers are either uniting today, or materially cutting the cost of operation. In New Jersey several newspapers have gone out of existence or been combined with others in the last few years. The cost of starting a new newspaper is so great in this age that no layman can believe the figures when a practical newspaper man gives them. In one notable instance in one of the cities of this State, it is said that a group of non-newspaper men started a publication where there was already a successful sheet, and sank $100,000 before they stopped, sadder, but wiser men.

The consolidation of the Daily Press with the Courier-News, beginning with the issue of next Monday, will make it possible for Plainfielders to have a much better newspaper than either of the present publications. And that statement is made with the reservation that we do not know of a community of this size which has ever had two newspapers which equaled the two in this city, either in amount of local and general news carried, or in typographical make-up, and excellence.

The present editor lays down his work with regret. During the five years that I have been in charge of the Daily Press it has been my good fortune to meet some of the finest people in this land. Plainfielders have extended an open hand of welcome, and have always had a good word for our efforts to produce a clean, independent, newsy local paper. Undoubtedly mistakes have been made. There are none of us who do not realize our errors sooner or later, and the Daily Press has not been free from these, any more than any other paper is free.

As loyal a group of workers as ever strove to make each day's work better than that of the day before have helped in the task. It is most gratifying to know that although the Daily Press is to cease making its appearance each afternoon, some of those who have been identified with its production for many years will remain with the combined newspaper, and others have secured excellent positions on other newspapers. Without a just tribute to Walter C. Dobbins, the city editor; to Edward C. Searing, who has directed the composing room for many years; to Thomas Lynch, the veteran pressman, who has supervised the printing of the Daily Press almost since it started, and to Chauncey F. Colthar, the office manager, who began with the publication as a newsboy, no word of farewell would be complete. Each has fitted into his separate place with such efficiency, that when it was necessary to leave the conduct of the paper in their hands, one knew that the work would be carried on exactly as was right. Of course these men have had able assistants, and credit is also due to them.

The work will go on. Whether the Press or some other newspaper is serving the field, makes little difference to the average reader. Analysis of the local situation for a period extending over a year has convinced us that Plainfield is not big enough for two newspapers. We had hoped to make the Daily Press the one paper in the field, but such has not been the case. As is stated elsewhere, price has never been a paramount consideration in the negotiations which resulted in the forthcoming combination. After long considering the matter from all angles it was decided that the best method to adopt was the combination under the Courier-News title, and the publishers of the Daily Press ask those loyal friends who have remained so steadfast to do all they can to make the Courier-News the greatest newspaper in a city of this size in the country.

LESLIE R. FORT.

Plainfield Theatre.

The prententious vaudeville bill which Manager Shannon has been showing at the Plainfield Theatre the last two days will be seen tonight for the last time. Audiences at the playhouse last night again showed their appreciation of the various numbers and encores were numerous. Miss McKinley has delighted the crowds beyond expectation, and Leon Mon Chau, the American Chinese, is a scream. Beside these two entertainers the program contains three other high-class acts. Don't fail to see the show tonight. Pathe pictures, including a Charlie Chaplin comedy, will also be shown as well as the Pathe Weekly, the animated newspaper of current happenings.

Monday afternoon the theatre will be given over to Spiegel's Revue, the musical comedy termed as "a joyous jubilee of rip-roaring fun. Max Spiegel, the producer of "The Merry Rounders," which played here only recently, is also the producer of the "Revue."

The regular vaudeville bill will appear next Tuesday and Wednesday, and Manager Shannon will have another complete change on Thursday for the last three days of the week.

Beautiful girls, exquisite scenic environment, clever comedians, startling electrical surprises, sweet singing, graceful dancing, picturesque groupings, witty dialogues, brilliant lyrics, catchy songs and tuneful music are said to be the chief ingredients which have been responsible for the universal praise with which Max Spiegel's latest effort, "The Spiegel Revue," has been accorded in every large city in which it has been presented.

"The Spiegel Revue" will be the offering at the Plainfield Theatre on Monday matinee and night, October 9. The book is in two acts and ten massive scenes, and it is the largest production ever seen on the burlesque stage. There are fifty people employed in the cast, which is made up of such favorites as Billy Mossey, Harry Crawford, Midgie Miller, Callahan Brothers, Leo Nadell, Josephine Young and the Twentieth Century Four. The famous Spiegel beauty chorus is one of the many features.

RECREATION COMMITTEE NOTES

The municipal dance will be held as usual this evening in the Washington School.

The Community Chorus will hold its first meeting of the season at the Franklin School on Monday evening at 6 o'clock. A special program has been prepared by the entertainment committee.

The Athenians will meet in the High School gymnasium on Monday evening at 9:15, for the first basketball practice of the season.

The West End Glee Club will rehearse in the kindergarten room of the Washington School on Monday at 8 o'clock.

Press Closes Service of Nearly 30 Years in City

Paper Has Played Important Part in Upbuilding of Plainfield--Always the Leader in Civic Movements.

By adopting a policy of truthfully presenting the news of the day in a clean, unbiased manner and acting as precentor in municipal matters for the common good of all, the Daily Press grew from an infantile publication of four undersized pages to a twentieth century daily. It has enjoyed the absolute confidence of the people to whom it catered.

The Daily Press dates back to The Constitutionalist, founded in 1867, by the firm of Force Brothers; the owners were Albert L. and the late William L. Force, who had been conducting a printing business in Cherry street, since renamed Park avenue. The paper appeared once a week, chronicling the town events in the breezy personal style now obsolete. It carried the Jeffersonian banner of Democracy as its political standard, hurling editorial bombshells in the enemy's camp at the least provocation. Such influential men of the day as Hon. James E. Martine, the late Nathan Harper, the late Job Male and many other political authorities were frequent contributors to its columns. The original quarters soon became too cramped and the late Andrew Vanderbeek erected the Vanderbeek building, at North and Park avenues, which is now being replaced by the State Trust Company's new home. It answered the needs for more than two decades. The late James A. Demarest was editing the Constitutionalist in the middle 80's when he realized that the city needed a daily to further the work of the weekly. The Daily Press was accordingly started, the first issue appearing May 10, 1887, a modest little affair printed on pink paper. Just what it was, and to what extent the paper has grown in the intervening twenty-nine years, may be seen by a perusal of today's issue.

Before the Daily Press had reached its first anniversary mark, every adult citizen of Plainfield realized that it had become a potent factor in poliitcal and municipal happenings. It was fearless in its defense of Democratic principles; built up the local party and never lost an opportunity harpoon a vulnerable point in the opposition organ. The stinging editorials from the forensic pen of James A. Demarest are remembered today by many beside those who invited the volley. "Demmy," as he was known to his friends, directed his efforts to other things beside politics. It was he who urged the erection of the Young Men's Christian Association building that would be a credit to the city and his cry in type every day of "Oh, for a Y. M. C. A.!" was directly responsible for the activity that ended when the present structure was completed.

At that time also the Daily Press led the progressive people who brought about the changes in the fire department that culminated in the efficient corps of the present time.

Demarest handed over the editorial reins to Walter Irving Clark, a young New Brunswicker, who had served under him as a reporter. He was a born newspaper man and fulfilled every prediction of the wiseacres that he would continue to build up the Press. He resigned in 1895, and is now one of the editors of the Omaha (Neb.) Bee. His place was taken in Plainfield by William W. St. John, who died at Bath, N. Y., three years ago. What he did for the Press and the city is still fresh in the minds of thousands. He was in the local editorial chair for five years, being succeeded by Charles Burdette Morse, now holding a responsible position with a New York printing concern, who had been on the reportorial staff for five years. He in turn gave way in 1903 to Ralph L. Morrow. The latter came to Plainfield from Bristol, Pa., three years before as a "cub" reporter. Mr. Morrow retired in 1914 and is now publisher of the Greenwich (Conn.) Press.

At no time in the history of the Daily Press since the days of its infancy has it relaxed its vigilance in behalf of the people or failed to stimulate healthy agitation for community improvements. In this respect it brought about the removal of the unsightly old freight house and yards opposite the North Avenue depot, and the erection of the present eastbound station; the present block system of house numbering, the splendid designation of public thoroughfares by the erection of signs at intersections; permanent improvement in street railway service and the company's rolling stock; concessions from the Jersey Central Railroad in station and train service, and many other betterments of a like nature. The Daily Press has also persistently and consistently urged a public system of garbage collection and disposal; improvements in street lighting and modern fire fighting apparaus to meet the rapid increase in business and residential building. It was the first to advocate the use of the public schools' auditoriums for educational and political meetings; introduced locally the idea of flashing election returns by the use of a powerful searchlight, and of giving the results by stereopticon. It introduced locally the posting of big league baeball games and other athletic results by wire service.

The Press has never failed to extend the use of its columns in behalf of the hospital, the children's home and other public institutions; raised thousands of dollars for national and local relief funds and exploited scores of worthy charities. In short it has been in the strictest of the phrase "The people's paper and a paper for the people."

In 1911, after forty-four years of untiring regularity in business management, Albert L. Force decided to retire. Accordingly he withdrew in favor of the Plainfield Press Company, of which former Governor John Franklin Fort is president. Leslie R. Fort has been the managing editor of the publication. Prior to coming to Plainfield, Mr. Fort represented various Metropolitan newspapers at different places in New Jersey, and was the publisher of the Lakewood Times and Journal for six years. He also served three years as secretary to the Governor of New Jersey. Since the new concern assumed control it has been an absolutely new Daily Press that has been placed in the hands of the readers. Modern presses, additional linotype machines and a complete change of typographical dress were immediately added in the mechanical department, involving an outlay of many thousands of dollars. Mr. Morrow introduced the anti-spineless editorial, the contributed Saturday editorial, which permitted influential citizens to express their opinions on civic matters; the "Votes for Women," Mothers' Association, Parent Teachers' Association and Anti-Suffrage columns, all of which had their editorial boards.

The Daily Press moved into its present home, at 193 North avenue, on February 12 of this year. Here the plant was enlarged, and a modern press, erected by Walter Scott & Company, of this city, was added to handle the rapidly growing paper.

Many of its reporters have graduated to a front rank in the profession. Fully a score have been drafted to the staffs of metropolitan dailies, while others have become editors or writers in other fields. A retrospective view recalls beside those previously mentioned in the editorial list, Paul Ackerly, who left Plainfield for a Congressional secretaryship, and afterward edited various New England papers; Walter Chamberlain, for many years a feature writer on the New York World; Harry Knowles, now with the Newark Sunday Call; Allen E. Beals; Francis K. Anderson, editor and publisher of the Five and Ten Cent Trade Magazine; Roland Williams, with the Hardware Journal; Archibold Jacquer, city editor of the Albuquerque (New Mexico) Herald; John J. McGowan, at present with the Newark Evening News; George E. Firstbrook, with the Newark Ledger; Richard M. Larned, with the Dramatic News; Alden E. Moore, circulation expert; Ferdinand Titsworth, circulation manager of Scribner's Magazine; John E. Nichol, secretary to Congressman John H. Capstick. This record shows for itself the calibre of the men employed to gather and report the local news.

In concluding this final history of the Daily Press, it would be an unpardonable omission not to mention the names of employes in all departments, who have materially aided in making the paper what it has been. Long service has been the rule with more than fifty per cent. of those now on the payroll. Edward C. Searing has a record of thirty-two years. Walter C. Dobbins, city editor, has been in the composing room and editorial departments in turn for thirty years, while Charles Hewitt has spent the same period of time in the press room, as assistant pressman and stereotyper. Thomas Lynch has been foreman of the press room for thirty years, and Chauncey F. Colthar has been in various ends of the plant for twenty-two years, now being office manager. Another veteran is Henry Dresselt, linotype operator, who has worked twenty years.

Another man who has been with the Press but a few years, but who hac made an enviable reputation for himself is James J. McNamee, who has had an all round experience in all departments. He is at present with Troop D, N. G. N. J., of Plainfield, at Douglas, Arizona, and the series of signed articles which he has sent to this newspaper have proven to be the most interesting series of articles of any kind that have ever appeared in the columns of the Press, being followed daily by hundreds of readers. Mr. McNamee started with the Press when he left High School four years ago, and his rise in the profession has been more rapid than that of any one ever connected with the publication.

EGAN OBTAINS WARRANT FOR ARREST OF POLITICAL FOE

Jersey City, Oct. 7.—On application of State Senator Charles M. Egan yesterday, Judge Mark A. Sullivan issued a bench warrant for the arrest of John J. Jennings, a labor leader, who is prominent in the Teamsters' Union. Mr. Egan charged Jennings with criminal libel and violating the law relating to slanderous stories designed to prevent the election of men to office.

The proceedings against Jennings is due to an advertisement that appeared in Hudson county newspapers just before the priniaries. The advertisement, which set forth that Jennings had paid for it, called upon wage-earners to vote against Egan, who was one of the Democratic candidates for the surrogate nomination.

The Cape Canary.

The only native bird of Africa that is well known for his sweet and continuous song is the Cape canary. He is to be found even in the Orange River Colony, which is so devoid of song birds.

shows was shown at Proctor's last night when three thousand film fans journeyed to the local playhouse and filled the theatre twice to more than it could hold, to witness Mary Pickford in a new picture and Charlie Chaplin in his latest success. Many of the local fans have learned that it is not necessary to see the shows at the Strand and the Rialto, New York, for they get the same entertainment with the same stars at half the price right here at home, and it is this connection that Proctor's is going to start a Home Trade Booster Week in this city in the very near future to further impress the people of this vicinity that they can find just as good bargains at the local merchants as they can find in New York in this same connection, the rule applies to photoplays. Rialto features Triangle films and the Strand features Paramount pictures, both of which can be seen at Proctor's. Today's attractions are Charlie Chaplin in his newest feature, "The Pawn Shop" and Metro's "The Love Mask," and Monday a double V. L. S. E. surprise feature program. Tuesday, by request, "The Fall of a Nation," for three days. The newest fad, "Proctor's Ringaround," is creating the biggest kind of a sensation and everybody is joining in the merriment, and trying to get in the pictures that will be screened at Proctor's every Monday and Tuesday. The picture having a ring around it will entitle its owner to a handsome gold prize.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

A junior class meeting will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock in room No. 360. The purpose of the meeting will be to elect class officers for the year.

The sixth ballot was taken for the election of a senior class president, with Horace Bunker winning by a majority of seven votes.

It was announced in chapel Friday morning that the girls' basketball team would have their first practice Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Miss Ruth Wean will have charge, this being her second year as coach.

Football schedules were given out yesterday morning by the ushers directly after chapel.

Mr. Best announced that all boys wishing to usher at the various entertainments this year should hand their names to J. C. Evans.

MUSEUM CURATOR EATS GRASSHOPPER SANDWICH.

L. Chester Bliss, assistant curator of the high school museum at Sandusky, O., had a grasshopper sandwich for luncheon the other day. He caught the hoppers, removed their heads and wings, toasted them over a slow fire and placed them between two thin slices of bread. "The grasshoppers turned red like lobsters," he said. "They had a nutty flavor. I enjoyed them very much."

Bliss said some day grasshoppers would be a choice morsel in leading restaurants.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

How Forty-nine Children Go to School Outdoors.

They Do Fascinating Ring Games.

"EVERY morning when I go to work," daddy began the bedtime story, "I meet a lot of little chaps all bundled up in the jolliest teddy bear suits. If they like me they all join hands around me in a circle and hopskip along with me until they turn into a beautiful park. One morning their lady invited me to go too. And what do you think I found?"

"A cave!" shouted Jack.

"An outdoor kindergarten," daddy explained. "The lady was their teacher."

"Her name is Mrs. Calvert, and every morning except Sundays all the year around, winter and summer, sunshine or snow, she takes forty-nine little children all the way from two years old to eight out in the park with her and teaches them, oh, such wonderful things! First of all, they sing. 'Good morning, merry sunshine,' just to make everybody happy and forget any bad temper they might have brought along from home with them. Then they do fascinating ring games like 'Yes, I know the muffin man,' 'Once there was a princess,' 'Red rose growing in a garden' and 'Down in a meadow in the sand in the sun lives an old mother toad and her baby toad one.' This time of the year, when Jack Frost is out to nip the toes of all children outdoors, they have to play hopskip games mostly, but when beautiful spring days come they braid mats, sew cards and model out of clay some of the interesting things they see in the park.

"A very kind park commissioner lets them have four benches for a house, you see. The big ones sit on these benches and do their work till they get tired. Then they jump down on the clean park walk and do their arithmetic examples right on the asphalt with pretty colored crayons. Then their teacher tells them delightful stories about the grass and the leaves and the flowers and the trees right neighborly near them, so that they all can watch the grass grow and the leaves turn red and brown and flowers become seed babies in the fall. When it snows hard they all roll around in it till their red and brown and blue teddy bear suits are painted white and their cheeks red. When it rains and mists their mammas dress them in little waterproof capes with hoods, but when it pours Mrs. Calvert takes them home with her, and guess how she makes so many children happy rainy days?" cried daddy. The children gave up.

"She buries seashells and pretty marbles and other treasures in her sand pile and then lets the children dig them up with little blue and green shovels. Then they also play ring games indoors and do other happy, busy work. But what they love best of all is to play and work outdoors all day in the park, with a cracker and an orange when they get too hungry before luncheon and with fresh air and freedom all about them," daddy ended, with two kisses.

A SMART STREET OUTFIT.

The Trottier Frock with Furs and Smart Chapeau Make a Charming Outfit.

By Mary Glynn.

The trottier frock of navy serge is indeed the correct and comfortable thing for early fall street wear. This garment may be had in any degree of dressiness for it can be built of velour serge mohair La Jerz. The trimming too can vary from silk stitching and buttons to elaborate embroidery and braiding. An extremely clever outfit is shown in the illustration. The trottier frock is of navy mohair and is fitted in princess effect at the waist-line. Silk stitching was met throughout as trimming and to complete the workmanship. Buttons of self material were set in clusters on the front of the garment outlining the front. Particularly interesting is the fact that the skirt was quite wide, though the hem was not distended to any great extent. A narrow band of witchtex served to give the necessary amount of stiffness. A rich set of cross fox furs and a dashy gouri trimmed velvet turban of navy blue complete the outfit.

Training a Husband

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

Not Even a Sick Headache Can Relieve Marian of the Regular Household Work and Worry.

"Mother." Marian heard Roger and Frank open the front door.

"I am in the bedroom; come here," Marian called.

"Oh, it is raining so hard. It beat through the umbrella and Frank is all wet."

"Listen, dear. Mother has a very bad sick headache and you are the only one she has to help her. Now see how well you can do what mother tells you. Get your wet clothes off at once and help Frank to change, too. The clothes you wore to play in yesterday are hanging on your nails in the closet. As soon as you are all dry come here and I will tell you what to do next." Marian sank down on the pillow spent, with the effort of talking. The baby began to cry. He was in the buggy beside the bed. Marian began feebly joggling the carriage, hoping to quiet the little fellow until the children returned to take him. She could hear them thumping around noisily above her and every sound was like a blow on the aching head.

"If only it were not raining," she thought desperately. "They could all go out of doors to play." Not satisfied with her feeble effort to entertain him, the baby set up a lusty yell. Marian attempted to rise, but sank back helpless with nausea, and listened to the vigorous vocal protests of the young man at her side. Soon the welcome clatter of the children coming downstairs was heard.

"Baby is hungry, but you cannot prepare his bottle. Take him to the living room and amuse him till father comes. If mother could get a little sleep perhaps she could get up and get supper."

"I am so hungry," announced Frank, coming to the door.

"Roger can get you each a slice of bread. Cover the bread up so it will not get dry," she cautioned. "Now shut the door and take good care of baby." Marian closed her eyes and was dozing off to sleep when she heard the door open and her husband enter. The indistinct murmur of voices was punctuated by the crying of the baby. Then the bedroom door opened.

"What is the matter, Marian, are you sick?" The tone was not very sympathetic.

"Yes, one of my sick headaches," was the faint answer. "The baby must have his bottle warmed. It is all ready in the ice box."

"How do you warm it?" The helplessness of the man's attitude made Marian's heart die within her.

"Take a little tin cover you will find on the stove and put it in the bottom of a stew pan. You will break the bottle if you heat it too fast."

Marian listened nervously to the sounds from the kitchen, mingled with the crying of the baby whom Roger was vainly trying to quiet.

"I did just as you told me and it cracked the bottle," Morris announced through a crack in the door.

"Did it spill the milk?"

"Not all of it. I put the cracked bottle in a bowl. Over half of it is saved. Why didn't you tell me that it would crack the bottle if I put it in boiling water?" he asked irritably.

"I thought you knew that. The other bottle is standing on the pantry shelf filled with soda water. Rinse it out thoroughly and put what is left of the milk in that. We will have to use some of the night's milk. It will be delivered soon." The door closed and after a prolonged interval the baby stopped crying.

"There at last he has his bottle. If only there were a full feeding in it," sighed the relieved mother. "Now perhaps I can get a nap so I can see about supper."

THE NEW GLOVES.

Both Black and White Kid Elaborately Embroidered in Contrasting Shades.

By Mary Glynn.

The new gloves for fall bid fair to present smarter novelties than have been exhibited in some time. The soft kid and chamois together with washable doeskin will be largely used in their development. Particularly interesting are the embroidery designs which are shown. All black kid gloves are embroidered in an elaborate design in white, and vice versa. In one particular the embroidery was in lotus design, and this proved extremely effective. All sorts of fancy designs are introduced on the kid gloves, the elaborate designs affording a distinctively new note. The washable kid gloves no doubt will be more popular than ever, and this because of their practicability. Two button fasteners are usual though the gauntlet top will again be shown. White, black, navy, brown and tan will undoubtedly be the colors generally accepted though a few novelties may take.

RESOLUTIONS.

At a meeting of the Board of Managers of the Plainfield Savings Bank of Plainfield, N. J., held on Friday, the 6th day of October, 1916, called for the purpose of taking appropriate action respecting the death of William F. Arnold, our late President, who has so suddenly been removed from our midst, the following resolutions were adopted:

WE, do hereby record our appreciation of his faithful and efficient services rendered to this Bank as one of its Board of Managers and President since being called to assume the duties of said offices, and the high esteem felt for him by all with whom he came in contact.

THAT, we hereby bear testimony to his efficient and up-right services in all the positions of trust and responsibility in which he has been called upon to serve. Believing that his chief aim was that the business entrusted to his care should be honestly, and economically administered.

RESOLVED, That we hereby tender to his bereaved family our sympathy in the great loss which they are called upon to bear. That an engrossed copy of these resolutions be delivered to the family of the deceased, and recorded in full on the minutes of the Bank.

Do You Want a "Guest-Tenant?"
When you rent a room of your home to someone, you secure a "guest-tenant." Your "roomer" is a guest of your house, on a business basis—but still a guest, somewhat in touch with your home, and this makes it highly important that the person should be of the right sort.
In advertising a furnished room it is a simple matter to indicate that the tenant-to-be must have reasonably convincing credentials as to character. You will thus have applications from a desirable class of people while a door sign or window card would merely bring to you the chance passer-by.

Raking 'Em Over

By "JINKS"

THERE MUST BE AN END.

There is always an end to everything. And, therefore, there is an end to our "job" of writing sports on the Plainfield Daily Press. It has been a pleasant task and we leave it with no meagre expression of sentiment. The sport lovers and athletes of this city have always treated us in a fair manner and we have tried to do them little favors in return. Not being of an inventive turn of mind, we did not inaugurate anything startling. The "League Limelight" was a creation of our own mind and we learn that it was popular. "Raking 'Em Over By Jinks," while originated by our predecessor, was carried on by us and, we believe, was also popular. The sporting page of the Plainfield Daily Press has been in existence for a number of years and there have, naturally, been many sporting editors. Since the Press moved into its new home sports were taken care of by the following, in the order mentioned: James J. McNamee, Harold Sharkey, and the writer, Joseph A. Gallagher. "Sport Topics" passes from this life, unstained by the taint of ill will. While our present plans for the future do not include a continuance of sport writing in this city, we will always have a warm spot for the profession and for those who were our superiors on the Plainfield Daily Press. We now leave Walter I. Firstbrook in undisputed possession of the local sport writing field. So long.

JOSEPH A. B. GALLAGHER.

BROOKLYN FANS PREPARE.

There will not be a reserved seat ticket for the world's series at either Braves Field or Ebbets Field for sale on the days of the first games at the two parks except those which may fall into the hands of scalpers, from the indications yesterday from Boston and Brooklyn reports. Practically all of the 15,000 seats which will be reserved at Ebbets Field are covered by applications, which are still pouring in. In fact, checks and money orders are reaching the Brooklyn headquarters in such numbers that the officials are virtually swamped.

Hundreds of letters from persons desiring the valued tickets have gone unopened, for the Brooklyn Club authorities know that they cannot supply the inclosed demands. Nearly 1,500 extra box seats will be placed on the field for the first game, and there probably will be 1,500 circus seats constructed in left field. These extra accommodations will bring the capacity of Ebbets Field up to about 27,000.

The same conditions exist in Boston. Allotment of the 27,000 reserves seat tickets for Braves Field was completed yesterday. The available reservations were oversubscribed so greatly that many persons who asked for a modest pair of seats were allowed but one, while others, asking six and eight, in some instances obtained only a pair.

The old days of black-face minstrels and of the circus back home will be revived in Brooklyn this morning, when the victorious Robins, accompanied by blaring bands and howling mobs, and by many of the leading Brooklyn city officials, start for Boston to engage the Red Sox. The only thing that will be lacking to make the ceremony a complete, grand success will be Manager Robby on a horse—and they haven't a horse in Brooklyn worthy, or capable, of carrying Your Rotund Uncle Wilbert.

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF.

"Immediately following the series in which Boston defeated Baltimore and won the pennant in the National League many years ago I was umpiring on bases in a game between Boston and Washington. That Boston outfit had as infielders Collins, Long, Lowe and Tenney. They had been playing perfect baseball and practically won the pennant. During this Washington game a ball was hit over second base that both Long and Lowe tried for, but each missed getting to it by a yard. They had been stopping such hits regularly before that. Lowe and Long each said that it was impossible for them to reach the ball just at that time, but they were confident that a week before it would have been fielded cleanly. The tension was off, they had won the pennant and had let down.

"In a measure this Brooklyn-Giants series was similar. The Giants had been stopped by Boston. They were out of the race. They had little incentive to keep on their toes. They let down and consequently could not make plays that before were easy."—John Heydler.

BOZEMAN BULGER'S ACCOUNT.

"As the annual throng begins piling on the New York, New Haven and Hartford trains, determined to bring the Bunker Hill Monument back to Brooklyn or bust, we find the Dodgers parading, marching behind brass bands, loading carriages full of flowers and following all the customs that are used to proclaim a winner.

"Flatbush fans gave Robbie's gang the best they had in the shop yesterday morning, and then, when they could march no further, bundled the Dodgers into the subway and shot them on their way to Boston. A big crowd will wait at the hole until Tuesday and see them come up—for better or for worse.

"The rather novel idea of having the parade in advance of the series is explained by a prominent rubber grower, who says that as long as the Dodgers simply must have a parade at some time or other it was deemed prudent to have it before the big games start and be sure. Which, we submit, sounds fair enough.

"A special train, unsullied by Manhattan hands, has waited several hours in the Grand Central Station to convey the Dodgers to the scene of carnage—according to the way the Bostonians look at it. "Scene of Glory" is the Ebbets form of expression.

"Somebody must have got to Col. Ebbets, by the way, early. He didn't make a speech or an announcement before noon. They are still betting even money, though, that he knocks over something before the esteemed—or steamed—National Commissions get through with its heavy deliberation."

BATTIN BOYS WILLING.

"We had the genuine pleasure of watching Battin High School candidates work out under the double coach system the other afternoons. We've had a crack at coaching a couple of Battin football teams ourselves, and we know several more who have tried the trick, but none of us met with the co-operation that Messrs. Short and Johnson are receiving from the High School boys this fall. There was more pep and energy expended to the square inch on the old Atlantic Field yesterday afternoon than there has been in years when other Battin teams went through the motions of practising on that lot. There wasn't a man on the field who was permitted to entertain for a single minute the idea that he had a varsity position cinched, and with thirty candidates, maybe forty today, battling for berths, spurred on by a new school spirit and visions of the good things the successful bidders will get this season, it is not so hard to guess the sort of a scrap that is being staged out South Broad street way this week."—John J. Hall in Elizabeth Journal.

STAGE IS READY FOR FIRST CONTEST

"Dutch" Leonard Opposes "Rube" Marquard in First Series Game.

Even to the customary ticket scandal the scene is all set for the opening of the world's baseball championship series between the Brooklyn Nationals and the Boston Americans at Braves Field this afternoon. It remains only for the weather man to prove himself a true prophet and bring forth cloudless skies to produce a spectacle unparalleled in the history of the game.

With added accommodations made possible by roping off left field there will be more than 45,000 onlookers at the contest, about 3,000 more than the best previous attendance at a professional game. Of course, there is the usual scarcity of tickets—that is, at the regular rates. Those who care to pay $10 or $15 for fairly well located seats can get as many as they desire, but for him who declines to be imposed upon there is no balm in Boston.

Joseph J. Lannin, president of the Boston club, is up a tree himself and has offered to buy back at a premium as many tikets as he can get, it is presumed in order to satisfy a legitimate demand from know supporters of his team. Downtown there is a horde of ticket scalpers, some of them with the Broadway stamp. They appear to be well provided with the pasteboards. For the most part their offer consists of $2 tickets, and while scalping is contrary to law, there has been only one arrest, and the culprit came all the way from Brooklyn.

Ticket scandals seem to be associated with world's series just as closely as are beans, brown bread and Browning with Boston. As long as the demand exceeds the supply of tickets we will always have them with us, so the Hub should not be censured. However, local deciers of the evil are inclined to blame it all on New York. They declare the scalpers "have a well dressed and metropolitan appearance."

There is at least one thing about this series that we failed to note on the eve of past contests. It's the rather novel and refreshing refusal of Bill Carrigan to isue the usual statement that "my men are on edge to play the greatest ball ever and we will win the series in short order." Bill is too level headed to be guilty of the too prosaic. He declared today that it was pure bosh for anybody to attempt to name the winner of a series limited to seven games. Maybe Carrigan is right.

Effort to investigate the betting side of the series were faultless. We heard a lot about the odds being 10 to 7, with the Red Sox favorites, but we could not find anybody who had wagered any appreciative sums at these figures. Brooklyn men ask 2 to 1, rather a left handed compliment to their team, which deserves much greater flattery in the odds. The absence of Brooklyn money has made the series a gamblers' disappointment, one of the finest things that could have happened.

League Limelight

NOTE—Short, snappy articles relative to the personality, popularity and prowess of each of the many baseball players in this city will appear in the "Sport Topics" daily. This department is conducted by the sporting editor, who welcomes suggestions.

DANIEL RANDOLPH.

Unfortunately, this is the last of the "League Limelight" series, owing to the fact that with this issue, the Plainfield Daily Press ceases to exist. Daniel Randolph, secretary of the City League, has the honor of being the last baseball player whose name appeared in this feature.

Dan Randolph has been playing baseball for a number of years, although he is not old in years. When the old "Monos" were in their prime, Dan was the Hal Chase of the outfit. When the City League was organized, Dan took an active interest in the project and was elected secretary of the organization. His deep interest in and his careful attention to the welfare of the league can be assigned as the main reason why the City League of Plainfield prospered. As a member of the First Baptist team, Dan was not only a capable fielder, but was a leader of men. His congenial disposition and his strict sense of fairness have earned for him a reputation that is better than the average. We can truthfully say that Daniel Randolph is not only a ball player, but is a gentleman in every sense of the word. While Mr. Randolph may not miss the Press, we are certain that at least one employe of the Press will miss Mr. Randolph.

"All right," he agreed; "you get the broom and be the mother, and I'll get the newspaper and be the father."—Exchange.

On the GRIDIRON

Fordham.

Gerald Kenlon, son of Fire Chief Kenlon and manager of the Fordham varsity football team, made the announcement that Fordham will not play Boston College on Columbus Day, October 12, at Fordham field. This was to be one of the Bronx college's biggest home games. A contract has been broken by the Boston collegians, who after hiring Charley Brickley, Harvard's big star, to coach their team, demanded a bigger share of the gate recipts than was called for in the contract. Evidently things have not appeared so bright, for the alumni voted that the student manager had no right to make any contracts last year although he always had previous to this, and declared the Boston schedule off unless bigger guarantees could be obtained.

Princeton.

Contrary to the usual custom on days preceding a contest with another school the Princeton football team was given a stiff workout yesterday on University Field. Although practically nothing is known as to the ability of the North Carolina aggregation, which will be met here Saturday afternoon, Coach Rush deemed it wise to be prepared, and after putting the men through two hours of drills, gave them twenty minutes of lively scrimmage.

Billy Moore was kept out of today's practice because of slight injuries, and will be absent from the line-up Saturday. Rush has not yet decided who he will use in his place, but there is every indication that Haas will be the man selected. The only other position in doubt is quarterback.

"HUB" STINE'S TEAM EXPECTS A VICTORY

Westfield High School Eleven Will Play at Somerville Today.

The ability of Herbert Stine as a football coach will be put to the acid test this afternoon when the Westfield High School team meets the representatives of the Somerville High School. The game will be played at Somerville and ought to attract a large crowd.

The Westfield squad has been put through several hard days of earnest work and Stine believes that he now has a team that will do honor to his name. The Somerville team was a poor one last year, but it is said that a much better eleven has been produced for this year. Inasmuch as both Somerville and Westfield will play Plainfield High in a short time, today's game will bear watching.

PLAINFIELD OPENS WITH A DEFEAT

South Side Football Warriors Prove Too Much for the Red and Blue.

The Plainfield High School football team opened its season yesterday afternoon by losing to South Side High School of Newark to the score of 6 to 0. The contest was one of the hardest fought on the Red and Blue gridiron for years, South Side getting the only touchdown in the last quarter. The game was marked by clean playing, with South Side having the only two penalties, both of five yards each.

Chester Alpaugh, the Plainfield boys' quarterback was appointed acting captain for the game by Coach Patch.

The feature of the game was a kicking duel between Bundy and Milk, with honors about even.

The Ninth Street boys were outweighed man to man, this advantage winning for South Side in the closing quarter. The heavier boys from Newark were slower, but they gradually wore down the Red and Blue until they scored the only touchdown.

Neither team used the forward pass to any great extent until the last quarter, but the passing was poor, and little ground was gained by it.

The beginning of the fourth quarter was a series of punts, the ball floating up and down the middle of the field, neither team gaining. With the ball in Plainfield's 48-yard line South Side executed a neat forward pass. Bundy to Schwartz, for a gain of 7 yards. P. H. C. held for two downs but South Side using a trick play sent Weissmuller around right end for 20 yards, Snyder tackling him. The High School again held the big Newark team, Vail making some great tackles. On the fourth down, Alexander went around right end for another 20-yard gain, Alpaugh getting him on the one-yard line. On the next play Weissmuller went over the line for a touchdown. Bundy failed to kick the goal.

By Peter P. Carney.

With the death of Alden B. (Dut) Richardson, the famous trapshooting squad comprised of Allen Heil, Billy Foord, Charley Newcomb, Richardson and Charley Billings is no more.

This was considered the fastest moving and fastest shooting squad in the Eastern States. It was never late at the traps; not one ever talked with the other while at the traps; not one of them ever showed anger or glee; every one went to the traps with extra shells, and not one took his foot from the mark until Allen Heil, shooting fifth, fired his last shot.

They observed trapshooting etiquette in every sense of the word; they went up to the mark to shoot; and take it from me they didn't do anything but go after the targets. They were warm personal friends, but that did not deter any of them from trying to defeat the other. They were all out to win.

An example of how few words were spoken by this quintet during the days they were shooting was shown at the Westy Hogan tournament in Atlantic City, N. J., a year or two back. Richardson and Heil, shooting in fourth and fifth places, went three days without speaking to each other, and when the last shot was fired on the third day Charley Billings said:

"I am going to quit this squad."

The other four in chorus asked "why?"

To which Billings replied, "Richardson and Heil talk too much for me."

Of the many kidney remedies on the market today, none other is recommended like Doan's Kidney Pills. Forty thousand benefited people gladly testify in the newspapers of their own towns. Forty-five hundred American newspapers publish this home proof of Doan's merit. The type used in one year to tell this wonderful story would make a solid column of metal twice as high as the world's highest mountain. Placed end to end the lines of type would reach from New York to Chicago. These miles of good words told by 40,000 Plainfield tongues sound glad tidings to any Plainfield sufferer who wants relief from kidney and bladder ills. Here's a Plainfield case. Don't experiment. Use the remedy endorsed by people you know.

Mrs. F. Conroy, 175 Somerset street, Plainfield, says: "I had always had kidney complaint and had doctored without any relief. My back pained me frequently and a dull ache went through my entire body. I had a languid feeling and sometimes I could hardly keep awake. Doan's Kidney Pills helped me in a few days. After using two boxes I got a permanent cure. I haven't been troubled in that manner now for more than two years."

AN ORDINANCE

to Provide Separate Sewers or Drains, to carry off the surface water, in portions of East Fourth Street, Washington Street, East Front Street and Watchung Avenue.

Whereas, the City finds it necessary, and the Common Council hereby so determines, to provide separate sewers or drains to carry off the surface water in the portions of streets enumerated in the title of this ordinance, hereinafter particularly specified, and the water flowing into Green Brook through said portions of streets, and the Common Council has determined, and doth hereby determine that the public good requires the construction of the sewers or drains hereinafter specified:

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by the Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That under the provisions of the acts of the Legislature in such case made and provided, the Common Council doth hereby direct and order that separate sewers or drains to carry off the surface water in said portions of streets and the water flowing into Green Brook as aforesaid, be constructed in and for said City of Plainfield, in East Fourth Street, from Watchung Avenue to Washington Street; Washington Street, from East Fourth Street to East Front Street; East Front Street, from Washington Street to Watchung Avenue; Watchung Avenue, from East Front Street to Green Brook, as shown for said portions of streets on map on file with the City Clerk of the City of Plainfield, entitled as follows:

"Map for Separate Sewers or Drains to carry off the Surface Water in portions of East Fourth Street, Washington Street, East Front Street and Watchung Avenue, City of Plainfield, N. J., August, 1916," "Sewerage System, City of Plainfield, N. J. Sheet 4, 1895, Plans of Castings, March, 1895" (to which maps reference is hereby made and the same are hereby made a part hereof) said separate sewers or drains to be constructed on said streets between the above-mentioned points, as shown on said maps, with the necessary inlets, manholes and appurtenances to complete the same, and to be of the dimensions and materials and to be laid along such lines and at such grades and in such manner as indicated and specified on said maps.

Sec. 2. That the costs and expenses of such improvement having been ascertained, an assessment for benefits thereof upon the owners of the land and real estate fronting on the improvements which are peculiarly benefited thereby in proportion, as nearly as may be, to the advantage each shall be deemed to acquire, shall be made according to law.

Adopted by the Common Council, October 2, 1916; approved by the Mayor, October 4, 1916.

CORPORATION NOTICE

PROPOSALS FOR SEWERS.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, at an adjourned regular meeting held Monday, September 18th, 1916, notice is hereby given that the Common Council will meet on Monday, October 9th, 1916, at 8 o'clock, P. M., at the Council Chamber, No. 149 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at which time and place said Common Council will receive sealed proposals for doing the work and furnishing the materials for the construction of such portion of the separate sewers or drains contemplated in the ordinance entitled "An Ordinance to provide separate Sewers or Drains, to carry off the surface water in Grove street and in portions of East Fifth street, West Fifth street, West Sixth street, East Seventh street, West Seventh street, West Eighth street, Watchung avenue, Park avenue, New street, Plainfield avenue, Grant avenue and West Front street," approved September 6, 1916, as provided for in the plans and specifications adopted by the Common Council September 18th, 1916, and filed in the office of the City Clerk, No. 151 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals, the Common Council will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided said parties or agents choose to be then and there present, and also make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Council.

The Engineer's approximate estimate of the quantities of material required, and the work to be done, is as follows: 720 feet, 3 feet 6 inches by 4 feet 6 inches rectangular reinforced concrete sewer 7 to 11 feet deep; 560 feet, 45-inch concrete or segment block sewer 11 feet deep; 400 feet, 42-inch concrete or segment block sewer 11 feet deep; 450 feet, 39-inch concrete or segment block sewer 9 feet deep; 980 feet, 36-inch concrete or segment block or vitrified pipe sewer 9 to 17 feet deep; 700 feet, 33-inch concrete, segment block or vitrified pipe sewer 7 to 9 feet deep; 230 feet, 27-inch concrete or vitrified pipe sewer 11 feet deep; 2,910 feet, 24-inch vitrified pipe sewer 5 to 7 feet deep; 780 feet, 22-inch vitrified pipe sewer 5 feet deep; 1,760 feet, 20-inch vitrified pipe sewer 5 to 9 feet deep; 1,190 feet, 18-inch vitrified pipe sewer 5 to 9 feet deep; 360 feet, 15-inch vitrified pipe sewer 5 feet deep; 1 special manhole on rectangular sewer; 3 manholes on rectangular sewer 7 to 11 feet deep; 37 standard manholes 5 to 17 feet deep; 129 storm water inlets; 240 feet, 15-inch vitrified inlet pipe; 3,660 feet, 12-inch vitrified inlet pipe; 4,770 sq. yds. reconstructing pavement; 2 brook connections, 100 cu. yds. concrete for foundations; 100 cu. yds. foundations of gravel, slag or stone; 100 cu. yds. rock excavation; 10,000 feet B. M. lumber left in place; 4,000 feet B. M. lumber for platforms and foundations.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for $2,000. The amount of bond required will be $25,000. The work to be completed May 1, 1917.

The Common Council reserves the right to reject any or all bids, to waive defects in bids, or to accept any bid as they shall deem for the best interest of the City.

Duplicate plans may be examined, and forms of proposal, specifications, contract and bond, may be obtained at the office of Andrew J. Gavett, Street Commissioner, 151 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

Proposals should be endorsed "Proposals for Sewers."

JOHN J. CARROLL,
City Clerk.

Dated Plainfield, N. J., September 18th, 1916. 9-23—12t

The Shots That Hit Are The Shots That Count

Said a former President of the U. S. Our aim for the past years has always been to give you Quality Shoes at moderate prices. We found it paid back in the first year of our business, and we find it pays today—altho most everyone knows how hard it is to keep Quality up and prices down under present abnormal market conditions.

When you turn to Van Arsdale's for all your Shoe requirements this Fall you will be conserving your best interests.
